Sternitzky who were residents at Wilmsstraße 3, in Berlin. The registrar spelled the family name as Sternitzky, but the father signed the birth record as Adolph Sternitzkÿ.

A registrar's note on the second page of his 1893 marriage record shows that Adolph Julius Heinrich Sternitzkÿ died in 1935. His death record was number 572 in 1935 at the Berlin-Steglitz Standesamt.

In 1946, the 71 years old Hebamme (midwife) Marie Auguste (née Hübel) Sternitzky was living at Grunewaldstraße 18 in Berlin-Steglitz. According to her death record, she was the widow of Adolf Julius Heinrich Sternitzky. She died on the 17th of September in 1946 at the home of the praktischen Arztes (general medical practitioner) Waldemar Eckart, who lived at Winfriedstraße 11 in Berlin-Zehlendorf. The causes of her death were listed as Aderverkalkung (venous calcification), Bluthochdruck (high blood pressure) and Schlaganfall (stroke).

Siegert-Sternitzke Family 1850 Auras to 1906 Breslau

The history of Rudolph Siegert and Ernestine (née Sternitzke or Sternitzki) Siegert is known from the histories of their children.

Birth and Death of son Rudolf Siegert, 1850 Auras and 1906 Breslau

Rudolf Siegert (1850-1906) was born at Auras around the 8th of March in 1850. That date was calculated from his age (55 years and 11 months) when he died at Breslau on the 8th of February in 1906. He was the son of the Schlosser (mechanic) Rudolf Siegert and his wife Ernestine (née Sternitzke) Siegert who died at Breslau before their son's death.

Rudolf Siegert (the son) was married to Susanna (née Woizner) Siegert. They lived in Breslau at Bergstraße 19 (about 1 mile west of the old city walls, now Góralaska Street). Susanna Siegert completed her husband's death record, and listed his occupation as a frühere Schlosser (former mechanic).

Birth and Death of daughter Martha Siegert (1860-1903) Breslau

Martha Agnes Wilhelmine Siegert was born at Breslau on the 11th of November in 1860. She was the daughter of the Schlossergesell (journeyman mechanic) Rudolph Siegert and Wilhelmine (née Sternitzki) Siegert. Martha was baptized at the St. Maria Magdalena Protestant Church in Breslau on the 28th of December in 1860. The baptism sponsors were: the Bäckermeister (master baker) Carl Fischer, the Buchhaltersfrau (wife of a bookkeeper) Emilie Werner, and the Gärtnersfrau (wife of a man who owned a house and small farm) Ernestine Heintz.

Martha Siegert married the Schlosser (mechanic) Heinrich Ludwig. The Schlosser (mechanic) Heinrich Ludwig reported that his wife Martha (née Siegert) Ludwig died at home at Gabitzstraße 40, on the 19th of May in 1903. She died at the age of 42 ½ years old. She was a Protestant, and the daughter of the deceased (at Breslau) Schlossermeister (master mechanic) Rudolf Siegert and Wilhelmine (née Sternitzke) Siegert.

Ernestine (née Sternitzke) Siegert and Wilhelmine (née Sternitzke/Sternitzki) Siegert were probably the same person. See the table in Chapter 1: Sternitzke Family Births in Breslau in the 19th and 20th Centuries.

Family of Carl Wilhelm Paul Sternitzke
1853 Auras to 1967 Berlin

An original death record signed by Paul Sternitzke in 1890 identified the full names of Paul and his wife Flora (née Bohne) Sternitzke as Carl Wilhelm Paul Sternitzke and Flora Franziska Ida (née Bohne) Sternitzke. Other versions of their names found in records included Sternitzki, Sternitzky, Sternitzkÿ and Bohn.

Birth and Death of Paul Sternitzki (1853-1936)

The retired Tischlermeister (master carpenter) Paul Sternitzki died on the 18th of October in 1936, at the Stubenrauch District Hospital at Lichterfelde-Berlin. He was born at Auras in Wohrlau County. Paul was a widower, and he had been living at Unter den Eichen 5-10 in the Lichterfelde suburb, in the Steglitz-Zehlendorf borough of Berlin. His death was reported by the administrative director at the hospital who listed Paul's age as 83 years old. Notes were written (probably by civil registrars) in the margins of the death record show Paul was born on the 26th of April in 1853 at Auras, and he was married in 1878 at Wilmersdorf.

Wilmersdorf was a village southwest from Berlin. It was later known as Deutsch-Wilmersdorf. It is now in the Wilmersdorf suburb in the Charlottenburg-Wilmersdorf borough of Berlin.

Birth of son Paul Wilhelm Max Sternitzke, 1881

Paul Wilhelm Max Sternitzke was born on the 21st of April in 1881 at Deutsch-Wilmersdorf. The birth record was signed by the child's father, the Tischler (carpenter) Paul Sternitzke. The child's mother was listed as Flora (née Bohn) Sternitzke. The family lived at Westendstraße No. 4. Paul (senior) and Flora were both Protestants.

Birth, Marriages and Death of son
Willi Heinrich Franz Sternitzkÿ (1884-1967)

Willi Heinrich Franz Sternitzkÿ was born on the 15th of December in 1884 at Deutsch-Wilmersdorf. His parents were both Protestant and lived at Kirchhofstraße in Deutsch-Wilmersdorf. His parents were listed as the Tischlermeister (master carpenter) Paul Sternitzkÿ and Flora (née Bohne) Sternitzkÿ. A note on his birth record shows that Willi Heinrich Franz Sternitzkÿ died on the 27th of June in 1967 at Berlin-Lichterfelde. His death was recorded at the Standesamt Steglitz (a borough of Berlin) on record number 1369.

The father signed the original birth record, but I believe the record available for review was a Neben (duplicate) birth record because: the signature does not match other examples of the signature of Paul Sternitzke/Sternitzki/ Sternitzky, the entire record appears to be written by a single hand, and the writing is similar to the signature of the registrar.

In 1909, the Steindrucker (lithographer) Willi Heinrich Franz Sternitzkÿ was living at Chauffeestraße Nr. 77a in the Groß Lichterfelde suburb, in the Steglitz-Zehlendorf borough of Berlin. He married the Plätterin (ironer) Anna Luise Friese on the 9th of October in 1909 at Groß Lichterfelde. The bride and the groom were both Protestant. The groom's father was listed as the 56 years old Zigarrenhändler (tobacco shop operator) Paul Sternitzkÿ, who lived with the groom at Chauffeestraße Nr. 77a in the Groß Lichterfelde, but Paul signed the marriage record as a witness, as Paul Sternitzky. The groom's mother, Flora (née Bohne) Sternitzkÿ had died at Groß Lichterfelde prior to her son's marriage in 1909.

Anna Luise Friese was born on the 22nd of December in 1884 at Dirschau in West Prussia. Dirschau is now known as Tczew, Poland. She was a resident of Tempelhof near Berlin. She was the daughter of the Eisenbahninvalid (railroad invalid) Karl Ludwig Friese and Anna Luise (née Kaethler) Friese, who were both living at Dirschau.

There are two notes in the margin on the second page of the marriage record. The bride, Anna Luise (née Friese) Sternitzkÿ died in 1933 (death record number 1033 in that year). The groom Willi Heinrich Franz Sternitzkÿ remarried at Berlin-Lichterfelde in 1940 (marriage record number 370 in that year).

Birth and Death of daughter
Martha Flora Bertha Sternitzky (1887-1962)

Martha Flora Bertha Sternitzky was born in the family home at Deutsch Wilmersdorf on the 8th of September in 1887. She was the daughter of the Tischlermeister (master carpenter) Julius Paul Sternitzky and Flora (née Bohne) Sternitzky. The father and the mother were both Protestant. They lived at Kirchhofstraße Nr. 7 in Deutsch-Wilmersdorf.

The father signed the original birth record, but I believe the record available for review was a Neben (duplicate) birth record because: the signature does not match other examples of the signature of Paul Sternitzke/Sternitzki/Sternitzky, the entire record appears to be written by a single hand, and the writing is similar to the signature of the registrar. This duplicate may have added the Julius to the name of Paul Sternitzky by mistake.

A note on the bottom of the birth record shows that Martha Flora Bertha Sternitzky died on the 24th of January in 1962, at Berlin-Wannsee (Standesamt Zehlendorf von Berlin, record number 267 in 1962) southwest from the center of Berlin.

Clara Martha Ida Sternitzke (1890-1890)

Clara Martha Ida Sternitzke was born on the 19th of May in 1890 in the family home at Deutsch Wilmersdorf. Her parents were listed as the Tischlermeister (master carpenter) Carl Wilhelm Paul Sternitzke and Flora Franziska Ida (née Bohne) Sternitzke. They were both Protestant. They lived at Sigmaringen Straße No. 96, southwest from the center of Berlin.

The father signed the original birth record, but I believe the record available for review was a Neben (duplicate) birth record because: the signature does not match other examples of the signature of Paul Sternitzke/Sternitzki/Sternitzky, the entire record appears to be written by a single hand, and the writing is similar to the signature of the registrar.

Clara Martha Ida Sternitzke died in the family home at Sigmaringen Straße No. 96 on the 7th of June in 1890. The original death record and a duplicate record were available for review. Both versions listed her parent's names as the Tischlermeister Carl Wilhelm Paul Sternitzke and Flora Franziska Ida (née Bohne) Sternitzke. The father signed the original death record as Paul Sternitzke.

Family of Dorothea (née Sternitzke) Lehmann 1866 to 1913 Auras

Dorothea (née Sternitzke) Lehmann was the wife of the Töpfermeister (master potter) Wilhelm Lehmann. They lived at Auras when their daughter Elisa was born in 1866. They died at Auras before Elisa died in 1913.

Birth and Death of daughter Elisa Lehmann (1866-1913)

Elisa (née Lehmann) Galisch, the widow of the Müllermeister (master miller) Paul Galisch on the 11th of January in 1913 at the age of 46 years and 1 month. Her calculated date of birth was around the 11th of December in 1866. Her death record shows she was born at Auras in Wohlau County. Elisa was a Protestant and a resident of Auras when she died.

Her death was reported by the Straßenbahnschaffner (streetcar conductor) Adolf Galisch who lived at Weinstraße 9 in Breslau. Elisa died at his home in Breslau. The relationship between Adolf and Elisa was not specified on her death record.

Birth and Marriage of Anna Emilie Karoline Hiller 1875 Kranz and 1900 Breslau

Anna Emilie Karoline Hiller was born at Kranz on the 17th of September of 1875. She was the daughter of Eduard Hiller and his wife Karoline (née Sternitzky) Hiller. The Hiller family was living in Breslau in 1900, when Anna Hiller was married on the 8th of February. Eduard Hiller was employed as a Zimmermann (carpenter). They were Protestants. Anna's marriage record shows her address was Lehmdamm 74, which is now Bolesława Prusa Street (about 6 blocks northeast of the Botanical Gardens in Breslau). See Chapter 12: Village of Thiergarten in Wohlau County, the Birth and Death of Karoline (née Sternitzke) Hiller, Circa 1840 Thiergarten, 1929 Glatz.

Anna Hiller married the Schneider (tailor) Karl Wolff, who was a Catholic and lived at Friedrich Wilhelmstraße 58b in Breslau. Karl was born on the 14th of July in 1874, at Schmograu in Namslau County (now Smogorzów, population 678 in 1939). He was the son of the Schuhmachermeister (master shoemaker) Karl Wolff and his wife Maria née Dziekan who were residents of Schmograu. His parents were both deceased at the time of the wedding. Witnesses at the wedding included the 26 years old Schneider Karl Jähnel and the 39-years-old Schneidermeister (master tailor) Johann Grucza.

Family of Elisabeth (née Sternitzkÿ) Kardauke 1855 Losswitz, 1882 Striegau & Wiesau, 1953 Berlin-Wittenau

Johann Karl Heinrich Kardauke was born at Losswitz on the 1st of December in 1855. He was the son of the Tagelöhner (day laborer) Karl Kardauke and his wife Elisabeth (née Sternitzkÿ) Kardauke.

In 1882, the 26-years-old Tischlergeselle (journeyman carpenter) Johann Karl Heinrich Kardauke was living at Weberstraße No. 29 at Striegau in Striegau County, Silesia. His parents the Tagelöhner (day laborer) Karl Kardauke and his wife Elisabeth (née Sternitzkÿ)

Kardauke were living at Wiesau, 1.5 miles west of the city Bolkenhain, in Bolkenhain County. Wiesau is now named Bolków-Zdrój, Poland.

Johann Karl Heinrich Kardauke married the 20 years old Schleusserin (maid) Anna Karoline Klara Winter on the 16th of April in 1882 at Striegau. She was born on the 28th of March in 1862 at Puschkau in Schweidnitz County. She was the daughter of the widowed Arbeiterin (laborer) Veronika (née Winter) Bensch, who was still living at Puschkau. The groom and the bride were both Catholic.

The wedding witnesses were: the 31 years old Steinarbeiter (stone worker) Julius Kardauke and the 70 years old Schuhmachermeister (master shoemaker) Franz Reisewitz who both lived at Weberstraße No. 29 at Striegau.

The Rentenempfängerin (pensioner) Anna Karoline Klara (née Winter) Kardauke died on the 16th of June in 1953, at the age of 91 years old. She was listed as the widow of the late Johann Karl Heinrich Kardauke. She died at home at Kopenhagener Straße 26 at Reinickendorf borough of Berlin. Her death was reported by the retired Hauptwachtmeister (senior guard) Rudolf Fehlau, who also lived at Kopenhagener Straße 26. The causes of her death were listed as Altersschwäche (old age) and Herzschwäche (heart failure).

Baptismal Sponsor Johann Wilhelm Sternitzke Sorgau 1860

Johann Wilhelm Sternitzke was a Pferdeknecht (horse groom) at Sorgau. Johann was the godfather at the baptism of Johann Carl August Sternitzke, the son of Johann Ernst Sternitzke and Elisabeth (née Hänsch) Sternitzke. The baby's father was a Knecht (servant, farmhand, apprentice or laborer) at the Oberhof at Obernigk. The baptism was on the 30th of March in 1860 at the Protestant Church in Obernigk in Trebnitz County.

The baby's godmother was the Jungfrau Johanna Christiane Sternitzke from Nieder-Obernigk. Johanna Christiane Sternitzke was probably born around 1840. She may have been Johanne Christiane Sternitzky, the daughter of the Schneidermeister (master tailor) Gottlieb Sternitzki, who died at the village Bischwitz. Johanne Christiane Sternitzky was born at Bischwitz on the 11th of September in 1840. She married Gustav Robert Scholz in 1872. See the Family of Johanne Christiane (née Sternitzky) Scholz, 1861 to 1920 City of Breslau.

Family of Ernst Sternitzke and Rosina (née Härtel) Sternitzke
1875 Sorgau, 1882 to 1889 Auras-Burglehn, 1895 Klein Masselwitz, 1901 to 1913 City of Breslau

The history of Ernst Sternitzke (c.1845-c.1909) and his wife Rosina (née Härtel) Sternitzke is known only through the records of their children:

- Johanne Christiane Sternitzke (1875-1943),
- Anna Pauline Sternitzke (1882- after 1909),
- Julius Sternitzke (1885-1913),
- Ernst Hermann Sternitzke (1886-after 1943),
- Johanna Auguste Dorothea Sternitzke (1889-after 1920) and
- Gustav Robert Sternitzke (1895-after 1917).

In 1875, Ernst Sternitzke and his wife Rosina (née Härtel) Sternitzke were living at Sorgau in Wohlau County. Their daughter Johanne Christiane Sternitzke was born there on the 9th of May in 1875.

In 1882, 1885, 1886 and 1889, Ernst and Rosina Sternitzke were living at Auras-Burglehn in Wohlau County. Their daughter Anna Pauline Sternitzke was born at Auras-Burglehn on the 15th of April in 1882. Their son Julius Sternitzke was born there around the 12th of August in 1885. Their son Ernst Hermann Sternitzke was born there on the 6th of October in 1886. Their daughter Johanna Auguste Dorothea Sternitzke was born at Auras-Burglehn on the 21st of September in 1889.

Gustav Robert Sternitzke was born in his parents' home at Klein Masselwitz on the 11th of December in 1895. He was the son of the Pferdeknecht (horse groom) Ernst Sternitzke and Rosina (née Härtel) Sternitzke, who were both Protestants. Ernst Sternitzke signed his son's birth record. Military records show Gustav Robert Sternitzke served in the German Army during the First World War, in the Reserve Infantry Regiment Number 266, 5th Company. He was lightly wounded on the 6th of November in 1915, and lightly wounded again on the 16th of May in 1917.

On the 6th of July in 1901, Johanne Christiane Sternitzke married Karl Hermann Girwert. The information regarding her birth and marriage was recorded on her 1943 death record at Breslau, which identified the source document of her marriage data as the Standesamt I Breslau Landbezirk (rural district). The rural district records were separate from the Breslau city records. The record of Johanne's marriage has not been found, so the location of her parents or Johanne's marriage in 1901 cannot be determined.

On the 12th of August in 1906, Anna Pauline Sternitzke married Karl Gustav Menzel at Cosel in Breslau County. The marriage record shows that the bride's parents were the Arbeiter (laborer) Ernst Sternitzke and his wife Rosina (née Haertel) Sternitzke were both living at Cosel at that time.

On the 25th of November in 1908, Ernst Hermann Sternitzke married Helene Martha Kirschner at Breslau. The marriage record shows that the groom's parents, the Arbeiter (laborer) Ernst Sternitzke and his wife Rosina (née Härtel) Sternitzke were living in Breslau at that time. Hermann Sternitzke served in the military during the First World War. He was severely wounded on the 6th of February in 1919.

On the 19th of August in 1909, Johanna Auguste Dorothea Sternitzke married Paul August Rudnig at Breslau. Johanna's father Ernst Sternitzke died at Breslau before the wedding. Johanna's mother Rosina (née Härtel) Sternitzke was still alive and living in Breslau at that time. The 25 years old Arbeiter (laborer) Julius Sternitzke was a witness at Johanna's wedding. Julius Sternitzke was another brother of the bride.

The Arbeiter (laborer) Julius Sternitzke died on the 12th of April in 1913 at the age of 27 years and 8 months old. His calculated date of birth was around the 12th of August in 1885. He was a Protestant. Julius was born at Auras in Wohrlau County. His civil death record listed him as a son of the Landarbeiter Ernst Sternitzke (who was deceased and last resided in Breslau) and his wife Rosina (née Härtel) Sternitzke (who was living at Breslau in 1913). Julius was unmarried and a resident of Breslau at Promnitzstraße 32 (near the Pöpelwitz train station about 2 miles northwest from the old Breslau city walls, now Białowieska Street). His death was reported by the Verwaltungsinspektor (administrative inspector) at the Universitäts Nervenlinik (university mental hospital) in Breslau on Auenstraße 44 (now Jana Mikuliczka-Radeckiego Street).

See the following histories of the children of Ernst Sternitzke and his wife Rosina (née Härtel) Sternitzke in Chapter 1: City of Breslau:

Village of Steinau am Oder in Wohlau County

Steinau am Oder (on the Oder River) is written with the river name to differentiate it from the city named Steinau in Upper Silesia. Steinau am Oder in Wohlau County had a population of 6529 in 1939. It is now known as Ścinawa, Poland.

The city was first documented in 1202, when Pope Innocent III granted it in a deed to the newly established Trebnitz Abbey. The St. John's church at Steinau was built in 1209. Town privileges were granted by Duke Konrad I of Glogau between 1248 and 1259. The city is located at a strategic point on the Oder River, causing it to be a point of conflict between the Kingdoms of Poland and Bohemia. The city was attacked and set on fire by the Poles in 1348. The area came under full Bohemian control in 1368, and then under the control of the Habsburg monarchy in 1526. The area was ravaged in 1633 during the Thirty Years' War. In 1742, Steinau am Oder became part of Prussia, along with the rest of Lower Silesia. The city was heavily damaged by the Soviet Army in 1945. All Germans were expelled from the city after the Second World War.

Birth and Marriage of Ernestine Juliane Martha Sternitzke 1879 to 1905 Thiergarten

Ernestine Juliane Martha Sternitzke (1879-1936) was born on the 30th of March in 1879 at Thiergarten in Wohlau County. She was the daughter of the Stellenbesitzer (property owner) Eduard Sternitzke and his wife Juliana (née Stober) Sternitzke, who were residents of Thiergarten.

Baptism Sponsor Martha Sternitzki, 1902

Fräulein Martha Sternitzki from Wohlau was one of the baptism sponsors for Charlotte Hildegardt Müller at the St. Maria Magdalena Protestant Church in Breslau. Martha was a Protestant. The other baptism sponsor was Protestant Zimmermann (carpenter) Karl Muite.

Charlotte Hildegardt Müller was born on the 19th of October in 1902 (birth record number 2459 at the Breslau Standesamt II) and was baptized on the 16th of November in 1902 (baptism record number 542). She was the daughter of the Catholic Drechsler (lathe operator) Gustav Müller and Ernstine (née Henisch) Müller who was a Protestant. They lived in Breslau at Bohrauerstraße No. 19. See the note below regarding the Müller family at that address.

Marriage of Ernestine Juliane Martha Sternitzke, 1905

In 1905, Ernestine was unemployed and living at Thiergarten. Her parents were still living there, so she probably lived with them. Ernestine married the Fleischer (butcher) Karl Hermann Paul Bauer in Breslau on the 13th of November of 1905. Her brother Eduard Hermann Adolf Sternitzke was one of the witnesses at the wedding. See Chapter 1: the Marriage, Family and Death of Ernestine Juliane Martha Sternitzke, 13 November 1905 to 1936 City of Breslau.

Note regarding the Müller family at Bohrauerstraße No. 19

Martha (née Sternitzke) Bauer (1879-1936) died at Breslau on the 15th of November in 1936. The information for the church record was reported by the Schneider Rudolf Müller, who lived at Bohrauerstraße 19. The funeral was paid by Emil Müller. See Chapter 1: the Marriage, Family and Death of Ernestine Juliane Martha Sternitzke, 13 November 1905 to 1936 City of Breslau.

Family of the Bäckermeister Carl Sternitzke
1878 to 1882 Winzig, 1898 Polnischdorf,
1907 Wohlau and Hamburg

The Bäckermeister (master baker) Carl Sternitzke and his wife Auguste (née Henschel) Sternitzke were residents of Winzig in 1878 and 1882. They were living at the village Polnischdorf near the city of Wohlau in 1898. They may have been living at Wohlau in 1905, when their son Carl Siegfried Sternitzke emigrated to the United States. They were listed as residents of the city of Wohlau on the 1907 marriage record of their son Max Georg Sternitzke.

Birth, Military Service, Marriage and Death of son
Max Georg Sternitzke (1878-1964)

Max Georg Sternitzke was born at Winzig on the 4th of June in 1878. His parents were both Protestant. His parents were listed on the birth record as the Bäckermeister (master baker) Carl Sternitzke and his wife Auguste (née Henschel) Sternitzke. Carl Sternitzke and the Stadtsecretair (city secretary) Julius Bergmann signed the birth record.

In 1898, the 20 years old Max Georg Sternitzke served in the military at Hamburg. His birthplace was listed as Winzig in Wohlau County. His date of birth was listed as 4th of June in 1878. His civilian occupation was listed as a Barbier (barber) on his service record. He was a Protestant. His parents were listed as the Bäcker (baker) Carl Sternitzke and Auguste (née Henschel) Sternitzke, who were both living at Polnischdorf. The county is not listed, but there was a village named Polnischdorf in Wohlau County, to the west of the city of Wohlau (see the map below). Polnischdorf is now a suburb of Wohlau, Poland.

In 1907, the Friseur (hairdresser, barber) Max Georg Sternitzke lived at Bürgerweide 2A at Hamburg. He married Bertha Louise Martha Laube at Hamburg on the 14th of October in 1907. The bride and the groom were both Protestant. The groom's parents, the Privatmann Carl Sternitzke and August (née Henschel) Sternitzke, were both living at Wohlau at the time of the wedding. A Privatmann was a person of independent means. Bertha Louise Martha Laube at was born on the 23rd of November in 1887 at Polnischdorf. Prior to the wedding, she was living at Lindenstraße 5 in Wohlau. Her parents, the Privatmann Robert Laube and Louise (née Hoffmann) Laube were living at Wohlau. The marriage witnesses were: the 38 years old Barbier (barber) Johannes Bock from Hamburg, and the 29 years old Barbier Max Hoffmann from Hamburg.

A registrar's note on the first page of the marriage record shows Max Georg Sternitzke died at Hamburg on the 14th of September in 1964 (record number 2937 in the 1964 Hamburg death record book).

Birth and Emigration of son Carl Siegfried Sternitzke (1882-1954)

Carl Siegfried Sternitzke (1882-1954) was born at Winzig on the 23rd of July in 1882. His parents were both Protestant. His parents were listed on the birth record as the Bäckermeister (master baker) Carl Sternitzke and his wife Auguste (née Henschel) Sternitzke. The father signed the birth record as Karl Sternitzke.

On the 28th of January 1905, the 22 years old Barbier Gesell (journeyman barber) Karl Sternitzke departed Hamburg, Germany on the Dampfschiff (steamship) Pretoria. He arrived at the port of New York on the 11th of February in 1905. See Chapter 12, Wohrlau County in the Breslau District, City of Wohrlau in Wohrlau County: the Emigration, Family and Death of Karl Siegfried Sternitzke, 1905 Wohrlau, 1905 to 1954 New York.

Other Children: Arthur Sternitzke and Ella Sternitzke

According to a posting on an Internet forum at www.Genealogy.com, the parents of Carl Siegfried Sternitzke were Carl David Sternitzke and Auguste (née Henschel) Sternitzke. Carl had two brothers named Max Sternitzke and Arthur Sternitzke, and he had a sister named Ella Sternitzke. Max Sternitzke was the Max Georg Sternitzke (1878-1964) discussed above. I have not found information regarding Arthur Sternitzke or his sister Ella Sternitzke.

Liegnitz County in the Liegnitz District

City of Liegnitz in Liegnitz County

The Liegnitz District included the western third of Silesia. The city Liegnitz was the capital of Liegnitz County. The city named Liegnitz was originally known in Silesian as Ligńica. It was the capital of the Duchy of Legnica. The son of St. Hedwig, Duke Heinrich II the Pious was killed at the Battle of Legnica (also called the Battle of Wahlstatt) during the Mongol invasion of 1241. Liegnitz is now known as Legnica, Poland. The population of the city Legnica was 104,178 in 2009.

Marriage of Johann Starnitzki
1803 Liegnitz

The Musketeer Johann Starnitzki was stationed at Liegnitz, where he was serving in the Infantry Regiment No. 43 Leibkompanie in the Prussian Army. He married Susanna Catoren at the Protestant Garrison Church in Liegnitz on the 1st of December in 1803. Their ages were not listed on the marriage record.

Susanna Catoren was from the city of Militsch in Militsch County. Johann Starnitzki was from Cottlewe in Trachenberg County. Cottlewe was not found in Meyer's Gazetteer. The geography book by Johann Knie listed the village Kottlewe (also known as Kadlewe) in Wohlau County. Meyer's Gazetteer shows the village named Kodlewe was about 4 miles northwest from Trachenberg in Militsch County. Kodlewe is about 14 miles northwest from Gross Ujeschütz in Trebnitz County. Kodlewe is now named Chodlewo, Poland.

Birth and Marriage of Eduard Arthur Julius Bauer-Sternitzke, 1863 Liegnitz, 1891 to 1913 Dresden

Friedrich Wilhelm Eduard Weikam (age 28) married Johanna Pauline Amalie Sternitzke (age 18) in an Evangelical Protestant wedding at Rawitsch, on the 28th of April in 1850. Based on her age, the bride was born around 1832. Daniel Sternitzke was the father of the bride.

Birth and Marriage of son Eduard Arthur Julius Bauer-Sternitzke, 1863 Liegnitz, 1891 to 1913 Dresden

According to his 1891 marriage record, Eduard Arthur Julius Bauer-Sternitzke was born at Liegnitz on the 6th of April in 1863. He was the adopted son of the Conditor (confectioner) Gustav Bauer. His mother Amalie (née Sternitzke) Weikam had divorced her first husband and married Gustav Bauer.

In 1891, the Drogist (druggist) Eduard Arthur Julius Bauer-Sternitzke, lived at Schützengasse 42 in Dresden, Saxony. He was a Protestant. His mother had previously died at Liegnitz. His adopted father had previously died at Königsberg. Eduard Arthur Julius Bauer-Sternitzke married Henriette Christiane Charlotte Hildebrandt at Dresden on the 11th of July in 1891.

Henriette Christiane Charlotte Hildebrandt was born at Halle on the 12th of March in 1866. She was the daughter of Geistlichen beider apostolische Gemeinde (clergy of the Apostolic congregation) Wilhelm Hildebrant and Emilie (née Fricke) Hildebrant, who were both residents of Dresden. In 1891, Henriette Christiane Charlotte Hildebrandt was working as a Haustochter (a young female domestic servant) who lived at Wülfnitzstrasse 9 in Dresden. Her address was in the same block as the Catholic Apostolic Church in Dresden. Her religion was listed on the marriage record as apostolischkatholische (a Christian Protestant sect).

A note was later added by a registrar to the 1891 marriage record. The couple were divorced at Dresden on the 14th of April in 1913. The 1912 Dresden address book listed Eduard Arthur Julius Bauer as a Kaufmann Seifer und Scheuerpulverfabri (merchant, soap and scouring powder factory) who lived at the village Radebeul near Dresden at Gambrinusstraße 14.

Birth of Bruno Sternitzke 1884 or 1889 Liegnitz

Bruno Sternitzke was born at Liegnitz (in Liegnitz County) on the 30th of May in 1884 or 1889. He served in the Germany Army during the First World War as a Soldat (infantry private) in the Reserve-Infanterie-Regiment Nr. 104, 2nd Kompagnie. A military casualty report listed him as missing in action in France on the 14th of October and the 27th of November in 1915. International Red Cross records listed him as a prisoner of war on the 30th of October in 1915. The Red Cross records listed two different years of birth for Bruno, 1884 and 1889. The 1889 year of birth is probably correct.

Family of Friedrich Johann Sternitzki 1915 to 1928 Seifersdorf

The Ortsfamilienbuch for Seifersdorf includes data regarding the family of Friedrich Johann Sternitzki. The data matches the information regarding Friedrich Johann Sternitzke listed in Chapter 6, Militsch County in the Breslau District, Village of Donkawe in Militsch County: the Family of David Hermann Sternitzke, 1873 to 1943 Donkawe.

Friedrich Johann Sternitzki was born at Donkawe in Militsch County on the 12th of March in 1882. He was the son of David Sternitzki and Anna (née Elias) Sternitzki. The Ortsfamilienbuch for Seifersdorf shows that David was born around 1852 and he died after 1916. Anna was born around 1852 and she died before 1918 at Donkawe. That information does not conflict with the data listed in the history of David Hermann Sternitzke (1850-1922) and Anna (née Elias) Sternitzki (1851-1887).

The widowed Schuhmacher (shoemaker) Friedrich Johann Sternitzki married the Näherin (seamstress) Anna Minna Speer on the 13th of May in 1917 at Seifersdorf. They were both Protestants. Their marriage was recorded at the Standesamt Seifersdorf (marriage record number 3 in 1917). Anna Minna Speer was born on the 19th of March in 1884 at Seifersdorf. She was the daughter of Johann Ernst Leberecht Speer and Pauline Ernestine (née Otto) Speer.

The name of the first wife of Friedrich Johann Sternitzki is not known. They had one known child. Kamilla Annemarie Sternitzki was born at Seifersdorf on the 27th of March in 1915. She died on the 17th of November in 2002 at Bad Harzburg, in Goslar County of Lower Saxony. She was a Protestant.

Friedrich Johann Sternitzki Anna Minna (née Speer) Sternitzki had one known child. Martin Rudi Walter Sternitzki was born at Seifersdorf in March of 1928. He died at Seifersdorf on the 15th of August in 1928. His death was recorded at the Standesamt Seifersdorf (death record number 9 in 1928).

Family of Anton Heinrich Sternetzky
1891 to 1924 Cities of Glogau and Hamburg

The generation numbers (shown as roman numerals in the below tree) were estimated from the known chronology shown in a table in Book I, Chapter 6: The Ancestors and Descendants of Wilhelm Starnitzki.

Circa Gen.VIII. Johann Sternetzky Hartau. Married Johanna Eleonora Brückner.

Circa Gen.IXa. Friedrich Sternetzky (1827-1899) Hartau, Hirschberg. Married Anna Vereder

Circa Gen.IXb. Anton Heinrich Sternetzky (1832-1913) Hartau, Breslau. First marriage around 1858 to Susanna Rosa Binder (1826-1886). Second marriage in 1888 to the widow Christiane Johanne (née Sommer) Maiwald.

Circa Gen.Xa. Bruno Heinrich Paul Sternetzky (1858-1894) Posen, Hamburg. Married in 1891 to Adelheid Emilie (nee Fischer) Hamcke.

Circa Gen.Xb. Helene Clara Sternetzky (1860-1864) Glogau.

Circa Gen.Xe. Maximilian Arthur Sternetzky (1867-1871) Glogau.

Anton Heinrich Sternetzky was born at Hartau around 1832 (based on his age of 81 years old when he died in 1913). He was a Protestant. He was the son of the Kutscher (coachman) Johann Sternetzky and his wife Johanna Eleonore (née Brückner) Sternetzky. His parents died at Hartau before 1899. See Chapter 13, The Liegnitz District, Hartau in Hirschberg County: the Family of Johann Sternetzky, 1827 to 1832 Hartau.

Birth, Marriage and Death of son
Bruno Heinrich Paul Sternetzky (1858-1894)

Anton Heinrich Sternetzky (1832-1913) and his wife Susanna (née Binder) Sternetzky were living at the city of Posen in 1858. Their son, Bruno Heinrich Paul Sternetzky was born at Posen on the 27th of November in 1858. See the Family of Anton Heinrich Sternetzky, 1858 City of Posen. The family later moved to the cities of Glogau and Hamburg.

The Constabler (constable) Bruno Heinrich Paul Sternetzky married Adelheid Emilie Johanna née Fischer (the widow of Johann Christian William Hamcke) at Hamburg on the 16th of April in 1891. The groom was a Catholic. The groom's father, the Beamte (civil servant) Anton Heinrich Sternetzky was living at Glogau at that time. The groom's mother Susanna (née Binder) Sternetzky died before her son's marriage.

The bride's religion was listed as Reformirte (reformed). Adelheid was born on 8 November 1852 at Hamburg. She was the daughter of the Rentner Johann Baptista Fischer and Johanna Elisa (née Klopping) Fischer. Her father was living at Hamburg. Her mother died before her daughter's wedding. The 31 years old Musiker (musician) Henry Babtista Fischer from Hamburg was a wedding witness. He was probably the bride's younger brother.

In 1894 the Polizeischreiber Beamte (police clerk civil servant) Bruno Heinrich Paul Sternetzky and his wife lived at Eimsbüttel, a borough of Hamburg. He died at home on the 15th of April in 1894 at the age of 35 years and 4 months old. His father Anton Heinrich Sternetzky was living at Glogau and he was employed as a Kirchhofverwalter (church yard administrator). His death record was signed by his widow Adelheid (née Fischer) Sternetzky.

Adelheid Emilie Johanna (née Fischer) Bakker (the widow of Johann Christian William Hamcke and Bruno Heinrich Paul Sternetzky) died on the 8th November in 1924 (her 72nd birthday) in the Altona borough of Hamburg. She had married and divorced a Mr. Bakker after the death of Bruno Heinrich Paul Sternetzky.

Helene Clara Sternetzky (1860-1863)

Helene Clara Sternetzky (1860-1863) was born around April in 1860 at Glogau. She died at Glogau on the 23rd of February in 1863. She was buried on the 27th of February in 1863. The Glogau Protestant garrison church record shows she died at the age of 2 years and 10 months old. Her father was listed as the Gefreiter (lance corporal) Heinrich Sternetzky who was serving in the 4th Company of the 3rd Posenschen Infantry Regiment Nr. 58 of the Prussian Army. He was a Catholic. A second page of the church record spelled the father's name as Heinrich Sternitzki and his wife was listed as Susanna Rosa (née Binder) Sternitzki.

Birth and Death of son
Hugo Maximilian Sternetzky (1861-1862)

Hugo Maximilian Sternetzky (1861-1862) was born at Glogau around September in 1861. He died at the age of 1 year and 3 months old on the 3rd of December in 1862. He was buried on the 6th of December in 1862. The Glogau Protestant garrison church record shows his father was listed as the Gefreiter (lance corporal) Heinrich Sternetzky who was serving in the 4th Company of the 3rd Posenschen Infantry Regiment Nr. 58 of the Prussian Army. He was a Catholic.

Birth and Death of son
Max Sternitzki (1866-1871)

Max Sternitzki (1866-1871) was born around August of 1866 at Glogau. He died at the age of 4 years and 5 months old, on the 7th of January in 1871. He was buried on the 10th of January in 1871. The Glogau Protestant garrison church record listed his parents as the Königliche Garnison-Totengräber (royal garrison gravedigger) Heinrich Sternitzki and Susanna (née Binder) Sternitzki. The cause of death was not listed, but it was probably the same cause (diphtheria) that killed his younger brother Maximilian Arthur Sternetzky (1867-1871) on the same day.

Birth and Death of son
Maximilian Arthur Sternetzky (1867-1871)

Maximilian Arthur Sternetzky (1867-1871) was born on the 28th of May in 1867. He died at the age of 3 years, 7 months and 10 days, on the 7th of January in 1871. He was buried on the 9th of January in 1871 at Glogau. He was the son of the Garrison Todtengräber (garrison gravedigger) Sternetzky at Glogau. The parish of the church was listed as the Posenschen-Infanterie. The cause of death was listed as Diphthertis (diphtheria).

Death of Susanna (née Binder) Sternetzky (1826-1886)

Susanna (née Binder) Sternetzky, the wife of the Garrison Todtengräber (garrison gravedigger) Heinrich Sternetzky, died at Glogau on the 12th of February in 1886. She was buried at Glogau on the 15th of February in 1886. She died at the age of 59 years and six months, so she was born around August of 1826. The church death/burial record listed her birthdate as the 21st of August 1826.

Second Marriage of Anton Heinrich Sternetzky, 1888

The Garrison Church Cemetery Todtengräber (gavedigger) Anton Heinrich Sternetzky married the widow Christiane Johanne (née Sommer) Maiwald on the 21st of July in 1888. The bride and the groom were Protestant.

The groom was the 56 years old son of the deceased Kutscher Johann Sternetzky. The bride was the 54 years old daughter of the deceased Inwohner (resident) Sommer from Gotschdorf in Hirschberg County.

Death of Christiane Johanne (née Sommer) Sternetzky, 1912

Christiane (née Sommer) Sternetzki died at her home at Cunnersdorf in Hirschberg County, on the 11th of June in 1912. She was the wife of the retired Friedhofsverwalter (cemetery administrator) Heinrich Anton Sternetzki. They lived at Haus Number 43 in Cunnersdorf. Her death was reported by the Tischlermeister und Totengräber (master carpenter and grave digger) Gustav Hain.

Christiane (née Sommer) Sternetzki was 78 years, 9 months and 13 days old when she died. She was born at Gotschdorf (now named Jelenia Gora-Goduszyn) in Hirschberg County on the 29th of August in 1833. She was the daughter of the Schneidermeister (master tailor) Benjamin Sommer and his wife Dorothea (née Hallmann) Sommer. Her parents died at Gotschdorf.

Death of Anton Heinrich Sternetzky (1832-1913)

The Privatier (retired) Heinrich Sternetzky was living at Hansestraße 13 in 1913. Hansestraße 13 (now named Franciszka Stefczyka Street) is about three miles east of the old city walls in Breslau. He died on the 15th of December 1913, at the Kloster der Barmherzigen Brüder in Breslau at Klosterstrasse 57/59. That was a hospital operated by a Catholic order officially named the Hospitaller Order of the Brothers of Saint John of God. The 1913 death record of Heinrich Sternetzky shows he was born around 1832 at Hartau in Hirschberg County. It listed his parents as the deceased Kutscher Johann Sternetzky and Johanna Eleonora (née Brückner) Sternetzky, who had both died at Hartau. See Chapter 1, Breslau County in the Breslau District, City of Breslau: the Death of Anton Heinrich Sternetzky, December 1913 City of Breslau.

Silesian Duchy of Crossen

The town of Crossen was first mentioned as Crosno in the year 1005. It was closely associated with the Dukes of Silesia, including Duke Heinrich the Bearded and his wife Saint Hedwig of Trebnitz who were important figures in the colonization of Silesia with German settlers. Duke Heinrich built a castle at Crosno and he died there in 1238. Saint Hedwig took refuge at the castle at Crosno when the Mongols invaded Silesia in 1241. The Silesian Duchy of Crossen was ruled by the Silesian Dukes of Glogau starting with Duke Konrad II in 1251. Crossen became part of Brandenburg in 1482, but it was still politically linked to Silesia. Crossen became part of Prussia after the First Silesian War in 1742.

Maps of the area from 1600 to 1905 show Krossen (Crossen) north of Glogau and south of the Oder River. The Duchy of Crossen probably included both sides of the Oder River, areas which later became part of the Neumark region of Brandenburg (north of the river) and the northern part of Grünberg County of Silesia (south of the river). A map of Silesia from 1770 included the Principality of Crossen as part of Silesia (see the map below from 1770). This region became part of Poland after the Second World War. The city of Grünberg is now named Zielona Gora, Poland

Maps of the area from 1600 to 1905 show the town of Krossen on the southern bank of the Oder River. This was the old city of Krossen (Crossen). Krossen (now named Krosno Odrzańskie) is now located on both sides of the Oder River. A bridge across the Oder River connects the old part of the city with the new part. A map of Brandenburg from 1892 shows the extent of Brandenburg with a yellow line in this area. It included the northern side of the Oder River as far east as Posen, and the southern side of the Oder River almost to the city of Grüneberg.

A portion of a map of Brandenburg from 1892 showing Crossen, Boberberg and Züllichau.

I have placed the parts of the Sternitzke history associated with the Duchy of Crossen in this chapter because of Crossen's association with the Duchy of Glogau. The Duchy of Crossen is potentially significant to the Sternitzke family at the beginning and the end of our Silesian history.

The Duchy of Crossen was associated with the Silesian dukes who encouraged German settlers to migrate to Trebnitz County in Silesia. The Tschirnitz/Zirnitz family of Brandenburg were holders of a fief at Boberberg in the Duchy of Crossen as early as 1502. See Chapter 23:

Sternitzke Family Origin and the Colonization of Silesia, Ostsiedlung Group 2: Erfurt to Glogau.

Several bearers of the Stanitzki name were associated with the cities of Crossen and Züllichau in the 19th century (see below). Züllichau is now named Sulechów, Poland. It is about 22 miles east of the old city of Crossen (now named Krosno Odrzańskie). If the members of the Stanitzki family were a branch of the Sternitzke family from Trebnitz county, they were probably not remnants of the Tschirnitz family who remained at Crossen after 1502. It is more likely that the Stanitzki family at Crossen were a branch that migrated north and west from Silesia after Brandenburg, Silesia and Posen became part of Prussia.

The 1905 map (see below) shows Crossen, Züllichau (now named Sulechów) and Meseritz, Posen (now Międzyrzecz, Poland). It is very likely that the Stanitzki family in the Crossen area were related to the Stanitzki family in Meseritz County of Posen.

Birth of Friedrich Ernst Stanitzkÿ
1885 Crossen and Züllichau

Friedrich Ernst Stanitzkÿ was born on the 1st of November in 1885, at Alte Züllichauer Straße 18 in Crossen. That was the address of his maternal grandfather the Kutscher (coachman) August Bressel. The baby's parents were residents of Züllichau. The baby's mother was Pauline Caroline Bertha (née Bressel) Stanitzkÿ. The baby's father was the Kutscher Alexander Stanitzkÿ. A handwritten note (dated 26 September 1924) in the margin of the birth record spelled the family name in a Polish form: Stanicki. This may have been the Ernst Stanitzki/Stanitzky who served in the military during the First World War (see below).

Görlitz County in the Liegnitz District

City of Görlitz in Görlitz County

The first mention of the city of Görlitz was in 1071, when it was written as villa Goreliz. The city was granted Magdeburger Law in 1303. The city was destroyed by fires in 1525, 1691 and 1717. Görlitz was assigned to the Prussian province of Silesia by the 1815 Congress of Vienna. The population of Görlitz was 91,554 in 1939.

Since 1945, the city of Görlitz has been a divided city separated by the Lusatian Neisse River. The western portion of the city remained as the German City named Görlitz, now in the Federal State of Saxony. The eastern portion is now named Zgorzelec, Poland.

Birth and Death of

Friedrich Wilhelm Hermann Starnitzke/ Starnitzkÿ /Sternitzkÿ (1834-1911)

Friedrich Wilhelm Hermann Starnitzke/ Starnitzkÿ /Sternitzkÿ (1834-1911) was the son of the Müller Gottlieb Sternüske (1807-1848) and Johanna Elisabeth (née Titze) Sternüske (1813-1882) from Pirschen in Trebnitz County. Hermann was baptized in 1834 at the church in Lossen (also in Trebnitz County). Other versions of Gottlieb's surname included: Starnitzke, Sterniske and Sternitzke. See Book I, Chapter 6, the Ancestors of Wilhelm Starnitzki.

The früheren Versicherungs Agent (former insurance agent) Friedrich Wilhelm Hermann Sternitzkÿ (1834-1911) died on the 16th of September in 1911. He died at the age of 77 years and 5 months, making his calculated date of birth around April in 1834. The 1904 to 1912 death and burial record book for the Elftausend Jungfrauen Protestant Church shows Hermann Sternitzkÿ was a resident of Klein Masselwitz in Breslau County, but he died at the Herrnpotsch Pflegehaus, a nursing home at the village of Herrnpotsch, about 2 miles northwest from Klein Masselwitz. He was buried in Breslau on the 20th of September in 1911. The church record referenced his civil death record: number 141 in 1911 at the Klein Masselwitz Standesamt.

Marriage of Friedrich Wilhelm Hermann Sternitzkÿ, around 1864

Friedrich Wilhelm Hermann Sternitzkÿ may have been serving in the Prussian Army at Görlitz when he met Anna Bertha Bartschke (1844-1903). They were married around 1864, based on the birth date of their first known child. They were residents of the village Nieder Girbigsdorf near Görlitz in 1865. According to her 1903 death record Bertha (née Bartschke) Sternitzkÿ was born at Bernstadt in Saxony. The town of Bernstadt (also known as Bernstadt auf dem Eigen) was in Löbau County when Bertha was born. Bernstadt is now in the Görlitz district. It is about 10 miles southwest from the city of Görlitz. The 1899 to 1904 death and burial book for the Elftausend Jungfrauen Protestant Church shows the Versicherungs agentenfrau (wife of an insurance underwriter) died at the age of 59 years and 7 days, so she was born around the 16th of March in 1844. Bertha was the daughter of the Töpferroster (pottery kiln operator) August Bartschke and Charlotte (née Canis) Bartschke who died at Bernstadt before 1903.

Birth, Marriage and Death of daughter

Anna Bertha Hermine Starnitzke/Sternitzkÿ (1865-1891)

According to her 1885 marriage record Anna Bertha Hermine Starnitzke was born at Nieder Girbigsdorf on the 5th of January in 1865 at Nieder Girbigsdorf in the Ebersbach Parish (about 2 miles west from the city of Görlitz). The registrar wrote the family name as Starnitzke, but Anna Bertha Hermine Starnitzke signed the 1885 marriage record as Anna Bertha Hermine Prenzel geboren Sternitzkÿ. Her father was a witness to the wedding. The 51 years old Hausbesitzer (house owner) from Rothwasser signed his name as Hermann Starnitzkÿ. The village Rothwasser was formerly in Görlitz County. It is now named Czerwona Woda, Poland. It is about 12 miles northeast from Görlitz, and 80 miles west of Breslau.

Anna Bertha Hermine Starnitzke married the Buchhalter (bookkeeper) Gustav Adolf Prenzel at Rothwasser in Görlitz County on the 17th of May in 1885. The bride and the groom were Protestants and residents of Rothwasser. The bride's parents were listed on the marriage record as the Hausbesitzer (house owner) Friedrich Wilhelm Hermann Starnitzke and Anna Bertha (née Bartschke) Starnitzke from Rothwasser. Their address was listed as Haus No. 389.

The address for the groom was listed on the marriage record as Haus No. 420 in Rothwasser. Gustav Adolf Prenzel was born on the 1st of July in 1859 at Karlsberg in the Ober

Wiesa parish in Lauban County. Karlsberg is 20 miles southeast from Görlitz. Ober Wiesa is north of Karlsberg. Karlsberg is now known as Karłowiec, Poland. Wiesa is now known as Wieża, Poland. He was the son of the deceased Häusler und Zimmerman (agricultural day laborer and carpenter) Karl August Prenzel and Johanne Friedericke (née Vollprecht) Prenzel who was living at No. 420 in Rothwasser.

In 1888, the Buchhalter (bookkeeper) Gustav Adolf Prenzel and his wife Anna Bertha Hermine (née Sternitzkÿ) Prenzel were living in the city of Lauban. Their son Felix Erdmann Prenzel was born at Lauban on the 25th of May in 1888. The child's birth was reported by a midwife. Lauban was the county seat of Lauban County. It is about 16 miles east from the city of Görlitz. Lauban is now named Lubań, Poland.

Anna Bertha Hermine (née Sternitzkÿ) Prenzel died at Lauban on the 8th of April in 1891. Her place of birth was listed on her death record as Girbigsdorf in Goerlitz County. She was 26 years and 3 months old when she died. She was the wife of the Buchhalter Adolf Prenzel. Their address was Fischerstraße No. 4 in Lauban. Her death was reported by the Leichenwäscherin Frau Johanne (née Grabs) Wiesner. A Leichenwäscherin was employed by a funeral home to wash and dress the deceased. The reporter listed the parents of Anna as Hermann Sternitzkÿ and Bertha (née Patschke) Sternitzkÿ, who were both living at Breslau at the time of their daughter's death.

Birth of son Richard Hermann Emil Starnitzke, 1872

Richard Hermann Emil Starnitzke (1872-1945) was born on the 26th of October in 1872 at Girbigsdorf in Görlitz County. He married Bertha Maria Ida Krautwald at Breslau on the 5th of June in 1897. See the Pfefferkuchler Richard Hermann Emil Starnitzke, 1896 to 1943 City of Breslau.

Birth of son Hugo Otto Emil Sternitzkÿ, 1875

Hugo Otto Emil Sternitzkÿ (1875-after 1943) was born on the 17th of September in 1875, at Kunnersdorf auf dem Eigen in Saxony. He was the son of Hermann Sternitzkÿ and Bertha (née Bartzschke) Sternitzkÿ. Kunnersdorf auf dem Eigen is now a suburb of Bernstadt auf dem Eigen (which is 8 miles southeast of the city Löbau, and 10 miles southwest of the city Görlitz). The Eigen (Egensche Kreis) was the name of the county when that area was part of Upper Lusatia. Perhaps the child was born at the home of Bertha's parents. See the Marriage and Family of Hugo Otto Emil Sternitzkÿ, 1899 to 1943 City of Breslau, for the history of this family group in Breslau.

Birth of son Wilhelm Max Sternitzkÿ, 1880

Wilhelm Max Sternitzkÿ (1880-after 1900) was born in his parent's home at Rothwasser in Görlitz County on the 23rd of December in 1880. The address of the family was listed on the birth record as Rothwasser No. 389. The child was a Protestant. His parents were listed as the Grundstückbesitzer (property owner) Friedrich Wilhelm Hermann Sternitzkÿ and Anna Bertha (née Bartschke) Sternitzkÿ. The birth record was signed by the child's father Friedrich Wilhelm Sternitzkÿ.

Birth and Death of daughter Frieda Elsbeth Sternitzkÿ (1883-1883)

Frieda Elsbeth Sternitzkÿ (1883-1883) was born in her parents' home at Rothwasser on the 27th of March in 1883. She was a Protestant. She was the daughter of the Häusler und Kretchmer (agricultural day laborer and innkeeper) Friedrich Wilhelm Hermann Sternitzkÿ and Anna Bertha (née Bartschke) Sternitzkÿ. The birth record shows they lived at Haus No. 389 in Rothwasser. Friedrich Wilhelm Hermann Sternitzkÿ signed his daughter's birth record.

Frieda Elsbeth Sternitzkÿ died at the age of 4 months and 10 days on the 6th of August in 1883. She died in the family home at Haus No. 389 in Rothwasser. Her mother Anna Bertha (née Bartschke) Sternitzkÿ signed the death record.

Starnitzke Family Move from Rothwasser to Breslau

The Hausbesitzer (house owner) Friedrich Wilhelm Hermann Starnitzke and Anna Bertha (née Bartschke) Starnitzke were living at Rothwasser when their daughter Anna Bertha Hermine Starnitzke married Gustav Adolf Prenzel at Rothwasser on the 17th of May in 1885.

The family of the Hausbesitzer Friedrich Wilhelm Hermann Starnitzke and his wife were living at Breslau when their daughter Anna Bertha Hermine (née Sternitzkÿ) Prenzel died at Lauban on the 8th of April in 1891. Their son Richard Hermann Emil Starnitzke was 18 years old. Their son Hugo Otto Emil Sternitzkÿ was 14 years old. Their son Wilhelm Max Sternitzkÿ was 10 years old. Village of Zivota in the Ore Mountains of Silesia Zivota means “live” or “life” in Czech. A village with that name has not been located, but it was probably in the eastern part of Silesia now in the region known as the Görlitz Landkreis (district), which extends south from Görlitz to the Lusatian Mountains on the border with the Czech Republic. The Erzgebirge (Ore) Mountains form the natural boundary between Saxony and the Czech Republic. The Lusatian Mountains are an eastern extension of the Erzgebirge (Ore) Mountains, and are a western extension of the Sudeten Mountains that separates Poland from the Czech Republic. The German side of the Lusatian Mountains are also called the Zittau Mountains. The Sudeten Mountain system includes the Krkonoše Mountains (Czech) which are also called the Giant Mountains (English), the Riesengebirge (German) and the Riesageberge (Silesian German).

Circa Gen.X. Marie Stärnitzkÿ (c.1849-after 1899). Married Robert Teuber (c.1849-before 1897) around 1869.

Circa Gen.XIa. Anna Helene Martha Teuber (1870-after 1899). Married Gustav Rudolf Karl Rother.

Death of Friederike (née Hannig) Stärnitzkÿ (c.1808-1890)

The widow Marie (née Stärnitzkÿ) Teuber reported the death of her mother Friederike (née Hannig) Stärnitzkÿ (c.1808-1890) at Jauer.

Marie (née Stärnitzkÿ) Teuber and her mother lived at Altjauerstraße 27 in Jauer. Her mother died at home on the 15th of November in 1890 at the age of 82 years old. Friederike (née Hannig) Stärnitzkÿ was a Protestant. She was born around 1808 at Kupferberg, the daughter of August Hannig and his wife Christiane (née Leder) Hannig who both died at Kupferberg. Kupferberg was in Schönau County. Kupferberg is now known as Miedzianka, Poland.

Marie (née Stärnitzkÿ) Teuber identified her father as the Gendarm (policeman) Friedrich Stärnitzkÿ who had previously died at Schaenau. No location named Schaenau (or Schänau) was listed in the geography books by Knie or Meyers. Marie probably meant her father died at the city of Schönau (in Schönau County). Schönau is known as Schänau in some dialects, for example the Schönau (Schänau) near Mannheim. Schönau County was broken up and was absorbed by the counties of Jauer, Hirschberg and Goldberg. The city of Schönau became part of Goldberg County 1932. Schönau is now known as Świerzawa, Poland. Świerzawa (Schönau) is 13 miles west of the city of Jawor (Jauer).

Family of Marie (née Stärnitzkÿ) Teuber

Marie Stärnitzkÿ married the Gastwirth (innkeeper) Robert Teuber around 1869. They had two known children. The Gastwirth (innkeeper) Robert Teuber died before 1890.

- Anna Helene Martha Teuber was born at Alt Jauer on the 11th of December in 1870. Alt Jauer was a town northwest from the city of Jauer. It is now part of the city of Jawor, Poland. In 1899, she was a resident of the city of Jauer at Altjauerstraße No. 4. She was a Catholic. She married Gustav Rudolf Karl Rother at Jauer on the 4th of April in 1899. Martha's father, the Gastwirth (innkeeper) Robert Teuber had died at Jauer before Martha's wedding. Martha's mother, Maria (née Stärnitzkÿ) Teuber was living at Jauer.

The Tischler (carpenter) Gustav Rudolf Karl Rother was born at Breslau on the 18th of November in 1874. Gustav was a Protestant. In 1874, he was a resident of Jauer and he lived at Bolkenhainerstraße Nr. 23. He was the son of the Tischlermeister (master carpenter) Karl Rother and Pauline (née Hanke) Rother, who were both residents of Jauer.

- Karl Joseph Paul Teuber was born at Alt Jauer on the 11th February in 1872. In 1897, he was a resident at Grimaerstraße 28 in the Altstadt (old town) section of Dresden, in Saxony. Paul was a Catholic. On the 11th of August in 1897, Paul married Martha Anna Schaff at Jauer. Paul's father, the Gastwirth (innkeeper) Robert Teuber had died at Jauer before Paul's wedding. Paul's mother, Maria (née Stärnitzkÿ) Teuber was living at Jauer.

Martha Anna Schaff was born on the 27th of August in 1876 at Jauer. Martha was a Protestant. Martha lived at Goldbergerstraße No. 76 at Jauer. She was the daughter of the retired Königlichen Amtgerichts Secretair (royal district court secretary) Adolph Schaff and Anna Ernestine (née Huebner) Schaff, who were both living at Jauer.

Baptismal Sponsor Helene Sternitzke 1936 Rohnstock and Breslau

The Gutssekretärin (estate secretary) Helene Sternitzke from Rohnstock was one of the baptismal sponsors for Rosemarie Frieda Elisabeth Bischof. Helene Sternitzke was a Protestant. She may have been the Helene Auguste Ottilie Stanitzke who was born on the 7th of July in 1880 at Hohenfriedeberg (see above).

Rosemarie Frieda Elisabeth Bischof was born at Breslau on the 3rd of July in 1936. The baby was baptized at the Elftausend Jungfrauen Protestant Church in Breslau on the 13th of September in 1936. Her parents were listed on the baptismal record as the Buchhalter (accountant) Ernst Bischof and his wife Erna (née Tischler) Bischof, who were both Protestants. They lived in Breslau at Weinstraße 30 III (third floor). The baptismal record referenced a civil birth record number 1164 in 1936 at the Breslau Standesamt III. The other baptismal sponsor was the Protestant Geschäftsinhaberin (business owner) Margarete Schuschke, who lived in Pöpelwitz at Zinnestraße 45 (now Ulica Botwina Naftalego, Wrocław).

Beuthen County in the Oppeln District

City of Beuthen in Beuthen County

In 1281, Beuthen (Polish: Bitom, now Bytom) was established in Upper Silesia as the capital of the Duchy of Beuthen. The city and the duchy became under the rule of Duke Konrad IX the Black (of Oels) in 1459, and then under the Duchy of Opole in 1498. The region came under control of Habsburg Monarchy of Austria in 1526. In 1742, the duchy was annexed by the Kingdom of Prussia, and the city of Beuthen became the county seat of Beuthen County in the German Empire in 1871.

Village of Siemianowitz in Beuthen County

The village Siemianowitz was joined with the village Laurahütte to form the community Siemianowitz-Laurahütte in 1924. This area was in Beuthen County until Kattowitz County was formed in 1924. Siemianowitz and Laurahütte were about 3 miles north of Kattowitz. This community is now known as Siemianowice Śląskie, Poland.

A large forest area still exists in this area. In the 19th Century, this forest was owned by Hugo Graf Henckel von Donnersmarck. He was born at Siemianowitz in 1811 and died at Vienna in 1890. Maps of the area from 1871 to 1918 show the forest was named the Henckelsche Forst.

Schlesischen Forst-Vereins: Sternitzky
1853 to 1857 Neisse and Siemianowitz

The 1853 membership list of the Schlesischen Forst-Vereins (Silesian Association of Foresters) listed a retired Königliche Forst-Inspektor (royal forest inspector) Sternitzki who lived at Neisse, and a Gräfliche Oberförster (the count's senior forester) Sternitzki who lived at Siemianowitz near Beuthen. They were probably father and son. Prior to 1853, the membership lists included the retired royal forest inspector Sternitzky at Neisse, and the son was listed as the Königliche Baumeister (royal master building contractor) Sternitzky at Gleiwitz.

The 1854, 1855, 1856 and 1857 membership lists for the Schlesischen Forst-Vereins continued to list the retired Königliche Forst-Inspektor (royal forest inspector) Sternitzky who lived at Neisse. The membership lists for those years listed the family member at Siemianowitz near Gleiwitz as the Gräfliche Forst-Inspektor (the count's forest inspector) Sternitzky.

The membership list from 1857 was the last year that the son was listed. The father continued to be active in the Schlesischen Forst-Vereins until his death at Neisse in 1866. See Book III, Chapter 2, City of Trebnitz and the Polnischdorf Suburb: A Summary of the Life of the Forstmeister Sternitzke/Sternitzky/Sternitzki, 1808 Haltauf in Trebnitz County to 1866 Neisse in Neisse County.

The 1860 journal of the Schlesischen Forst-Vereins listed the Gräfliche Revierförster Nowack as the count's district forester stationed at Siemianowitz near Beuthen.

City of Zabrze in Beuthen County Klein Zabrze, Biskupitz and Zaborze Suburbs

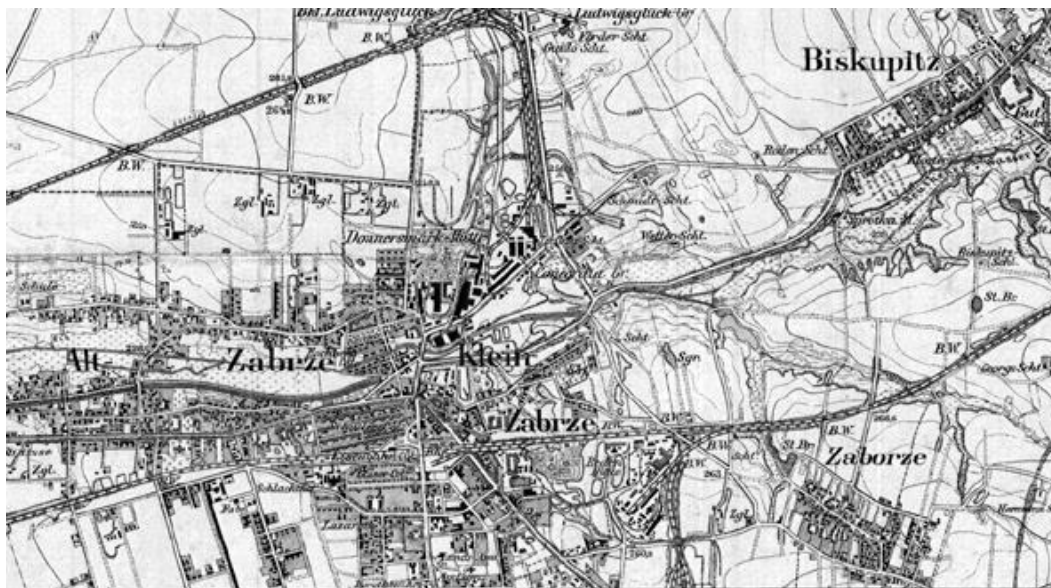

In 1873, Alt Zabrze and Klein Zabrze became the city Zabrze in the county of Zabrze. The villages Biskupitz and Zaborze became suburbs of the city Zabrze. The city and county of Zabrze were named Hindenburg Ober Schlesien in 1915. The population of the city Zabrze was 127,630. In 1936 Biskupitz was named Hindenburg-Nordost, and Zaborze was named Hinderburg-Ost.

After the Second World War, Hindenburg Ober Schlesien was returned to the name Zabrze. The suburbs are now named Zabrze-Biskupice and Zabrze-Zaborze.

Feldmesser Sternitzky 1845 Cosel

The August 1845 edition of the Schlesische Provinzialblätter reported that the Conductor Sternitzky at Cosel was promoted to the position of Feldmesser (field surveyor) for the following counties in the Oppeln District: Gross-Strehlitz, Lublinitz, Beuthen and Pleß. The title conductor may have been a junior forestry title. His father was a Forstconductor at Haltauf in Trebnitz County in 1808.

That promotion may have taken place the previous year because the 1844 and 1846 membership lists of the Schlesischen Forst-Vereins (Silesian Association of Foresters) listed a Königliche Forst-Inspector Sternitzky and a Feldmesser (field surveyor) Sternitzky in Chrzelitz (Neustadt County). They were probably father and son. See Book III, Chapter 2, City of Trebnitz and the Polnischdorf Suburb: A Summary of the Life of the Forstmeister Sternitzke/Sternitzky/Sternitzki, 1808 Haltauf in Trebnitz County to 1866 Neisse in Neisse County.

Villages of Lenkau and Schlawentzitz in Cosel County

The village Lenkau was renamed as Wolfswiesen in 1936. It had a population of 845 in 1939. It is now known as Łaki Kozielskie and had a population of 467 in 1996. Lenkau was 25 miles southeast of Oppeln and 2 miles southeast of Leschnitz. See the map of Cosel above. The von Stwolinsky family (see below) owned two manors at Lenkau in 1817. In 1843 the village had a castle, three water mills and 79 private houses.

Schlawentzitz was a village (now named Sławięcice) in Cosel County, about 6 miles southeast from Lentkau. Schlawentzitz was the location of the palace of Prince Friedrich Ludwig Hohenlohe-Ingelfingen-Öhringen who died at Schlawentzitz on 15th of February in 1818. His son, Prince Friedrich August (II) Carl Hohenlohe-Öhringen died at Schlawentzitz on the 15th of February in 1853.

Marriage and Death of Dr. Johann Gottfried Sternitzky 1816 Lentkau and 1819 Schlawentzitz

Johann Gottfried Sternitzky (1780-1819) was born on the 12th of November in 1780. That date was calculated from his age (38 years, 11 months and 1 day) when he died at Schlawentzitz on the 13th of October in 1819. His birthplace is unknown.

On the 5th of May in 1816, Johann Gottfried Sternitzky married Fräulein Wilhelmina Elisabeth von Stwolinsky from Pitschen. Their marriage at Lentkau was reported in Volume 63 of the Schlesische Provinzialblätter. The von Stwolinsky family was associated with the city named Pitschen in Kreuzburg County.

The 1816 marriage announcement listed the occupation of the groom as the Leib-und Fabriken Arzt des Fürsten von Hohenlohe zu Schlawentzitz Durchlaucht, which meant he was the personal physician to the Serene Highness Prince von Hohenlohe at Schlawentzitz. A Leibarzt was a personal physician who was in the service of a very important person, such as a politician, king, president, pope or prince. He would have been responsible for the welfare of his patients and usually obliged to be available for this around the clock.

The death of Johann Gottfried Sternitzky was reported in Volume 70 of the Schlesische Provinzialblätter. His occupation was listed as the Fürstliche Hohenlohescher Leib-und Hütten-Artz, which showed he was still the personal physician of the Hohenlohe family until his death on the 13th of October in 1819 at Schlawentzitz. The cause of his death was identified as Nervenfieber (typhoid).

Dr. Gustav Stein wrote of a later marriage for the widowed Wilhelmine Elisabeth Sternitzky (whose maiden name was von Stwolinsky) to Karl Heinrich Tirpitz (the Sekretär das Oberlandesgerichts – Secretary of the Court of Appeals). Karl Tirpitz was still the Secretary of the Court of Appeals at Ratibor in 1842. Dr. Stein found a record of the Tirpitz-Sternitzky marriage in a 1910 genealogical newsletter (Familiengeschichtliche Blätter). The date of this second marriage was not identified by Dr. Stein, but it must have been the same marriage listed in Volume 76 of the Schlesischen Provinzialblättern 1822:

Zu Ratibor der Kgl. O.L. Ger. Secret. Carl Heinrich Tirpitz mit der verwitwet Fr. Dr. Sternitzky, am 29.06.1822.

The Arbeiter (laborer) Johann Stanetzko and his wife Albine (née Mnich) Stanetzko lived at Strebinow in 1888. They were both Catholics. Their daughter Marie Stanetzko was born in their home on the 8th of July in 1888. The registrar who copied the birth records for the Neben (duplicate) record book copied the father's signature from this record as Johann Staneczko.

Marie Stanetzko and her parents were living in Bobrek in 1910. Marie was employed as a Hüttenarbeiterin (worker at an iron and steel works). Her father was also employed as a Hüttenarbeiter. On the 19th of September in 1910, Marie Stanetzko married the Stellmacherselle (journeyman wheelwright) Karl Berger at Bobrek. They were both Catholics. Karl Berger was a resident of Schomberg in Beuthen County.

Karl Berger was born on the 21st of January in 1886 at Falkenau in Grottkau County. He was the son of August Berger and his wife Hedwig (née Kriebler) Berger. In 1910, August Berger was a pensionierten Postschaffner (pensioned postal worker) and he lived at Friedewald in Grottkau County. Hedwig Berger died at Falkenau before Karl's wedding 1910.

The wedding witnesses were Paul Namyslo and Jakob Adamietz. The 41 years old Werkarbeiter (factory laborer) Paul Namyslo lived at Ruda in Zabrze County. The 29 years old Kohlenhauer (coal miner) Jakob Adamietz also lived at Ruda (now named Ruda Śląska, Poland).

Birth of son Otto Stanetzko, 1890

The Arbeiter (laborer) Johann Stanetzko and his wife Albine (née Mnich) Stanetzko lived at Strebinow. They were both Catholics. Their son Otto Stanetzko was born in their home on the 26th of January in 1890. See the Village of Bobrek in Beuthen County: the Family and Death of Otto Stanetzko, 1916-1921 Bobrek.

Birth of the twins Albine and Josefa Stanetzko, 1892

The Einlieger (villager and agricultural day laborer) Johann Stanetzko and his wife Albine (née Mnich) Stanetzko lived at Strebinow. They were both Catholics. Their twin daughters Albine Stanetzko and Josefa Stanetzko were born in their home on the 18th of March in 1892.

Death of Johann Stanetzko, 1918

The Tagearbeiter (day laborer) Johann Stanetzko died at the Knappschaftslazarett (miners' hospital) in the city of Beuthen on the 22nd of June in 1918. His last place of residence was listed as Bobrek in Beuthen County. Johann's son, the Hauer (miner) Otto Stanetzko was living at Bobrek at that time. Johann was 58 years old when he died, so he was born around 1860. His death record shows he was born ta Strebinow, the son of the Hausler Franz Stanetzko and Marianne (née Bomba) Stanetzko who had both previously died at Strebinow. Johann's wife was listed as Albine (née Mnich) Stanetzko.

Family of the Gerbermeister David Sternitzky and Marie (née Hinke) Sternitzky 1824 to 1904 Kreuzburg

There were several members of the Sternitzky who lived at Kreuzburg in the 19th century. The relationships for a few are known, while the relationships between others can only be guessed, based on birth dates and occupations. The loss of records from the Second World War and the 1906 San Francisco earthquake/fire makes it difficult to know if the following family tree is correct. The generation numbers (shown as roman numerals in the below tree) were estimated from the known chronology shown in a table in Book I, Chapter 6: The Ancestors and Descendants of Wilhelm Sternitzki.

- Circa Gen.IX. Gerbermeister David Sternitzky (c.1803-before 1893). Married Marie Hinke (c.1803-1881) Kreuzburg.
- Circa Gen.Xa. Gerbermeister Reinhold D. Sternitzky (1825-1917) Kreuzburg, San Francisco. Married around 1854 to Bertha Sternitzky (maiden name unknown, 1828-1900). Probably married at Kreuzburg. Emigrated to California with his wife and four children in 1886.

- Circa Gen.XIj. Minna Marie Emilie Sternitzky (1858-1940) Friedland, Berlin. First marriage in 1882 to Ludwig Heinrich Ernst Philipp. Second marriage in 1901 to Franz Zak in 1901.
- Circa Gen.XIk. Anna Henriette Luise Sternitzky (1860-1899) Friedland, Berlin. Married Franz Zak.
- Circa Gen.XIIIn. Alwine Therese Luise Zak (1888-after 1921) Berlin. Married in 1911 to Friedrich Wilhelm Herbert Bordes (divorced in 1921).
- Circa Gen.XII. Robert Friedrich Reinhold Sternitzky (1864-1910) Friedland, Berlin. Married in 1895 to Susanna Selma Storek at Kreuzburg.
- Circa Gen.Xd. Auguste Sternitzky (c.1831-1893) Kreuzburg. Married Carl Fuss.

- Circa Gen.XI^m. Carl Fuss (junior).
- Circa Gen.Xe. Bertha Sternitzky (c.1833-1904) Kreuzburg. Never married.
- Circa Gen.XIⁿ. Eduard Robert Alwin Sternitzky (1859-1926) Kreuzburg, Breslau. Married Margarete Marie Wilhelmine Adeline Scholtz at Breslau.
- Circa Gen.Xf. Robert William Sternitzky (1840-1919) Kreuzburg, Oakland. Emigrated in 1868 to California. Married in 1876 to Anna (née Rommeck) Geblick (1849-1890) at Oakland.
- Circa Gen.XIo. Bertha Amalie Geblick (1874-1913).
- Circa Gen.XIp. Edward Julius Sternitzky (1877-1880) Oakland.
- Circa Gen.XIq. Clara Anna Marie Sternitzky (1878-1970) Oakland.
- Circa Gen.XIr. Robert Edward Leopold Sternitzky (1879-1919) Oakland.
- Circa Gen.XIs. Julius Arthur Leopold Sternitzky (1882-1963) Oakland.
- Circa Gen.XIt. Arthur Antone Ferdinand Sternitzky (1883-1974) Oakland.

David Sternitzky (c.1803-before 1893) married Marie Hinke around 1824. The death record for their daughter Auguste shows that David Sternitzky and his wife died at Kreuzburg before 1893. The death record of Marie (née Hinke) Sternitzky shows she was born around 1803 and died in 1881.

Birth, Marriage, Family and Emigration of son
Reinhold D. Sternitzky

Reinhold D. Sternitzky (1825-1917) emigrated from Kreuzburg in 1886 on the ship Polynesia. The ship left Hamburg on the 15th of May and arrived in New York on the 1st of June in 1886. Reinhold was listed as a 61-years-old Gerber (tanner), making his estimated birth year 1825, which matches the tombstone information below.

Reinhold emigrated with his wife Bertha (age 58, born in 1828) and their children Marie (age 31, born about 1855), Anna (age 28, born about 1858) and Richard (age 19, born about 1867). Reinhold's son, the Gerber Robert Reinhold Sternitzky (1861-1919) had emigrated two years previously. The family joined other Sternitzky family members in the San Francisco area who had emigrated earlier. See the Families of the Brothers Karl Sternitzky (1826-1899) and Robert William Sternitzky (1840-1919), Emigration from Kreuzburg to California c.1855 and 1868. See below: the Birth and Family of Reinhold D. Sternitzky, 1825 to 1886 Kreuzburg, 1886 to 1980 California.

Birth and Emigration of son
Karl Sternitzky, 1826 to c.1855 Kreuzburg

Charles (Karl, Carl) Sternitzky (1826-1899) was born in 1826 at Kreuzburg in Upper Silesia. Based on his death record, his calculated birth date was the 7th of August of 1826. Karl Sternitzky married his wife Frieda (maiden name unknown) in New York state.

The 1880 U.S. census record shows that Charles' daughter, Joanne Augusta Sternitzky was born in 1855 in New York. See the Families of the Brothers Karl Sternitzky (1826-1899) and Robert William Sternitzky (1840-1919), Emigration from Kreuzburg to California c.1855 and 1868.

Birth and Marriage of son Friedrich Julius Sternitzkÿ
1829 to c.1852 Kreuzburg

Friedrich Julius Sternitzkÿ married Anna Maria Schulze on the 14th of March in 1852 at Friedland in Brandenburg. They were both 23 years old at that time, so they were born around 1829. Their marriage record listed the father of the groom as the Gerber (tanner) David Sternitzkÿ from Kreuzburg. See Chapter 16, Brandenburg, Prussia: the Marriage and Family of Friedrich Julius Sternitzkÿ, 1852 to c.1882 Friedland, 1877 to 1941 Berlin.

Birth, Family and Death of daughter Auguste Sternitzkÿ (c.1831-1893)

Auguste Sternitzkÿ was born at Kreuzburg around 1831 (based on her age of 62 years when she died) at Kreuzburg. Auguste's parents were listed on her civil death record as the Gerbermeister (master tanner) Sternitzkÿ and his wife Marie (née Hinke) Sternitzkÿ, who had both died at Kreuzburg before 1893.

Auguste (née Sternitzkÿ) Fuss died at her son's home in Kreuzburg on the 26th of January in 1893. She was a Protestant. She was the widow of the Gerichtsactuar Carl Fuss (senior), who had previously died at Kreuzburg. A Gerichtsactuar was a court official who kept records at court hearings. Her death record was signed by her son, the Buchhalter (bookkeeper) Carl Fuss (junior).

Birth, Family and Death of daughter

Bertha Sternitzkÿ (c.1833-1904)

and the birth of her son Eduard Robert Alwin Sternitzky (1859-1926)

Bertha Sternitzky was born around 1833 (based on her age of 71 years old when she died). The civil death record shows the parents of Bertha Sternitzky were the Gerbermeister (master tanner) David Sternitzky and Marie (née Hinke) Sternitzky. They died at Kreuzburg before Bertha's death.

The unmarried Krankenflagerin (nurse) Bertha Sternitzkÿ signed her mother's death record at Kreuzburg in 1881.

The death record for Bertha Sternitzky was signed by her son the Lehrer (teacher) Eduard Sternitzky. Eduard Sternitzky lived in Breslau at Gustav-Freitagstraße 29 in 1904. His mother died in her home in Kreuzburg at Stoberstraße 8 on the 2nd of May in 1904. Bertha was a Protestant. She was listed as unmarried on her death record.

Eduard Robert Alwin Sternitzky (1859-1926) was born on the 2nd of December in 1859 at Kreuzburg, in Kreuzburg County. According to Eduard's 1925 Prussian teaching record, he was the son of the deceased Gerbermeister (master tanner) Reinhold Sternitzky. The available information suggests Eduard's father was his uncle. A 61-years-old tanner named Reinhold Sternitzky emigrated to the United States in 1886 on the ship Polynesia. Reinhold was born in 1825, making him the right age to have been the father of Eduard. Reinhold Sternitzky died in 1917 (which is consistent with the 1925 record listing him as deceased). The 1911 Breslau marriage record of Eduard Sternitzki (discussed further below) listed his mother as Berta Sternitzki, an unemployed and unmarried woman who died at Kreuzburg prior to the wedding in 1911. There was no mention of Eduard's father on Eduard's marriage record.

Eduard completed secondary school on the 20th of October in 1880 at Kreuzburg. He volunteered for one year of military service from the 1st of October in 1884 to the 1st of October of 1885, in the 51st Infantry Regiment at Breslau. See Eduard Robert Alwin Sternitzky, 1884 to 1926 City of Breslau.

Birth and Emigration of son Robert William Sternitzky
1840 to 1868 Kreuzburg

Robert William Sternitzky (1840-1919) was born on the 15th of May in 1840 at Kreuzburg. The 1900 and 1910 U.S. census records show that Robert William Sternitzky emigrated in 1868. He married Anna (née Rommeck) Geblick (1849-1890) at Oakland in 1876. See the Families of the Brothers Karl Sternitzky (1826-1899) and Robert William Sternitzky (1840-1919), Emigration from Kreuzburg to California c.1855 and 1868.

Death of Marie (née Hinke) Sternitzkÿ (c.1803-1881)

Marie (née Hinke) Sternitzkÿ died at Kreuzburg on the 25th of April in 1881, at the age of 78 years old. So, she was born around 1803. Her death record shows she was a Protestant. She was the daughter of the Tuchmachermeister (master cloth maker) Hinke (first name unknown). The name of her mother was unknown. Both of her parents previously died at Kreuzburg. Her husband, the Weißgerber David Sternitzkÿ also died before Marie. A Weißgerber used minerals in the tanning process to produce white leather for making gloves, book covers and bags.

Her daughter, the unmarried Krankenflagerin (nurse) Bertha Sternitzkÿ (c.1833-1904). Signed the death record at Kreuzburg in 1881.

Birth and Family of Reinhold D. Sternitzky 1825 to 1886 Kreuzburg, 1886 to 1980 California

Reinhold D. Sternitzky (1825-1917) emigrated from Kreuzburg in 1886 on the ship Polynesia. The ship left Hamburg on the 15th of May and arrived in New York on the 1st of June in 1886. Reinhold was listed as a 61-years-old Gerber (tanner), making his estimated birth year 1825, which matches the tombstone information below. Reinhold emigrated with his wife Bertha (age 58, born in 1828) and their children Mary (age 31, born about 1855), Anne (age 28, born about 1858) and Richard (age 19, born about 1867). Reinhold's son, the Gerber Robert Reinhold Sternitzky (1861-1919) had emigrated two years previously. The family joined other Sternitzky family members in the San Francisco area who had emigrated earlier. See the Families of the Brothers Karl Sternitzky (1826-1899) and Robert William Sternitzky (1840-1919), Emigration from Kreuzburg to California c.1855 and 1868.

The 1887 San Francisco city directory listed the tanner Reinhold Sternitzki as working for the Christian Hellwig Tannery. He lived at 2731 Bryant Street. His sons were listed as Richard Sternitzka and Robert Sternitzka, who worked as tanners at the A. Krieg Tannery. The brothers lived at Columba Street, between 24th and 25th Streets. See the discussion below regarding the San Francisco business directories.

Birth, Marriage Family and Death of daughter Marie Sternitzky (c.1855-1891)

The death notice for Bertha Sternitzky (see below) listed this daughter as Marie. The 1886 passenger list of the Polynesia listed her as Mary Sternitzky. The passenger list shows Mary was 31 years old when the ship arrived in New York. Her calculated year of birth was 1855. She was born at Kreuzburg in Upper Silesia.

Marie married Siegfried Ferdinand Goesch (also known as Fritz Gosch) on the 4th of November in 1889. They were married at San Francisco. Siegfried was born around 1859 at Rendsburg in Schleswig-Holstein, Germany. He worked as a grocer's clerk at Rendsburg until he emigrated to New York in 1885. He moved to San Francisco in 1887 and began employment at the Sternitzky Brothers Tannery. After his marriage to Marie Sternitzky, he bought a horse and wagon and delivered soap and coal oil.

Siegfried and Marie Goesch had two sons: Willie Goesch and Robert F. Goesch. Willi Goesch was born around May in 1890 at San Francisco. His father murdered him when he was 18 months old, on the 4th of November in 1891. Robert F. Goesch was born on the 25th of August in 1891. Robert survived the murder of his mother and brother, and he was adopted by his grandparents Reinhold and Bertha Sternitzky. His name was changed to Robert F. Sternitzky. He became a noted lepidopterist (butterfly collector), entomologist, artist and illustrator. The moth Nemeris sternitzkyi and the butterfly Parnassius smintheus Sternitzkyi were named in his honor. Robert F. Sternitzky (1891-1980) died in May of 1980 at Sierra Vista, Arizona.

The murder of Marie Goesch and her son Willie Goesch, and the suicide of Siegfried Goesch was reported in two newspapers: The Morning Call in San Francisco and the Los Angeles Herald. Both newspaper reports were dated the 5th of November in 1891. The San Francisco newspaper reported the deaths in graphic detail. Siegfried Goesch killed his wife and son with a hatchet and then hung himself from a tree in their yard. The bodies were discovered by Marie's mother, Bertha Sternitzky. The testimonies by the Sternitzky family members suggested Siegfried was dissatisfied with his life, wanted to return to Germany without a family and was probably insane.

Birth of daughter Anna Sternitzky, c.1858 Prussia

The only records regarding Anna Sternitzky were the 1886 passenger list of the ship Polynesia (where she was listed as Anne) and the 1900 funeral notice for her mother Bertha Sternitzky (where she was listed as Anna). It is not known when Anna died or if she ever married. She was listed as still living in 1900, according to the funeral notice for her mother.

The passenger list of the Polynesia shows that Anne Sternitzky was born in Prussia. She was probably born at Kreuzburg in Upper Silesia. She was 28 years old when the ship arrived in New York on the 1st of June in 1886. Her calculated year of birth was 1858.

Birth, Emigration and Death of son Robert Reinhold Sternitzky (c.1861-c.1933)

The passenger list of the ship Rhaetia included the Gerber (tanner) Robert Sternitzki. He was 23 years old when the ship left Hamburg, Germany, on the 14th of July in 1884. His calculated year of birth was 1861.

The passenger list showed he was born at Kreuzburg, Silesia, and that he had been employed there as a Gerber (tanner). The 1885 San Francisco city directory listed Robert Sternitski as a tanner who worked at the Balz Brothers & Finkelday Tannery. Robert lived at San Bruno Road near Army Street. He continued to work as a tanner in San Francisco along with his father Reinhold and brother Richard at the C. Hellwig Tannery. Robert and Richard formed the Sternitzky Brothers business (see the discussion below regarding the San Francisco business directories).

Robert and his brother Richard were Freemasons (see below). Masonic publications identified Robert as Robert Reinhold Sternitzky.

An article in the San Francisco Call Newspaper (dated September 20 1903) reported Robert Sternitzky was a tanner on the San Bruno Road. He was spreading hides under a fleshing knife when he fell under the revolving blade. He received severe lacerated wounds of the scalp and right arm. He was treated at the City and County Hospital.

Robert R. Sternitzky was still living in 1930 according to the San Francisco business directory from that year. He was listed as the house owner at 201 Charter Oak Avenue. Robert F. Sternitzky (the artist formerly named Robert F. Goesch, see above) also lived at that address.

The 1933 San Francisco city directory was the last record of Robert R. Sternitzky. So, he probably died between 1933 and 1934. His nephew Robert F. Sternitzky was listed as the homeowner at 201 Charter Oak Avenue for those years. Anna V. Sternitzky was listed as a resident at that address for those years. She was probably Anna Sternitzky, the sister of Robert Reinhold Sternitzky.

Birth and Death of son Richard F. Sternitzky (c.1867-c.1918)

The passenger list of the Polynesia shows that Richard Sternitzky was born in Prussia. He was probably born at Kreuzburg in Upper Silesia. He was 19 years old when the ship arrived in New York on the 1st of June in 1886. His calculated year of birth was around 1867. He was not listed as a tanner on the 1886 passenger list. The 1887 San Francisco business directory listed him as a tanner, who worked at the A. Krieg Tannery. Robert and Richard formed the Sternitzky Brothers business (see the discussion below regarding the San Francisco business directories). Robert and Richard were Freemasons (see below).

The 1893 and 1894 San Francisco city directories listed Reinhold Sternitzky and his sons Richard F. Sternitzky and Robert R. Sternitzky as residents at 2627 Harrison. They were tanners at the Sternitzky Brothers Tannery located at San Bruno Road and Channel.

According to the San Francisco city directories Richard Sternitzky was still living in 1918, but he was not listed in the 1919 directory.

Freemasons Robert Reinhold Sternitzky and Richard Sternitzky, 1890 to 1900 San Francisco

Robert Reinhold Sternitzky and his brother Richard Sternitzky were members of the Masonic Hermann Lodge 127 in San Francisco. Their names appeared in publications of the Grand Lodge and Accepted Masons of the State of California. In 1890 and 1893, Robert Reinhold Sternitzky held the office of Junior Deacon. Robert was listed as a Master Mason in 1897.

In 1893, Richard Sternitzky held the office of Steward. In 1897, he held the office of Junior Warden. A newspaper article from the San Francisco Call (dated April 28, 1898) listed R. Sternitzky, the master of the German Mason of Hermann Lodge 127.

Bertha Sternitzky (1828-1900), the mother of Robert Reinhold and Richard was buried at the Masonic Cemetery in San Francisco.

San Francisco City Directories, 1885 to 1941

The 1885 San Francisco city directory listed the tanner Robert Sternitski who worked for the Balz Brothers & Finkelday Tannery. He lived at San Bruno Road near Army Street.

In 1886, the tanner Robert Sternitski lived at the corner of San Bruno Road and Army Street. He worked for the Anton Krieg Tannery.

In 1887, the tanner Reinhold Sternitzki lived at 2731 Bryant Street and he worked at the Christian Hellwig Tannery. His sons were listed as Richard Sternitzka and Robert Sternitzka, who worked as tanners at the A. Krieg Tannery. The brothers lived at Columba Street, between 24th and 25th Streets.

In 1888, the tanner Reinhold Sternitzky lived at 2529 Brant Avenue.

The 1889 San Francisco city directory listed the tanners Reinhold D. Sternitzky, Richard Sternitzky and Robert Sternitzky as residents at 2529 Bryant Avenue. Reinhold and Richard worked for the C. Hellwig Tannery. Robert worked for the S.F. Tannery.

The 1890 San Francisco city directory listed the tanners Reinhold D. Sternitzky, Richard Sternitzky and Robert Sternitzky lived at 1128 York Street. Reinhold and Richard worked for the C. Hellwig Tannery.

The 1891 San Francisco city directory listed Reinhold, Richard and Robert Sternitzky as tanners who lived at Silliman (Street) near San Bruno Road. Richard and Robert were owners of the Sternitzky Brothers Tannery at the corner of San Bruno Road and Channel. Siegfried Gosch was a tanner who also lived at Silliman (Street) near San Bruno Road.

The 1892 San Francisco city directory listed Reinhold, Richard and Robert Sternitzky as tanners who lived at 216 24th Street near San Bruno Road. Richard and Robert were owners of the Sternitzky Brothers Tannery at the corner of San Bruno Road and Channel.

The 1893 and 1894 San Francisco city directories listed Reinhold Sternitzky and his sons Richard F. Sternitzky and Robert R. Sternitzky as residents at 2627 Harrison. They were tanners at the Sternitzky Brothers Tannery located at San Bruno Road and Channel.

The 1895 San Francisco city directory listed Richard and Robert Sternitzky as residents at Atlas near Augusta. The Sternitzky Brothers Tannery was listed as located at San Bruno Avenue near Islais Creek.

The 1896 San Francisco city directory listed Reinhold, Richard and Robert Sternitzky as tanners who lived at the corner of Augusta and Utah. The Sternitzky Brothers Tannery was listed as located at the West side of San Bruno Avenue near Channel.

The 1897 San Francisco city directory listed the tanner Reinhold Sternitzky as a resident at the corner of Augusta and Utah. The tanners Richard and Robert Sternitzky were residents at Elmira. The Sternitzky Brothers Tannery was listed as located at the West side of San Bruno Avenue near Channel.

The 1898 San Francisco city directory listed Reinhold, Richard and Robert Sternitzky as tanners who lived at the corner of Potrero Avenue and Augusta. The Sternitzky Brothers Tannery was listed as located at the West side of San Bruno Avenue near Channel.

The 1899 San Francisco directory listed Reinhold Sternitzky and his sons Richard F. Sternitzky and Robert R. Sternitzky as residents at 201 Charter Oak Avenue. They were tanners who worked at the Sternitzky Brothers Tannery located at 2204 San Bruno Avenue. City directories from 1900 to 1907 showed no change in their status.

The 1908 and 1909 San Francisco directories listed the Sternitzky Brothers as a business owned by Robert R. Sternitzky and Richard F. Sternitzky, but they worked as draymen from their home at 201 Charter Oak Avenue. A drayman was the driver of dray, a flat-bed wagon pulled by horses for deliveries. Reinhold Sternitzky was listed as a resident at 201 Charter Oak Avenue, but no occupation was listed for him. He would have been 83 years old in 1908, so he was probably retired

The 1910 city directory listed Richard Sternitzky and Robert Sternitzky as teamsters who lived at 201 Charter Oak Avenue. Reinhold Sternitzky was not listed.

The 1911 city directory listed the Sternitzky Brothers owned by Richard and Robert Sternitzky. It was listed as a hay and grain business at 2204 San Bruno Avenue (the site of their former tannery). The family still lived at 201 Charter Oak Avenue. The artist Robert F. Sternitzky was also listed as a resident at that address. He was the orphaned son of Marie (née Sternitzky) Goesch. Reinhold Sternitzky was not listed.

In 1912, the Sternitzky Brothers owned by Richard and Robert Sternitzky, was listed as a feed and fuel business at 2204 San Bruno Avenue. Robert F. Sternitzky was listed as a water color artist. The family still lived at 201 Charter Oak Avenue. Reinhold Sternitzky was not listed.

The Sternitzky Brothers fuel and feed business was operating at 2204 San Bruno Avenue in 1913 and 1914. Reinhold, Robert, Richard and Robert F. Sternitzky were still living at 201 Charter Oak Avenue. Robert F. Sternitzky was listed as a clerk who worked at the Sternitzky Brothers business in 1913. He was listed as an artist in 1914.

The 1915 and 1916 San Francisco city directories listed Reinhold, Anna, Richard and Robert Sternitzky as living at 201 Charter Oak Avenue. Anna Sternitzky was probably Reinhold's second wife Anna (née Gellick) Sternitzky. The Sternitzky Brothers business was listed as a feed business located at 2204 San Bruno Avenue.

The 1917 city directory listed the Sternitzky Brothers feed business at 2204 San Bruno Avenue. Only Richard Sternitzky was listed as the owner of the business. Richard and the illustrator Robert F. Sternitzky lived at 201 Charter Oak Avenue.

The 1918 city directory listed the Sternitzky Brothers as a fuel and feed business at 2204 San Bruno Avenue. The owners were listed as Richard Sternitzky and Robert Sternitzky. The occupation of Robert F. Sternitzky was listed as a clerk. The family lived at 201 Charter Oak Avenue.

The 1919 city directory listed the Sternitzky Brothers fuel business still at 2204 San Bruno Avenue. Robert and Anna Sternitzky were listed as the owners. Robert F. Sternitzky was working in the advertising department for the F.C. Renstrom Company. The family lived at 201 Charter Oak Avenue.

The 1920 San Francisco city directory listed Anna Sternitzky and Robert R. Sternitzky as residents at 201 Charter Oak Avenue. The Sternitzky Brothers business was listed under the "Fuel and Feed" category in the sorting by businesses. It was still located at 2204 San Bruno Avenue.

The 1921, 1922 and 1923 city directories listed the Sternitzky Brothers business as a fuel and feed business at 2204 San Bruno Avenue. Only Robert R. Sternitzky was listed as the owner in 1922 and 1923. He lived at 201 Charter Oak Avenue.

The 1922 and 1924 San Francisco business directories listed the Sternitzky Brothers business as a wood and coal business.

The 1925 city directory listed the Sternitzky Brothers business as a fuel and feed business at 2204 San Bruno Avenue. Robert Sternitzky was listed as the owner. Robert F. Sternitzky was employed as an artist. Rose Sternitzky was employed as a stenographer. They lived at 201 Charter Oak Avenue. I do not know how Rose was related to Robert R. or Robert F. Sternitzky.

The 1926 city directory did not list the Sternitzky Brothers business. Robert R Sternitzky would have been around 65 years old at that time. He lived at 201 Charter Oak Avenue with Anna Sternitzky and the painter Robert F. Sternitzky. They were still living there in 1927 and 1928. The occupation of Robert F. Sternitzky was listed as an artist in the directories from those years.

Only Robert R. Sternitzky was listed in the 1929 directory at 201 Charter Oak Avenue. Robert Sternitzky and the artist Robert F. Sternitzky were listed at that address in the 1930 directory. Robert, Robert F. and Anna Sternitzky were listed at that address in 1931. Robert F. Sternitzky worked for Shreve, Treat & Eacret (jewelers and silversmiths) in 1931 and 1932.

The 1933 city directory listed Anna V. Sternitzky as a clerk. She lived with Robert R. and Robert F. Sternitzky at 201 Charter Oak Avenue. This was the last city directory that listed Robert R. Sternitzky.

The 1938 Oakland city directory listed Robert F. Sternitzky who worked for the Pacific Coast Biological Service in Oakland, but he lived in San Francisco. This was probably Robert Goesch who was adopted by Reinhold D. Sternitzky in 1891.

Anna V. Sternitzky and the artist Robert F. Sternitzky continued to live at 201 Charter Avenue from 1934 until Anna's death in 1940. Only Robert F. Sternitzky was listed in the 1941 city directory. No members of the Sternitzky family were listed in San Francisco city directories after 1941.

Death of wife Bertha Sternitzky (1828-1900)

Bertha Sternitzky died on the 29th of May in 1900, at the age of 71 years, 10 months and 3 days, according to the San Francisco Morning Call Newspaper. That places her date of birth as the 26th of July in 1826. Bertha was born at Kreuzberg in Ober Schlesien. She was buried at the Masonic Cemetery. The death notice for Bertha Sternitzky listed her as the wife of Reinhold Sternitzky and the mother of Anna, Robert, Richard, Robert F. (junior) and the late Marie and Willie Sternitzky. The newspaper was incorrect in two details. Robert F. Sternitzky (junior) was the adopted son of Reinhold and Bertha. He was really Bertha's adopted grandson – the son of their deceased daughter Marie (née Sternitzky) Goesch. Willie Sternitzky also was the son of Marie (née Sternitzky) Goesch.

Second Marriage of Reinhold D. Sternitzky

No details regarding the second marriage of Reinhold D. Sternitzky survived the San Francisco earthquake and fire in 1906. He probably married Anna Gellick between 1900 and 1906. The 1915 and 1916 San Francisco city directories listed Reinhold, Anna, Richard and Robert Sternitzky as living at 201 Charter Oak Avenue. The 1932 to 1940 San Francisco city directories listed Anna V. Sternitzky as a resident at 201 Charter Oak Avenue. She died in 1940 according to information from her tombstone.

Five Sternitzky family members were buried at two nearby cemeteries at Colma, San Mateo County, California. These are the graves of Reinhold D. Sternitzky and some of the members of his family. There are some errors in the records presented by the Find A Grave website. The death notice for Bertha Sternitzky was probably the source of the errors. See above: the *Death of Bertha Sternitzky (1828-1900).

- Bertha Sternitzky, born 26 July 1828 at Kreuzburg, Friedrichshain-Kreuzberg, Berlin Germany, died 29 May 1900 (aged 71), San Francisco County, California, Cypress Lawn Memorial Park Memorial ID 233856054, wife of Reinhold Sternitzky (1825-1917), mother of Anna, Robert, Richard, Robert F. Jr., and the late Marie and Willie. Originally interred in the Masonic Cemetery in San Francisco. Willie Sternitzky and Marie Sternitzky Goesch were listed as her children. This is the grave of Bertha Sternitzky (1828-1900), the first wife of Reinhold D. Sternitzke (1825-1917).

- Marie Sternitzky Goesch, birth and death dates listed as unknown on the website, daughter of Bertha Sternitzky (1828-1900), Woodlawn Memorial Park Memorial ID 233856130. Willie Sternitzky was listed as her sibling. This is the grave of Marie (née Sternitzky) Goesch (c.1855-1891).
- Willie Sternitzky, birth and death dates listed as unknown on the website, son of Bertha Sternitzky (1828-1900), Woodlawn Memorial Park Memorial ID 233856113. Marie Sternitzky Goesch was listed as his Sibling. This is probably the grave of Willie Goesch (1890-1891), the son of Marie Sternitzky Goesch. Willie was born around May of 1890. His father murdered him when he was 18 months old, on the 4th of November in 1891.
- Reinhold Sternitzky, born 1825, died 19 December 1917, aged 91-92, San Francisco, San Francisco County, California, Plot section C, Cypress Lawn Memorial Park Memorial ID 79356548. Spouse of Bertha Sternitzky (1828-1900 and Anna (née Gellick) Sternitzky.
- Anna (née Gellick) Sternitzky, birth date unknown, died 20 February 1940, Plot section C, lot 144, Cypress Lawn Memorial Park Memorial ID87626555. Spouse of Reinhold Sternitzky (1825-1917).

Families of the Brothers

Karl Sternitzky (1826-1899) and Robert William Sternitzky (1840-1919)

Emigration from Kreuzburg to California

Much of the information for this family group was provided by Alice Jewel (née Sternitzky) Hartwig (1927-2019). She was the granddaughter of Robert William Sternitzky. Alice was unable to find many details regarding the life of Karl (Charles) Sternitzky because many of the records were destroyed from the 1906 earthquake and fire in San Francisco. Mr. Ronald Stearns, the grandson of Arthur Antone Ferdinand Sternitzky (1883-1974) provided additional information.

Charles (Karl, Carl) Sternitzky (1826-1899) was born in 1826 in Kreuzburg in Upper Silesia. Based on his death record, his calculated birth date was the 7th of August of 1826. Charles emigrated to the United States before his brother Robert William Sternitzky (1840-1919). The 1880 U.S. census record shows that Charles' daughter, Joanne Augusta Sternitzky was born in 1855 in New York. Alice Jewel (née Sternitzky) Hartwig had information that showed the family lived at Buffalo in New York State at that time. The 1900 and 1910 U.S. census records show that Robert William Sternitzky emigrated in 1868. A family bible that belonged to Robert shows that he was born on the 15th of May in 1840 at Kreuzburg. The 1900 and 1910 U.S. census records show that Robert William Sternitzky emigrated in 1868. Census records from 1900 and 1910 listed 1841 as the year of Robert's birth.

Charles became a U.S. citizen in San Francisco in 1875. He registered to vote in Alameda County, California (record number 54758) in 1877. Robert became a U.S. citizen on the 31st of August in 1875.

The San Francisco city directories show Charles and Robert were carpenters who lived in San Francisco. Robert moved from San Francisco to Oakland around 1873. Charles was listed as living in San Francisco from 1862 until 1875 when he joined his brother Robert Sternitzky at Oakland, California. The Oakland city directory from 1900 shows Carl Sternitzky died on the 7th of July in 1899.

Birth and Death of Charles' wife Freda Sternitzky (1822-1906)

The first name of the Charles' wife was listed as Frutrica on the 1880 U.S. census. Her maiden name is not known. She may have been named Fredrica. She was listed as Freda on the 1900 U.S. census. She was listed as Freda Sternitzky in the Oakland city directories from 1900 to 1906. The 1907 Oakland city directory listed her death as the 25th of July in 1906. Her 1906 death notice in the San Francisco Call newspaper also listed her name as Freda. She was born in April of 1822 at Heide, in Schleswig-Holstein Germany. She died at Oakland on the 25th of July in 1906, at the age of 84 years and 3 months. She was buried at the Mountain View Cemetery in Oakland. The death notice for Freda reported she was the mother of the late Augusta (née Sternitzky) Koerner, and the grandmother of Bertha Koerner and Charles Koerner.

Birth and Family of Charles' daughter Joanne Augusta (née Sternitzky) Koerner (1855-before 1900)

The 1880 and 1900 U.S. census records, and the death notice for Freda Sternitzky provided most of this information regarding Joanne Augusta Sternitzky. She was born at New York in 1855 (probably at Buffalo in New York State). See the section below regarding census records.

Augusta married the barber Charles Koerner (who was born in Germany) around 1877, and they had two children: Bertha Koerner (1878-after 1906) and Charles Louis Koerner (1879-after 1906). Charles Louis Koerner was born on the 2nd of August in 1879 at Oakland, California.

Marriage and Children of Robert William Sternitzky, 1876

Robert William Sternitzky married Anna (née Rommeck) Geblick on the 27th of August in 1876. They were married at Oakland California. Anna's first marriage had been to a

Mr. Geblick. Bertha Amalie Geblick (1874-1913) was Anna's daughter from her first marriage. Bertha was born on the 2nd of April in 1874 at Louisville, Kentucky.

The 1883 birth certificate for their son Arthur Antone Sternitzky listed his mother as Annie née Rommick who was born at Thoren (Thorn, Toruń) in Prussia. A family bible for Robert William Sternitzky listed the birth date of Anna as the 8th of January in 1849. Anna died on the 21st of November of 1890. Anna (née Rommeck) Sternitzky was buried at Mountain View Cemetery at Oakland (plot 19). Robert and Anna had five children at Oakland, California:

San Francisco and Oakland City Directories, 1862 to 1969

This section includes the records of Charles Sternitzky and his brother Robert Sternitzky as found in the city directories of San Francisco and Oakland, California. Other Sternitzky family members were also found in those city directories. Their relationships are discussed below.

There were no variations of the Sternitzky family name in San Francisco city directories from 1850 to 1861.

The 1862 San Francisco city directory listed the carpenter Charles Sternitzeke as a resident on the East side of Morse Street.

The 1863 San Francisco city directory listed Charles Starnitzki as a carpenter. He lived on the West side of Brown Alley near Pine Street.

The 1864 San Francisco city directory listed Charles Sternitzki as a confectioner who worked for Henry Behr Company. He lived at the Globe Hotel.

The 1865 San Francisco city directory listed Charles Sternitzski as a carpenter who lived at 415 Bush Street. The 1866 city directory listed him at that address as the carpenter Charles Sternitski.

The 1871 San Francisco city directory listed Robert Sternitzkey. He was employed as cabinetmaker at Schreiber, Rohr & Company. He lived at the William Tell House (a hotel located at 317 Bush Street).

The 1872 San Francisco city directory listed Charles Sternitzky and John Sternitzky as residents at 419 Stockton Street. John may have been a son of Charles. Robert Sternitzky was listed as a carpenter who lived at 333 Bush Street. The address 419 Stockton Street is 2.5 blocks west from 333 Bush Street.

The 1873 and 1874 San Francisco city directories listed the carpenter Charles Sternitzky as a resident at 419 Stockton Street. Robert Sternitzky probably moved to Oakland in 1873.

The 1874 Oakland city directory listed Robert Sternitzky as a resident who lived at the Northwest corner of Washington Street and 9th Street. He was employed by the Lutz, Berg & Company, who was a manufacturer of looking-glass and picture-frames.

The 1875 San Francisco city directory listed the dressmaker Miss Augusta Sternitzky and the carpenter Charles Sternitzky as residents at 419 Stockton Street. Augusta probably was Joanne Augusta Sternitzky, the daughter of Charles Sternitzky.

Mrs. Theresa Sternitzky was also listed in the 1875 San Francisco city directory. She worked for the Joseph Andrau & Company, and resided at the New Atlantic Hotel. Theresa (née Brenner) Sternitzky was not directly related to the Charles Sternitzky family. She married the Civil War veteran William August Sternitzky at St. Louis, Missouri, on the 16th of March in 1863. They separated in 1873, and divorced in San Francisco around 1882. William was the son of Friedrich Sternitzke whose family emigrated in 1840 from Klein Ujeschütz, in Trebnitz County, and settled at Lynn, in Clark County, Wisconsin. The San Francisco Morning Call and the Sacramento Daily Record newspapers (dated May 19, 1882) reported the marriage of Theresa Sternitzky and Henry Anton Anthony. See Book I, Chapter 10, Gross Ujeschütz and Klein Ujeschütz: Friedrich Karl Sternitzke (1806-1901) Emigration from Klein Ujeschütz, Trebnitz County, Silesia To Lynn Township, Clark County, Wisconsin in 1840.

The 1875 Oakland city directory listed the carpenter Charles Sternitzky. He lived on the East side of Myrtle Street near 13th Street. Robert Sternitzky lived at 411 7th Street. Robert and Louis Neumann owned a furniture dealer and upholstering business at 471 7th Street in Oakland.

The 1876 San Francisco city directory listed the carpenter Charles Sternitzky. He worked for the cabinet maker Leonard Haussler and resided at Oakland. The 1876-77 Oakland city directory listed Charles Sternitzky as a resident at the corner of 29th Street and Myrtle Street.

The 1877-78 Oakland city directory listed the carpenter Charles Sternitzky as a resident at 1932 Myrtle Street. Robert Sternitzky was listed as a cabinetmaker and carpenter. He lived at 476 8th Street.

The 1880-81 Oakland city directory listed the carpenter Charles Sternitzky as a resident at 1932 Myrtle Street. Charles and his wife Freda Sternitzky at that address until their deaths.

Charles died in 1899. Freda died in 1906. Robert Sternitzky was listed as a carpenter, who lived at 1464 13th Street. Robert remained at that address until 1892, when he moved to 467 8th Street.

The 1892 Oakland city directory listed the carpenter Charles Sternitzky as a resident at 1932 Myrtle Street, but he shared a carpentry business with his brother at 467 8th Street. His brother was listed as W. Robert Sternitzky in the sort by residents, and as W.R. Sternitzky in the sort by businesses: Carpenters, Contractors and Builders.

The 1895 and 1896 Oakland city directories listed the carpenter Charles Sternitzky as a resident at 1932 Myrtle Street, but he shared a carpentry business with his brother at 1464 13th Street. Robert Sternitzky lived at the same address as their carpentry business.

The 1897 Oakland city directory listed Charles Sternitzky as a resident at 1932 Myrtle Street, but he was not listed as a carpenter. Miss Clara Sternitzky was listed as a clerk who worked at The Lace House. The H.C. Capwell Company were the proprietors of The Lace House, which sold fancy dry goods and lace curtains. She was still working for that company when the data for the 1899 directory was collected (probably in 1898) Clara lived at 1620 Myrtle Street. She could have been Clara Anna Marie Sternitzky, the daughter of Robert William Sternitzky, and she married the electrician Adolph Jahnigen two years before the 1900 census – in 1898 after the data collection was completed for the city directory published in 1899. In 1897, The electrician Adolph A. Jahnigen lived at 770 10th Street, with the bartender Gustav Jahnigen and the lineman Gustav A. Jahnigen. The carpenter and builder Robert Sternitzky lived at 1464 13th Street.

The 1898 Oakland city directory listed the carpenter Charles Sternitzky as a resident at 1932 Myrtle Street. Miss Clara Sternitzky was listed as a clerk who worked for the H.C. Capwell Company. Clara lived at 1516 West Street. The contractor and builder Robert Sternitzky lived at 1464 13th Street. He lived with his son who was listed in the directory as the machinist Julius Sternitzky who worked for the California Door Company.

The 1899 Oakland city directory listed Charles Sternitzky as a resident at 1932 Myrtle Street. Miss Clara Sternitzky lived at 1516 West Street and worked as a clerk at The Lace House. The painter Robert Sternitzky lived at 1464 13th Street with his sons: Julius and Robert (junior). Julius Sternitzky was still working for the California Door Company. No occupation was identified for Robert Sternitzky (junior).

The 1900 Oakland city directory listed Charles Sternitzky as having died on the 7th of July in 1899. His widow, Freda Sternitzky was listed as a resident at 1932 Myrtle Street. The painter Robert Sternitzky lived at 1464 13th Street with his sons: Julius and Robert E. and Arthur. Julius Sternitzky was still working for the California Door Company. Robert E. Sternitzky (junior) and Arthur Sternitzky were employed by their father.

The 1901, 1902 and 1903 Oakland city directories listed Freda Sternitzky as a resident at 1932 Myrtle Street. The carpenter Robert Sternitzky lived at 1464 13th Street with his sons: Julius and Robert E. and Arthur. Julius Sternitzky was still working for the California Door

Company. Robert E. Sternitzky was employed by his father. Arthur Sternitzky was a baker who worked for the Cape Ann Bakery.

The 1906 Oakland city directory did not list Freda Sternitzky as a resident. Robert Sternitzky lived at 1464 13th Street with his sons: Julius and Robert Jr. and Arthur. Julius Sternitzky was employed as a mill hand. No occupations were listed for Robert Sternitzky or Robert Jr. Sternitzky. Arthur Sternitzky was employed as a driver for H. Hamilton, the proprietor of the Cape Ann Bakery.

The 1907 Oakland city directory listed Freda Sternitzky as having died on the 25th of July in 1906 at the age of 84. The architect Robert Sternitzky lived at 1464 13th Street with his sons: Julius and Robert Jr. and Arthur. Julius Sternitzky was employed as a mill hand at W.P. Fuller & Company. Robert Jr. Sternitzky was employed as a carpenter. Arthur Sternitzky was employed as a driver for H. Hamilton, the proprietor of the Cape Ann Bakery.

The 1908 Oakland city directory listed the carpenters Robert Sternitzky and Robert Jr. Sternitzky as residents at 1464 13th Street. Arthur A. Sternitzky was also listed as a resident at that address. Arthur was employed as a foreman at the Cape Ann Bakery. Julius Sternitzky was not listed in the 1908 directory.

The 1911 Oakland city directory listed the carpenters Robert Sternitzky and Robert Jr. Sternitzky as residents at 1464 13th Street. Arthur was incorrectly listed in the directory as Arthur Sternitzsky. He was still a foreman at the Cape Ann Bakery, but he was living at 1128 Filbert Street. Julius Sternitzky was listed twice in the 1911 directory. He was listed in the sort by residents as an express man who lived with his father and brother at 1464 13th Street. Julius was listed again at that address in the sort by businesses under the category Express, Dray and Transfer Men.

The 1912 Oakland city directory listed the carpenters Robert Sternitzky and Robert Jr. Sternitzky as residents at a new address: 1468 13th Street. Arthur was listed as Arthur Sternitzky. He was still a foreman at the Cape Ann Bakery. Julius Sternitzky was listed twice in the 1911 directory. He was listed in the sort by residents as an express man who lived with his father and brother at 1468 13th Street. Julius was listed again at that address in the sort by businesses under the category Express, Dray and Transfer Men.

The 1913 Oakland city directory listed the carpenters Robert Sternitzky and Robert Jr. Sternitzky as residents at 1468 13th Street. The express man Julius Sternitzky was still living with his father and brother. Arthur A. Sternitzky was employed as a bakery manager at the Robertson & Losh Company and he lived at 735 Market Street.

The 1914 Oakland city directory listed the carpenters Robert Sternitzky, Julius Sternitzky and Robert Jr. Sternitzky as residents at 1468 13th Street. Arthur A. Sternitzky was employed as a foreman at the Cape Ann Bakery, but he was living at 725 Market Street.

The 1917 Oakland city directory listed the policeman Julius L. Sternitzky as a resident at 1468 13th Street. Robert Sternitzky was listed as a boarder at that address. Arthur A.

Sternitzky was employed as a shipfitter helper at the Union Iron Works. He lived at 965 10th Street.

The 1921 Oakland city directory listed the policeman Julius L. Sternitzky as a resident at 1468 13th Street. Arthur A. Sternitzky was listed as a chauffeur and he lived at 5464 Shattuck Avenue.

The 1922 Oakland city directory listed the Julius L. Sternitzky as a householder at 5355 James Avenue. Julius was an inspector at the Oakland Police Department. Arthur A. Sternitzky was listed as an automobile operator and he lived at 5464 Shattuck Avenue.

The 1924 and 1925 Oakland city directories listed Julius L. Sternitzky and Alice E. Sternitzky as the householders at 5355 James Avenue. Julius was an inspector at the Oakland Police Department. According to Alice (née Sternitzky) Hartwig, Julius L. Sternitzky was married three times: first to Elvira D. Schnebly, then to Alice Elvera Fredrickson (1887-1952) and then to Mary (maiden name unknown) Sternitzky. Arthur A. Sternitzky was listed as a clerk who worked for the William Cluff Company (grocers-wholesalers). Arthur A. Sternitzky and his wife Stella Sternitzky lived at 5464 Shattuck Avenue. According to Alice (née Sternitzky) Hartwig, Arthur's wife was Stella (née Marks) Sternitzky. Stella was born in 1888.

The 1928 Oakland city directory listed Julius L. Sternitzky and Alice E. Sternitzky as the householders at 5355 James Avenue. Julius was still an inspector at the Oakland Police Department. Arthur A. Sternitzky was listed as an agent for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Arthur was listed as the householder who lived at 5464 Shattuck Avenue with his son the student Harold Sternitzky. He was Harold James Sternitzky (born in 1910, died before 1996) who changed his name to Harold James Stearns after the Second World War.

The 1933 Oakland city directory listed Julius L. Sternitzky and Alice E. Sternitzky as the householders at 5355 James Avenue. Julius was still an inspector at the Oakland Police Department. Arthur A. Sternitzky and his wife Lottie Sternitzky were listed as the householders at 5464 Shattuck Avenue. Arthur was employed as an investigator for the State Board of Equalization. The directory included a Lorraine Sternitzky twice at 184 Santa Rosa Avenue. She was listed first as a clerk and resident at that address, then she was listed as the householder Lorraine Sternitzky Stearns at that same address. I have not identified her relationship to the rest of the family.

The 1938 Oakland city directory listed Julius L. Sternitzky and Alice Sternitzky as the householders at 5355 James Avenue. Julius was still an inspector at the Oakland Police Department. The salesman Arthur A. Sternitzky and his wife Lottie Sternitzky lived at 5464 Shattuck Avenue. Robert F. Sternitzky worked for the Pacific Coast Biological Service in Oakland, but he lived in San Francisco. This was probably Robert Goesch who was adopted by Reinhold D. Sternitzky in 1891. His name was changed to Robert F. Sternitzky. He became a noted lepidopterist (butterfly collector), entomologist, artist and illustrator. See the Birth and Family of Reinhold D. Sternitzky, 1825 to 1886 Kreuzburg, 1886 to 1980 California.

The 1941 Oakland city directory listed Julius L. Sternitzky and Alice Sternitzky as the householders at 5355 James Avenue. Julius was still an inspector at the Oakland Police Department. The salesman Arthur A. Sternitzky and his wife Lottie Sternitzky lived at 5464 Shattuck Avenue. Their son Harold J. Sternitzky lived with his parents and worked as a station attendant.

The 1969 Oakland city directory listed Arthur A. Sternitzky and his wife Florence D. Sternitzky as householders at 5520 Shattuck Avenue. Arthur was listed as retired. Mrs. Mary E. Sternitzky was the householder at 5321 James Avenue. She was probably the third wife of Julius L. Sternitzky.

Death of Carl Sternitzky (1826-1899)

The death of Carl Sternitzky was reported in the San Francisco Morning Call newspaper and in the Oakland city directory from 1900. He died on the 7th of July in 1899 at the age of 72. His death record shows that he died at the age of 72 years, 11 months and 0 days old, so his calculated birth date was the 7th of August of 1826. He died from cirrhosis of the liver.

Death of Freda Sternitzky (1822-1906)

The 1907 Oakland city directory listed the date of death of Freda Sternitzky as the 25th of July in 1906. Her 1906 death notice in the San Francisco Call newspaper listed her name as Freda Sternitzky. She was born in April of 1822 at Heide, in Schleswig-Holstein Germany. She died at Oakland on the 25th of July in 1906, at the age of 84 years and 3 months. She was buried at the Mountain View Cemetery in Oakland. The death notice for Freda reported she was the mother of the late Augusta (née Sternitzky) Koerner, and the grandmother of Bertha Koerner and Charles Koerner.

Death of Robert William Sternitzky (1840-1919)

Alice Jewel (née Sternitzky) Hartwig (1927-2019) was the granddaughter of Robert William Sternitzky. Alice had a record showing her grandfather died at Oakland (California) on the 4th of February in 1919.

An album of old family photographs that once belonged to Robert William Sternitzky and Anna (née Rommeck) Sternitzky was passed down through the family to Alice (née Sternitzky) Hartwig. Unfortunately, the photographs were not labeled. The oldest photographs are from Prussia (see below).

Royal Prussian Infantryman (Enlisted)

Imperial Russian Peasant Costume

Royal Prussian Noncommissioned Officer

Prussian Civilian

Family photographs from the album of Robert William Sternitzky (1840-1919) and his wife Anna Sternitzky (1849-1890). Courtesy of Alice J. Hartwig. See the notes (below) regarding these photographs.

The first two photographs did not have any identifying marks. The first one may be of Robert William Sternitzky prior to his emigration from Kreuzburg, Silesia, to California in 1868.

The photograph of the Royal Prussian noncommissioned officer bears the name of the photographer N. Raschkow Jr. at Breslau. His studio was at Ohlauerstrasse 4, from around 1877 to 1894.

The photograph of the Prussian civilian bears the name of the photographer Wilhelm Höffert (1832-1901), whose main studio at Dresden operated from around 1865 to 1903. He also had photography studios in many German cities including Breslau (at Tauentzienplatz 11) which operated from 1887 until 1903.

Birth and Marriage of Robert Friedrich Reinhold Sternitzkÿ 1864 Friedland, 1895 Kreuzburg

Robert Friedrich Reinhold Sternitzkÿ (1864-1910) was born on the 18th of July in 1864 at Friedland, in Lübben County of Niederlausitz (Lower Lusatia). Friedland is now in the Oder-Spree District of Brandenburg. Robert was the son the Barbier (barber) Friedrich Julius Sternitzkÿ and his wife Anna Marie (née Schulz) Sternitzkÿ. See Chapter 16, Brandenburg, Prussia: the Marriage and Family of Friedrich Julius Sternitzkÿ, 1852 to c.1882 Friedland, 1877 to 1941 Berlin.

In 1895, Robert Friedrich Reinhold Sternitzky was employed as a Barbier (barber) and lived in Berlin. His mother had died previously at Berlin. Robert's father Friedrich Julius Sternitzky had died previously at Friedland. Friedland is only 8 miles southeast from Görzdorf and 10 miles southeast from Schwenow. Those two villages were the locations of Sternitzky family from around 1800. See Chapter 16, Brandenburg, Prussia: the Family of Friedrich Ferdinand Franz Sternitzky, 1797 to 1901 Brandenburg, Germany.

Map showing Friedland in Lübben County, Brandenburg.

Robert Friedrich Reinhold Sternitzky married Susanna (Selma) Storek at Kreuzburg on the 12th of October in 1895. Her maiden name was also listed as Starek on the marriage record. The groom and the bride were both Protestants. Selma was born on the 31st of August in 1873 at Deutsch-Würbitz in Kreuzburg County. Deutsch-Würbitz is about 10 miles northwest of the city of Kreuzburg. Selma was a resident of Kreuzburg at the time of the wedding. Her parents were the Freimann (hangman) Daniel Storek (Starek) and his wife Johanna née Gunnior who were both residents of Deutsch-Würbitz (renamed as Niederweiden in 1935, now the village named Wiezbica Dolna, Poland).

The witnesses at the 1895 wedding included the 33 years old Kaufmann (merchant)

Wilhelm Speer and the 43 years old Hausbesitzer (homeowner) Paul Glaner. They were both residents of Kreuzburg.

In 1910, the Barbier Robert Friedrich Reinhold Sternitzkÿ and his wife were living at Pasteurstraße 39 in Berlin. He died in his home on the 12th of August in 1910. He was a Protestant. His death record was signed by his older sister the divorced Näherin (seamstress) Karoline Wilhelmine Auguste (née Sternitzkÿ) Juris.

Leobschütz County in the Oppeln District

City of Leobschütz in Leobschütz County

Leobschütz became the county seat of Leobschütz County in Upper Silesia under the Prussians. The first recorded settlement that location was a small Moravian village named Glubcici in 1107. It was known as Lubschicz in 1224 under the King of Bohemia Ottokar I. The town was destroyed and rebuilt after the attacks by the Mongolians in 1241 and the Swedes in 1645. It is currently the Polish town Głubczyce near the border with the Czech Republic. It is also known as Hlubčice in Czech. The population of Leobschütz was 13,505 in 1939. The population in 2008 was 13,269.

Starnitzky Family of Leobschütz

Erwin Starnitzky, a retired German Ambassador, was born in 1942 at Meldorf, Schleswig-Holstein. His family history research traced the family's origin to Leobschütz County. An early member of his family was Andreas Starnitzky from Wanowitz in Upper Silesia, who was a witness at the wedding of Martin Meltzer and Elisabeth Riedel at Soppau on the 20th of November in 1695. Wanowitz was known as Hubertusruh (from 1936 to 1945) and is now known as Wojnowice (six miles south-southeast of Leobschütz, now Głubczyce). Soppau is now named Zopowy (five miles southwest of Głubczyce). See the map under Wanowitz.

Erwin Starnitzky's respected opinion is that the Starnitzky family named originated from the name of a village of origin (Stanitz), possibly during time when the Kingdom of Bohemia ruled the region. His alternate theory regarding the origin of his family's name is that it is a variation of an earlier name – Stanitzky (possibly meaning the “son of Stanislaw”). That theory is consistent with a 16th century member of the Erwin Starnitzky's family named Mathes Stahnitzke. Early bearers of the Stanitzky (without the “r”) name who were found in literature include Bartholomeum Stanitzky (1534) and Matthias Stanitzky (1561). Wilhelm Starnitzki mentioned the “son of Stanis” theory in Book I, Chapter 3 of his history of our family, as a possible source for the names Stanisko or Staniske, but, he did not state it as the source of the Sternitzke name.

There is support for the first theory by Erwin Starnitzky – that his family name originated as Stanitzky meaning “from the village Stanitz”. The village named Stanitz in Rybnik County was known as Stanicz in 1258, was renamed as Standorf in 1936, and is now known as Stanice. Its population was 1,132 in 1939 and is now 1,307. It is located about midpoint between Ratibor (now Raciborz) and Gleiwitz (now Gleiwice), and about 25 miles east of Leobschütz (now known as Głubczyce). Stanitz is near two other villages discussed in this book – it is about six miles northeast of Guorki (now Górki Śląskie) in Ratibor County, and six miles southwest of Deutsch Zernitz (now Żernica) in Tost-Gleiwitz County.

Erwin Starnitzky has determined that many of the bearers of the Stanitzky family name (in Europe and the United States of America from the 19th century to the present) descended from this family group from Upper Silesia. But he has also encountered (in his research) bearers of the Starnitzky name with possible origins in Hungary and Russia. Below is a family tree for the Starnitzky family from Leobschütz. Details and sources regarding individuals in the family tree are listed under their associated locations.

The origin of the village name Stanitz may not be related to the name of an original settler (such as a man named Stanis). Stanitz is a Germanized Slavic word that may have described a physical feature of the settlement. Stanica is the Polish word for a watchtower. Stanicy is the Polish word for a campsite. Stanica is the name of a Silesian village and a Slavic word for a Cossack village or unit of rural organization.

Marriage and Family of Franz Starnitzky 1787 to 1788 Leobschütz

The Cataphractus Franz Starnitzky married Clara Waschel at the Catholic church in Leobschütz on the 22nd of September in 1787. The groom and the bride were both 22 years old, so they were born around 1765. Cataphractus was probably the Latin form of the French word cuirassier. Both words meant a heavily armored cavalryman.

The birthplace of the groom was not listed. The bride was born at Jägersdorf in Austrian Silesia. There was either a transcription error, or the original church record was in error. The city of Jägerndorf in Austrian Silesia (now named Krnov in the Czech Republic) is 10 miles southwest from Leobschütz.

Maria Theresia Clara Starnitzky was born on the 19th of July in 1788 at Leobschütz. She was the daughter of the Cataphractus Franz Starnitzky and Clara (née Waschel) Starnitzky. Maria Theresia Clara Starnitzky was baptized at the Catholic church in Leobschütz on the 19th of July in 1788.

The website that was the source on this information listed other variations of the name of the groom: Fransiscus Starnitzky and Franciscus Sternitzky.

Family of Joseph Starnitzkÿ
c.1839 to 1890 Leobschütz

Birth, Family and Death of Joseph Starnitzkÿ (c.1820-1890)

The Kürschnermeister (master furrier) Joseph Starnitzkÿ died at his home in Leobschütz on the 20th of June in 1890. He was a Catholic. He was 70 years old when he died, so he was born around 1820. The death record listed his place of birth as Wanowitz in Leobschütz County. His parents were listed as the Bauergutsbesitzer (farmstead owner) August Starnitzkÿ and Catharina (née Grüner) Starnitzkÿ. His parents had previously died at Wanowitz. See the City of Wanowitz in Leobschütz County: the Family of August Starnitzkÿ, 1801 to 1890 Wanowitz.

Joseph Starnitzkÿ married Johanna Spree around 1843. Johanna was born around the 2nd of June in 1820. She died at Leobschütz on the 2nd of July in 1865.

The widowed Kürschnermeister (master furrier) Joseph Starnitzkÿ from Leobschütz married Theresia Poppe on the 23rd of October in 1865 in the Catholic church in Leobschütz. Theresia was born around 1825 at Neudorf in Austrian Silesia. The wedding witnesses were: the Glöckner (bell ringer) Karl Martin from Leobschütz, and the Stellmachermeister (master wheelwright) Emanuel Kreisel from Leobschütz.

The Kürschnermeister (master furrier) Joseph Starnitzkÿ from Leobschütz married Maria Mücke around 1866. Maria was born around the 7th of January in 1826 at Neudorf. A village named Neudorf was between the village Wanowitz and the city Leobschütz. Maria died at Leobschütz on the 7th of May in 1892.

The death of Joseph Starnitzkÿ was reported by his wife Maria (née Mücke) Starnitzkÿ. The Leobschütz Starnitzky family report (at Genealogy.net) shows that Joseph died from asthma, and it references his civil death record and a burial record from a Catholic church book at Leobschütz.

Family of Joseph Starnitzkÿ

The Leobschütz Starnitzky family report (at Genealogy.net) shows that Joseph Starnitzkÿ (c.1820-1890) and his first wife Johanna (née Spree) Starnitzkÿ (1820-1865) had six children:

- Oskar Hermann Joseph Starnitzkÿ (1844-1926),
- Eberhard Karl Emanuel Starnitzkÿ (1848-1920),
- Hermann Joseph Heinrich Starnitzkÿ (1849-1926),
- Karl Paul Anton Starnitzkÿ (1851-1927),
- Pauline Berta Anna Starnitzkÿ (1853-after 1880), and
- Bruno Paul Heinrich Starnitzkÿ (1865-?).

Oskar Hermann Joseph Starnitzkÿ (1844-1926) moved to Schleswig in the 1880s. His son, Hubert Chr(istoph) Herm(ann) Hein(rich) Starnitzkÿ lived at Bremen in 1904.

Eberhard Karl Emanuel Starnitzkÿ (1848-1920) and his children remained at Leobschütz. See the Birth, Family and Death of Eberhard Starnitzkÿ, 1878 to 1920 Leobschütz.

Hermann Joseph Heinrich Starnitzkÿ (1849-1926) was born at Leobschütz. He moved to Schleswig in the 1880s. Two heirs of Herman Starnitzky are discussed in Chapter 15- Military Men of the Sternitzke Family: Starnitzky Family from Leobschütz and Schleswig, Service in the First and Second World Wars. Herman's son Erwin Oskar Friedrich Starnitzky was killed in the First World War (1888-1918). Herman's grandson Erwin Hermann Dietrich Starnitzky (1916-1979) served in the German Air Force during the Second World War.

Karl Paul Anton Starnitzkÿ (1851-1927), moved to Ratibor and opened a fur shop. See the Birth and Family of Karl Paul Anton Starnitzkÿ, 1851 to 1907 Leobschütz.

Pauline Berta Anna Starnitzkÿ (1853-after 1880) moved to Schleswig in the 1880s.

Bruno Paul Heinrich Starnitzkÿ (also recorded as Starnitzki) was born at Leobschütz around the 24th of June in 1865. That birth date is shown (at Genealogy.net) as based on a calculation, probably from his death record. Nothing more is known about him. His death may have been related to the death of his mother Johanna (née Spree) Starnitzky who died on the 2nd of July in 1865, eight days after the birth of Bruno.

Birth, Family and Death of Eberhard Starnitzkÿ 1848 to 1920 Leobschütz

Eberhard Karl Emanuel Starnitzkÿ was born at Neisse on the 1st of January in 1848 and died at Leobschütz in 1920. Eberhard was the son of Joseph Starnitzky and Johanna (née Spree) Starnitzkÿ. Eberhard had a younger brother Karl (see below) who was born in 1851. Eberhard and Karl had two brothers Oskar and Hermann, and one sister Pauline who moved from Leobschütz to Schleswig.

Eberhard Karl Emanuel Starnitzkÿ married Adelheid Franziska Johanna Metzner on the 12th of February in 1878 at Leobschütz. Adelheid was born on the 9th of March in 1857 at Leobschütz.

They had six children: Ella (1878-1963), Benno Georg (1882-1945), Georg (1886-1977), Curth (1889-1977), Hildegard (1891-1901), and Feodor (1895-1922).

Eberhard's occupation was a Malermeister (master painter) at Leobschütz in 1911. The 1914 Upper Silesian Trade Directory listed Eberhardt Starnitzki as having a Putzgeschäft (decorating business) at Leobschütz. All of the Starnitzky family were expelled from Silesia after the Second World War.

Birth and Death of daughter Ella Starnitzkÿ (1878-1963)

According to correspondence from Erwin Starnitzky, Ella Starnitzkÿ was born at Leobschütz in 1878, and she died there in 1963. The Ortsfamilienbuch Leobschütz shows she was born in 1879. No other information about Ella is known.

Birth of son Benno Georg Starnitzkÿ, 1882

Benno Georg Starnitzkÿ was born in his parents' home at Leobschütz on the 19th of December in 1882. He was the son of the Stubenmaler (room painter) Eberhard Starnitzkÿ and Adelheid (née Metzner) Starnitzkÿ. His parents were listed as Catholics on the birth record. Eberhard Starnitzkÿ signed the birth record.

In 1912, Benno Georg Starnitzky was a Gasthausbesitzer (owner of an inn) at Leobschütz. His parents, the Malermeister (master painter) Eberhardt Starnitzky and Adelheid (née Metzner) Starnitzky were living at Leobschütz.

The Gasthofbesitzer (hotel owner) Benno Georg Starnitzky married Anna Agnes Franziska Reinkober at Leobschütz on the 28th of May in 1912. See the Birth, Marriage and Family of Benno Starnitzky, 1882 to 1945 Leobschütz.

Birth of son Georg Starnitzkÿ, 1886

Georg Starnitzkÿ was born in his parents' home at Leobschütz on the 18th of January in 1886. He was the son of the Maler (painter) Eberhardt Starnitzkÿ and Adelheid (née Metzner) Starnitzkÿ, who were both Catholic.

The Geschäftsführer (managing director) Georg Starnitzkÿ married the Direktrian (director) Martha Marie Pyrczek at Leobschütz on the 11th of July in 1911. His parents, the Malermeister (master painter) Eberhardt Starnitzky and Adelheid (née Metzner) Starnitzky were living at Leobschütz. See the Birth, Marriage and Family of Georg Starnitzkÿ, 1886 to 1945 Leobschütz.

Birth of son Curth Starnitzkÿ, 1889

Curth Starnitzkÿ was born in his parents' home at Leobschütz on the 9th of March in 1889. He was the son of the Maler (painter) Eberhard Starnitzkÿ and Adelheid (née Metzner) Starnitzkÿ, who were both Catholic.

Birth of son Feodor Starnitzkÿ, 1895

Feodor Starnitzkÿ was born in his parents' home at Leobschütz on the 25th of December in 1895. His parents were listed as the Maler (painter) Eberhardt Starnitzkÿ and Adelheid (née Metzner) Starnitzkÿ, who were both Catholic.

A German Army casualty report from the First World War listed a Feodor Starnitzky who was born at Leobschütz, Silesia on the 25th of December. He was lightly wounded on the 14th of September in 1918. He died in 1922.

Birth and Family of Karl Paul Anton Starnitzkÿ 1851 to 1907 Leobschütz

Karl Paul Anton Starnitzkÿ (1851-1927) was born on the 6th of October in 1851 at Leobschütz, the son of Josef Starnitzkÿ (1820-1890) and Johanna (née Spreer) Starnitzkÿ (1820-1865). Karl married Franziska Zock at Leobschütz on the 11th of November in 1873. They were both Catholic. Franziska Zock was born around the 11th of February in 1853 at Lobkowitz in Neustadt County.

Karl and Franziska Starnitzkÿ had five children: Arthur (1874), Margareta (1876), Elisabeth (1882), Valeska (1894) and Walter (1899). All five children were born at Leobschütz.

- Arthur Oscar Hubert Carl Starnitzky (1874-after 1942). Born at Leobschütz. Lived at Freiburg in 1942, Schweidnitz County in the Breslau District. He had two sons:
 - Helmut Starnitzky (lived at Freiburg in 1942).
 - Herbert Starnitzky (lived at Freiburg in 1927 and 1942).
- Margareta Starnitzky (c.1876-after 1907) married Franz Schwabenbauer in 1907 at Vienna, Austria. Their home in 1907 was at Vienna. Franz Schwabenbauer was born around 1876. He was the son of Martin Schwabenbauer and Eva (née Kroneis) Schwabenbauer.
- Elisabeth Starnitzkÿ (born 7 July 1882) was baptized at the Catholic church in Leobschütz on the 19th of July in 1882. She married the Restaurateur (restaurant owner) August Wehlamm on the 23rd of April in 1907 at Leobschütz. August Wehlamm was born on the 7th of July in 1878 at Leubus in Wohlau County, Silesia. He was son of August Wehlamm and Louise (née Spindla) Wehlamm. The bride and the groom were both Catholic. The 56 years old Hutfabrikant Carl Starnitzkÿ from Leobschütz signed the marriage record as witness. Elisabeth married for the second time at Wartha in Frankenstein County in 1936. The name of her second husband is not known. Elisabeth married Paul Kern on the 19th of October in 1943 at Glatz in Lower Silesia.
- Valeska Sophie Fides Starnitzkÿ (born 2 May 1894) married the Kaufmann (merchant) Alois Berger on the 29th of September of 1913 at Leobschütz. The bride and the groom were both Catholic. Alois was born on the 3rd of February in 1890 at Soppau, in Leobschütz County. He was the son of Johann Berger and Anna (née Philipp) Berger. The wedding witnesses were: the 61 years old Hutmacher Karl Starnitzkÿ from Leobschütz, and the 29 years old Landwirt (farmer) Franz Berger from Soppau.
- Walter Starnitzky (born 16 January 1899) married Paulina Suffner on the 28th of June in 1926 at Leobschütz. Paulina was born on the 30th of November of 1899, at Leobschütz. She was the daughter of Johann Suffner and Anna née Wilde) Suffner. The Kaufmann Alois Berger from Leobschütz was listed as a wedding witness. Walter's occupation was listed as a Kaufmann at Leobschütz on his 1926 marriage record. He was listed as a Hutmacher (milliner) living at Kreuzstrasse Nr. 2 in the 1935 Leobschütz address book (see below).

Karl Starnitzkÿ's occupation was listed as a Barbier (barber) at Leobschütz. He was listed as a Hutfabrikant (hat manufacturer) at Leobschütz in the 1882 birth record and in the 1907 marriage record for his daughter Elisabeth. His occupation was listed as a Hutmachermeister (master milliner) in the 1913 marriage record of his daughter Valeska. Karl later moved to Ratibor and opened a fur shop. He died in 1927.

Circa Gen.XIc. Augusta Stanetzki (1870-?) Berndau.

Circa Gen.XId. Unnamed daughter Stanetzki (1876-1876) Groß Berndau.

There are three sources of data for the family of Eduard Stanetzki: the Ortsfamilienbuch for Leobschütz, the Ortsfamilienbuch for Casimir and the Ortsfamilienbuch for Steubendorf. Each source includes transcriptions of church and civil records for his family, and each source was transcribed by a different person. In some cases, there are conflicting information (such as the spelling of the family name as Stanetzki as Starnetzky). I am not able to confirm if the conflicts are due to transcription errors, or errors in the original records.

According to the Leobschütz records Eduard Stanetzki was born at the village Kasimir (also known as Casimir) on the 1st of February in 1860. He was the son of Tagearbeiter (day laborer) Johann Stanetzki and Josepha (née Titz) Stanetzki. Kasimir was a village in Leobschütz County, and 8 miles northeast from the city of Leobschütz. Kasimir is now named Kazimierz, Poland.

The Casimir records agree with those facts, but clarifies that Eduard Stanetzki was born at the hamlet Annavorwert near Casimir. He was baptized at Casimir on the 5th of February in 1860. He was a Catholic. The map of Casimir shows a small group of buildings labeled Anna Vw. Near the eastern side of Casimir. Johann Stanetzki and his wife Josepha (née Titz) Stanetzki had three daughters after the birth of Eduard.

- Bertha Stanetzki was born and baptized on the 25th of February in 1868 at Berndau in Leobschütz County. She died at Berndau on the 5th of August 1869 from Brüune (diphtheria).
- Augusta Stanetzki was born at Berndau on the 11th of September in 1870.
- An unnamed daughter Stanetzki was stillborn at Groß Berndau on the 7th of January in 1876.

The records from Steubendorf identified Eduard Starnetzky as having been born at Casimir on the 1st of February in 1860. It listed his parents as Johann Starnetzky and Josepha (née Fietz) Starnetzky.

First Marriage of Eduard Starnetzky (senior), 1885 Pommerswitz

Eduard Starnetzky married Louise Stöber on the 12th of July in 1885. Their marriage was recorded at the Pommerswitz registry office. Eduard was a Catholic. Louise was a Protestant. Eduard was working as a Dienstknecht (farm servant) at Steubendorf in Leobschütz County. His father, Johann Starnetzky was listed in the 1885 marriage record as the Tagearbeiter (day laborer) from Ober-Glogau in Neustadt County, which was 4 miles north of Casimir. The villages Pommerswitz and Steubendorf are about 6 miles northwest from the city of Leobschütz. Pommerswitz is now named Pomorzowice, Poland. Steubendorf is now named Ściborzyce Małe, Poland. Ober-Glogau is now named Głogówek, Poland.

Louise Stöber was born at Steubendorf on the 1st of June in 1857. She was the illegitimate daughter of Emilie Stöber (1830-1891) who later married Franziska Peschke in 1841 at Steubendorf. Louise had two illegitimate children before her marriage to Eduard Starnetzky: Albertine Stöber (born in 1878) and Adolf Stöber (1884-1884). Louise (née Stöber) Starnetzky died at Steubendorf on the 11th of July in 1894.

Eduard Starnetzky and Louise (née Stöber) Starnetzky had four children.

- Theodor Starnetzky was born on the 8th of December in 1885 at Steubendorf. He died there on the 10th of October in 1889. He was a Protestant.

- Eduard Starnetzky (junior) was born on the 23rd of November in 1887 at Steubendorf. He was a Catholic. Eduard Stanetzky (junior) was employed as a Gasanstaltsarbeiter (gasworks laborer) in Leobschütz when he married Martha Hudy at the Catholic church in Leobschütz on the 15th of June in 1909. She was the daughter of Valentine Hudy and Magdalena (née Tätzler) Hudy from Leobschütz. Eduard Starnetzky and Martha (née Hudy) Stanetzky were divorced at Leobschütz on the 15th of March in 1922.
- Adolf Theodor Starnetzky was born on the 12th of December in 1889 at Steubendorf.
- Albert Starnetzky was born on the 28th of July in 1893 at Steubendorf. He was a Catholic. A military record shows Albert Stanetzki was born on the 28th of July before 1900 at Steubendorf. He served as at Gefreiter (Lance Corporal) in the German Army in the First World War. A military casualty report listed him as lightly wounded on the 9th of October in 1917.

The Casimir records show Eduard Stanetzki was working as a Pferdeknecht (horse groom) at Blümsdorf in Leobschütz County in 1905. The source of that information came from a legal record dated the 29th of June in 1905 that clarified his name was Eduard Stanetzki and not Eduard Schanetzki. It said he was the son of the Tagearbeiter (day laborer) Johann Stanetzki.

Second Marriage of Eduard Stanetzki (senior), 1914 Leobschütz

The widower Eduard Stanetzki married Regina Plonka in the Catholic church in Leobschütz on the 24th of February in 1914. Regina was born at Pewelka on the 20th of February in 1886. Pewelka is about 85 miles southeast of Leobschütz. According to the Ortsfamilienbuch Leobschütz, Eduard was an Arbeiter (laborer) at Leobschütz from 1914 to 1932.

Regina Plonka apparently had an illegitimate daughter (also named Regina Stanetzki) before her marriage to Eduard Stanetzki. Eduard may have adopted the girl in 1905 which may have been the subject of the court record. Their daughter, Regina Stanetzki was born at Kasimir on the 26th of December in 1902. She was a Catholic.

Regina Stanetzki (the daughter) married the Arbeiter (laborer) Alfred Carl Glatz at the Protestant church in Leobschütz on the 13th of December in 1932. Alfred was born on the 2nd of October in 1905 at Leobschütz. He was baptized at the Protestant church on the 15th of October in 1905. He was the son of Theodor Robert Glatz and Bertha Luise (née Krügel) Glatz from Leobschütz.

Birth, Marriage and Family of Benno Starnitzky 1882 to 1945 Leobschütz

Benno Georg Starnitzky was born at Leobschütz on the 19th of December of 1882, the son of Eberhard Starnitzky (1848-1920) and Adelheid (née Metzner) Starnitzky.

The Gasthofbesitzer (hotel owner) Benno Georg Starnitzky married Anna Agnes Franziska Reinkober at Leobschütz on the 28th of May in 1912. The groom and the bride were both Catholic. The bride was born on the 25th of May in 1886 at Lissa in Lissa County of Posen. She was a resident of Leobschütz, and the daughter of Königlichen Eisenbahn Oberassistent (royal railroad senior assistant) Franz Reinkober and Agnes (née Ende) Reinkober, who were both living at Leobschütz

The groom's brother, the 26 years old Maler (painter) Georg Starnitzky from Leobschütz was a wedding witness. The other witness was the 25 years old Schriftsetzer (typesetter) Adolf Schink.

Benno's occupation was listed as Gasthofbesitzer (hotel owner) at Leobschütz in 1912, 1924 and 1935.

Benno and Anna Starnitzky had three children at Leobschütz.

- Annelies Starnitzky (1915-2003). Annelies and her father were expelled from Silesia after the Second World War and moved to Altenburg in Thuringia.
- Arno Starnitzky (1915-2007). Arno was also expelled from Silesia after the Second World War and moved to Lower Saxony.
- Hubert Starnitzky (6 March 1921-23 December 1944). Hubert served as a Gefreiter (lance corporal) during the Second World War and died on the 23rd of December in 1944, in the Battle of the Bulge. He was buried with the unidentified soldiers at Sandweiler, Luxemburg.

Benno Georg Starnitzky was expelled from Silesia in 1945. He moved to Altenburg in Thuringia, where he died.

Birth, Marriage and Family of Georg Starnitzky 1886 to 1945 Leobschütz

Georg Starnitzky (1886-1977) was born on the 18th of January in 1886 at Leobschütz, the son of Eberhard Starnitzky (1848-1920) and Adelheid (née Metzner) Starnitzky.

The Geschäftsführer (managing director) Georg Starnitzky married the Direktrian (director) Martha Marie Pyrczek at Leobschütz on the 11th of July in 1911. His parents, the Malermeister (master painter) Eberhardt Starnitzky and Adelheid (née Metzner) Starnitzky were living at Leobschütz. The groom and the bride were both Catholic and residents of Leobschütz.

Martha Marie Pyrczek was born on the 27th of July in 1880 at Ruda, in Zabrze County (about forty miles east of Leobschütz). She was the daughter of the Bäckermeister (master baker) Robert Pyrczek and Antonie (née Strzelczyk) Pyrczek, who were residents of Gross Strehlitz.

The wedding witnesses were: the 63 years old Malermeister (master painter) Eberhard Starnitzky and the 28 years old Maler Benno Starnitzky, whose occupations were both listed as Maler (painter) at Leobschütz.

Georg and Martha Starnitzky had one daughter, Senta Starnitzky. In the 1935 address book for Leobschütz, Georg Starnitzky was listed as a Malermeister (master painter), who was living with his daughter Senta at Wassertorstrasse Nr. 14. Georg and Senta moved to Frankfurt am Main after the Second World War, where Georg died in 1977.

Marriage of Eduard Stanetzky (junior) 1909 Leobschütz

Eduard Stanetzky (junior) was born on the 23rd of November in 1887 at Steubendorf in Leobschütz County. He was the son of the Tagearbeiter (day laborer) Eduard Stanetzky (senior) and Luisa (née Stober) Stanetzky from Steubendorf. Steubendorf (now named Ściborzyce Małe, Poland) was a village 6 miles northwest from Leobschütz. Their surnames were listed as Starnetzky in the Ortsfamilienbuch for Steubendorf. Neisse County in the Oppeln District

City of Neisse in Neisse County

Neisse was the county seat of Neisse County in the Oppeln District. The population of the City of Neisse was 35,433 in 1939. It was renamed as Nysa in 1945. The population of Nysa was 47,545 in 2006.

As one of the oldest towns in Silesia, Neisse has had a rich history. Around 1200, it was the capital of the Duchy of Neissa (as shown on a 16th century map of the duchy). Its fortifications were a strategic position in the Hussite War (1424), the Thirty Years' War (1618-1648) and the Silesian Wars. King Frederick II of Prussia and the Habsburg Emperor Joseph II met at Neisse in 1769. Neisse retained its Catholic dominance under the Protestant Prussians. After the Second World War, the German citizens were forcibly expelled and the city was resettled by Poles who were expelled from what is now western Ukraine.

Schlesischen Forst-Vereins: Sternitzki, Sternitzky
1853 to 1857 Neisse and Siemianowitz

The 1853 membership list of the Schlesischen Forst-Vereins (Silesian Association of Foresters) listed the retired Königliche Forst-Inspector (royal forest inspector) Sternitzki who lived at Neisse, and the Gräfliche Oberförster (the count's senior forester) Sternitzki who lived at Siemianowitz near Beuthen.

The 1854, 1855, 1856 and 1857 membership lists for the Schlesischen Forst-Vereins continued to list the retired Königliche Forst-Inspector (royal forest inspector) Sternitzky who lived at Neisse. The membership lists for those years listed the family member at Siemianowitz near Gleiwitz as the Gräfliche Forst-Inspektor (the count's forest inspector) Sternitzky.

1857 was the last year that the son was listed on the membership lists. The father continued to be active in the Schlesischen Forst-Vereins until his death at Neisse in 1866.

Death of Mauritius (Moritz) Sternitzki 1866 Neisse

The Schlesische Provinzialblätter reported the death of the retired Forstinspektor and Stiftsforstmeister Sternitzki, at Neisse in September/October of 1866. Moritz Sternitzki died on the 5th of October in 1866, and was buried at Neisse on the same day of his death. He was 83 years old when he died, so he was born around 1783.

The index of a series of 19th century books by Adrian Hoverden-Plencken, that documented Silesian tombstone inscriptions, identified Mauritius Sternitzki as an Oberförst (meister), a head forest master, who died in 1866. According to the index, the tombstone information for Mauritius Sternitzki was printed in Volume 16, which has not yet been located. Family of Heinrich Sternitzki 1855 Groß Neuendorf, 1940 Hamburg

The Gärtner Heinrich Sternitzki and his wife Ernestine (née Stein) Sternitzki were living at Groß Neundorf in 1855. Their history is known from the marriage and death records of their son. See Falkenberg County in the Oppeln District, the Town of Friedland in Falkenberg County: the Marriage and Family of Heinrich Sternitzki, 1851 to 1868 Friedland.

Birth of son Bernhard Franz Heinrich Sternitzki, 1855

Bernhard Franz Heinrich Sternitzki was born at Groß Neuendorf on the 25th of February in 1855. He was baptized at Groß Neuendorf on the 2nd of March in 1855.

Marriage and Death of son

Bernhard Franz Heinrich Sternitzki, 1881 & 1940

The Fruchthändler (fruit merchant) Bernhard Franz Heinrich Sternitzki married Friederike Caroline Regine Capell at Hamburg, on the 14th of November in 1881. The groom was a 26 years old Catholic. His father and mother died before their son's marriage. The bride was a 28 years old Lutheran. She was born on the 28th of June in 1853 at Ludwigslust, a town in the German state Mecklenburg-Vorpommern. She was the daughter of the Tischler (carpenter) Georg Gottfried Andreas Capell and Christine Albertine Marie (née Buts) Capell who resided at Ludwigslust.

Bernhard Franz Heinrich Sternitzki (1855-1940) died at Hamburg on the 8th of April in 1940 at the age of 85 years old. The cause of his death was listed as Multiple Sclerose (multiple sclerosis). He was a Catholic. His address was Oberaltenallee 60 in Hamburg. His death record shows that his wife, Friederike Caroline Regine (née Capell) Sternitzki had previously died at Hamburg. His father, Heinrich Sternitzki had previously died at Pillkowitz. His mother, Ernestine (née Stein) Sternitzki had previously died at Friedland in Upper Silesia. The death record for Bernhard Franz Heinrich Sternitzki shows that he was born on the 25th of February in 1855 at Groß Neuendorf in Neisse County, instead of the village Groß Neuendorf shown on his marriage record. Meyer's Gazetteer listed a Groß Neuendorf in Lebus County, but no villages with that name Neisse County.

Pillkowitz (also known as Pilkowitz and Pilchowitz) was in Rybnik County of Upper Silesia. It is now named Pilchowice in Gliwice County, Poland. It is about 8 miles north of the city of Rybnik, and 6 miles southwest from the city of Gliwice. Friedland was 12 miles east of the city of Neisse. Friedland was in Falkenberg County in Upper Silesia. Friedland is now known as Korfantów, Poland.

Forst-Inspector Sternitzky
1833 Chrzelitz

Wood thieves inflicted three dangerous wounds with an ax to the head of the Chrzelitz Forst-Inspektor Sternitzky.

The attacks on the members of the forest service (who represented the king's authority in the region) increased in number and severity as the public grew resentful of the Prussian government. The public resentment resulted in the German Revolution of 1848/49 when the Forst-Inspektor again came under attack (see below). Many examples of attacks on the Silesian foresters were recorded in the Schlesische Provinzialblätter in the years leading up to the revolution.

- Schlesische Provinzialblätter 1839 Volume 109: wood thieves attacked forest wardens in the Königshulder Forest in Oppeln County, in the Imieliner Forest in Pleß County and at Kloch-Ellguth in Trebnitz County.
- Schlesische Provinzialblätter 1840 Volume 111: the forest warden named Hentschel from Ober-Frauenwaldau was shot by thieves in the Trebnitz Royal Forest.
- Schlesische Provinzialblätter 1840 Volume 112: a number of shootings and assaults took place in the forests near Jaschkowitz in Oppeln County, Deutschhammer in Trebnitz County and Koschweiler in Lublin County.

- Schlesische Provinzialblätter 1842 Volume 115: a gunfight took place between poachers and a forester in the Stanitzer Forest Preserve in Rybnik County.

Forst-Inspector* Sternitzky 25 October 1841 Chrzelitz

A notice published in an 1841 Munich newspaper (Allgemeine Zeitung München) listed the recipients of awards for their services in Prussia. One of the recipients of den rothen Adler-Orden 4ster Kl. (the Red Eagle Order Fourth Class) was:

Der Forstinsp. (the Forest Inspector) Sternitzky.

The October 1841 edition of a Breslau newspaper (Schlesische Provinzialblätter) also listed the Forst-Inspector Sternitzky in Chrzelitz as the recipient of that award.

A book published in Berlin by the Prussian Government in 1842 showed the Forst-Inspektor Sternitzky from Chrzelitz in the Oppeln District received the award on the 25th of October in 1841.

The Order of the Red Eagle was a Prussian order of chivalry awarded to military personnel and civilians. It was awarded to recognize valor in combat, excellence in military leadership, long and faithful service to the kingdom, or other achievements.

Forstmeister Sternitzky
1842 & 1846 Chrzelitz

Forstmeister Sternitzky from Chrzelitz was referenced many times in Julius Ratzeburg's 1842 book about forestry science in Germany. In the forward on page IX, the author acknowledges “dem Herrn Forstmeister Sternitzky” for his comments on the magnificent forests of the Austrian portion of Silesia, particularly the Bishop of Breslau's properties in the Principality of Neisse.

Ratzeburg's 1895 textbook referenced two research papers written by Sternitzky:

„Nach den Versuchen des Herrn F.I. Sternitzky ist von einem 10 jährigen, 35 Klaster in 150 Stämmen enthaltenden Kiefernbestande der jährlich Nadelabfall pr. Morgen auf 1500 Pfd. Zu veranschlagen. Die Versammlung hätte sich nicht darauf beschränke sollen, die Verschiedenheit des Verfahrens und der Umstände, unter welchen die Beobachtungen angestellt

wurden, zu beanstanden, sondern eine Specielle Instruction zur Herbeiführung eines gleichförmigen pragmatischen kritischen Verfahrens ertheilen sollen.“

Translation: According to experiments by Mr. F.I. [Forst-Inspector] Sternitzky on 10-years-old trees (in 35 classes, and 150 strains) containing pine needles, annual production of the waste per Prussian Morgens was estimated at 1500 lbs. The assembly would not limit itself to complain about the diversity of the procedure and the circumstances under which the observations were made, but to impart one pragmatic instruction critical to achieve a uniform procedure.

Schlesischen Forst-Vereins: Sternitzky 1843 to 1847 Chrzelitz

The 1843, 1844 and 1846 membership lists of the Schlesischen Forst-Vereins (Silesian Association of Foresters) listed a Königliche Forst-Inspector Sternitzky and a Feldmesser (field surveyor) Sternitzky in Chrzelitz (Neustadt County). They were probably father and son. The Königliche Forst-Inspector Sternitzky was the Stellvertreter (deputy to the president) of the association in 1846.

The Königliche Forst-Inspector Sternitzky at Chrzelitz was also mentioned in an 1845 book by the Freiherr von Wedekind.

An 1847 publication listed the Königliche Forst-Inspector Sternitzki and the Feldmesser Sternitzki from Chrzelitz as attendees number 118 and 119 at an 1847 meeting of the Schlesischen Forstvereins. The minutes of that meeting listed the Königliche Forst-Inspector Sternitzki as Herrn Forstmeister Sternitzky.

The 1849 publication of the Schlesischen Forst-Vereins show the retired Königliche Forst-Inspector Sternitzky and the Feldmesser (field surveyor) Sternitzky were living at Neisse. The 1850 publication of that society showed the retired Königliche Forst-Inspector Sternitzky was still at Neisse, but the Feldmesser Sternitzky had moved to Gleiwitz. See the discussion regarding Neisse for details and sources.

Forst-Inspector Sternitzki
1848 Chrzelitz

Forst-Inspector Sternitzki at Chrzelitz was identified as one of the officials in the Prussian Forest Service. His Prussian Red Eagle Order 4th Class Award was noted by his name.

Chrzelitz - Sternitzki, Forst-Inspector 4.

A forestry journal (the Allgemeine Forst- und Jagd-Zeitung) from that year listed him as the Königliche Forstinspector Sternitzki from Chrzelitz and also identified him as an Oberförster.

1848 was a year of political strife in Europe which resulted in increased violence against the local officials (mayors, magistrates and even the royal forest masters). The forest masters had police powers to enforce the laws to protect the royal forests. An increase in theft was also a result of the political strife, with many court records associated with the Forstdefraudanten, which seems to have been a legal term for poachers who committed theft (or fraud) from the royal forests.

The November 1848 issue of the Schlesische Provinzialblätter included reports of violence against those officials, including the Forstinspector Sternitzki at Chrzelitz. He was attacked in his Amtswohnung (official residence) by vengeful Forstdefraudanten, and he had to flee from his home. The rioters then laid siege to the home of another local official (the Amts-Executor) who fought off the rioters with a pistol.

An editor's footnote to the 1849 article written by the retired Royal Forest Inspector Sternitzky (at Neisse) states that the attack at Chrzelitz took place in October of 1848.

Forst-Inspector Sternitzky Retirement
1849 Chrzelitz

The March 1849 issue of the Schlesische Provinzialblätter reported that Forst-Inspector Sternitzky, the administrator of the Oberförsterei (head forestry office) at Chrzelitz, had requested and was granted retirement from service with a pension.

The May 1849 issue of the Schlesische Provinzialblätter reported that Forst-Inspector Sternitz[ky] was pensioned. He was replaced by the Ritter Feldjäger Leutnant Promnitz at the Chrzelitz Head Forestry Office.

George Czerniczky
1554 Guorki

George Czerniczky (also documented as Georg Czernicki) is an interesting case. His last name seems to be Czech and Polish versions of Sternitzke. It is also interesting that the year of the record for George Czerniczky (1554) is coincidental with the year of record when George Tschirnitzke held the hereditary office of mayor (erbliche Lehnscholtisei) for the village Zantkau.

The last name of George Czerniczky indicates his family probably originated at the village Czernicz (which is now the city Czernica) in Rybnik County. Czernitz is four miles south of Guorki. It is likely that the Czerniczky family name was created by the same process as the Sternitzke family name – the creation of a family name by adding the -ky (or related suffix) to the end of a village name. It is possible that George Czerniczky was related to Thomeslai de Chyrniche who lived in Czernitz, in Rybnik County in 1317.

In einer Urkunde, ausgestellt im Kapitel zu Ratibor den 10. December 1554, erklärt das Collegiatkapitel, daß es zur Errichtung und Begründung eines Manualbenefiziums aus zwei Altarministerien von seinen Vorfahren 200 ungarische Gulden übernommen und dafür einen jährlichen Zins von 16 Gulden in und auf die Güter des George Czerniczky im Dorfe Guorki (Gurek W. N. W. 1 1/8 M. von Rybnik) mit der Bestimmung erkaufte habe, daß zu diesem Benefizium jedesmal bei dessen Erledigung ein Prälat oder der älteste Canonikus präsentirt werde. Das Patronatsrecht bleibt dem Kapitel vorbehalten. Bischof Balthasar von Promnitz wird um Bestätigung dieser Stiftung ersucht und gleichzeitig der Scholastikus Johann Klos dem Bischofe zur Investitur präsentirt²⁾. Die oberhirtliche Bestätigung dieser Stiftung durch den Bischof Balthasar erfolgte zu Neisse den 4. Januar 1555³⁾.

The above text describes an event at the Catholic Collegiate Church chapter at Ratibor, dated the 10th of December in 1554, which documented an endowment that was acquired for the construction and establishment of a foundation to benefit two altar ministries. A payment of 200 Hungarian florins was made, with an annual interest of 16 guilders on the estates of George Czerniczky in the village of Guorki (also known as Gurek, 1-5/8 miles west-northwest of Rybnik) was provided for the benefit of his ancestors. It was stipulated that a prelate or the oldest legal member of the chapter would receive the benefit. The approval of the endowment and the investiture of the scholar Johann Klos was sought from Bishop Balthasar of Promnitz, who confirmed both at Neisse on the 4th of January in 1555.

Breslau: Wilhelm Gottl. Korn, 1868. Page 1191 (1238 of 1367). Dr. Heyne noted that the original document that referenced George Czerniczky was located in the Silesian Provincial Archive.

Another book recorded the same event with different spellings of George Czerniczky (Georg Czernicki) and Guorki (Gorke).

Die Domherrn machten am 10. December 1554 auß eignen Mitteln eine Fundation von 200 Flor., deren Zinsen — 16 Flor. — je ein Prälat oder ein Senior der Canonici beziehen und 2 Messen wöchentlich lesen solle. Das Geld war auf Gorke an Georg Czernicki gegeben. Bischof Balthasar bestätigte am 4. Januar 1555 die Stiftung und investirte dazu den Johann Clos auß Ratibor.

Translation: The members of the Catholic Cathedral Chapter announced on the 10th of December in 1554 an endowment of 200 florins and 16 florins interest, for foundation of a prelate or a senior member of the Canonici to provide two services each week. The money was given at Gorke by Georg Czernicki. Bishop Balthasar confirmed the endowment and also the investiture of Johann Clos from Ratibor on the 4th of January in 1555.

The next paragraph on that page mentions donations made on the 30th of April in 1556 by Georg Sedlnicki von Choltiz and Polnisch-Ostrau. This is interesting because it shows a spelling variation of the Sedlnitzky von Choltiz family name which appeared with a Sternitzky family member in the 1620 audience list of the King of Bohemia Friedrich V of the Palatinate. This shows the Czernicki variation was a local spelling of Czernitzky and possibly also Sternitzky. The three versions of the name may be Polish, Bohemian and German equivalents.

A possible (much later) relative of Georg Czernicki was identified in an 1894 Breslau marriage record. Rudolf Czernicki was a 47-years-old witness at the wedding of Josef Nestler and Johanna Müller. Rudolf was a Conditior (confectioner) living at Catharinenstraße 3 near the southeast corner of the Neumarkt in Breslau. Rudolf was listed in the 1891 and the 1897 Breslau address books (at that same address) as the Conditior R. Czernicki. He was probably the same man listed as a baptismal sponsor in the baptism books of the Elftausend Jungfrauen Protestant Church in 1879 as the Conditior Rudolf Schernitzke, and in 1892 as the Conditior Rudolf Sternitzkÿ. Those records show Czernicki was a Polish variation of the Sternitzkÿ name.

Villages of Ratiborhammer and Slawikau in Ratibor County

Ratibor Hammer (or Ratiborhammer) was a village about 100 miles southeast of Breslau. Ratiborhammer was identified as Hammer in some older books and maps (such as the 1895 map below). George Bradshaw's 1895 book included Hammer in his list of train stations in the line from Cosel to Vienna:

|-----------|--------------------|
| Cosel to: | |
| Hammer | 11 ½ English Miles |
| Ratibor | 20 English Miles |

Ratiborhammer is now known as Kuźnia Raciborska, Poland. East of Ratibor was the village Czernitz (now named Czernica) in Rybnik County. Konstantin Damroth identified two spelling variations of Czernitz: Czernice and Tschernitz. Bradshaw's book also listed the distances (by train) from the Ratibor Junction to other villages noted in this family history:

|--------------------------------|------------------|
| Leobschütz | 23 English Miles |

|--------------------------------|--------------------|
| Ratibor Junction eastbound to: | |
| Czernitz | 16 English Miles |
| Rybnik | 22 ½ English Miles |

The village named Slawikau was about 4 miles west of Ratibor Hammer. It was the location of a registry office and a Catholic church. The village is now named Sławików, Poland.

Baptism of Carolus Henricus Josephus Ludovicus Mauritius Sternitzky

1809 Slawikau

Carolus Henricus Josephus Ludovicus Mauritius Sternitzky was born on the 5th of June in 1809. He was baptized at Slawikau on the 18th of June in 1809. He was the son of the Forst Conductor Mauritius Sternitzky and Theresia (née Wall) Sternitzky.

Moritz Sternitzky was born in 1809 at Ratiborhammer. While studying medicine at the University of Breslau (in 1832-33) he was investigated and questioned because of his candidacy status (Renonce) for membership in a student fraternity. Student organizations were considered radical groups by the authorities. Moritz is the German version of the Latin name Mauritius.

Maps of Ratiborhammer show a forestry office was at Ratiborhammer. It is very likely that Moritz Sternitzky (Mauritius Sternitzky) was a son of the Forstconductor Moritz Sternitzke who entered the Prussian royal forest service in 1808. The wife of the Forstmeister und Forst-Inspector Sternitzki was Theresia (née Wahl) Sternitzki. She died on the 23rd of April in 1843 at Chrzelitz. See Book III, Chapter 2, City of Trebnitz and the Polnischdorf Suburb: A Summary of the Life of the Forstmeister Sternitzke/Sternitzky/Sternitzki, 1808 Haltauf in Trebnitz County to 1866 Neisse in Neisse County.

Strandorf, Kranowitz, Borutin and Woinowitz in Ratibor County

The village Strandorf is about two miles southwest of the city of Kranowitz. Both locations were historical centers of the Stirnisko family (which is discussed below). Borutin is about two miles southeast of Kranowitz. These locations were in Ratibor County near the border with Bohemia (now the Czech Republic), though Strandorf has a history of being at times on the Bohemian side as the border moved through history.

The village Strandorf was in now known as Strahovice in the Czech Republic. The population of Standorf was 687 in 1939.

The city of Kranowitz was renamed as Kranstädt in 1936. It had a population of 3872 in 1939. It is now known as Krzanowice, Poland. It had 2206 residents in 2004.

Borutin was known as Streitkirch from 1936 to 1945. It had 1609 residents in 1939. It is now known as Borucin in Poland.

Woinowitz was about 4 miles northeast of Kranowitz. It was known as Weihendorf from 1936 to 1945. Woinowitz is now known as Wojnowice, Poland

Stirnisko/Sternisko Family from Strandorf, Kranowitz and Borutin

The Stirnisko name did not appear as a variation of the Sternitzke family from Trebnitz County. The Stirnisko family name was first encountered by me very late in my research, during my review of the Breslau address books and marriage records. The Sternisko and Stirnisko variations were both found to be associated with this area of Ratibor County.

Stirnisko and Sternisko in Breslau records

Josef Stirnisko was listed in the 1926 and the 1927 Breslau address books as a Schneider (tailor), who lived at Weißenburger Platz 10 (now Plac Słowiański, north of Sand Island, near the train station to Trebnitz). He was listed as a Zwischenmeister (fashion designer tailor) at that address in the 1928, 1934 and 1937 Breslau address books.

A daughter of Johanna (née Stirnisko) Czesla was married at Breslau in 1900. A transcription of that marriage record is included below. The record of that marriage identified the city of Kranowitz as the birth location of Johanna (née Stirnisko) Czesla in 1860. Further research of the Stirnisko family's connection to the city of Kranowitz identified the village Strandorf as the earlier location of that family. The Stirnisko family was associated with Strandorf and Kranowitz throughout the 18th and 19th centuries, as documented in the Ortsfamilienbuch Kranowitz (local heritage book of Kranowitz). That Ortsfamilienbuch included the known histories of 121 bearers of the Stirnisko name. The earliest known members of the Stirnisko family from that book are discussed below. Recent bearers of the Stirnisko family name have been identified in modern German telephone directories and Australian cemetery records from 1992 and 1997 (as detailed below).

The Maurer (mason) Ignatz Janosch was married at Breslau on the 23rd of January in 1909. According to his marriage record, he was born on the 24th of April in 1882 at Borutin in Ratibor County (now Borucin, Poland). He lived in Breslau at Augustastraße 29 (west of the main trainstation, now Szczęśliwa Street). Ignatz Janosch was the son of the Gärtner Joseph Janosch and his wife Ludmilla (née Stirnisko) Janosch, who were residents of Borutin. According to the Ortsfamilienbuch for Kranowitz, Ignatz Janosch was born on the 23rd of April in 1882 at Kranowitz. His parents were listed as Josef Janosch who was born on the 25th of January in 1851 at Borutin, and Ludmilla (née Stirnisko) Janosch who was born on the 10th of August in 1856 at Strandorf. Ludmilla (née Stirnisko) was the daughter of Johann Stirnisko and Franziska (née Bunczek) Stirnisko. See the Family of Johann Stirnisko, 1855 to 1880 Strandorf and Kranowitz.

Similar Sternitzke Variations

No definitive family connections have been identified between the Stirnisko and the Sternitzke families. Similar variations of the Sternitzke family name included: Czernissko, Czirniszko, Scernisko, Schiernisko, Sciernisko, Sernisko, Scziernisko, Siernisko, Stiernischko, Sternisko, Szernischko, Tschiernisko Ziernißko, Zirnisko and Zirniszko. Modern bearers of the Stirnisko name in Poland are concentrated in the area around the city Kranowitz, which was the location of the Stirnisko family (as shown below).

A book by Katarzyna Skowronek regarding contemporary Polish names suggested the origin of the family name Stirnisko was the Polish word Ściernisko. That word (meaning a stubble field) was also suggested by Wilhelm Starnitzki as a possible origin of the Sternitzke name. That common theory was enough for me to investigate whether a connection existed between the two families.

The name of Jakob Sternitzke was written as Jacobus Sciernisko in 1617 and Jacobus Scziernisko in 1626 at the Catholic Church at Powitzko, which was associated with the Catholic parish at Trachenberg in Militsch County. It is possible that a Catholic member of the Sternitzke family from Militsch County was the source of the Catholic Stirnisko family in Ratibor County. It is less likely that the Ratibor County family was the source of the Sternitzke family because the Sternitzke family lived in the Trebnitz area in the early 1500s. The records of the Stirnisko family have only been traced (so far) to around 1700. It is possible that following the decimation of the local population by the Hussite Wars (1419-1434) and the Thirty Years' War (1618-1648) that German farmers were resettled from Militsch County to the abandoned villages near Ratibor. Members of the noble Maltzan family had leadership positions at the city of Trachenberg in Militsch County and also at the city and county of Ratibor. It is also possible that the Stirnisko family migrated north from Bohemia because of those wars and took their name from one of the Bohemian villages such as Tschernitz (also known as Czernisko) near Pilsen.

Family of Johann Stirnisko 1855 to 1880 Strandorf and Kranowitz

Johann Stirnisko was a Häusler (agricultural day laborer) at Strandorf. He was married twice. The name of his first wife is not known, but she is known to have died before February of 1855. That information was probably from the record of his second marriage. They had no children.

Johann then married Franziska Bunczek on the 6th of February in 1855. Franziska was born on the 18th of November in 1836 at Kranowitz. The 1856 baptism record for Ludmilla Stirnisko and the 1863 baptism record for Innocenz Stirnisko listed their mother as Francisca the daughter of Benjamin Bunczek. The 1859 baptism record for Genovefa Stirnisko listed her mother as Francisca the daughter of Benjamin Buriczik, Johann Stirnisko and Franziska (née Bunczek) Stirnisko had ten children:

- Ludmilla Stirnisko was born on the 10th of August in 1856 at Strandorf. She was baptized at Kranowitz on the 11th of August in 1856. Ludmilla Stirnisko married Josef Janosch at Borutin on the 26th of June in 1876. Josef was born at Borutin on the 25th of January in 1851. They had eight children who were born at Borutin and Kranowitz. See the discussion earlier in this section regarding Stirnisko and Sternisko in Breslau records: the 1909 marriage of the Maurer (mason) Ignatz Janosch at Berlin.
- Adolf Stirnisko was born on the 1st of December in 1858 at Strandorf. He was employed as a Maurer (mason) at Kuchelna. He married Agnes Zaiczek at Kranowitz on the 29th of April in 1884. Agnes was born on the 13th of June in 1865 at Kuchelna. They had two sons.
 - Wenzel Stirnisko was born at Kuchelna on the 6th of August in 1885.
 - Adolf Stirnisko was born at Strandorf on the 14th of September in 1889.
- Anton Stirnisko was born on the 15th of March in 1861 at Kranowitz. He was baptized at Kranowitz on the 16th of March in 1861. See the Birth and Marriage of Anton Stirnisko, 1861 Strandorf, 1885 Lipine, Strandorf and Beuthen.
- Innozenz Stirnisko was born on the 7th of October in 1863 at Kranowitz. He was baptized at Kranowitz on the 8th of October 1863. His parents were listed on the baptism record as Johann Stirnisko and Francisca (née Bunczek) Stirnisko. There is no record of him getting married or having children.
- An unidentified Stirnisko daughter was born on the 25th of October in 1865 at Kranowitz. She died at Strandorf on the same day.
- Antonie Stirnisko was born on the 5th of October in 1866 at Strandorf. The record of her baptism shows she was born on the 5th of September in 1866, and she was baptized at Kranowitz on the 6th of September in 1866. Her parents were listed as Johann Stirnisko and Francisca (née Bunczek) Stirnisko. Antonie married Josef Zaiczek at Kranowitz on the 30th of January in 1883. Josef was born on the 10th of November in 1860. They had four children.
- Genovefa Stirnisko was born on the 4th of May in 1869 at Strandorf. She was baptized at Kranowitz on the 5th of May in 1869. Her parents were listed on the baptism record as Johann Stirnisko and Francisca (née Buriczik) Stirnisko. Genovefa married Emil Sonnek at Kranowitz on the 17th of November in 1885. Emil was born at Strandorf on the 23rd of November in 1859. They had two children.

- Marianna Stirnisko was born on the 28th of January in 1872 at Strandorf. She married Nicolaus Morawetz at Kranowitz. Nicolaus was born at Köberwitz on the 29th of November in 1859.
- Johanna Stirnisko was born on the 1st of February in 1877 at Strandorf. There is no record of her getting married or having children.
- Catharina Stirnisko was born on the 3rd of June in 1880 at Kranowitz. There is no record of her getting married or having children.

Family of Johanna (née Stirnisko) Cziesla 1860 Kranowitz and 1900 Breslau

The 1900 marriage record shows that Antonie Cziesla was born at Kranowitz in Ratibor County, on the 16th of August in 1860. She was the daughter of the Franz Cziesla and his wife Johanna (née Stirnisko) Cziesla. Franz Cziesla and his wife Johanna were residents of the city Neustadt, in Neustadt County, in 1900. The city of Neustadt (now named Prudnick, Poland) is 30 miles northwest of Kranowitz. Franz Cziesla was employed as a Briefträger (post letter carrier) at Neustadt. Antonie Cziesla was employed as a Bedienungsmädchen (waitress) in Breslau.

The information from the 1900 marriage record is the same as the data from the Ortsfamilienbuch Kranowitz, which was based on church and civil records. The only difference is the spelling of the Cziesla surname. Tesla was probably the German spelling of Cziesla. The Ortsfamilienbuch Kranowitz shows that Antonie Tesla was born on the 16th of August in 1860 at Kranowitz. She was the daughter of the Briefträger (post letter carrier) Franz Tesla from Neustadt and Johanna (née Stirnisko) Tesla. See the Family of Mathias Stirnisko, 1833 to 1904 Kranowitz.

Marriage of Antonie Cziesla, 1900 Breslau

Antonie Cziesla married the Dienstmann (servant) Karl Gottlieb August Rebohle in Breslau on the 3rd of April in 1900. The marriage record shows that Antonie was a Catholic and the groom was a Protestant. Karl Rebohle was born on the 27th of December in 1854 at Saprashine in Trebnitz County. Karl and Antonie lived at Schießwerderstraße 58 (about 9 blocks northwest of the University Bridge, now Kurkowa Street). Karl was the son of the Saprashine Freistellenbesitzer (free owner of property) August Rebohle and his wife Friedricke Berta (née Arlt) Rebohle, who were both deceased at the time of the wedding.

Birth and Marriage of Anton Stirnisko 1861 Strandorf, 1885 Lipine, Strandorf and Beuthen

Anton Stirnisko was born on the 15th of March in 1861 at Strandorf. He was the son of the Häusler (agricultural day laborer) Johann Stirnisko and his wife Franciska (née Bunczek) Stirnisko. See the Family of Johann Stirnisko, 1855 to 1880 Strandorf and Kranowitz.

In 1885, the Blenderöster Anton Stirnisko was living at Lipine (in Beuthen County). His parents were still living at Strandorf. Anton Stirnisko married Pauline Zydek at Beuthen on the 28th of September in 1885. They were both Catholics. Pauline was born on the 3rd of February in 1859 at Kuznia (also known as Trebitschin, now known as Trzebiczyn). She was living at Beuthen before the wedding. Pauline was the daughter of the Arbeiter (laborer) Josef Zydek and his wife Caroline (née Faber) Zydek. Josef Zydek died at Biskupitz (now known as Biskupice) before the wedding. Caroline Zydek was living at Poremba (now Poręba) at the time of the wedding. This information was recorded on the civil marriage record for Anton Stirnisko.

The church marriage record listed the date of their marriage as the 29th of September in 1885. It listed the groom as Anton Sternisko, the son of the Häusler Johann Sternisko. The wedding witnesses were Carl Karuga and Johann Lewig.

Anton Stirnisko was a Blenderöster, a laborer who attended the Röstöfen (furnaces) at a Zinkhütte (zinc works) to process the ore and produce the zinc metal. The two witnesses at his wedding were both miners. The Bergmann (miner) Carl Karuga was 28 years old. The Bergmann (miner) Jakob Sopot was 33 years old.

Lipine is about one mile north of the city of Schwientochlowitz, and three miles south of the city of Beuthen. Lipine is now Lipiny, Poland. The city of Schwientochlowitz is now Świętochłowice, Poland. Beuthen is now Bytom, Poland.

Schlesischen Forst-Vereins: Sternitzky 1849 and 1850 Neisse, 1850 Gleiwitz

The 1849 membership list of the Schlesischen Forst-Vereins (Silesian Association of Foresters) listed a retired Königliche Forst-Inspector (royal forest inspector) Sternitzky and a Feldmesser (field surveyor) Sternitzky living at Neisse. Prior to that time, they lived at Chrzelitz in Neustadt County. The Forst-Inspector Sternitzky is quoted in the text. On page 23 he mentioned that he had previously administered the Revier (forest preserve) at Katholisch-Hammer in Trebnitz County.

The 1850 membership list of the Schlesischen Forst-Vereins (Silesian Association of Foresters) listed a retired Königliche Forst-Inspector Sternitzky still living at Neisse. The Feldmesser (field surveyor) Sternitzky was living at Gleiwitz in 1850. See the 1851 membership list below.

Hermann Sternitzke and Emma Sternitzke 1905 to 1936 Gleiwitz

Hermann Sternitzke (c.1870-after 1936) was born around 1870 at Pawellau in Trebnitz County, the son of the Schmiedemeister (master blacksmith) Friedrich Sternitzke (c.1824-after 1870) and Otilie (née Hager) Sternitzke. Hermann's wife was identified as Emma in Sternitzke family letters dated June 1925 and 28 November 1930. See Book II, Records of Sternitzke Family Events at Pawellau: Friedrich Sternitzke Family from Pawellau, Trebnitz County, 1854 to 1945 Pawellau.

Gleiwitz address books show the Schmied (blacksmith) Hermann Sternitzke was living at Bergwerkstraße 22 (now Chorzowska Street, Gliwice, Poland) in 1905 and 1907. The 1912 and 1913 Gleiwitz address books listed him at the same address, but named him as the Schmied Hermann Starnitzki. The 1914 and the 1928/29 address books listed him as the Schmied Hermann Sternitzke, but showed that he had moved to Franzstraße 8 (now Krzywa Street).

The 1936 Gleiwitz address book shows that Hermann Sternitzke had moved from Franzstraße 8 to Franzstraße 7b, and that he was retired. He was listed as a Rentenempfänger (Rentenempfänger, a pensioner). The 1936 book also listed the Schneiderin (seamstress) Irma Sternitzke as living at Franzstraße 7b. Irma may have been a daughter of Hermann and Emma Sternitzke. See below: the Birth and Baptism of Irma Sternitzki, 1913 and 1935 Gleiwitz.

Birth and Baptism of Irma Sternitzki 1913 and 1935 Gleiwitz

The baptism book for the St. Bartholomew Catholic church at Gleiwitz for May 1904 to June 1915 included a curious note at the bottom of page 633 of 829. It shows that Irma Sternitzki was born on the 20th of January in 1913, and she was baptized at that church on the 14th of June in 1935. She was 22 years and 4 months old when she was baptized. Her parents were not identified in the record. Another note was added after her name, which referenced baptism number 280 in the 1935 baptism record book.

Irma Sternitzki may have been the Schneiderin (seamstress) Irma Sternitzke who lived with Hermann and Emma Sternitzke at Franzstraße 7b in 1936. Irma may have been a daughter of Hermann and Emma Sternitzke. Marriage and Death of Hermann Karl Starniske 1937 & 1942 Cities of Gleiwitz and Breslau

The Gefreiter (lance corporal) and Hüttenarbeiter (worker at an iron and steel works) Hermann Karl Starniske (1907-1942) died at the Breslau Reserve-Lazarett IV on the 30th of April in 1942. This was one of fifteen military hospitals at Breslau. His home was listed on his death record as Roonstrasse 12 in Gleiwitz, where he had lived with his wife Rosa (née Ruszetzky) Starniske.

Hermann Karl Starniske was a Catholic. He was born on the 18th of March in 1907 at Kattowitz in Kattowitz County. The death record shows his birth record was number 302 in 1907 at the Kattowitz Standesamt (registry office). He was the son of Speditieur (freight shipper) Wilhelm Starniske and Julie (née Gawenda) Starniske who both lived at Roonstrasse 18 in Gleiwitz in 1942. The death record also shows that Hermann Karl Starniske and his wife Rosa (née Ruszetzky) Starniske were married at Gleiwitz on the 18th of September in 1937. Their marriage was recorded at the Gleiwitz Standesamt I (record number 596 in 1937).

Part 2: Military Service and Sternitzke Family Migrations from Silesia

The Sternitzke family histories presented in Books 1 & 2, and so far in Book 3 have been primarily concerned with the family histories in Silesia prior to 1945. The chapters in this section include the members of the family who served in the military, or migrated from Silesia prior to 1945. The focus was not on their histories after leaving Silesia, but on using military and migration records to identify lost data regarding their Silesian history prior to service or migration. My goal was to use this information to link Sternitzke family groups found outside Silesia, back to their origins in Trebnitz County.

The military service histories are significant in our family history for many reasons, but the two details in their histories that are important from a genealogist's point of view are: the identification of the birthplaces of the individuals, and the locations of their military service. The birthplace and estimated birthdate can be used to link the serviceman to his parents. The locations of service can be used to identify links to family members who later appeared at those locations. Military service provided a means for a young man to travel far from his farming community and sometimes (just like in today's society) the young men sometimes married and started a family far from their birthplaces. It is no coincidence that later branches of the Sternitzke family appeared near military bases in other parts of Germany (such as Brandenburg, Bavaria and Saxony).

Chapter 15

Military Men of the Sternitzke Family

Most of the church and civil records for the Sternitzke family in Silesia were lost due to the many wars fought in Silesia in the 500 years since the earliest known members of the family were living in Silesia. The family history that survived until the 20th century and collected by Wilhelm Starnitzki was partially destroyed by the bombing of Heilbronn on the 4th of December of 1944. The church and civil records for our family at Trebnitz Country were less fortunate.

A few records of military service have survived for the Sternitzke family, documenting the role of the family in great and terrible events. The surviving records of military service are a poor compensation for the great loss of life (both military and civilian) due to the frequent wars in Europe. There is a huge amount of information regarding the wars and battles associated with the following military records, making it easy to get side tracked, but I have limited myself to only brief descriptions of the history that took place around our family members, and have purposely avoided the politics associated with the wars – concentrating only on the genealogical perspective.

The last names of the individuals discussed below are known variations of the Sternitzke family name, or in a few cases the last names are those that are for possible branches of the family (as is discussed in a later chapter). The relationships of some of these men to the Sternitzke family of Trebnitz County are known, while the relationships of some of others are only very likely and will probably never be proven because of the loss of church books and civil records. It is possible that these individuals will someday be traced to the Sternitzke family of Trebnitz County. The tables listing the fatalities associated with the First and Second World Wars include some German soldiers who were not born in Silesia, but they were included in this chapter because their families' roots were probably in Silesia.

The Polish-Lithuanian-Teutonic War (1409 to 1411)

The Polish-Lithuanian-Teutonic War (1409 to 1411) took place during the period when Silesia was under Bohemian rulers. Though the conflicts took place north of Silesia, the Silesian dukes were members of the Order of Teutonic Knights and were required by the Holy Roman Emperor to provide soldiers for the crusade against the pagan Grand Duchy of Lithuania. Poland was an ally to Lithuania in this war.

In 1409, Heinz von Borsnitz and around 40 Silesian mercenary soldiers from the Duchy of Öls were captured by the Polish army, when they tried to defend the castle at Bromberg in Pomerania (now known as Bydgoszcz in northern Poland). The Silesian defenders surrendered after killing more than 200 Poles. The Silesians were allowed to leave the castle with their weapons and belongings, as part of the surrender agreement.

The Battle of Grunwald in 1410 (also known as the First Battle of Tannenberg) was the turning point in the war, and the beginning of the decline of the Teutonic Knights. The Teutonic Knights were defeated – about 8,000 soldiers were killed and about 14,000 were taken prisoner (and later released). It is possible that one or more members of the Sternitzke family took part in that battle because they were subjects of the Principality of Öls. Duke Konrad III of Öls and his 14-years-old son Konrad VII (Konrad the White) fought at the Battle of Tannenberg. Konrad VII the White was taken prisoner by the Poles and later ransomed. Konrad III and his oldest son (Konrad IV) took part in negotiating the Peace Treaty of Thorn in 1411. Konrad III (1354-1412) had five sons named Konrad, who were also Knights of the Teutonic Order:

- Konrad IV (Senior), died in 1447, Duke of Öls and Bernstadt, Prince-Bishop of Breslau,
- Konrad V (Kanther – from the city Kanth), died in 1439, Duke of Öls, Cosel and co-ruler of Beuthen,
- Konrad VI (Deschant – the Deacon), died in 1427, Duke of Öls and Steinau, Deacon of the Breslau St. John the Baptist's Cathedral,
- Konrad VII (der alte Weiße – the Old White), died in 1452, Duke of Öls.
- Konrad VIII (der Junge – the Younger) died in 1447, Duke of Öls, became a Teutonic Knight in 1410. See under the Hussite Wars for more regarding Konrad VIII.

Johannes Voigt wrote a book in 1843 that included the names of officers and soldiers who were known to be members of the Order of Teutonic Knights. It included the royalty, nobility and commoners of Franken, Thuringia, Saxony, Meissen, Lausitz, Silesia, Bavaria, Austria, Moravia and Bohemia. Voigt listed the names of 273 soldiers from Silesia (and many more who could have been from Silesia) who took part in the battle of 1410 Battle of Tannenberg, including Heinze, Hans and Georg von Stosch. Although members of the Sternitzke family were not mentioned in Voigt's book, they were probably also called to service in that war as subjects of the duke of Öls.

One of the Silesian soldiers who took part in that battle was Hannus Czartowicz, from the family that owned the village later named Tschertwitz near Öls (see Chapter 23, Sternitzke Family Origin and the Colonization of Silesia). The book by Peter Pfothhauer identified soldiers who were vassals of the Silesian dukes Konrad of Oels and Heinrich VII of Glogau. No Sternitzke name variations were found in that book.

The Hussite Wars (1419 to 1434)

The Hussite Wars started in Bohemia and spread north to Saxony, Upper and Lower Lusatia (Lausitz) and Silesia. The Hussites invaded Silesia in 1428 and captured Brieg, Glogau, Steinau and Neumarkt. They attacked Breslau several times and destroyed churches and suburbs outside the city walls. The Hussites destroyed churches, monasteries, houses and whole villages from Bohemia to the Baltic Sea. They even looted and burned the convent at Trebnitz in 1432. The Duke of Ratibor battled the Hussites near Trebnitz in 1433.

Pastor Conrad documented the terrible effects of the Hussite War on the cities, villages and churches of Trebnitz County. A translation of his account of that war is documented in Book II, Chapter 2 of this family history. Church and civil records for our family were probably destroyed at many churches, but certainly at Trebnitz, Pawellau, Militsch and Öls.

During the Hussite Wars, Duke Konrad VIII (der Junge – the Younger) of Öls served as a Pfleger (administrator) of the Order of Teutonic Knights in East Prussia – at Gerdaunen from 1425 to 1429, and at Lochstädt from 1430 to 1433. Konrad VIII helped his brother Konrad VII escape from the Hussites at Gleiwitz (Silesia) in 1431, and became the provincial administrator for the Order of Teutonic Knights in Bohemia and Moravia in 1443. The warfare did not end in 1434. Silesia was invaded again by Bohemia and Poland in 1459, and Breslau was besieged in 1474. More than 300 villages were destroyed near Breslau.

The death and destruction were so severe in Silesia during the 15th century that agriculture and the economy was in ruins. Silesian villages and farms had been destroyed or abandoned. Farmland became cheap because of a shortage of farmers. Church institutions and communities failed due to their inability to collect taxes. The solution to the problem was a return to the policies that had been used during the initial settlement of Silesia by the Germans. The Duchy of Breslau hired a Lokator in 1502 to find new settlers (the first Lokator to be hired since 1390s). In 1504, the new settlers were granted land with periods of time free from obligations (services and taxes). The readily available farmland resulted in larger farms (per farmer) than what existed prior to the Hussite Wars. This 16th century settlement of Silesia may be the period of when the Sternitzke family settled in Trebnitz county, and that would explain why the earliest records of our family at Lucine and Zantkau date from that period.

The destruction of many churches and villages in Saxony and Lausitz, and the financial reconstruction program in Silesia, may have been the events that initiated the migration of the Sternitzke family to Trebnitz county. But, because the civil and church records were destroyed in these regions during the Hussite Wars and later wars, we may never find proof of when our family settled near Trebnitz, or where they migrated from.

The Long War of the Ottoman Wars (1591 to 1606)

Wilhelm Starnitzki found a 1594 decree issued during the reign of Emperor Rudolf II, in which a military muster of all subjects of the princes and their estates who were fit for military service throughout the Holy Roman Empire. This military muster was in response to the ongoing border conflict between the Habsburg monarchy and the Ottoman Empire. The name of each citizen who must serve (if called) was specifically mentioned. The citizen could however send another person in his place. With each name, the required personal equipment of the man was indicated, which he had to bring along; usually a “musket and side arm” or “pike and sidearm”. Two members of the Starnitzke family were recorded in the 15 squads of the Volkswehr (a civilian militia) for the city of Trebnitz and the surrounding communities:

- Blasien Czirnisko the Gerichtsscholz (court appointed mayor) of Domnowitz, and his brother
- Paul Zirnisko the Erbscholz (hereditary mayor) of Zantkau.

Paul Zirnisko was also recorded (as Paul Zernizky of Zantkau) in a military muster completed in 1608. The Long War was just one of many Ottoman-Habsburg wars that took place from 1526 to 1791.

The Thirty Years' War (1618 to 1648)

The Thirty Years' War occurred during the period when Silesia was under Austrian rule. Wilhelm Starnitzki (Book I, Chapter 2) and Pastor Conrad (Book II, Chapter 3) addressed the loss of church records due to the transfer of the Silesian churches from the Protestants to the Catholics. This occurred after the Peace of Westphalia that settled the Thirty Years War. Those lost records certainly included information regarding the Sternitzke family in Silesia.

Johannes Voigt's book included the names of officers and soldiers who were known to be members of the Order of Teutonic Knights who fought during the Thirty Years' War. It included the 136 individuals known to be Silesians. No members of the Sternitzke family were identified in that list, but the list included familiar family names, such as: Roder, Tschammer and Senitz. The Hans Tschammer listed as a soldier who fought in the Thirty Year's War may have been the same Hans Tschammer who appeared before Blasien Czirniszko at Domnowitz in 1594 (see Book I, Chapter 9, Germanengrund – Domnowitz).

The Silesian Wars (1740 to 1763)

Silesia passed from Bohemian rule to Austrian rule in 1526. The Sternitzke family members then became subjects of the Austrian crown. The First Silesian War (from 1740 to 1742) resulted in Prussia taking Silesia (and its subjects including the Sternitzke family) away from Austria. The Second Silesia War (1744 to 1745) and the Seven Years War (also called the Third Silesian War) were Austria's unsuccessful attempts to reclaim Silesia from Prussia. The Seven Years War lasted in Europe from 1756 to 1763, during which Prussia and Britain fought against Austria, Saxony, Sweden, Russia and France.

The Sternitzke family was directly in the center of those conflicts between Austria and Prussia. Some family members had moved from the farming villages north of Breslau to the Silesian capital before the Silesian Wars. Jakob Starnitzki was a baker living in Breslau in 1695. Anna Regina Sternitzke was married to Gottfried Hantke, a Musketeer in the Green Company at Breslau in 1698. In 1701, Andreas Starnitzki was an organist at the garrison church of St. Elizabeth in Breslau. Johann Christian Starnitzki was a student in Breslau in 1702 and 1710. At least one member of the Starnitzki family served in the Austrian army during the Silesian Wars. Georg Sternitzky served in the Austrian Army from 1741 until his death in 1757, so he served during all three Silesian wars.

The Peace Treaty of Breslau in 1742 ended the First Silesian War. The Austrians recaptured Breslau in 1757. Later in 1757, Breslau was again under control of the Prussians after Frederick the Great defeated the Austrians at the Battle of Leuthen (west of Breslau). The Austrians surrendered Breslau after five days of bombardment by the Prussian king. The Austrian and Russian armies returned in 1760 and recaptured Breslau, but before the end of the year it again was retaken by Prussia after the Battle of Liegnitz.

The Sternitzke family members in the villages of Trebnitz County also experienced the Silesian Wars first hand. In November of 1759, the Prussian Major General Schmettau was camped at Gross Ujeschütz. In August of 1760, the Russian army (marching from Posen to Breslau) camped north of Trebnitz near Gross Ujeschütz, on the road from Militsch. The Russian army plundered Trebnitz, Gross Ujeschütz, Stropfen and Pawellau in August of 1760 according to an eyewitness account published by Dr. Colmar Grünhagen. After the Silesian Wars, Frederick the Great financed the rebuilding of 8000 homes in Silesia that had been burned down by the Russians during the wars.

Hauptmann Georg Sternitzky Imperial and Royal Austrian Army (1741 to 1757)

Georg Sternitzky (c.1720-1757) served in the Imperial Austrian Army as a Hauptmann (Captain) in the 19th Line Infantry Regiment. He began as a Lieutenant in the officer corps in 1741. In 1751, Captain Sternitzky became the commander of the 2nd Grenadier Company, and by 1756 he had become the commander of the 1st Grenadier Company. During the years he served with the regiment, they saw military action in the following battles: 1741 at Losenstein; 1742 at Linz, Caslau and Prague; 1743 at Ingolstadt; 1745 at Bassignana; 1746 at Rottofreddo, Var-Flusses and Genua; 1747 at Castellane and Campiano; 1748 at Brugnato; 1757 at Reichenberg, Münchengrätz and at Prague.

Captain Georg Sternitzky (c.1720-1757) was killed at the Battle of Moys, southeast of Görlitz, where the Austrians defeated the Prussians on the 7th of September in 1757. The Austrians were led by General von Nádasdy. The Prussians were led by General von Winterfelt, who was killed in the battle. The Prussians retreated to Breslau, pursued by the Austrians. Breslau was then retaken by the Austrians. It is interesting to note that the garrison at Breslau, which was mostly manned by Silesians, deserted the Prussians and welcomed the Austrian's return to Breslau.

Hauptmann George Sternitzky was probably the Georg Sternitzky (SN140) who was a farmer and Gerichtsmann (a member of the local court) at Schickwitz in Trebnitz County, around 1757. See Book III: Chapter 2, Village of Schickwitz in Trebnitz County.

Friedrich Sternitzke (c.1772-after 1792) was a Musquetier (infantryman) from Breslau. Prämierlieutenant von Zernitzky
Royal Prussian Army (1796-1815)

Lieutenant von Zernitzky was one of 216 members of the Prussian Army who received the following award in 1796:

Ritter des Ordens der heiligen Anna, Dritten Klasse
 (Knight of the Order of St. Anna, Third Class).

The Order of St. Anne was originally an award from Schleswig-Holstein. It became a Russian award in 1742 when the prince of Schleswig-Holstein became the Russian Czar Peter III. Membership of the Order was awarded for a distinguished career in civil service or for valor and distinguished service in the military. The award came in four classes. The top three of the four classes could be awarded with swords for gallantry in wartime action or military merit. The Order of Saint Anne entitled first class recipients to hereditary nobility while the recipients of the second, third and fourth classes received personal nobility (which explains the von Zernitzky title). In 1796, Lieutenant von Zernitzky may have been in one of the Silesian, West Prussian or East Prussian regiments.

The Prussian army was reorganized from 1808 to 1813 under terms of the Treaty of Paris. In June and August of 1813, Second Lieutenant von Zernitzky was listed as member of the 2nd Battalion of the Infantry Regiment Graf Barfus (4th Westfälischen) Number 17. The regiment was founded in 1813, but was named for the General Field Marshall Graf Johann Albrecht von Barfus in 1889.

Second Lieutenant von Zernitzky was wounded at the Battle of Dennewitz (on the 6th of September 1813) where the Prussians defeated the French. He was awarded the Prussian Iron Cross (Eisernes Kreuz) Second Class and promoted to Prämierlieutenant (1st Lieutenant) in 1815. His name was written as von Zernitzki in the 1817 book listing his promotion and award.

Musquetier Ferdinand Starnitzky
Royal Prussian Army (1802)

Ferdinand Starnitzky (c.1762-1802) was a Musquetier (Infantryman) in the Infantry Regiment Number 35 at the Prussian Army garrison at Küstin (also known as Cüstrin) in Königsberg County of Brandenburg. He served in the 3rd Battalion, in the company commanded by the Hauptmann (captain) von Sawitzky. The regiment was formed in 1740 by Prince Friedrich Heinrich Ludwig of Prussia. He commanded that regiment until his death on the 3rd of August in 1802. The regiment was disbanded after the 1806 capitulations of Erfurt, Magdeburg and Küstrin to the French. Küstrin is now named Kostrzyn nad Odrą, Poland.

Ferdinand Starnitzky (c.1762-1802) died on the 12th of October in 1802 at Küstrin. He was 40 years old, so he was born around 1762. The cause of his death was listed as Schlagfluß (a stroke).

The Napoleonic Wars (1803 to 1815)

The Napoleonic Wars were a continuation of the European conflicts that began after the French Revolution in 1789. The 3rd Regiment of the Prussian Hussars (1740-1806) had cavalry depots near the Sternitzke family, at Trebnitz, Öls and Juliusburg. The 1st Regiment of the Prussian Cuirassiers had a cavalry depot at Breslau. The French began a siege of Breslau in December of 1806, and captured the city in January of 1807.

In 1813, the Prussian King Friedrich Wilhelm III spoke at Breslau, calling for the forming of a militia (Landwehr) throughout Prussia. The Landwehr (army reserve or militia) was introduced in Austria in 1809, followed by Prussia in 1813. Under the Prussian law for military conscription, regular army troops served for three years, followed by two years in the reserves. The obligation to serve in the military began when a man reached his twentieth birthday. Militiamen in the Landwehr served a few weeks each year for seven years, followed by reserve status in the local militia (the Landsturm) until the age of 39.

Breslau became the center of support for the War of the Sixth Coalition (also called the War of Liberation) in 1812 to 1814, that drove the French from Germany. King Friedrich

Wilhelm III introduced the Order of the Prussian Iron Cross at Breslau in 1813. The Prussian army under the command of the Silesian Field Marshal Gebhard von Blücher played a vital role in Wellington's defeat of Napoleon in 1815 at the Battle of Waterloo.

Musquetier Joseph Sternizke Royal Prussian Army (1813)

A public notice regarding Joseph Sternizke was published in the Schlesische Privilegierte Zeitung on the 28th of October in 1816 by the Praisnitz Gerichts-Amt (Court Office) official named Gottschling. This public notice described the military history of Joseph Sternizke, a native of Koschnewe in Trebnitz County. Joseph had been inducted into the 2nd West Prussian Infantry Regiment in 1813, and assigned to the 11th Company. Musquetier (Infantryman) Joseph Sternizke marched into the field on the 5th of September 1813 in the affair near Hellendorf in Bohemia, where he was wounded and was missing from his regiment since that time. The notice by the court at Praisnitz informed the public that Joseph would be declared legally dead if nothing was reported to the Koschnewe judicial office by the 3rd of February in 1817. This legal action was being taken at the request of the siblings of Joseph Sternizke.

The village Koschnewe named in the public notice was certainly the village shown as Koschnöwe on the 1889 map below. The map shows the village was about half-way between Praisnitz and Trebnitz, southwest of Schimmerau and Pawellau. Other names for Koschnöwe include Koscheneve and Kosnaw. The village was renamed as Ziegenfeld in 1936. It is now named Kosinowo.

The village Hellendorf is now part of the Bad Gottleuba-Berggießhübel municipality in the Free State of Saxony. It is in the Saxon Switzerland District on the border with the Czech Republic. The “affair at Hellendorf” mentioned in the public notice was one of many battles in 1813, but directly connected with the joint Prussian-Austrian-Russian attempt to retake Dresden after losing it to Napoleon in August of 1813.

Artillerist Christian Sternisky
Royal Prussian Artillery (1813)

A public notice was printed in a Silesian newspaper in 1819, listing deaths of missing military servicemen. Christian Sternisky from Polnisch Hammer was officially declared dead by the Court at Trebnitz (on the 10th of November in 1818) as having died in the autumn of 1813. He died in a hospital at Weimar after suffering from nervenkrank (mental illness) following the siege of Erfurth (Erfurt in Thuringia). Christian had served as an Artillerist (a Gunner) in the 6-pounder Foot-Artillery Battery Number 11 of the 4th Prussian Army Corps.

Gottfried Sternitzke (1785-1847) Royal Prussian Army (1813 to 1815)

Gottfried Sternitzke (1785-1847) was a resident of Ober-Obernigk in Trebnitz County, when he died on the 31st of October in 1847. He was buried at the Protestant Church at Obernigk on the 3rd of November in 1847. He died at the age of 62 years old, making his calculated year of birth 1785. He was the son of a Dreschgärtner from Schön-Ellguth in Trebnitz County. A Dreschgärtner (threshing farmer) was a farmer who owed annual threshing and flax processing services for the fields owned by the village landlord. His parents may have been the Schön-Ellguth Dreschgärtner Christian Sternitzke and Anna Rosina (née Baumgarth) Sternitzke.

Gottfried Sternitzke served in the military from 1813 to 1815 (a period that included the War of the Sixth Coalition from 1812 to 1814, and the Battle of Waterloo in 1815) and he received multiple wounds. He was mustered out of service and received thereafter monthly disability payments of one Thaler per month.

Gottfried Sternitzke married Elisabeth Koritsch at Glatz in 1819. They had three sons who were still living in 1847. Elisabeth died in 1836. Gottfried remarried shortly after his wife's death. Gottfried married the widow Anna Rosina née Härtel, a daughter of the deceased Großknechts (foreman) Härtel in Nieder-Obernigk. They had a daughter who was seven years old and still living in 1847.

Gottfried Sternitzke worked for twenty years (1827 to 1847) as a Kutscher (coachman) for the noble family Böhmer at Groß Muritsch (now Morzęcin Wielki) in Trebnitz County. He moved from Groß Muritsch to Ober-Obernigk around the first of October in 1847, probably due to the illness he had suffered for about half a year. After 14 days in bed, he died on the 31st of October in 1847, at 2 O'clock in the morning, at the age of around 62 years. The burial record listed his cause of death as Abzehrung which translates to emaciation, but in English was called consumption. Consumption was a general term for diseases resulting in weight loss and loss of strength, included diseases such as tuberculosis, diabetes, cancer, nutritional disorders.

Heinrich Zernitzky, Royal Prussian Army Beeskow, Brandenburg (1822)

On the 17th of January in 1822, Heinrich Zernitzky married Johanne Charlotte Krueger according to the military records at the city Frankfurt an der Oder in Brandenburg, Prussia. The marriage took place at the 3rd Military Regiment at Beeskow, Brandenburg.

Family Events Associated With Heinrich Zernitzky

The daughter of Heinrich and Johanne Zernitzky, Dorothea Wilhelmine Zernitzky was baptized on the 3rd of February in 1822, at the 3rd Military Regiment and Leibhusaren, Furstenwalde West, Brandenburg. Their son, Karl Heinrich Julius Zernitzky was born in 1826.

Karl Heinrich Julius Zernitzky married Anna Sophie Grundemann on the 2nd of June in 1853 at Friedland, Brandenburg, Prussia. Karl was born in 1826, the son of Heinrich Zernitzky. Anna was born in 1829, the daughter of Martin Grundemann. Their religion was listed as Evangelische (Protestant) in 1866 and 1868 (below).

Anna Alwine Bertha Zernitzky was born on the 3rd of September in 1861 at Wilhelmsaue (Standesamt Letschin, Lebus County), Brandenburg. Her parents were Julius Zernitzky and Sophie Grundemann (probably Karl and Anna Zernitzky who were married in 1853).

Minna Alwine Emilie Zernitzky was born at Wilhelmsaue (Letschin, Lebus), Brandenburg, on the 10th of November in 1866. Her religion was listed as Evangelische, and her parents were Julius Zernitzky and Sophie Grundemann.

Ernst August Gustav Zernitzky was born on the 10th of November in 1858, at Wilhelmsaue (Letschin, Lebus), Brandenburg. His religion was listed as Evangelische, and his parents were Julius Zernitzky and Sophie Grundemann.

An infant, Rudolf Carl Zernitzky died on the 5th of December in 1870, in Berlin, Brandenburg, Prussia. His father's name was listed as Carl Zernitzky (probably the Karl Heinrich Julius Zernitzky listed above).

Martha Alwine Louise Zernitzky was born on the 2nd of May in 1871, at Wilhelmsaue (Letschin, Lebus), Brandenburg. Her religion was listed as Evangelische, and her parents were Julius Zernitzky and Sophie Grundemann.

Friedrich Sternitzke Royal Prussian Army (around 1826)

Friedrich Sternitzke (1806-1901) was born on the 26th of October in 1806 at Klein Ujeschütz in Trebnitz County. He served in the Royal Prussian Army around 1826 and was deployed to Poland. He married Helena Dietz in 1831. In 1840, Friedrich and his family (wife Helena, sons Karl, Gottlieb and Wilhelm, and daughter Susanna) emigrated to the United States of America. The family name became Sternitzky after they settled in Wisconsin. Friedrich's son, Corporal Wilhelm Sternitzky served in the Union Army during the U.S. Civil War. Details regarding their lives are documented in the end of chapter notes in Book 1: Chapter 10, Gross Ujeschütz and Klein Ujeschütz: Friedrich Karl Sternitzke (1806-1901) Emigration from Klein Ujeschütz, Trebnitz County, Silesia To Lynn Township, Clark County, Wisconsin in 1840.

The First Schleswig War (1848 to 1851)

The Battle of Schleswig was the second battle of the war between the Kingdom of Denmark and the Duchies of Schleswig and Holstein. Prussia supported the duchies in their intent to secede from Denmark and join the German Federation. The Battle of Schleswig on the 23rd of April in 1848 was the second battle of the war.

Füsilier Johann Sternitzki Royal Prussian Army (1848)

On the 23rd of April in 1848, the Prussian Füsilier Battalion (of the 3rd Brandenburg Infanterie-Regiment Nr. 20) fought near the Husbygaard Forest (on the western side of the city Schleswig). Twelve soldiers of the battalion were killed during the battle, and six more died later from their wounds. Among those who were severely wounded was the Fusilier Johann Sternitzki from Company 12, who was shot in the left foot, which was then amputated. A Fusilier was a light infantryman with musket.

Johann Sternitzki was from the village Hammer (in Niederbarnim County, Brandenburg Province, Prussia). Hammer is a village built on the abandoned village known around 1400 as Schepforde. Hammer had 803 inhabitants in 1939. The church records for Hammer are at the Catholic Church at Liebenwalde (also in Niederbarnim County).

Oberstlieutenant* Tschernitzky London (1852)

Oberstlieutenant (lieutenant colonel) Tschernitzky rode in the funeral procession for the Duke of Wellington in London, England on 18 November 1852. An English periodical that described the funeral procession listed him with a slightly different spelling: Tchernitzky (see below). A New York Times article (also below) only listed him as an unidentified colonel accompanying the Russian delegation to the funeral.

It is interesting to note that Oberstlieutenant Tschernitzky was a member of the Russian delegation, and seated in the coach with the Russians: General Prince Dimitrikvich Gortschakoff and Major General Count Benkendorf. The Gortschakoff family was a noble Russian family. The Benckendorff (Benkendorf) family was a Baltic German family in Estonia, with family roots in Saxony-Anhalt. Members from the Gortschakoff and Benkendorf families fought in the Russian army against the French during the Napoleonic Wars. The article from the New York Times regarding this event identified Major-General Count Benkendorf as the Imperial Military Commissioner at Vienna, Austria.

See the discussions below regarding General-Major von Tschernitzky (1871-1877) and Cape Tschernitzky (1874). There is circumstantial evidence indicating these discussions all concern the same individual named Tschernitzky, an officer in the Imperial Russian Army.

The Prussian General Karl von der Gröben probably crossed paths with Oberstlieutenant Tschernitzky, and may explain the relationship between the Prussian and Russian soldiers. General von der Gröben was born in East Prussia and joined the Prussian Army in 1806 to fight against Napoleon. In 1812, he joined the Russian Imperial Army to continue the fight against France. When Prussia returned to fight against France in 1813, General von der Gröben returned to the Prussian Army, and fought at the Battles of Dresden, Kulm, Luxembourg, Ligny and Waterloo. He later became the Chief of Staff in Breslau.

The Prussian delegation followed in the next coach: General Count von Nostitz, General von Scharnhorst and Lieutenant General von Massow. Count Nostitz was from a Silesian noble family. He served in the Cuirassier Division of the Austrian Army during the Napoleonic Wars. The Prussians, Russians and Austrians were allies with the English against Napoleon. Both coaches seemed to be a collection of soldiers from Prussia, Russia and Austria.

General Nostitz and General Gortschakoff were allies at the Battle of Dresden on 26-27 August in 1813, along with the famous Count Radetzky von Radetz (Chief of Staff of the Austrian Army). Nostitz served under the Austrian commander, Field Marshal Schwarzenberg. Gortschakoff commanded the Russian 1st Army Corps, under the Russian commander General Petr Wittgenstein. Tschernitzky may have served in the Prussian 2nd Army Corps under the Prussian Count Friedrich Kleist, who was (like Gortschakoff) also under the Russian commander General Petr Wittgenstein at the Battle of Dresden. Another indication of the close relationship between these allies was shown by the title of Russian Field Marshal that was bestowed on both Arthur Wellesley (the English Duke of Wellington) and the Austrian Josef Count Radetzky von Radetz.

Dispatches had been received from St. Petersburg, announcing that the Emperor had selected to attend the funeral of the late Duke of WELLINGTON three officers of most distinguished service and high rank, namely, General of Infantry Prince GORTZAKOW; Major-General Count BENKENDORF, Imperial Military Commissioner at Vienna; and a Colonel. It is most probable that the Russian delegates will join their excellencies Generals von NOSTITZ, SCHARNHORST and MASSOW at Vienna, for the purpose of proceeding together to London next week.

Prussian Landwehrordnung of 1860

In 1860, the Landwehr of the Royal Prussian Army was restructured under the Landwehrordnung. Reservists of ages of 25 to 32 were assigned to squads called the Erste Aufgebot (first squad). Reservists of ages 33 to 39 were assigned to the Zweite Aufgebot (second squad). The Landwehr was abolished by the Treaty of Versailles after the First World War.

Second Lieutenant Sternitzke Royal Prussian Army (1861)

The Militär-Wochenblatt (an independent weekly newsletter of the German Army) reported the following Landwehr (Reserve Militia) transfer for Second Lieutenant Sternitzke on the 14th of October in 1861: from the 1st Aufgebot (see above discussion regarding the 1860 Landwehrordnung) of the 3rd Battalion of the 1st Posensches Regiment Nr. 18, to the 2nd Battalion of the 2nd Posensches Regiment Number 19. See below for his transfers in 1863.

The formal names for these regiments were:

- the Infantry Regiment von Grolman (1st Posen) Number 18 (1813), named for the Prussian General Karl Wilhelm Georg von Grolman (1777-1843), and
- the Infantry Regiment von Courbière (2nd Posen) Number 19 (1813), probably named for the Prussian Military Governor (of West Prussia from 1807 to 1809) Field Marshal Wilhelm René de l'Homme de Courbière (1733-1811).

Haupt-Steuer-Amt-Assistent Ernst Sternitzke Second Lieutenant Sternitzke Royal Prussian Army (1863-26 April 1864) and the Second Schleswig War

The Militär-Wochenblatt (an independent weekly newsletter of the Royal Prussian Army) reported the following Landwehr transfers for Second Lieutenant Sternitzke. On the 15th of September in 1863, Second Lieutenant Sternitzke was transferred from the 1st Aufgebot (squad) of the 2nd Battalion (Schrimmn) of the 2nd Posensches Regiment Number 19, to the 2nd Battalion (Bromberg) of the 3rd Pommersches Regiment Number 14.

The formal names for these regiments were:

- the Infantry Regiment von Courbière (2nd Posen) Number 19 (1813), probably named for Prussian Military Governor (of West Prussia from 1807 to 1809) Field Marshal Wilhelm René de l'Homme de Courbière (1733-1811), and
- the Infantry Regiment Graf Schwerin (3rd Pomerania) Number 14 (1813), named after the Prussian General Field Marshal Kurt Christoph Count von Schwerin (1684-1757).

The Militär-Wochenblatt (Number 47 from 1863) reported that on the 13th of November of 1863, Second Lieutenant Sternitzke was transferred from the 1st Aufgebot of the 2nd Battalion (Bromberg) of the 3rd Pommersches Regiment Number 14.

The Haupt-Steuer-Amt-I (main tax office assistant) Sternitzke from the provincial tax administration at Bromberg (in Posen) transferred to Breslau where he worked in the same capacity. This was reported in the 9th of October 1863 issue of the Amtsblatt der Königlichen Preußischen Regierung zu Bromberg.

The 1864 death record book for the Elftausend Jungfrauen Protestant Church in Breslau included the death and burial record for Ernst Sternitzke. He was listed as the Kgl. Landwehr Lieutenant und Haupt Steuer Amts. I, who had lived at Michaelisstraße 5. He died on the 26th of April in 1864 from Lungenschwindsucht (tuberculosis) at the age of 29 years, 1 month and 4 days. That would make his calculated birth date the 22nd of March in 1835. He was buried on the 30th of April in 1864. Michaelisstraße is now Nowowiejska Street (about 5 blocks north of the Oder River from Sand Island).

The Militär-Wochenblatt (Number 34 from 1864) reported that Second Lieutenant Sternitzke in the 1st Battalion (Breslau) of the 3rd Niederschlesisches (Lower Silesian) Regiment Number 10 (of the 6th Army Corps) died on the 26th of April in 1864. This was during the Second Schleswig War (1 February to 30 October 1864) in which Austria and Prussia were allies against Denmark.

The May 1864 issue of the Schlesische Provinzialblätter reported the death of the Central-Haupt-Steuer-Amt-I Sternitzke at Breslau.

Austro-Prussian War (1866)

The Austro-Prussian War from the 14th of June to the 23rd of August in 1866 was a war to determine the dominant Germanic ruler in Europe following the Napoleonic Wars. The Austrian Empire and its German allies (including the Kingdom of Saxony) fought against the Prussian Kingdom and its German allies. Italy also joined in the war on the Prussian side to settle their territorial claim against Austria. The result was the unification of the northern German states with Prussia as the center of power.

The major battle of the Austro-Prussian War was the Battle of Königgrätz in Bohemia (near the present Czech Republic city named Hradec Králové). It took place about 80 miles southwest of Breslau on the 3rd of July in 1866. Two Sternitzke family members (listed below) served in the Prussian Army and were wounded in other battles of the Austro-Prussian War.

Füsilier Johann Sternitzki

Johann Sternitzki served as a Füsilier (a light infantryman with musket) in the 8th Company of the Gardefüsilierregiment in the Prussian First Army Corps. The Füsilier Johann Sternitzki was severely wounded by shooting and stabbing (but not killed) on the 28th of June in 1866 at the Battle of Neu Rogwitz in northern Bohemia. He was listed as one of those injured, along with Füsiliers Mataufschel, Ernst, Schulze and Berzzowski, in the Official Journal of the Prussian Government shown below. That journal listed the date of injury as the 25th of July in 1866. Page 10 of the Garde-Füsilier-Regiment: Gefecht bei Neu-Rogwitz, den 28. Juli 1866, identified these same Füsiliers mentioned in the Prussian journal, as the members of the Garde-Füsilier-Regiment who were wounded on the 28th of July in 1866.

Füsilier Joh. Sternitzki aus Czernowitz, Kreis Guben. Schwer verwundet. Schuss und Stich.

Johann Sternitzki was from the village Tschernowitz in Guben County, in the Neumark Province of Brandenburg (just north of Silesia). Tschernowitz was also known as Czernowitz (as shown above from the Prussian journal) and Czarnowitz. The village has been known as Schernewitz since 1937. See the below map which shows the location of Guben.

Kürassier Heinrich Sternitzke
Royal Prussian Calvary (1866)

Calvaryman (Kürassier, Curassier) Heinrich Sternitzke was a member of the Silesian Kürassier Regiment Number 1 of the Royal Prussian Calvary. He was mentioned in the regimental history book for his part in the 1866 battle at Biskupitz (in Bohemia near the town Tobitschau; which is now the town called Tovačov in the Czech Republic). The battle took place on the 14th of July in 1866, after the Battle of Königgrätz. It was described as follows:

“During the after-noon of the 14th July there were skirmishes between the opposing cavalry forces North-east of Prossnitz, and in the dusk of the evening the 1st Prussian Cuirassiers attacked two companies of an Austrian regiment about half a mile to the West of Biskupitz. The Austrians encountered on these occasions were troops covering the flank of the columns marching on the road, Olmutz-Dub-Tobitschau.”

Source:

The Austrians had formed themselves into a defensive square (called a carré). With fearlessness the Prussian cavalry squadron broke into the square. The young Lieutenant C. Elzner fell mortally wounded from his horse and died a heroes' death. A bullet had pierced him under his left arm, where his cuirass left him unprotected, and penetrated into the chest. Lieutenant von Watzdorf was wounded by a bayonet stab to his left shoulder and his horse was wounded by several bayonet wounds in the neck. Lieutenant Seherr fell with his horse, after it was also stabbed through the neck. The horse of Lieutenant von Watzdorf was shot from under him, and he himself received a bullet to his cuirass which saved his life. Sergeant Opitz was wounded in his knee and the Cuirassiers Gräupner and Bunke were seriously wounded. Five more men were left dead. But Captain von Prittwitz had received orders to attack the right flank of the enemy. The squadron came on at full speed and would have probably completely ridden over the square, but the 1st Squadron was stopped when they impacted the Austrian's defensive formation. Only the 2nd Squadron was able to break through the carré on the right wing. Lieutenant von Tschammer-Osten most particularly distinguished himself in this case. With one bold leap of his horse, he was across the enemy's bayonets, and pulled a lot of his enemies to the ground. He was followed by the Cuirassier Sternitzke who was severely wounded and dropped to the ground. Lieutenant von Tschammer-Osten lost the forefinger from his right hand in the combat.

The Special Supplement Number 40 to the Official Journal of the Royal Prussian Government in Frankfurt (on the Oder River) listed the casualties as of the 5th of August in 1866 (shown below). It identified Cavalryman Heinrich Sternitzki as being from Striese in Trebnitz County, and listed him as having been shot through the abdomen and died near Biskupitz on the 14th of July in 1866. Although the spelling of his last name was slightly different, this was undoubtedly the same person because other cavalymen (von Elzner, von Watzdorf and von Tschammer-Osten) who were listed in the first source match the names in the second source.

The village Striese in Trebnitz County is now named Strzeszow. Its population was 523 in 1939.

Franco-Prussian War (1870 to 1871)

The Franco-Prussian War (from 19 July 1870 to 10 May 1871) was a war between the Second French Empire (under Napoleon III) and Germany. The Germans, led by the Kingdom of Prussia, included the other members of the North German Confederation (such as the Kingdom of Saxony) and south German states (such as Bavaria). The war resulted in the defeat of the second French Empire and a unification of the German states under Prussia.

The largest battle of the Franco-Prussian War was the Battle of Gravelotte-St. Privat, in the Lorraine region of northeastern France. The combined German forces were led by Field Marshal Count Helmuth von Moltke. The French Army was commanded by Marshal François Achille Bazaine. Over 20,000 German troops were killed, wounded, captured or missing in action from that battle, including one Sternitzky family member listed below. Over 12,000 French soldiers were killed, wounded, captured or missing in action.

Heinrich Wilhelm Sternitzky Royal Saxon Infantry (1870)

Heinrich Wilhelm Sternitzky was a soldier in the 10th Company of the 5th Infantry Regiment of the Royal Saxon Army, serving under the Prussian Field Marshal Count Helmuth von Moltke at the Battle of Gravelotte. A history of the 5th Infantry Regiment listed Heinrich Wilhelm Sternitzky as missing in action after that battle on the 18th of August 1870. The history of the 5th Infantry Regiment identified the home of Heinrich Wilhelm Sternitzky as Bernsbach. Bernsbach is a village in the Erzgebirgskreis district of southern Saxony.

General-Major von Tschernitzky – General-Lieutenant von Tschernitzky, Imperial Russian Army (1871-1877)

The Gothaischer Hofkalender (the court calendar named after its place of publication: Gotha, in the State of Thuringia, Germany) was a series of books recording the genealogies of the noble German families. It also included statistical information, the names of government officials and diplomats of other countries. The equivalent Austrian version was the Genealogisches Taschenbuch der adeligen Häuser Österreichs.

General-Major von Tschernitzky appeared in the 1871 edition of the Gothaischer Hofkalender as attached Für Special-Missionen (for special missions) to the office of the General Commandant of the troops in the Kingdom of Poland Warsaw military district. Von Tschernitzky was promoted sometime after 1871, because in the 1877 edition he was listed as still attached for special missions to the military governor of Poland, but with a higher rank: as General-Lieutenant von Tschernitzky. In the Imperial Russian army (and other armies), the general-lieutenant rank was superior to a general-major.

From 1815 to 1915, the Kingdom of Poland was part of the Russian Empire, with the Emperors of Russia also being the Kings of Poland. During this period, the Polish Army was part of the Russian Army. The Viceroy (Namiestnik) of the Kingdom of Poland was the deputy of the Emperor of Russia. From 1874 to 1914, the viceroy title was replaced by the Governor-General of Warsaw, but remained subservient to the Emperor of Russia.

In 1871, General-Major von Tschernitzky reported to the Field Marshal General-Adjutant, Count Friedrich Wilhelm Rembert von Berg, who was listed as the General Commandant of the Troops and Statthalter (Governor) of Poland. Count von Berg was the Viceroy of the Kingdom of Poland from 1863 to 1874. He was from a Baltic-German noble family, a Russian Field Marshal and a Count of Finland. Polish Viceroy Count von Berg was replaced by Count Paul Demetrius von Kotzebue, who was the Governor-General of Warsaw from 1874 to 1880.

In 1877, General-Lieutenant von Tschernitzky reported to Count Paul Demetrius von Kotzebue, who was listed as the General-Commandant of the Troops, General of the Infantry and General-Adjutant in Warsaw. Count von Kotzebue was a Baltic-German. His father, August von Kotzebue was born in Weimar, in the German State of Thuringia. The Kotzebue family originated at Kassebau, in the German State of Saxony-Anhalt. The brother of Count Paul von Kotzebue was Otto von Kotzebue, a Baltic-German navigator in the Russian naval service, was a well-known arctic explorer.

General-Lieutenant von Tschernitzky was probably the Oberstlieutenant (Lieutenant Colonel) Tschernitzky who attended the funeral for the Duke of Wellington in 1852. Also, Cape Tschernitzky on the island Novaya Zemlya may have been named for General-Lieutenant von Tschernitzky by the Austrian expedition to that island in 1873-74. See the discussion regarding Cape Tschernitzky below.

Cape Tschernitzky Novaya Zemlya (1874)

Novaya Zemlya (also written as Novaya Zembla, Nowaja Semlä, Nova Zembla, Nova Zemla and Novaia Zemlia; translated as “New Land”) is the island north of Russia separating the Barents Sea from the Kara Sea. An account of the Austro-Hungarian expedition to Novaya Zemlya aboard the arctic ship SMS Admiral Tegetthoff in 1873-1874, identified a Cape Tschernitzky at the coordinates 74 degrees 21 minutes. A map of the voyage of the Admiral Tegetthoff shows their position off Cape Tschernitzky on the 20th of August in 1874. A close-up of a portion of the map is also shown below. The ship was named for the Austrian Admiral Wilhelm von Tegetthoff (1827-1871). The two arctic explorers on that voyage expedition were Julius von Payer (an Austrian Army officer who born at Tepliz, Bohemia) and Karl Weyprecht (an Austrian Navy officer who was born at Darmstadt, Germany).

Heeresgeschichtliches (Military History) Museum in Vienna, Austria.

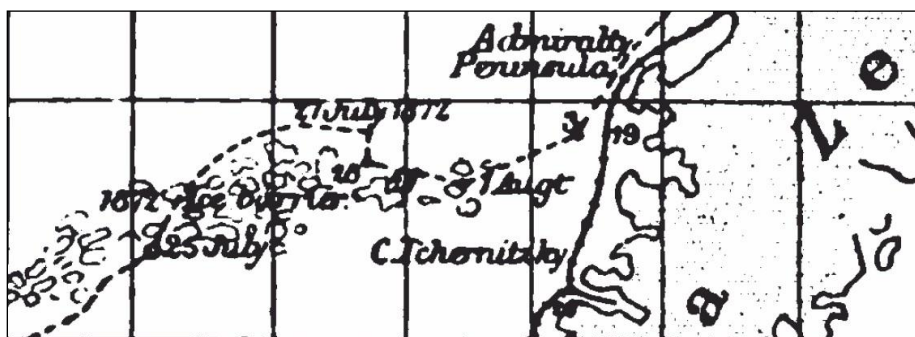

Novaya Zemlya became known to the English in 1556 when it was visited by Steven Burrough, though the island had previously been visited by Russian fishermen and walrus hunters. The Dutch explorer William Barents sailed up the western shore and around the northern point of Nova Zembla in 1576. The western shore was explored in detail from 1826 to 1829, by the son of a German Lutheran pastor, the Imperial Russian Navy explorer Admiral Friedrich Benjamin Lütke (known in Russian as Count Fyodor Petrovich Litke, or Lutkó). Admiral Lütke remained an ethnic German, and a Lutheran, while serving in the Imperial Russian Navy. Other Russian explorers visited the island after Lütke. The Norwegian explorer Elling Carlsen repeated Barents' voyage around the northern tip of the island in 1871.

Julius Payer's 1876 book described the voyage of the Admiral Tegethoff and listed Cape Tschernitzky at 74 degrees 21 minutes, but he did not list a person named Tschernitzky in the crew of the Admiral Tegethoff ship. The Tschernitzky name was also not listed in the crew of the Tegethoff in the crew's list published by Pöschek. No explanation has been found regarding the Tschernitzky name used for that cape. That area of land is not identified as Cape Tschernitzky on earlier (1646) or later (1884) maps of Novaya Zemlya. Nor is it indicated on the hydrographic chart of Nova Zembla (attributed to the U.S. Navy) in Adophus Greely's 1895 book. But it is identified in other books as Cape Tschernitzki by Spörer (1867), Heuglin (1872) and Toeppen (1878).

There is circumstantial evidence indicating Cape Tschernitzky was named to honor General-Lieutenant von Tschernitzky, a member of the staff to the military governors of Poland. The peninsula was identified as Cape Tschernitzky only on the Austrian map and in the book by Payer (published in 1876). Payer's book was published during the period when General-Lieutenant von Tschernitzky reported to Count Paul Demetrius von Kotzebue (the brother of arctic explorer Otto von Kotzebue).

The marriage record shows that Richard Starnitzke was 23 years old (born circa 1873) and he had a residence in Breslau at Kreuzstraße 36 (now Świętokrzyska Street, one block west of the Botanical Garden near the St. John the Baptist's Cathedral). Richard was a Kanonier (gunner) in the 1st Silesian Field Artillery Regiment von Peucker. Richard Starnitzke was assigned to the garrison at Schweidnitz. Schweidnitz is a city about 28 miles southwest of Breslau, and is now known as Świdnica.

The 1st Silesian Field Artillery Regiment von Peucker was the 6th Field Artillery Regiment of the German Imperial Army (Deutsches Heer). The regiment was named for the retired German Infantry General Eduard von Peucker in 1872.

This Richard Starnitzke would have been the correct age to have been Richard Hermann Emil Starnitzke who was listed as a retired Pfefferküchler (gingerbread baker) in the 1941 and 1943 Breslau address books. The address for Richard Starnitzke the gingerbread baker was Weinstraße 34 (about 5 blocks north of Sand Island, now Stefana Żeromskiego Street) in the 1915 to 1943 Breslau address books. That later address was less than three blocks north of Richard's address in 1896. See the Pfefferküchler Richard Hermann Emil Starnitzke, 1896 to 1943 City of Breslau.

Dragoner Adolf Sternitzke Royal Prussian Army (1901)

The Dragoner (dragoon) Adolf Sternitzke from Namslau was one of the baptismal sponsors for Herbert Paul Oskar Jäckel on the 27th of January in 1901 at Breslau. The baptism was held at the Elftausend Jungfrauen Protestant Church in Breslau. Herbert Paul Oskar Jäckel was the son of the Feuerwehrmann (firefighter) Paul Jäckel and his wife Selma (née Sternitzke) Jäckel. Selma Klara Emilie Constanze Sternitzke was born at Gross Ujeschütz on the 12th of August in 1874. She was the daughter of Ferdinand Sternitzke and his wife Emilie (née Labitzky) Sternitzke. Adolf Sternitzke may have been Selma's brother. See the Marriage and Family of Selma Klara Emilie Constanze Sternitzke, 29 February 1896 to 1901 City of Breslau.

A Dragoner (dragoon) was a member of a mounted infantry unit. The Dragoner Adolf Sternitzke was probably a member of the Dragoner-Regiment König Friedrich III (2nd Silesian) Nr. 8 at Namslau.

The First World War (1914 to 1918)

Over 9 million combatants from both sides of the war were killed during the First World War. Below is a table listing the known casualties (wounded, killed, missing in action or known to have been a prisoner of war) from the Sternitzke family. It is arranged alphabetically by the first name of the soldier (because of the variations in spelling of the family name), and then by last name. In some cases, enough data existed to determine multiple pieces of information were associated with the same individual – and could be displayed in a single line of the table. In other cases, the data may be regarding the same person, but may be coincidental – so I presented the data in separate lines. For example: see Paul Sternitzke and Paul Sternitzki below. Casualty reports for those names listed them both as a Wehrmann (a private) in the second company of the reserves from the City of Trebnitz. A casualty report from the 17th of March in 1915 showed Paul Sternitzke from Trebnitz was lightly wounded. A casualty report from the 8th of June in 1915 showed Paul Sternitzki from Trebnitz was lightly wounded. Were they two people wounded on two dates, or one person with a misspelled name wounded twice? Or, was one person listed twice for the same wound in separate casualty reports? Was this the same Paul Sternitzki (of unknown birthplace) who died in the reserve field hospital on the 23rd of July in 1915? When in doubt, I included each record found for each name.

The places of birth are unknown for some of these family members, but we can assume that many of them were from Silesia, or that their families originated from Silesia. An old post card (see below) from Gross Ujeschütz shows a monument to the fallen soldiers that existed in that village prior to the Second World War. The German memorial monuments were destroyed along with the tombstones, as part of the de-Germanization in Silesian villages after 1945.

The ages of these soldiers cannot be accurately estimated (in cases where their birthdates are not known). The ages for conscription in the German Empire was seventeen to thirty-nine, though the young men were generally not called to serve in battle until they were twenty years old. Young men under twenty and men over forty could volunteer to serve in battle. Estimated birthdates are therefore calculated by subtracting 17 from the year of injury or death. For example: a member of the Sternitzke family wounded on the 20th of October in 1914. His estimated birthdate is then “before 20 October 1897”. This estimation would be true if he was 17 (or older) at the time of his death.

Biographies and photographs of a few family members are presented below the table. In most cases the families who had members who served in the First World War also had members who served in the Second World War. In those cases, I combined the family information for members who served in both wars.

Several soldiers with variations of the Sternitzke family name served in the Bavarian Army during the First World War:

- Albert Franz Josef Sternitzke was born at Leipe (in Breslau County) on the 8th of November in 1880 and served in the Bavarian Infantry. An Unteroffizier (lance sergeant) Josef Sternitzke was living at Kaserne (baracks) number 13 at Cosel in 1913. He died on the 26th of April in 1945 and was buried at Nadolice Wielke, Sammelfriedhof, Poland.
- Hans Sternitzki was born on the 5th of November in 1884 at St. Petersburg, Russia, but was living in Darmstadt (in the German state Hesse). He served in the Bavarian 1st Feldartillerie Regiment (München) II Ersatztruppenteile.
- Max Sternitzky was born on the 16th of March in 1898 at Kronach, Kronach County, in the Upper Franconia of Bavaria. He served in the Bavarian Ersatz-Truppenteile 3rd Fußartillerie-Regimenter (Grafenwöhr).
- Josef Czarnecki was born on the 6th of June in 1871 at Klein Schönbruck, in Graudenz County, West Prussia. He served in the Bavarian Infanterie Feld-Rekrutendepots 1 (Südarmee).

- Eugen Czarnetzki was born on the 1st of April in 1886 at Beuthenersdorf, Adelsburg, in East Prussia. He served in the Bavarian 2nd Fußartillerie-Regimenter (Metz) and the Fußartillerie-Bataillone 23.
- Johann Stanitzki was born at Schalke in Meseritz County (Posen) on the 23rd of June in 1887. In 1918 Johann Stanitzki was an Unteroffizier (lance sergeant) in the 8th bayrischen Reserve Infanterie Regiment. He resided at Elsenheimerstraße 12 in Munich. The Unteroffizier Johann Stanitzki married Lucia Gertrud Schache on the 22nd of September in 1918 at Blesen.
- Johannes Karl Czarnetzki was born on the 24th of June in 1896 at Puppen, in Ortelsburg County, in East Prussia. He served in the Bavarian Infanterie Feld-Rekrutendepots 1 (Südarmee).

A database of transcribed casualty lists published during and after the First World War identified many individuals with variations of the Sternitzke name, which I have separated into two groups. The first group of soldiers had places of birth in Silesia and/or had surnames traceable to the Sternitzke family in Trebnitz County, Silesia. These soldiers are listed in the table below. The second group of soldiers had surname variations similar to Czarnetzky (Czarnecki, Czarnetzki and Czernecki) and in most cases had places of birth north of Silesia (Posen, Pomerania, West Prussia and East Prussia). This second group of names is not included in this table. The possible relationship between the Czarnetzky name variations and the Sternitzke family is discussed in Part 2 of this book: Analyses and Theories.

The International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC) has an online searchable database of soldiers who were Gefangenschaft (prisoners of war) during the First World War. That database includes 26 German soldiers with variations of the Sternitzke name. The records for those individuals are included in the table below.

At least one Sternitzke family member from Gross Ujeschütz served in the German Imperial Army during the First World War. Richard Arthur Emil Sternitzke was born at Gross Ujeschütz on the 2nd of March in 1880, the son of Ernst Gottlieb Sternitzke and Anna Susanna (née Tilgner) Sternitzke. Richard was a teacher who lived in Breslau with his wife Maria (née Christalle) Sternitzke when he was called to military service. Richard served in the Bavarian Artillerie Flak-Zug 174 (Flugabwehrkanonen (Flak) u. Scheinwerfer = antiaircraft and searchlight platoon). Richard returned to the teaching profession at Breslau after the war. Additional information regarding Richard Sternitzke is included in the section titled First World War Soldiers from the City of Breslau (in Chapter 1 of this book).

Albert Franz Josef Sternitzke (1880-1945) From Leipe, Breslau County

Albert Franz Josef Sternitzke was born at Leipe on the 8th of November in 1880. He was probably a son of Josef Sternitzke and Maria (née Dammas) Sternitzke. Albert Franz Josef Sternitzke served in the Infaterie Feld-Rekruten-Depots 2 "Südarmee" of the Bavarian Army during the First World War. See the Family of the Schneidermeister Josef Sternitzke, 1879 to 1940 Leipe. He died on the 26th of April in 1945 and was buried at Nadolice Wielke, Sammelfriedhof, Poland.

Sternitzke Family from Pawellau, Trebnitz County, Military Service in the First and Second World Wars

The members of the Sternitzke family from Pawellau are discussed in more detail in the afterword section of Book 2 (the Tricentennial Memorial Book of the Church at Pawellau). This section concentrates on the military service of the family.

Three Sternitzke brothers from Pawellau served in the German Imperial Army during the First World War: Fritz Hermann Sternitzke (1893-1988), Gustav Adolf Sternitzke (1895-1915) and Paul Ernst Sternitzke (1898-1917). They were the sons of Wilhelm and Pauline (née Schosnig) Sternitzke.

Two Sternitzke brothers from Pawellau served in the German Army during the Second World War: Martin Hermann Sternitzke (1920-2018) and Alfred Paul Sternitzke (1922-1961). They were the sons of Herman Fritz and Anna Helene (née Luedtke) Sternitzke from Pawellau. Their cousin Friedrich Sternitzke (1901-1942) was the son of Gustav Sternitzke (c.1861-1936) also served during the Second World War and was killed at Stalingrad in 1942. See below.

Fritz Hermann Sternitzke (1893-1988) was born on the 2nd of May in 1893 at Pawellau, the son of Wilhelm and Pauline (née Tchosnig) Sternitzke. Hermann served in the German Army during the First World War from 1914 to 1918. He was drafted on the 14th of December in 1914, and served in a horse/wagon supply company. Hermann served as a Musketier (infantryman) in the 2nd Company of the Ersatz Battalion of the Reserve Infantry Regiment Nr. 10 of the 21st Reserve Infantry Brigade (11th Reserve Division). He was wounded in the left upper arm at the Russian Front on the 9th of March in 1915, and received the Iron Cross Second Class. The 11th Reserve Division from the 6th Military District (Silesia) was stationed at Malancourt, 3 miles southeast of Montfaucon, in Argonne (in the Lorraine Region of France).

Gustav Adolf Sternitzke (1895-1915) was born at Pawellau on the 16th of September in 1895. His birth record listed his parents as the Freistellenbesitzer Wilhelm Sternitzke and Pauline (née Tschaschnig) Sternitzke. The death record for Adolf Sternitzke listed his parents as the Landwirte (farmers) Wilhelm Sternitzke and Pauline (née Schosnig) Sternitzke. Adolph served in the 1st Garde-Reserve Regiment (6th Company) during the First World War. He was reported as severely wounded on the eastern front in a casualty report dated the 30th of October in 1915. His death was reported in a casualty report dated the 20th of November in 1915. The death of the Landwirt Grenadier (civilian farmer and military private) Adolf Sternitzke was recorded at the Standesamt (registry office) at Brietzen on the 11th of December in 1915. He died at the Hauptverbandsplatz at Selischki, Russia. A Hauptverbandsplatz was a main assembly area near the front lines where the wounded received first aid prior to transport to a Lazarett (field hospital). He was a Protestant.

Martin Hermann Sternitzke (1920-2018) was born at Pawellau on the 10th of November in 1920, the son of Fritz Hermann and Anna Helene (née Luedtke) Sternitzke. Martin graduated from an agricultural school in 1940, and was then drafted into the Germany Army. After boot camp he spent about one year training horses at the Maginot Line in France. He was transferred to the Russian Front near Leningrad in 1942 where he served as an Unterofficer (lance sergeant) in the 154th Regiment of the 58th Infantry Division. He was wounded on the eastern front and was transferred to the Catholic cloister at Trebnitz which had been converted into a hospital. When the Russians invaded Silesia, he was transported to a hospital at Schwabisch Hall. He was awarded the Iron Cross Second Class, the Army Infantry Assault Badge and the Silver Wound Badge. After the war, Martin walked to Pawellau and found that his family had been expelled. He then went to Rostock where he found his mother's sister, and the new address of his family. He was reunited with his family at Eschlbach, Bavaria on the 4th of November in 1945. Martin worked as a maintenance man for the US Army from 1946 to 1948 and then emigrated to the United States of America. Martin Hermann Sternitzke died at Hendersonville, North Carolina, on the 21st of January in 2018. He died at the age of 97 years old.

Alfred Paul Sternitzke (1922-1961) was born at Pawellau on the 11th of September in 1922, the son of Fritz Hermann and Anna Helene (née Luedtke) Sternitzke. Alfred served in the German Army during the Second World War in an artillery unit in Norway. After the German surrender in 1945, Alfred returned to Germany and was taken prisoner by the French and sent to a prison camp. He entered the prison camp weighing 180 pounds, and weighed 95 pounds when he was released. He was reunited with his family at Eschlbach, Bavaria on the 16th of October in 1945. Alfred later married Adina Dej at Regensburg and they emigrated to Indiana in 1953. Alfred died at La Porte, Indiana in 1961.

Kurt Sternitzky Family
from Großbardau (southern suburb of Grimma),
Grimma County, Saxony

Kurt Sternitzky from Grimma, Saxony, served in the German Imperial Army during the First World War. He was a Soldat (infantry private) in the 2nd Königlich Sächsische 24th Reserve-Division, Reserve Infanterie Regiment Nr. 107, 5th Company. He was listed as killed (or missing in action) on the 25th of September in 1915. The official casualty report listed him as missing on the 23rd of October in 1915. Kurt was buried at Block 1, Grave 72 of the Kriegsgräberstätte at Souain (25 miles southwest of Orleans, France).

The website for the International Committee of the Red Cross included a reply to an inquiry from Hermann Sternitzky from Grossbardau in Bezirk Leipzig. Hermann was probably Kurt's father. The reply states that Kurt was captured around the 25th of September in 1919 at St. Souplet in France. That places him at the Second Battle of Champagne.

War Cemetery at Souain, France.

Herrmann Kurt Sternitzky was born on the 20th of December in 1901 at Großbardau. He was the son of Kurt Sternitzky. Herrmann Kurt married Bertha Hedwig Bahrmann, who was born at Meltewitz in Wurzen County (Saxony) on the 3rd of September in 1901. Bertha died on the 13th of March in 1964 at Grimma.

Prior to the Second World War, Herrmann Kurt Sternitzky was a minor government official, who lived at Großbardau. During the war he served in the German Army near Breslau, Silesia. He was captured and sentenced to ten years in a Russian prison camp because he refused to cooperate with the Russians. Herrmann Kurt Sternitzky died on the 24th of January in 1985 at Grimma, Saxony.

Herrmann Kurt Sternitzky and Bertha Hedwig Sternitzky.

Kurt Siegfried Sternitzky was the son of Herrmann Kurt and Bertha Hedwig Sternitzky. Kurt Siegfried was born on the 26th of October in 1928 as Großbardau. He was 16 years old when he was drafted into the Kriegsmarine (German Navy) in 1944. He served as a Marinehelfer (assistant) in the Schwere Flakbatterie (heavy anti-aircraft) unit on the island Juist in the North Sea (west from Bremerhaven). After the war, Kurt Siegfried became a manager for the railroad at Grimma. He married Margot Gerda Roch at Grimma on the 24th of August in 1949. Margot Gerda Roch was born on the 24th of May in 1927 at Annaberg-Buchholz, Saxony. She died at Münchberg, Bavaria on the 14th of June in 1997. Kurt Siegfried Sternitzky died on the 8th of March in 2004, also at Münchberg. They are buried at the Waldfriedhof Weißer Hirsch (White Stag Forest Cemetery) at Dresden, Saxony.

Starnitzky Family from Leobschütz and Schleswig Service in the First and Second World Wars

The Starnitzky family from Leobschütz and Schleswig is discussed in detail in the section regarding Leobschütz County, in the Oppeln District of Silesia. See the Family of Josef Starnitzky, c.1839 to 1890 Leobschütz. This section concentrates on the two members of the family who served in the First and Second World Wars.

Erwin Oskar Friedrich Starnitzky was born on the 16th of June in 1888 at Schleswig, Germany, the son of Herman Joseph Heinrich Starnitzky (1829-1926). Herman was born at Leobschütz in Upper Silesia and moved to Schleswig in the 1880s with his brother Oskar and their sister Pauline.

Erwin Oskar Friedrich Starnitzky married Annalene Karoline Maria Beckmann (born 16 March 1892 at village Norderwisch in Schleswig-Holstein, died 31 October 1960 at Hamburg). Annalene Beckmann was an Evangelical Lutheran and a teacher, who took her teaching exam in March of 1911 at Schleswig. She taught at Friedrichskoog, Suderhastedt and at the Evangelical Hochschule at Meldorf (25 miles southwest of Schleswig) in Dithmarschen County. Erwin and Annalene Starnitzky had three children.

Leutnant (second lieutenant) Erwin Oskar Friedrich Starnitzky was lightly wounded in 1915. He was killed in action on the 2nd of November in 1918. He was buried in a communal grave (identified on Panel 59) at Langemark German Military Cemetery at Ypres (Ieper), West Flanders in Belgium.

The son of Erwin and Annalene Starnitzky, Erwin Hermann Dietrich Starnitzky (born 12 November 1915 in Schleswig-Holstein, died 11 September 1979 at Hamburg) served in the German Air Force from 1939 until his capture as a prisoner of war in 1943. After his 1946 release from an internment camp in Crossville, Tennessee, Erwin became a teacher in Hamburg. He was survived by his wife Anne Marie (Reimers) Starnitzky (born 18 May 1918 at Schleswig-Holstein; died 18 July 2003 at Hamburg) and their son, the retired German Ambassador Erwin Starnitzky.

The Second World War (1939 to 1945)

The Second World War had tragic effects on the Sternitzke family. The number of family members (listed below) who paid the ultimate price in the service to their country is shocking, and difficult to analyze without emotions. These were our cousins. Even more shocking and impossible to estimate was the number of the civilian family members who lost their lives, homes, farms and friends during and after the war. The war resulted in the forced migration of millions of Germans from Silesia to the new diminished borders of Germany, resulting in uncounted civilian deaths. I recommend these books for more information regarding the tragic fate of the Silesian civilians after the Second World War:

Obituary for Dr. Erwin Paul Sternitzke (1909-1942)

by James W. Sternitzky, PhD

Every single one of the family members lost during the two World Wars was a tragedy to their immediate family, but also to humanity. The story of one family member, Erwin Paul Sternitzke, is an example of the tragic waste of human potential because of wars.

Erwin Paul Sternitzke was born at Essen (in the Düsseldorf Region of the State of North Rhine-Westphalia) on the 1st of April in 1909. He was the son of Wilhelm Ernst Max Sternitzke and Selma (née Tischendorf) Sternitzke.

Wilhelm Ernst Max Sternitzke was born on the 23rd of October in 1874. He was a teacher at Öls and Eisleben, and the Rektor (headmaster) at a school at Essen.

Erwin Paul Sternitzke attended the Evangelical Volkschule from 1915 to 1918, followed by the Gymnasium at Essen-Altenessen from 1918 to 1928. He then completed studies in Germanic and romance languages, and music at the universities at Marburg (1928-30), Munich (1930), Leipzig (1930-31), Munich and Marburg (1931-1933). Erwin Sternitzke was listed as a philosophy student in the directory of the Ludwig-Maximilians-University at Munich for the summer semester in 1930. He received a Doctor of Philosophy degree at the Phillips University of Marburg in 1933.

Dr. Sternitzke is known for his doctoral dissertation published in 1933 at the Phillips University of Marburg. His dissertation, still frequently referenced in books and research papers, was titled: Der stilisierte Bänkelsang (The Stylized Bench-songs). I translated Jürg Strassmann's description of a Bänkelsang as:

“songs that were sung by itinerant showmen or singers, at fairs and carnivals, while standing on a bench (hence the name: bench-songs). The songs included horror stories, or tales about crime and disasters. The singer was accompanied by melancholic organ music and the words were displayed on boards as they were sung.”

Dr. Erwin Sternitzke served as an Oberleutnant (first lieutenant) during the Second World War. He received the Iron Cross 2nd Class in 1941 or 1942. He was probably the same Erwin Sternitzke who also received the Iron Cross 1st Class during those same years, because a second-class Iron Cross usually had to be earned before a first-class Iron Cross was awarded. He was killed on the 26th of January in 1942, at Spas-Mitkowo (twelve kilometers northwest of Rshew, Russia) and was buried at Mitkowo, Russia.

Sternitzke Family Members Killed or Missing in Action in World War II

The following list is arranged alphabetically by the first name of the soldier or sailor (because of the variations in spelling of the family name), and then by birth date for soldiers with the same first name. Information regarding the Silesian servicemen and their families can be found in the chapters associated with the villages where these servicemen were born or lived. For information regarding the Sternitzke family from Pawellau, see Book 2: Afterword.

The youngest military casualty from the Sternitzke family was the 17-years-old Willi Sternitzke from Kapatschütz (about 3 miles west of Pawellau in Trebnitz County), who was buried 900 miles from home in northeast Estonia. The oldest casualty identified was the 68 years old Alfred Sternitzke from Breslau. In January of 1945, Breslau was declared a fortress and all male citizens from ages 15 to 65 were drafted into the Volkssturm (People's Storm militia), and all citizens age 10 and above were called to defend the city.

Establishing the American or English equivalents to the German military ranks is rather subjective, because the differences in duties and responsibilities. Using references listed below, I created a basic order of ranks (from lowest to highest) for the ranks held by Sternitzke family members in the German military during the Second World War:

Volkssturmmann (militia man),
Soldat (infantry private),
Schütz (private),
Oberschütz (senior private),
Gefreiter (lance corporal),
Obergefreiter (corporal),
Maat (junior petty officer in the Navy),
Unteroffizier (lance sergeant),
Unteroffizier Objäger (lance sergeant ranger),
Leutnant (second lieutenant), and Oberleutnant (first lieutenant).

Chapter 16

Brandenburg, Prussia

Brandenburg was a province of Prussia from 1815 to 1945. Before that time, it was named the Margraviate of Brandenburg.

Family of Friedrich Ferdinand Franz Sternitzky 1797 to 1901 Brandenburg, Germany

Circa Gen.VII. Friedrich Ferdinand Franz Sternitzky (1758-1820). Married Anna Dorothea Sophie Thiede (1761-1852).

Circa Gen.VIIIa. Wilhelmine Sophie Sternitzky (1797-1875). Married Johann Christian Gottlob Paschke (1783-1842) in 1814.

Circa Gen.IXa. Ferdinand Karl Paschke (1815-1839).

Circa Gen.IXb. Heinrich Adalbert Paschke (1817-1854).

Circa Gen.IXc. Karoline Wilhelmine Emma Paschke, (1818-1894).

Circa Gen.IXe. Theodor Hermann Paschke (1821-1877).

Circa Gen.IXf. Georg Sigismund Otto Paschke (1823-1901).

Circa Gen.VIIIc. Carl Ferdinand Sternitzki (c.1786-1805).

Friedrich Ferdinand Franz Sternitzky was born on the 2nd of November in 1758. He married Anna Dorothea Sophie Thiede around 1797. Based on her age when she died, Anna Dorothea Sophie (née Thiede) Sternitzky was born on the 8th of November in 1761. Her death record listed Görzdorf as her place of birth.

Wilhelmine Sophie Sternitzky (1797-1875) was born on the 29th of September in 1797 at Eichholz, near Storkow in Brandenburg, Germany. She was the daughter of Friedrich Ferdinand Franz Sternitzky (1758-1820) and Anna Dorothea Sophie (née Thiede) Sternitzky (1761-1852).

Friedrich Ferdinand Franz Sternitzky was the owner of Ritterguts (knightly estates) at Görzdorf and Schwenow near Beeskow in Brandenburg. Wilhelmine's brother, the Amtmann (magistrate) Karl Ferdinand Sternitzky leased the village Schwenow in 1801. At that time, the Sternitzky family also leased properties at the nearby villages Siethen and Drobtschsee. Properties at the nearby villages Wulfersdorf and Görzdorf were also Sternitzky family properties from 1810 to 1818.

Friedrich Ferdinand Franz Sternitzky died at Belzig on the 29th of March in 1820. The Deutsches Geschlechterbuch (Volume 50, page 311) listed him as the Rittergutsbesitzer (owner of knightly estates) at Görzdorf and Schwenow. Anna Dorothea Sophie (née Thiede)

Sternitzky died at Lindenberg on the 23rd of September in 1852. She died at the age of 90 years, 10 months and 15 days. She was buried on the 28th of September in 1852 at Beeskow-Storkow, Brandenburg. Lindenberg is 5 miles northwest of Beeskow. Her death record listed her late husband as the Amtmann (magistrate) Sternitzky.

A gravestone can still be found at Schwenow for Karl Ferdinand Sternitzky (c.1784-1814), the son of Friedrich Ferdinand Franz Sternitzky. A stone cross bears the inscription over two grave mounds:

Hier ruht in Gott mit seiner Gattin
Carl Sternitzky
Gestorben den 28.04.1814

Translation: Here rests with God and his wife,
died on the 28th of April in 1814.

Wilhelmine Sophie Sternitzky apparently had another brother. The church record book for the city of Belzig in Zauch County (Brandenburg) listed the death of Carl Ferdinand Sternitzki (c.1786-1805). He died on the 18th of March in 1805. He was the 19 years old son of the Pachtamtmanns (magistrate of rented villages) Franz Ferdinand Sternitzki in Hagelberg and Eichholz. An index of the family registry books for Belzig shows the Sternitzki family were documented in the Familienregister Belzig volume 10, page 28:

Sternitzki, Karl Ferdinand died 18.03.1805, and Sternitzki, Friedrich Ferdinand Franz, Pächter (renter) in Eichholz.

Belzig is about 60 miles northwest of Eichholz. Görsdorf, Schwenow, Wulfersdorf and Eichholz are southeast of Berlin, in the Oder-Spree District of Brandenburg. These later villages are about 25 miles southwest of the village named Trebnitz in Brandenburg (about 35 miles east of Berlin). The Trebnitz in Brandenburg was closely related to the city of Trebnitz in Silesia. Both locations were properties granted to the Cistercians by Duke Henry I the Bearded. Both locations were severely looted and burned during the Hussite Wars (15th century) and the 30 Years War (17th century).

Wilhelmine Sophie (née Sternitzky) Paschke, 1814

Wilhelmine Sophie Sternitzky (1797-1875) married Johann Christian Gottlob Paschke on the 18th of September in 1814. Gottlob was born at Lieberose (in the Dahme-Spreewald District of Brandenburg) on the 4th of September in 1783. He was the son of Johann Sigismund Paschke (1740- 1814) and Johanne Christiane (maiden name unknown, 1746-1824). Gottlob's branch of the Paschke family traced its roots to Neu-Vorwerk in Nieder-Lausitz, with family ties to Görlitz, Breslau and the village Krietern (now a southwestern suburb of Breslau).

Gottlob and Wilhelmine Paschke had six known children:

- Ferdinand Karl Paschke, born 9 December 1815, died 6 February 1839,
- Heinrich Adalbert Paschke, born 27 January 1817, died 17 April 1854,
- Karoline Wilhelmine Emma Paschke, born 1 November 1818, died 27 October 1894,
- Emma Caroline Paschke, born around 1819 at Schwenow, married Georg Wilhelm Eduard Fischer on the 26th of September in 1842 at Kossenblatt, died on the 27th of October in 1894 at Berlin.
- Theodor Hermann Paschke, born 25 August 1821, died 12 May 1877, and
- Georg Sigismund Otto Paschke, born 12 December 1823, died 10 May 1901.

Gottlob Paschke died at Schwenow on the 20th of April in 1842, and his land at Schwenow became a Prussian forest preserve. The 1842 marriage record for Emma Paschke listed her father as the former Amtmann und Gutsbesitzer (magistrate and homestead owner) Gottlob Paschke from Schwenow and Gorsdorf. Wilhelmine was identified as the widow Paschke (née Sternitzki) in Dr. Berghaus's 1855 geography book of Brandenburg. Wilhelmine died on the 12th of September in 1875 at Görzdorf. The Rittergut at Görzdorf remained in the Paschke family until after 1903, but was owned by the Mießner family in 1929.

Associated Locations

The locations of the family group associated with Wilhelmine Sophie (née Sternitzky) Paschke suggest connections to other Sternitzke family groups that lived between northwestern Silesia and Berlin. The map below shows highlighted locations that are associated with the Sternitzky family.

Müncheberg (in Brandenburg) is near four villages that were owned by the dukes of Silesia. From the 13th to the 15th centuries, those villages paid taxes to the Stift (business unit) of the Catholic Cloister at Trebnitz in Trebnitz County, Silesia. The map at the end of the book by Heinrich Grüger and Jozef Domanski shows those villages in Brandenburg were named Trebnitz (!), Jahnsfelde, Görlisdorf and Buchholz.

Beeskow is near the villages Görzdorf and Schwenow where Friedrich Ferdinand Franz Sternitzky (1758-after 1797) owned the Ritterguts (knightly estates).

Storkow is near Eichholz, where Wilhelmine Sophie Sternitzky (1797-1875) was born on the 29th of September in 1797.

Friedland was a village in Lübben County of Niederlausitz (Lower Lusatia). Friedland is now in the Oder-Spree District of Brandenburg. Friedland is only 8 miles southeast from Görzdorf and 10 miles southeast from Schwenow. See the Marriage and Family of Friedrich Julius Sternitzky, 1852 to c.1882 Friedland, 1877 to 1941 Berlin.

Krossen (sometime written as Crossen) was the home of several members of the Sternitzke family. It was the birthplace of Friedrich Ernst Stanitzky on the 1st of November in 1885. Chapter 13: The Liegnitz District, Glogau County in the Liegnitz District: Silesian Duchy of Crossen.

Marriage of Friedrich Julius Sternitzkÿ, 1852

The Barbier (barber) Friedrich Julius Sternitzkÿ (c.1829-between 1882 and 1886) from Friedland married Anna Maria Schulze (c.1828-1892) on the 14th of March in 1852 at Friedland in Brandenburg. They were both 23 years old at that time, so they were born around 1829. The marriage record listed the father of the groom as the Gerber (tanner) David Sternitzkÿ from Kreuzburg. His mother was not listed. Julius was probably born at Kreuzburg in Kreuzburg County. See the Family of the Gerbermeister David Sternitzky and Marie (née Hinke) Sternitzky, 1824 to 1904 Kreuzburg. The bride's mother was listed as Christiane Schulze. Her father was not listed.

Birth, Marriage, Family and Death of daughter Marie Auguste Emilie Sternitzky (1852-1941)

Marie Auguste Emilie Sternitzky was born at Friedland on the 1st of October in 1852. She was baptized on the 17th of October in 1852. Her parents were listed on the birth/baptism record as the Barbier (barber) Friedrich Julius Sternitzky and Anna Marie (née Schulz) Sternitzky from Friedland. One of her baptism sponsors was Maria Elisabeth Schulz from Behlow, who was probably a sister of Anna Marie (née Schulz) Sternitzky.

The Dienstmädchen (servant girl) Marie Auguste Emilie Sternitzkÿ married the Schlosser (mechanic) Karl Gottlob Heinrich Schultze at Berlin on the 10th of August in 1881. The address listed on the marriage record was Nicolaistraße 3 in Berlin for both the bride and the groom. They were both Protestant. The bride's parents were listed as the Barbier (barber) Julius Sternitzkÿ and Anna Marie (née Schulz) Sternitzkÿ from Friedland in Lübben County of Nieder Lausitz. The groom's parents were listed as the Mauer (mason) Gottlieb Schultze and Charlotte (née Krüger) Schultze from Berlin.

Anna Auguste Marie Schultze was born at Berlin on the 8th of December in 1887. She was the daughter of the Schlosser (mechanic) Karl Gottlob Heinrich Schultze and Marie Auguste Emilie (née Sternitzkÿ) Schultze who were residents of Berlin. The child's father Heinrich Schultze signed the birth record.

In 1941, Marie Auguste Emilie (née Sternitzky) Schultze was living at Schlüterstraße 3 in the Charlottenburg borough of Berlin. She was the widow of the Schlosser Karl Gottlob Heinrich Schultze. Emilie died at her home on the 20th of April in 1941. Her death record stated

Emilie was born on the 1st of October in 1852 at Friedland in Niederlausitz. Her father was listed as the late Friedrich Julius Sternitzky who had died at Friedland. Her mother was listed as the late Anna Marie (née Schulz) Sternitzky who had died at Berlin.

Birth and Family of daughter
Karoline Auguste Emilie Sternitzky, c.1853 to 1874

Karoline Auguste Emilie Sternitzky was born around 1853, based on the birthdate of her son. Karl Rudolph August Sternitzky (1873-1874) was born at Friedland on the 17th of October in 1873. He was baptized on the 2nd of November in 1873. His birth/baptism record shows that his mother was the unmarried daughter of the Barbier Sternitzky. Karl Rudolph August Sternitzky died at Friedland on the 26th of July in 1874. He was buried on the 29th of July in 1874.

Birth, Marriage, Family and Death of daughter
Wilhelmine Marie Louise Sternitzkÿ (1854-1886)

Wilhelmine Marie Luise Sternitzkÿ (1854-1886) was born at Friedland on the 17th of November in 1854. She was baptized on the 7th of December in 1854. Her parents were listed on the birth/baptism record as the Barbier Friedrich Julius Sternitzky and Anna Marie (née Schutz) Sternitzky from Friedland.

Wilhelmine Marie Luise Sternitzkÿ had two children out of wedlock:

- An unnamed daughter was born at Friedland on the 19th of March in 1874, and died 15 days later on the 3rd of April in 1874. The unbaptized daughter was buried on the 6th of April.
- In 1877, Marie was working as a Dienstmädchen (servant girl) and lived at Merseburger Straße 69 in Berlin. A midwife reported the birth of Marie's son, Hermann Otto Emil Sternitzky who was born on the 26th of February in 1877 at Berlin.

In 1879, the Aufwärterin (housekeeper) Wilhelmine Marie Luise Sternitzkÿ was a resident of Berlin. She married the Schlosser (mechanic) Heinrich Friedrich Pauling on the 19th of July in 1879 at Berlin. Marie's parents, the Barbier Friedrich Julius Sternitzkÿ and Anna Marie (née Schutz) Sternitzkÿ were living in Friedland (Lübben County). Heinrich Friedrich Pauling was born on the 26th of February in 1854 at Ricklingen (a borough of Hanover in Lower Saxony). The groom was the son of Heinrich Friedrich Pauling (senior) and Dorothee Luise (née Kerl) Pauling. The groom and the bride were Protestant.

Heinrich Friedrich Pauling and Wilhelmine Marie Luise (née Sternitzkÿ) Pauling had five children after they were married:

- Heinrich Carl Franz Pauling (1879-1880) was born at Berlin on the 19th of September in 1879. He died at Berlin on the 22nd of December in 1880.

- Marie Frieda Minna Pauling (1881-1881) was born at Berlin on the 24th of February in 1881. She died on the 12th of August in 1881.
- Fritz Paul Richard Pauling (1882-1882) was born at Berlin on the 17th of April in 1882. He died on the 22nd of July in 1882.
- Wanda Gertrud Rosa Pauling (1883-1883) was born at Berlin on the 23rd of June in 1883. She died on the 16th of September in 1883.
- Max Paul Willÿ Pauling (1884-after 1911) was born on the 2nd of September in 1884. He would have been 27 years old on the 2nd of September in 1911. In April of 1911 he would have been 26 years old. He may have been the wedding witness named as the 25 years old Schlosser Willÿ Pauling, listed on the 1911 wedding record of his cousin Alwine Therese Luise Zak.

Wilhelmine Marie Luise (née Sternitzkÿ) Pauling died at the Universitäts-Frauenklinik (University Women's Health Clinic) in Berlin at the age of 31 years old, on the 22nd of January in 1886. The death record completed by the clinic has a number of errors. It listed Marie's names out of order, as Marie Luise Wilhelmine Sternitzki. It listed her as the daughter of the late Barbier Julius Sternitzki and Marie (née Lehmann) Sternitzki. It correctly listed Marie's place of birth as Friedland in Luebben County. It listed her husband as the Schlossergeselle (journeyman mechanic) Heinrich Pauling who was a resident of Berlin. It listed the place of death for Marie's father as Friedland, and it showed her mother was living in Berlin in 1886.

Karoline Wilhelmine Auguste Sternitzkÿ (1857-1910)

Karoline Wilhelmine Auguste Sternitzkÿ was born at Friedland on the 24th of January in 1857. She was baptized on the 8th of February in 1857. Her birth/baptism record listed her parents as the Barbier Friedrich Julius Sternitzky and Anna Marie (née Schulz) Sternitzky.

The Näherin (seamstress) Karoline Wilhelmine Auguste Sternitzkÿ was living in Berlin in 1899. She married Albert Emil Juris on the 3rd of January in 1899 at Berlin. The marriage record shows that Auguste's father, the Barbier Friedrich Julius Sternitzkÿ had previously died at Friedland in Lübben County, and her mother Anna Marie (née Schulz) Sternitzkÿ had previously died at Berlin. The bride signed the marriage record as Auguste Juris geboren Sternitzkÿ. One of the wedding witnesses was the 34 years old Barbier Robert Sternitzkÿ who lived in Berlin at Frankfurter Allee 49. This was the bride's younger brother Robert Friedrich Reinhold Sternitzkÿ (1864-1910).

The groom and the bride were both Protestant. The groom Albert Emil Juris was born on the 1st of January in 1857 at Berlin. He was the son of Carl Hermann Juris and Caroline Charlotte (née Reuschel) Juris. A note on the first page of the marriage record shows that Albert Emil Juris and Caroline Wilhelmine Auguste (née Sternitzkÿ) Juris were divorced on the 15th of November in 1901 at Berlin.

In 1910, the divorced Näherin (seamstress) Karoline Wilhelmine Auguste (née Sternitzkÿ) Juris was living with her younger sister Minna Marie Emilie (née Sternitzkÿ) Zak at Rummelsburger Straße 21 in Lichtenberg (a borough of Berlin). Minna was the wife of the Eisenhändler (ironmonger) Franz Zak. Karoline Wilhelmine Auguste (née Sternitzkÿ) Juris died in her sister's home on the 20th of August in 1910.

Birth, Marriages and Death of daughter
Minna Marie Emilie Sternitzkÿ (1858-1940)

Minna Marie Emilie Sternitzkÿ was born on the 15th of September in 1858 at Friedland in Lübben County. She was baptized on the 10th of October in 1858. Her parents were listed on the birth/baptism record as the Barbier Friedrich Julius Sternitzky and Anna Marie (née Schulz) Sternitzky.

In 1882, the Wirthschafterin (housekeeper) Minna Marie Emilie Sternitzkÿ was living in Berlin at Kleine Präsidenten Straße 1. On the 9th of October in 1882, she married the Stockfabrikant (walking stick manufacturer) Ludwig Heinrich Ernst Philipp at Berlin. The bride and groom were both Protestant. The parents of the bride were listed as the Barbier Friedrich Julius Sternitzkÿ and Anna Marie (née Schulz) Sternitzkÿ who were still living at Friedland.

The groom was born on the 7th of August in 1840 at Berlin. He was the son of Heinrich Ferdinand Philipp and Henriette (née Roethler) Philipp, who had previously died at Berlin.

In 1901, Marie Minna Emilie (née Sternitzkÿ) Philipp was the widow of the Stockfabrikant (walking stick manufacturer) Philipp and living at Frankfurter Allee 163 in Lichtenberg (a borough of Berlin). On the 14th of November in 1901, Minna Philipp married the Handelsmann (shopkeeper) Franz Zak at Berlin. Franz Zak was the widower of the bride's sister Anna Henriette Luise (née Sternitzkÿ) Zak (1860-1899), so he was the bride's brother-in-law. Minna was identified as a Protestant on the marriage record. Franz Zak was identified as a Catholic. The parents of the bride were listed as the Barbier Friedrich Julius Sternitzkÿ who had died at Friedland, and Anna Marie (née Schulz) Sternitzkÿ who had died at Berlin.

Franz Zak was born on the 23rd of March in 1859 at Chorzemin, in Bomst County (in Posen). He was the son of Eigentümer (property owner) Joseph Zak and Elisabeth (née Wawrzyńska) Zak, who both had previously died at Chorzemin. A note on the first page of the 1901 marriage record shows Franz Zak died on the 25th of February in 1939 at Lichtenberg (Berlin).

Marie Minna Emilie (née Sternitzky) Zak died in her home at Tasdorfer Straße 12 in Lichtenberg on the 30th of October in 1940. She was listed as a Catholic and the widow of the Eisenhändler (ironmonger) Franz Zak who had previously died at Lichtenberg. Her death record was signed by the Buchhalter (bookkeeper) Therese (née Zok) Achterberg, who lived at Haselhorster Damm 29 in Berlin. This was probably Minna's niece Alwine Therese Luise Zok (1888-after 1921). The death record was typewritten and clearly shows the Zak and Zok versions of the family name were in use, even though the 1888 birth record of Alwine Therese Luise Zok included a note showing the Berlin District Court II had determined the family name was Zak, not Zok.

Anna Henriette Luise Sternitzkÿ (1860-1899)

Anna Henriette Luise Sternitzkÿ was born on the 7th of November in 1860 at Friedland in Lübben County. She was baptized on the 4th of December in 1860. Her parents were listed as the Barbier Friedrich Julius Sternitzky and Anna Marie (née Schulz) Sternitzky.

In 1886, the Dienstmädchen (servant girl) Anna Henriette Luise Sternitzkÿ was living at Grüner Weg 46 in Berlin. She married the Eisenhändler (ironmonger) Franz Zak on the 26th of February in 1886 at Berlin. The bride and the groom were identified as Catholics on the marriage record. The parents of the bride were listed as the Barbier Friedrich Julius Sternitzkÿ who had died at Friedland, and Anna Marie (née Schulz) Sternitzkÿ who was living at Berlin.

Franz Zak was born on the 23rd of March in 1859 at Chorzymin, in Bomst County (in Posen). He was the son of Josef Zak who was living at Chorzymin and Elisabeth (née Wawrzyńska) Zak, who had previously died at Chorzymin.

Alwine Therese Luise Zok was born on the 23rd of March in 1888 at Berlin. She was the daughter of the "Arbeiter Karl" Eisenhändler (ironmonger) Franz Zok and Anna Henriette Luise (née Sternitzki) Zok, who lived at Frankfurter Allee 170 in the Friedrichsberg neighborhood in the Lichtenberg borough of Berlin. A note on the birth record (dated the 2nd of March in 1901 at Lichtenberg) shows that the Berlin District Court II had determined the family name was Zak, not Zok. The father and the mother were both listed as Catholic on the birth record.

Anna Henriette Luise (née Sternitzkÿ) Zak died on the 31st of May in 1899. Her husband the Eisenhändler (ironmonger) Franz Zak reported her death and signed the death record. He listed their address as Frankfurter Allee 163 in Lichteberg. She was listed as a Catholic.

In 1911, the Schneiderin (tailor) Alwine Therese Luise Zak lived at Neue Bahnhofstraße 9 in the Rummelsburg neighborhood of the Lichtenberg borough in Berlin. She married the Kaufmann (merchant) Friedrich Wilhelm Herbert Bordes at Berlin on the 28th of April in 1911. The groom was a Protestant. The bride was a Catholic. Her parents were listed as the Eisenhändler (ironmonger) Franz Zak who was living at Lichtenberg and Anna Henriette Luise (née Sternitzki) Zak who had died at Lichtenberg. One of the wedding witnesses was the 25 years old Schlosser (mechanic) Willÿ Pauling who lived at Lichtenberg. He was probably the bride's cousin Max Paul Willÿ Pauling (1884-after 1911).

The groom was born on the 25th of September in 1886 at Berlin. He was the son of the deceased Maschinenbauer (machine builder) Adolf Karl Julius Bordes and Karoline Wilhelmine Marie Auguste (née Nollenhauer) Bordes who still lived at Berlin.

A note on the 1911 marriage record shows that Alwine Therese Luise (née Zak) Bordes and Friedrich Wilhelm Herbert Bordes were divorced on 25 February in 1921. Apparently, Theresa married a Mr. Achterberg after this, explaining why she signed the death record of Marie Minna Emilie (née Sternitzky) Zak as Therese (née Zok) Achterberg.

Birth, Marriage and Death of son
Robert Friedrich Reinhold Sternitzkÿ (1864-1910)

Robert Friedrich Reinhold Sternitzkÿ was born on the 18th of July in 1864 at Friedland in Lübben County. He was baptized on the 7th of August in 1864. He was the son of the Barbier (barber) Friedrich Julius Sternitzkÿ and Anna Marie (née Schulz) Sternitzkÿ from Friedland.

In 1895, the Barbier Robert Friedrich Reinhold Sternitzkÿ was living in Berlin. His father had previously died at Friedland, and his mother had previously died at Berlin. On the 12th of October in 1895, Robert married Susanna Selma Storek (also known as Starek) at Kreuzburg, Upper Silesia. They were both Protestant. The bride signed the marriage record as Selma Sternitzky geboren Storek.

Susanna Selma Storek was born on the 31st of August in 1873 at Deutsch Würbitz in Kreuzburg County. Deutsch-Würbitz is about 10 miles northwest of the city of Kreuzburg. Selma was a resident of Kreuzburg at the time of the wedding. Her parents were the Freimann (hangman) Daniel Storek (Starek) and his wife Johanna née Gunnior who were both residents of Deutsch-Würbitz (renamed as Niederweiden in 1935, now the village named Wiezbica Dolna, Poland).

The witnesses at the 1895 wedding included the 33 years old Kaufmann (merchant) Wilhelm Speer and the 43 years old Hausbesitzer (homeowner) Paul Glaner. They were both residents of Kreuzburg.

In 1910, the Barbier Robert Friedrich Reinhold Sternitzkÿ and his wife were living at Pasteurstraße 39 in Berlin. He died in his home on the 12th of August in 1910. He was a Protestant. His death record was signed by his older sister the divorced Näherin (seamstress) Karoline Wilhelmine Auguste (née Sternitzkÿ) Juris.

In 1910, the divorced Näherin (seamstress) Karoline Wilhelmine Auguste (née Sternitzkÿ) Juris was living with her younger sister Minna Marie Emilie (née Sternitzkÿ) Zak at Rummelsburger Straße 21 at Lichtenberg (a borough of Berlin). Minna was the wife of the Eisenhändler (ironmonger) Franz Zak. Karoline Wilhelmine Auguste (née Sternitzkÿ) Juris died in her sister's home on the 20th of August in 1910.

Death of Friedrich Julius Sternitzkÿ, between 1882 and 1886

A death record for the Barbier Friedrich Julius Sternitzkÿ has not been located. The marriage record for his daughter Minna Marie Emilie Sternitzkÿ shows that he was living at Friedland on the 9th of October in 1882. The death record for his daughter Wilhelmine Marie Luise (née Sternitzkÿ) Pauling shows that Julius died at Friedland before the 22nd of January in 1886.

Death of wife Marie Anna (née Schulze) Sternitzkÿ (c.1828-1892)

Maria Anna (née Schulze) Sternitzkÿ died at the Königlichen (royal) Charité Hospital in Berlin on the 28th of November in 1892. She died at the age of 64 years old, so she was born around 1828. The reversal in the order of her first and middle names was probably an error by the person (a hospital director) who completed her death record. Prior to her death she lived at Blücherstraße 38 in Berlin. She was listed as the widow of the Barbier Julius Sternitzkÿ from Friedland.

The death record shows that she was born at Below (which was probably the village named Below in the Duchy of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, north of Berlin). The record shows her mother Christiane Schulze married the Ziegler (brickmaker) Mr. Lehmann after her daughter's birth, and had died at Lieberose (a city southeast from Berlin).

The Prussian Province of Posen

The history of the region around the city named Posen (Poznań in Polish) is interesting but very complicated. A detailed history of the region is beyond the purpose of this book, but a short general history of the Posen region is provided to show the region was a Prussian province during most of the period that the Sternitzke families lived there.

On the northern border of Silesia is a land that was known as Südpreußen (South Prussia). Before it became a Prussian province, South Prussia was the Posen Province of Poland. That is the simple description. But Poland has had a complicated history and depending on the source document, South Prussia was originally part of a country known as:

- Wielkopolska (Greater Poland) in the Kingdom of Poland,
- the Kingdom of Poland and Grand Duchy of Lithuania,
- the Polish Nobles' Republic, and
- the Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth.

When Poland was partitioned between Prussia, Austria and Russia (1772-1795), the Prussian province named Südpreußen (South Prussia) was created with the city Posen as its capital. South Prussia was part of the Kingdom of Prussia and the German Empire from 1793 until the end of the First World War (except during the 1807-1815 years under Napoleon Bonaparte). Due to political reasons, the region had several names during the period when the members of the Sternitzke family lived there:

- Poznań Voivodeship (Posen Province of Poland, 1320-1793),
- Südpreußen (South Prussia, 1793-1807),
- Polish Duchy of Warsaw (1807-1815),
- Großherzogtum Posen (the Prussian Grand Duchy of Posen, 1815-1848),
- Provinz Posen (the Prussian Province of Posen 1848-1918, and part of the German Empire from 1871-1918).

After the First World War, the Second Polish Republic regained control of the Posen region. Posen was annexed by the Nazis in 1939, but it was returned to Poland after the Second World War. The Germans who had settled in Posen (and had been a minority there) were expelled after the Second World War.

Sternitzke Family Migration to Posen

German colonists were invited by the Polish nobility to settle into the region around the city of Posen (Poznań in Polish) during the 13th century. This was the same period as when Germans were invited to settle in Silesia. The Cistercians established an abbey in 1288 at Polnisch Krone (also known as Koronowo). German farmers and laborers from Westphalia and other German areas were settled near the abbey to support the abbey. In the 17th century, a large number of Silesian Protestants migrated north into the Posen region to escape the violence and destruction of the Thirty Years War. The migration of Silesians into the region continued when the area became South Prussia in 1793. The German population in the Posen region was never the majority, in spite of the state sponsored colonization in the 19th century. The percentage of ethnic Germans in the Prussian Province of Posen reached a peak of 43.4% in 1861.

Some members of the Sternitzke family were known to have migrated from Silesia to Posen in the 18th century. The earliest known member of the family to be born in Posen was Christian Sternitzke, who was born at Nadstawen in 1774. The 1883 map (below) shows the northern border of Silesia, and the southern border of Posen. Many members of the Sternitzke family migrated north to cities and villages in this border region.

It is possible that an early branch of the Sternitzke family migrated from Guhrau County (Silesia) to Posen in the 14th century. Józef Lekszycki wrote two books (listed below) that included transcriptions of legal records associated with property titles (and the settlement of disputes) in Posen from 1386 to 1400. Several interesting name variations were documented in those records, including: Czirniski and Siernicki. Details regarding some of the individuals identified in those legal records are discussed in Chapter 23: Sternitzke Family Origin and the Colonization of Silesia, Ostsiedlung Group 2: Erfurt to Glogau. The village Tschirnau in Guhrau County, near the endpoint of that migration route, is a possible source of the Sternitzke family name.

City of Posen

The City of Posen (written as Poznań in Polish) was the capital of the Posen District and the Posen Province. Below are the Sternitzke family records associated with the City of Posen.

Family, Marriage and Death of Karl Sternitzki (1804-1855) 1831 and 1855 City of Posen

Birth of son Carl Ferdinand Sternitzki, May 1831

Carl Ferdinand Sternitzki was born at Posen on the 18th of May in 1831, and baptized at the Protestant garrison church on the 29th of May in 1831. His father, Carl Sternitzki was a Musketeer serving in the 18th Infantry Regiment, Garrison Company of the Prussian Army at Posen. His mother was listed as Susanna Kirschken, but it is hard to read. From the way the mother's name is written, and comparing that entry to other mother's names on that page, it looks like the father and the mother were not married.

Marriage of Karl Sternitzki, November 1831

There are two copies of the 1831 marriage record for Karl Sternitzki and Susanna Kirsten. Film number 72536 listed him as Karl Sternitzki. Film number 72539 listed him as Carl Sternitzki. All other details about the marriage are the same on both sources.

In 1831, Karl Sternitzki was a Musketeer serving in the 18th Infantry Regiment, Garrison Company of the Prussian Army at Posen. He was 27 years old, so he was born around 1804. His place of residence was listed as Polnisch Kottowe in Militsch County. I have found only one village with a similar spelling: Kodlewe also known as Kottlewe in Militsch County.

Karl Sternitzki married Susanna Kirsten on the 6th of November in 1831 at the Protestant Church in the city of Posen. The bride was 28 years old, so she was born around 1803. Her place of residence was listed as Lissa. The city of Lissa in the province of Posen was in Lissa County. It was also known Polnisch Lissa. It is now named Leszno, in Leszno County, Poland.

Birth of daughter Johanne Pauline Sternitzki, 1835

Johanne Pauline Sternitzki was born at Posen on the 12th of September in 1835. She was baptized at the Protestant garrison church on the 27th of September in 1835. Her father, Carl Sternitzki was a Musketeer serving in the 18th Infantry Regiment, Garrison Company of the Prussian Army at Posen. His mother was listed as Susanne (née Kinste) Sternitzki.

Death of Karl Sternitzki (1804-1855)

There are two copies of the 1855 death record for Karl Sternitzki from the Protestant garrison church in Posen. He died on the 9th of January in 1855, at the age of 50 years, 3 months and 22 days old, so his calculated birth date was the 18th of September in 1804. He was buried on the 11th of January in 1855. He was a Protestant. He was a Kaserniewärter (barracks guard) at the Prussian Army garrison in the city of Posen when he died. The names of his parents were not listed on either record. He died from Lungenentzündung (pneumonia).

Marriage of Fredericus Sternitzki 1836 City of Posen

Fredericus Sternitzki married Marianna Mathildis Kayser at St. Rochus Catholic Church in Posen in 1836. The groom was 32 years old (born circa 1804). The bride was 24 years old (born circa 1812). St. Rochus Church is known in Polish as Kościół św. Rocha w Poznaniu.

Birth and Family of Karl Sternitzki c.1837 to 1889 City of Posen

The Arbeiter (laborer) Karl Sternitzki was born at Posen around 1837 according to his death record. He could have been a son of Fredericus Sternitzki and Marianna Mathildis (née Kayser) Sternitzki, whose marriage is discussed above. Karl Sternitzki was a Protestant and a resident of Posen, who lived at Breitestraße 12. He was married to Christiana (née Wegner) Sternitzki.

Birth of son Albert Sternetzki, between 1863 and 1866

Two sources provide conflicting calculated years of birth for Albert Sternetzki, the son of Karl Sternetzki. The 1886 marriage record discussed below is probably more reliable than the death record which was recorded by hospital staff, because Albert signed the marriage record. It listed his age as 22 years old when he signed the record 13th of November in 1886. Either he turned 22 earlier that year (making 1864 his year of birth), or he was going to turn 23 prior to the end of the year (making 1863 his year of birth).

The death record of Albert Sternetzki, listed his age as 23 when he died on the 26th of July in 1889. Based on that data, he either turned 23 earlier that year (making 1866 his calculated year of birth) or he was going to turn 24 after that date (making 1865 his calculated year of birth).

Midwife Christine (née Wegner) Sternetzka, 1882 & 1883

Christine (née Wegner) Sternetzka (the female version of Sternetzki) signed two police death reports. Christine was apparently a midwife who would deliver babies in her home. Both cases involved the stillborn daughters of unmarried women.

On the 20th of November in 1882, Frau Christine (née Wegner) Sternetzka lived at Friedichsstraße 18 in Posen. She reported the stillborn death of the daughter of an unmarried woman named Stanislawa Halasinska (a Catholic) who lived with her in their home.

Sternetzka 1882

On the 12th of November in 1883, Frau Christine née Wegner) Sternetzka lived at Friedichsstraße 18 in Posen. She reported the stillborn death of the daughter of an unmarried woman named Ida Schiller who lived with her in their home.

Wedding Witness Albert Sternetzki, 1886

The 22 years old Zimmermann (carpenter) Albert Sternetzki was one of the witnesses at the wedding of Hermann Klein and Anna Susanna Labisch. Albert Sternetzki lived at Büttelstraße 2 in 1886. The other witness was the 25 years old Tischlergeselle (journeyman furniture maker) Florian Iwan from Posen. He lived at Wronkerstraße 19.

The Fleischer (butcher) Hermann Klein and the Dienstmädchen (servant girl) Anna Susanna Labisch were married at Posen on the 13th of November in 1886. They were both Protestant. Herman Klein lived at Krämerstraße 19 in Posen. Anna Susanna Labisch lived at Jesuitenstraße 7 in Posen.

Hermann Klein was born on the 18th of March in 1859 at Schroda. He was the son of the Weber (weaver) Carl Klein and his wife Rosalie (née Förster) Klein. His father died at Schroda before the wedding. His mother was still living at Schroda at the time of the wedding.

Ann Susanna Labisch was born on the 23rd of November in 1859 at Walkow. She was the daughter of the Schmiedemeister (master smith) Gottlieb Labisch and his wife Marie (née Hass) Labisch. Her father died at Tremessen before the wedding. Her mother was still living at Walkow at the time of the wedding.

Death of Karl Sternetzki (c.1837-1889)

The Inspector of the Städtischen Krankenhaus (city hospital) at Posen reported the death of the Arbeiter (laborer) Karl Sternetzki. He died at the age of 51 years old on the 18th of January in 1889, so he was born around 1837. He was born at Posen according to the death record.

Karl Sternetzki was a Protestant and a resident of Posen, who lived at Breitestraße 12. He was married to Christiana (née Wegner) Sternetzki. The names of his parents were not known. Breitestraße is now named Ulica Wielka.

Death of son Albert Sternetzki (c. 1866-1889)

The Inspector of the Städtischen Krankenhaus (city hospital) at Posen reported the death of the Zimmergeselle (journeyman carpenter) Albert Sternetzki died on the 26th of July in 1889. He died at the age of 23 years old, so he was born at Posen around 1866. He was the son of the deceased Arbeiter Karl Sternetzki and his wife Christiana (née Wegner) Sternetzki. He was a Protestant and had lived in Posen at Breitestraße 12.

Village of Glasdorf in Adelnau County

Glasdorf was a village in Adelnau County. The civil records for Glasdorf were recorded at the Standesamt (registry office) in the city of Adelnau. Glasdorf was about 8 miles southeast from Adelnau. Glasdorf was also known as Szklarka Przygodzka (which is the name shown on the map below). It is now known as Szklarka Przygodzicka, Poland.

The Sternitzke family who lived at Glasdorf were probably related to the Pauline (née Sternitzke) Bunk family that lived at the village Kottowski in Gross Wartenberg County in Silesia. Glasdorf was about 1 mile northeast from Kattowski.

Marriage of Karl Sternitzke 1904 Glasdorf and Adelnau

According to his 1904 marriage record, Karl Sternitzke was born on the 16th of February in 1875 at Schotschwitz in Militsch County. He was the son of the farmer Wilhelm Sternitzke and his wife Christiane (née Horn) Sternitzke. The village written as Schotschwitz was probably Tschotschwitz in Militsch County. Tschotschwitz is now named Czatkowice, Poland. The village named Glasdorf is 19 miles east from the village that was named Tschotschwitz. See the Family of Wilhelm Sternitzke and Christiana (née Horn) Sternitzke, 1870 to 1885 Tschotschwitz.

In 1904, the divorced Gastwirt (innkeeper) Karl Sternitzke was living at Glasdorf. His parents the Auszügler (retired farmer) Wilhelm Sternitzke and his wife Christiane (née Horn) Sternitzke were also living at Glasdorf in 1904.

On the 21st of November in 1904, the divorced Gastwirt Karl Sternitzke married the Ernstine Marie Ulrich. Their marriage was registered at the Adelnau Standesamt. They were both Protestants. This was the first marriage for Ernstine Marie Ulrich. She was a resident of Bonikow, a village that was 2 miles south of Adelnau. Bonikow is now known as Boników, Poland.

Ernstine Marie Ulrich was born on the 8th of September in 1887 at Bonikow. Her parents were the Auszügler (retired farmer) Wilhelm Ulrich and his wife Auguste (née Hübner) Ulrich. They were still living at Bonikow at the time of their daughter's wedding.

The wedding witnesses were: the 26-years-old Gastwirt (innkeeper) Sylveste Krawczyk from Adelnau, and the 38 years old Gewerbescher (businessman) Wincent (also known as Wincentz) Cierniak who also lived at Adelnau.

Marriage of Marie Juliane Sternitzke 1798 Wollstein

The Jungfer (maiden) Marie Juliane Sternitzke married Johann Sabitzki at Wollstein on the 14th of September in 1798. They were both Catholic. Their marriage was recorded in the Protestant garrison church at Glogau.

Marie Juliane Sternitzke was the oldest daughter of the late Ackerbürger Simon Sternitzke from Wollstein. Her age was not listed. An Ackerbürger was a resident of the city who derived his income from agriculture (an urban farmer). Johann Sabitzki was a 32-years-old Musketier (Infantryman) in the Infanterie-Regiment 37 at Glogau. His birthplace was listed as Szeklike in Russian-Poland.

Bromberg County in the Bromberg District

City of Bromberg in Bromberg County

The city of Bromberg (known in Polish as Bydgoszcz) in northern Posen has a long history as a Polish and German city. Old versions of the name for this city include: Bidgosciam (1239), Bydgoszcza (1242) and Bidgoscha (1279). The city was occupied by the Teutonic Knights from 1331 to 1343, then granted city rights by King Casimir III of Poland. The region became part of Prussia in 1772, part of Poland from 1807 to 1815 and then returned to Prussia. The city was part of the German Empire until it was again returned to Poland in 1919. From 1939 to 1945 it was occupied by Nazi Germany. It was returned to Poland in 1945.

Haupt-Steuer-Amt-Assistent Ernst Sternitzke Second Lieutenant Sternitzke Royal Prussian Army (1863- 26 April 1864) 1863 Bromberg and 1864 Breslau

In 1863, Second Lieutenant Sternitzke served in the infantry of 1st Aufgebot (squad) of the 2nd Battalion (Schrimmn) of the 2nd Posensches Regiment Number 19.

The Militär-Wochenblatt (an independent weekly newsletter of the Royal Prussian Army) reported the following Landwehr transfers for Second Lieutenant Sternitzke:

On the 15th of September in 1863, Second Lieutenant Sternitzke was transferred from the 1st Aufgebot (squad) of the 2nd Battalion (Schrimmn) of the 2nd Posensches Regiment Number 19, to the 2 Battalion (Bromberg) of the 3rd Pommersches Regiment Number 14.

The formal names for these regiments were:

- the Infantry Regiment von Courbière (2nd Posen) Number 19 (1813), probably named for Prussian Military Governor (of West Prussia from 1807 to 1809) Field Marshal Wilhelm René de l'Homme de Courbière (1733-1811), and
- the Infantry Regiment Graf Schwerin (3rd Pomerania) Number 14 (1813), named after the Prussian General Field Marshal Kurt Christoph Count von Schwerin (1684-1757).

The Militär-Wochenblatt (Number 47 from 1863) reported that on the 13th of November of 1863, Second Lieutenant Sternitzke was transferred from the 1st Aufgebot of the 2nd Battalion (Bromberg) of the 3rd Pommersches Regiment Number 14.

The Haupt-Steuer-Amt-I (main tax office assistant) Sternitzke from the provincial tax administration at Bromberg (in Posen) transferred to Breslau where he worked in the same capacity. This was reported in the 9th of October 1863 issue of the Amtsblatt der Königlichen Preußischen Regierung zu Bromberg.

The 1864 death record book for the Elftausend Jungfrauen Protestant Church in Breslau included the death and burial record for Ernst Sternitzke. He was listed as the Kgl. Landwehr Lieutenant und Haupt Steuer Amts. I, who had lived at Michaelisstraße 5. He died on the 26th of April in 1864 from Lungenschwindsucht (tuberculosis) at the age of 29 years, 1 month and 4 days. That would make his calculated birth date the 22nd of March in 1835. He was buried on the 30th of April in 1864. Michaelisstraße is now Nowowiejska Street (about 5 blocks north of the Oder River from Sand Island).

The Militär-Wochenblatt (Number 34 from 1864) reported that Second Lieutenant Sternitzke in the 1st Battalion (Breslau) of the 3rd Niederschlesisches (Lower Silesian) Regiment Number 10 (of the 6th Army Corps) died on the 26th of April in 1864. This was during the Second Schleswig War (1 February to 30 October 1864) in which Austria and Prussia were allies against Denmark.

The May 1864 issue of the Schlesische Provinzialblätter reported the death of the Central-Haupt-Steuer-Amt-I Sternitzke at Breslau.

City of Fraustadt in Fraustadt County

The city of Fraustadt (now known as Wschowa, Poland) was one of the centers of the Protestant Reformation in Poland. Many Protestants from Silesia fled to Fraustadt during the Counter-Reformation and the Thirty Years' War (1618-1648). The region was annexed by the Kingdom of Prussia in 1793. Members of the Sternitzke family may have moved into this region to escape religious persecution or because of new opportunities to own property. See the discussion regarding Tschirnitz (Czirnitsch) in Glogau County in Silesia, and the discussion regarding Tschirnau in Guhrau County in Silesia, under the discussion regarding Ostsiedlung Group 2: Erfurt to Glogau.

Family and Death of Gustav Sternitzke (1831-1881)
1867 to 1881 Grünau (Strzyzewo)

Gustav Sternitzke was born on the 29th of September in 1831 at Polnisch Hammer in Trebnitz County, Silesia. He was the son of Christoph Sternitzke, who died before Gustav. The name of Gustav's mother was not known by Beate Sternitzke when she supplied the data for Gustav's death record. Gustav Sternitzke was a Protestant. Johanna Beate Caroline (née Gruttke) Sternitzke was Gustav's second wife.

First Marriage of Gustav Sternitzke
Stillborn Daughter Sternitzki, 1867

The first record that mentioned the first wife of Gustav Sternitzke was in regards to their unnamed daughter. The birth and baptism record book and the death record book for the Protestant Church at Dobrzyca included the records of a stillborn daughter of the Wirth (Landwirth, farmer) Gustav Sternitzki and his wife Anna Rosina (née Kretschmer) Sternitzki. The child was stillborn on the 1st of July in 1867. The church record listed Strzyzewo (Grünau) as the residence of the family. The baby was buried at Strzyzewo (Grünau) on the 3rd of July in 1867.

Death of wife Anna Rosina (née Kretschmer) Sternitzki (c.1826-1868)

Anna Rosina (née Kretschmer) Sternitzki died at Strzyzewo (Grünau) the 7th of March in 1868, at the age of 42 years old. So, she was born around 1826. She was the daughter of the Freigärtner Friedrich Kretschmer and his wife Susanna (née Münch) Kretschmer. She was buried on the 10th of March at Strzyzewo (Grünau). The cause of death was identified on the burial record as Lungenentzündung (pulmonary infection, pneumonia). Her husband was listed as the Wirth (Landwirth, farmer) Gustav Sternitzki.

Second Marriage of Gustav Sternitzke, 1868

The databases for the Poznan Project and the Meine-ahnen.eu include two records that are probably the original and the attested marriage records for Gustav Sternitzke and Beate Gruttke. The first marriage church record was from the Protestant church at Sulau of Militsch County (record number 26c in 1868). The database shows Gustav Sternitzke was born in 1833. He was a widower when he married Beate Gruttke. She was born on the 20th of November in 1834, the daughter of Matthaeus Gruttke. A second marriage record was recorded in the Protestant church at Dobberschütz (Dobrzyca) in Posen (record number 6 in 1868). It shows Gustav Sternitzki was a 35 years old widower who married Johanna Beate Caroline Gruttke. She was 34 years old and the daughter of Matthaeus Gruttke. See the Marriage of Gustav Sternitzke (1831-1881), 1868 Sulau.

Johanna Beate Caroline Gruttke gave birth to an illegitimate son, four years before she married Gustav Sternitzke. Wilhelm Gruttke was born on the 13th of July in 1864 at Peterkaschütz in Militsch County, Silesia. See the discussion below regarding his wedding in 1888.

The second marriage record from the Protestant church at Dobberschütz (Dobrzyca) was available for download and review. It shows the marriage at Dobberschütz took place on the 19th of July in 1868. The widowed Wirth (Landwirth, farmer) Gustav Sternitzki from Grünau (Strzyzewo) married Johanna Beate Gruttke from Peterkaschütz near Sulau (in Militsch County, Silesia). She was the youngest daughter of Bauer (farmer) Mathaeus Gruttke. The original record listed their ages as 35 and 34, which would make the calculated years of birth around 1833 for Gustav, and 1834 for Beate. They were both Protestant. The record from Dobberschütz listed two dates in the column for the ceremony, the 12th and the 19th of July, with a note stating the first exchange of vows was at the Evangelical Parish in Sulau on the 12th of July in 1868.

Birth of daughter Helene Beate Sternitzki, 1869

Helene Beate Sternitzki was born at Grünau (Strzyzewo) on the 29th of March in 1869. She was baptized at the Protestant Church in Dobberschütz (Dobrzyca) on the 30th of March in 1869. She was the daughter of the Wirth (Landwirth, farmer) Gustav Sternitzki and his wife Beate (née Gruttke) Sternitzki. They were both Protestant. The baptismal sponsors were: Frau Christiana Schwarz, the Wirth Friedrich Kleber and the Wirth Christoph Schwarz. All of the sponsors were from Grünau (Strzyzewo).

The Wirth (Landwirth, farmer) Gustav Sternitzki from Grünau (Strzyzewo) was one of the baptismal sponsors for Anna Ernestine Kleber. She was born on the 3rd of February in 1870 at Grünau (Strzyzewo), and she was baptized at the Protestant Church in Dobberschütz (Dobrzyca) on the 6th of February in 1870. She was the daughter of Wirth Friedrich Kleber and his wife Pauline (née Rauhut) Kleber. The other sponsors were the Jungfrau Pauline Albertine Rauhut and Frau Anna Rosine Kleber, who were also from Grünau (Strzyzewo).

Birth of daughter Pauline Ernestine Sternicki/Sternitzki, 1871

The 1871 birth and baptism record for the daughter of Gustav Sternitzki and his wife Beate (née Grotke) Sternitzki, listed the child's name as Pauline Ernestine Sternicki, but the father's family name was spelled Sternitzki. The child was born at Grünau (Strzyzewo) on the 4th of December in 1871. She was baptized at the Protestant Church in Dobberschütz (Dobrzyca) on the 17th of December in 1871. The baptismal sponsors were: Frau Christiane Schwarz from Strzyzewo, Frau Pauline Kleber from Strzyzewo and the Wirth (Landwirth, farmer) Gottfried Kretschmer from Sutynia.

Birth of daughter Anna Emilie Sternitzki, 1874

Anna Emilie Sternitzki was born at Strzyzewo on the 30th of April in 1874 and baptized in the Evangelical parish at Dobberschütz on the 10th of May in 1874. She was the daughter of the Wirth (Landwirth, farmer) Gustav Sternitzki and Johanna Beate (nee Grottk) Sternitzki.

The baptismal sponsors were Frau Christiane Schwarz and the Wirth Christoph Schwarz from Strzyzewo.

Wedding Witness Gustav Sternitzke, 1876

The Wirth (Landwirth, farmer) Gustav Sternitzke was one of the witnesses at the wedding of the Schuhmacher (shoemaker) August Dorn and the widow Rosine Kretschmer. Gustav Sternitzke was listed as 44 years old and a resident of Strzyzewo. He signed the record.

The other wedding witness was the Tagearbeiter (day laborer) Christian Liche. He as 47 years old and he was a resident of Groß Lubin (Pleschen County, Posen).

The Schuhmacher August Dorn was a Protestant and a resident of Kotlin (Pleschen County, Posen). He was born on the 21st of April in 1836 at Wirschkowitz in Militsch County (Silesia). He was the son of the Schuhmacher Christian Dorn and his wife Christiane (née Meldner) Dorn, who were residents of Wirschkowitz.

The widow Rosine Kretschmer was a Protestant and a resident of Kotlin. She was born on the 2nd of April in 1838 at Peterkaschütz in Militsch County (Silesia). She was the daughter of the Häusler Matheus Tschepke and his wife Anna Rosina (née Weiss) Tschepke, who were residents of Peterkaschütz.

Death of Gustav Sternitzke (1831-1881)
1881 Grünau

Beate Sternitzke, a resident of Grünau (Strzyzewo) reported the death of her husband the Arbeiter Gustav Sternitzke, at the Standesamt (registry office) in Dobberschütz (Dobrzyca). Gustav was a resident of Grünau and died there. Gustav Sternitzke died on the 7th of April in 1881, at the age of 49 years, 6 months and 9 days. That would make his calculated birth date the 29th of September in 1831.

Beate Sternitzke's Signature, 1886

The Arbeiter-Wittwe (widow of a laborer) Beate Sternitzke from Grünau (Strzyzewo) Strzyzewo reported the death of the Auszüglerin (retired farmer) Susanna Veronika Kettner, also from Strzyzewo. Susanna Veronika Kettner was the widow of the Grundbesitzer (property owner) Karl Kettner. She was born at and died at Strzyzewo. She died at the age of 91 years, 11 months and 22 days, on the 26th of January in 1886. Frau Kettner was a Protestant and the daughter of the Strzyzewo Mühlenbesitzer (mill owner) Christophorus Krause and his wife Anna Marianna Krause.

Beate Sternitzke signed the death record at the Standesamt (registry office) at Dobrzyca (Dobberschütz) on the 27th of January in 1886.

Marriage of Wilhelm Gruttke, 1888

The Knecht (farmhand) Wilhelm Grutte married Auguste Wilhelmine Finster on the 10th of July in 1888 at Dobrzyca (Dobberschütz). A legal note (dated 17 May 1889) on the marriage record shows that the correct spelling of the family name of the groom was Gruttke, and the maiden name of the bride's mother was Gruschke (not Gruschinska). The bride and the groom were both Protestant.

Wilhelm Grutte/Gruttke was born on the 13th of July in 1864 at Peterkaschütz in Militsch County, Silesia. At the time of the wedding, he was living at Sosnica Hauland. He was the illegitimate son of Beate Grutte/Gruttke who later was named Beate Sternitzke.

Sosnica Hauland was the name of a village from 1815 to 1919. It was named Blumenau from 1939 to 1945. It is now named Sośniczka, Poland. It is about 2 miles southeast from Dobrzyca (Dobberschütz).

August Wilhelmine Finster was born on the 26th of February in 1866 at Sosnica Hauland. She was the daughter of the Arbeiter (laborer) Julius Finster and his wife Caroline (née Gruschinska/Gruschke) Finster. The bride and her parents lived at Sosnica Hauland prior to the wedding.

The wedding witnesses were: the 64 years old Wirth (Landwirth, farmer) Andreas Damitz from Sosnica Hauland, and the 31 years old Wirth August Gruschinske from Sosnica Hauland

Family of Johanne (née Sterniske) Zuchandke 1824 to 1889 Zduny

The death record of Johanne (née Sterniske) Zuchandke shows she was born around 1765. That year was based on her age (88 years old) when she died on the 23rd of November in 1853. Her death was recorded in the burial record book for the Protestant Church at Zduny. She was listed as a Protestant, a resident of the village Rochy and the widow of the Schneidermeister Gottlieb Zuchandke who died at Jutroschin in Posen. She was buried at the cemetery in the village Ruda on the 26th of November in 1853.

Zduny, Rochy and Ruda were all in Krotoschin County of Posen. The civil and church records for those locations were recorded at Zduny which was on the border between Silesia and Posen. They were all located about 10 miles north of the city of Militsch in Militsch County, Silesia. The history of Johanne (née Sterniske) Zuchandke is known through the records of her family from the Zduny Standesamt (registry office). The advanced ages of the people who reported the data and their inability to write (even their own signatures) resulted in variation in the details of their histories. See Chapter 17, the Prussian Province of Posen, Krotoschin County, Zduny: the Family of Johanne (née Sterniske) Zuchandke, 1824 to 1889 Posen.

Birth and Death of son Carl Zochandki,
c.1814 Trebnitz, 1876 Bestwin (Posen)

The death record for the Tagearbeiter Carl Zochandki shows he was born at Trebnitz around 1814. He died at his home in Bestwin (Krotoschin County, Posen) on the 1st of September in 1876 at the age of 62 years old. Carl's brother, the Tagearbeiter August Zochandki from Bestwin reported the death at the registry office at Zduny. Their parents were listed by the registrar as the Tagearbeiter (day laborer) Gottlieb Zochandki and his wife Susanna (née Sternitzki) Zochandki. August Zochandki signed the record by writing three crosses.

Birth and Death of son August Zuchanke,
c.1824 Jutroschin (Posen), 1889 Bestwin (Posen)

The Tagearbeiter (day laborer) August Zuchanke died at his home in Bestwin at the age of 65 years old on the 28th of September in 1889. His calculated year of birth was around 1824. According to his death record at the Zduny registry office, he was born at Jutroschin in Rawitsch County of Posen. The information for the death record was provided by August's wife Susanna (née Becker) Zuchanke. Susanna signed the record by writing 3 crosses. August's parents were listed as the deceased Tagearbeiter Gottlieb Zuchanke and his deceased wife Johanna (née Sternitzke) Zuchanke who both last resided at Jutroschin.

Second Marriage and Family of Johanna (née Dickert) Sternitzke 1874 to 1877 Zduńy

Johann Carl Zirke (age 48) married Johanna (née Dickert) Sternicke (age 47) at Zduńy, in 1874. That marriage was also recorded at Ostrowo (Posen), where the bride's name was recorded as Johanna (née Dickert) Sternitzke, the widow of Carl Sternitzke. In both records, it was recorded as a Protestant wedding. Johanna was listed as the widow of Carl Sternicke in the Zduńy record. The Ostrowo record listed her as the widow of Carl Sternitzke. Johann Carl Zirke was listed as a widower in the Ostrowo record of his marriage to Johanna. The record at Ostrowo had the record number A-17, which probably means it was an attested record certifying their marriage at Ostrowo because they moved there from Zduńy.

See the 1857 marriage of Carl Sternitzki and Johanna Dickert at Jutroschin, Rawitsch County, Posen in the discussion: Birth and Marriage of Carl Sternitzki, 1827 Nadstawen and 1857 Jutroschin.

Marriages and Family of Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke
1885 to 1903 Zduny

Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke (1859-1903) was born at Baschkow on the 29th of January in 1859. Baschkow was named Baschau from 1937 to 1945. The village is now named Baszków (Poland) and it is about 4.5 miles northwest from Zduny. He was the son of the Eigenthümer (property owner) Carl Sternitzke and his wife Johanne (née Dickert) Sternitzke. See the 1857 marriage of Carl Sternitzki and Johanna Dickert at Jutroschin, Rawitsch County, Posen in the discussion: Birth and Marriage of Carl Sternitzki, 1827 Nadstawen and 1857 Jutroschin.

Birth of daughter Ida Sophie Sternitzke, 1885

Ida Sophie Sternitzke was born in the family home at Zduny on the 8th of August in 1885. The father and mother were identified as the Schuhmachermeister (master shoemaker) Wilhelm Sternitzke and his wife Marie (née Scholz) Sternitzke. They were both Protestant. Wilhelm signed the civil birth record at the Zduny Standesamt (registry office).

Birth of son Paul Wilhelm Sternitzke, 1887

Paul Wilhelm Sternitzke was born in the family home at Zduny on the 26th of September in 1887. The birth record originally recorded the family name as Sternitzky. The child's father signed the signed the civil birth record at the Zduny Standesamt as Sternitzkÿ. A note on the record indicates the correct spelling of the family name was Sternitzke. The correction was ordered by the Krotoschin Königlichen Amtsgericht (royal district court) on the 19th of September in 1907.

Birth of daughter Marie Emma Anna Sternitzke, 1890

Marie Emma Anna Sternitzke was born in the family home at Zduny on the 10th of December in 1890. She was the daughter of the Schuhmachermeister Wilhelm Sternitzke and his wife Marie (née Scholz) Sternitzke. The BaSIA (Database for Archival Indexing System) listed the mother's name as Marie Sculz. Wilhelm signed the civil birth record at the Zduny Standesamt. That record listed the mother as Marie (née Scholz) Sternitzke.

Birth and Death of son Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke (junior, 1894-1899)

Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke (junior) was born in the family home at Zduny on the 30th of December in 1894. His father signed the civil birth record at the Zduny Standesamt on the 2nd of January in 1895. A note was added to the birth record – this child died – see record number 71 in the 1899. That record was reviewed. It listed his death date as the 25th of May in 1899. The record was signed by the child's father.

Death of Marie Sternitzke (c.1858-1897)

The Schuhmachermeister Wilhelm Sternitzke reported the death of his wife Marie (née Scholz) Sternitzke. Their residence was at Zduny. She died in their home, at the age of 39 years old on the 19th of August in 1897. She was a Protestant. She was born at Zduny, and married Wilhelm at Zduny.

Marie Scholz was the daughter of the Schuhmachermeister Wilhelm Scholz and his wife Sophie (née Höfe) Scholz.

Second Marriage of Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke (senior), 1898

The Schuhmachermeister Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke (senior) married Emilie Christiane Breithor on the 21st of May in 1898. Their marriage was registered at the Ostrowo Standesamt. Ostrowo is now named Ostrow Wielkopolski, Poland. They were both Protestant.

Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke was born on the 29th of January in 1859 at Baschkow. In 1898, he was living at Zduny. He was the son of the deceased Eigenthümer (property owner) Carl Sternitzke who had died at Zduny and Johanne (née Dickert) Sternitzke who still lived at Zduny at the time of the wedding. He signed the marriage record as Wilhelm Sternitzke.

Emilie Christiane Breithor was born on the 4th of May in 1862 at Słaborowice (8 miles northeast of Ostrowo). At the time of the wedding, she lived at Ostrowo at Rathkammerstraße 76. She was the daughter of the Gärtner Eduard Breithor and his wife Christiane (née Eitner)

Breithor. Her father died before the wedding. Her mother was living at Groß Gorzyce (2 miles southeast of Ostrowo).

The witnesses at the wedding were: the 53 years old Arbeiter Carl Breithor from Ostrowo, and the 43 years old Färbermeister (master dyer) Hermann Hoffmann from Ostrowo.

Death of Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke (senior), 1903

The Schuhmachermeister Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke (senior) died in his home at Zduny on the 10th of February in 1903. He was a Protestant. He died at the age of 44 years old, so his calculated year of birth was around 1859.

The death of Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke was reported by his wife the Schuhmacherfrau Emilie (née Breithor) Sternitzke. She was the second wife of Wilhelm Sternitzke. The BaSIA (Database for Archival Indexing System) listed his wife's name as Emilie (née Breithor) Sternitzke, which was how the Standesamt registrar wrote her name on the death record, but Emilie signed the death record as Emilie Sternitzke geboren Breithor.

According to his death record, Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke was born at the village Baschkow. He was the son of the deceased Eigentümer (property owner) Carl Sternitzke and his wife Johanna (née Dickert) Sternitzke. See the Birth and Marriage of Carl Sternitzki, 1827 Nadstawen and 1857 Jutroschin.

Johanna (née Dickert) Sternitzke was living at Zduny at the time of her son's death. She married the Zimmermann (carpenter) Johann Carl Zirke at Zduny in 1874, after the death of her first husband. See the Second Marriage and Family of Johanna (née Dickert) Sternitzke, 1874 to 1877 Zduny.

Family and Death of Johann Gottlieb Sternitzke 1891 to 1924 Zduny

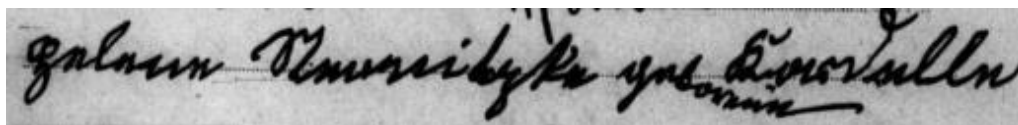

Johann Gottlieb Sternitzke (c.1837-1891) was born at Groß Märtinau in Trebnitz County around 1837. He was the son of the Häusler Johann Sternitzke and his wife Susanne Helene (née Günther) Sternitzke.

Johann Gottlieb Sternitzke married Susanne Helene (née Kordelle) Sternitzke around 1873. She was born around 1838 at Kommerowe in Trebnitz County. She was the daughter of the farmer Friedrich Kordelle and his wife Susanna (née Nitschke) Kordelle.

Johann Gottlieb Sternitzke had at least two children: the daughters Anna Louise Sternitzke and Helene Sternitzke. Anna Louise Sternitzke was born at Klein Kommerowe in Trebnitz County in 1874. Helene Sternitzke signed her mother's death record in 1924.

Birth and Death of daughter Anna Louise Sternitzke (1874-1897)

Anna Louise Sternitzke died at her mother's home on the 22nd of July in 1897, at the age of 22 and $\frac{3}{4}$ years old. She would have turned 23 years old in October of 1897, so she was born around October of 1874. Her death record shows that she was born at Klein Komerawe in Trebnitz County. That was probably Klein Kommerowe. Anna Louise Sternitzke was not married when she died. Her death was reported by and signed by her mother, the widowed Hausbesitzerin (house owner) Helene (née Kordelle) Sternitzke. Helene's husband died in 1891 (see below).

Death of Johann Gottlieb Sternitzke (c.1837-1891)

The Ackerbürger Johann Gottlieb Sternitzke died on the 1st of April in 1891 in his home at Zduny. An Ackerbürger was a resident of the city who derived his income from agriculture (an urban farmer). He died at the age of 54 years old, so he was born around 1837. His death record shows he was born at Gross Mertinau (Groß Märtinau) in Trebnitz County, Silesia. He was the son the deceased Häusler Johann Sternitzke and his wife Susanne Helene (née Günther) Sternitzke.

The death record was signed by his wife Susanne Helene (née Kordelle) Sternitzke.

Death of Susanne Helene (née Kordelle) Sternitzke (1838-1924)

Susanne Helene (née Kordelle) Sternitzke died on the 10th of July in 1924 at the age of 86 years old. She was a Protestant and a resident of Zduny. Her daughter Helene Sternitzke signed the death record at the Zduny registry office (see below). Helene Sternitzke was not married. The death record was written in Polish, so there are minor differences in spelling of the names. The name of Susanne Helene (née Kordelle) Sternitzke was written as Zusanna Sternitzka, the wife of Gottlieb Sternitzki. Their daughter's name was written by the registrar as Helene Sternitzka.

Marriages of Johanna Pauline Amalie Sternitzke
1850 City of Rawitsch

Friedrich Wilhelm Eduard Weikam (age 28) married Johanna Pauline Amalie Sternitzke (age 18) in a Protestant wedding at Rawitsch, on the 28th of April in 1850. Based on her age, the bride was born around 1832. Daniel Sternitzke was the father of the bride.

Birth and Marriage of son Eduard Arthur Julius Bauer-Sternitzke, 1863 Liegnitz, 1891 to 1913 Dresden

According to his 1891 marriage record, Eduard Arthur Julius Bauer-Sternitzke was born at Liegnitz on the 6th of April in 1863. He was the adopted son of the Conditor (confectioner) Gustav Bauer. His mother Amalie (née Sternitzke) Weikam had divorced her first husband and married Gustav Bauer.

In 1891, the Drogist (druggist) Eduard Arthur Julius Bauer-Sternitzke lived at Schützengasse 42 in Dresden, Saxony. He was a Protestant. His mother had previously died at Liegnitz. His adopted father had previously died at Königsberg. Eduard Arthur Julius Bauer-Sternitzke married Henriette Christiane Charlotte Hildebrandt at Dresden on the 11th of July in 1891.

Henriette Christiane Charlotte Hildebrandt was born at Halle on the 12th of March in 1866. She was the daughter of Geistlichen beider apostolische Gemeinde (clergy of the Apostolic congregation) Wilhelm Hildebrant and Emilie (née Fricke) Hildebrant, who were both residents of Dresden. In 1891, Henriette Christiane Charlotte Hildebrandt was working as a Haustochter (a young female domestic servant) who lived at Wülfnitzstrasse 9 in Dresden. Her address was in the same block as the Catholic Apostolic Church in Dresden. Her religion was listed on the marriage record as apostolischkatholische (a Christian Protestant sect).

A note was later added by a registrar to the 1891 marriage record. The couple were divorced at Dresden on the 14th of April in 1913. The 1912 Dresden address book listed Eduard Arthur Julius Bauer as a Kaufmann Seifer und Scheuerpulverfabri (merchant, soap and scouring powder factory) who lived at the village Radebeul near Dresden at Gambrinusstraße 14.

Marriage and Family of Anna Marie (née Sternitzke) Gretschel 1880 to 1891 City of Rawitsch, 1897 to 1911 City of Breslau

There are two records for the marriage of Anna Marie Sternitzke. The first record was from the Catholic Parish in Rawitsch. It shows that Joannes Gretschel (age 30, born in 1853) married Anna Marianna Sternitzke (age 20, born in 1863) at the Catholic parish in Rawitsch in 1883. The parents of the groom were Franciscus Gretschel and Clara Reske. The parents of the bride were Carolus Sternitzke and Joanna (née Hoffmann) Sternitzke. Carolus was the ancient Latinized form of Carl and Karl.

The Rawitsch civil record for this marriage listed the groom as Johann Gretschel, son of Franz Gretschel and Klara Reske. The bride was listed as Anna Marie Sternitzke, daughter of Carl Sternitzke and Johanna (née Hoffmann) Sternitzke.

Carl Sternitzke and his wife Johanna (née Hoffmann) Sternitzke had two other daughters who were both born in the Kreisstadt (county seat) Militsch. Antonie Anna Sternitzke was born on the 26th of July in 1858. Antonie Veronica Sternitzke was born on the 31st of May in 1860. See the Births of Antonie Anna Sternitzke and Antonie Veronica Sternitzke, 1858 and 1860 City of Militsch.

Birth and Marriage of daughter Auguste Martha Gretschel, 1880 Rawitsch & 1900 Breslau

Auguste Martha Gretschel was born on the 3rd of August in 1880 at Rawitsch in Posen. Her 20 February 1900 marriage record in Breslau shows that she was the daughter of the Maurer (bricklayer or stonemason) Johann Gretschel and Anna (née Sternitzke) Gretschel. Both of Auguste's parents were still alive at the time of Auguste's wedding, and her father was recorded as a witness on the marriage record. The Maurer (mason) Johann Gretschel was 46 years old at the date of Auguste's wedding (so he was born between 20 February 1853 and 20 February 1854) which is in agreement with the age of Joannes Gretschel in the year of his wedding to Anna Marie Sternitzke at Rawitsch in 1883. Auguste was apparently the adopted daughter of Johann Gretschel, because she was born three years before Johann/Joannes married Anna Marie Sternitzke. See Book III, Chapter 1: the Marriage of Auguste Martha Gretschel, 20 February 1900 City of Breslau.

Birth and Death of son Richard Paul Gretschel (1884-1887)

Richard Paul Gretschel was born in the family home at Rawitsch on the 6th of March in 1884. He was the son of the Bahnunterbeamte (junior railroad official) Johann Gretschel and his wife Marie (née Sternitzke) Gretschel, who were both Catholics.

The Bahnarbeiter (railroad worker) Johann Gretschel reported the death of his son Richard Paul Gretschel to the Rawitsch registry office on the 26th of June in 1887. The child died that same day, at the age of 3 years, 3 months and 20 days. Johann Gretschel and his wife Marie (née Sternitzka) Gretschel were residents of Rawitsch.

Births and Deaths of twin daughters Clara Gretschel (1885-1885)
and Johanna Gretschel (1885-1885)

Clara Gretschel and Johanna Gretschel were born in the family home in Rawitsch on the 21st of July in 1885. Clara Gretschel died two days later on the 23rd of July. Johanna Gretschel died on the 15th of September in 1885. Their parents were listed on the civil birth and death records as the Bahnunterbeamte Johann Gretschel and his wife Marie (née Sternitzka) Gretschel. They were Catholics.

Birth and Death of son Georg Alfred Gretschel (1888-1888)

Georg Alfred Gretschel was born in the family home at Rawitsch on the 28th of March in 1888. He died on the 19th of July in 1888 at the age of 3 months and 21 days old. His parents were listed on the civil birth and death records as the Bahnarbeiter Johann Gretschel and his wife Marie (née Sternitzke) Gretschel. They were Catholics.

Birth and Marriage of daughter Hedwig Marie Anna Gretschel,
1891 City of Rawitsch, 1911 City of Breslau

The 1911 Breslau civil marriage record for Hedwig Marie Anna Gretschel shows that she was born at Rawitsch on the 30th of October in 1891. She was the daughter of the Maurer (bricklayer) Johann Gretschel and his wife Marie (née Sternitzke) Gretschel, who were both residents of Breslau in 1911.

So, the family moved from Rawitsch to Breslau between the 1891 birth of Hedwig at Rawitsch and the 1897 birth of their daughter Elisabet Gretschel at Breslau.

On the 28th of September in 1911, Hedwig Marie Anna Gretschel married the Buchhalter (bookkeeper) Karl Friedrich Paul Branser. They were both Catholics. Hedwig was employed as a Verkäuferin (sales clerk) and lived at Paulstraße 21a (4 blocks southeast of the Botanical Gardens, now Michała Wrocławczyka Street). Karl Branser lived in Breslau at Fürstenstraße 12 (third block east of the Botanical Gardens, now Benedyktyńska Street).

Karl Friedrich Paul Branser was born on the 9th of April in 1889 at Breslau. He was the son of the Schuhmacher (shoemaker) Paul Branser, who was deceased and last resided at Breslau, and his wife Florentine (née Hoinko) Branser, who was a resident of Breslau in 1911.

Witnesses at the wedding were the 29 years old Buchhalter (bookkeeper) Paul Sandeck and the 42 years old Installateur (installer) Paul Lamla. Paul Sandeck lived in Breslau at Hedwigstrasse 41 (about 2.5 miles north of the old city walls, now Sportowa Street). Paul

City of Breslau

Elisabet Gretschel was born in Breslau on the 24th of March in 1897, and died on the 4th of April in 1897 at the age of 10 days old. She died at her parents home at Marienstraße 5 (now Władysława Nehringa Street, 5 blocks southeast of the Botanical Gardens). The civil death record listed her parents as the Maurer (bricklayer) Johann Gretschel and his wife Marie (née Sternitzke) Gretschel.

Birth, Marriage and Divorce of Louise Lina Gertrud Quasebarth 1889 Rawitsch, 1909 to 1920 Lissa

Louise Lina Gertrud Quasebarth was born on the 8th of February in 1889 at Rawitsch. She was the daughter of Paul Quasebarth and his wife Antonie (née Sternitzke) Quasebarth. Antonie (née Sternitzke) Quasebarth may have been Antonie Anna Sternitzke or her sister Antonie Veronica Sternitzke, the daughters of Carl Sternitzke and (née Hoffmann) Sternitzke. See the Births of Antonie Anna Sternitzke and Antonie Veronica Sternitzke, 1858 and 1860 City of Militsch.

In 1909, the Drechslermeister (master wood turner) Paul Quasebarth, his wife Antonie (née Sternitzke) Quasebarth and their daughter Louise Quasebarth lived at Lissa in Posen (now known as Leszno in Poland). The 20-years-old Louise Quasebarth did not have an occupation.

On the 20th of April in 1909, Louise Quasebarth married the Sergeant und Trompeter Paul August Anders at Lissa. The bride and groom were both Protestant. Paul August Anders was born on the 19th of September in 1883 at Guhrau. He was the son of the Arbeiter August Anders and Henriette (née Presser) Anders who lived at Tschirnau in Guhrau County, Silesia.

The marriage witnesses may have been the fathers of the wedding couple. They were the 46 years old Drechslermeister Paul Quasebarth from Lissa, and the 54 years old Hotelbesitzer (hotel owner) August Anders from Tschirnau in Guhrau County, Silesia. The civil marriage record available for review was from a Neben (duplicate) marriage record book from the Lissa Standesamt (registry office). The recorder copied the name of the first witness as Paul Quasebarth, but then copied the signature of that witness as Karl Quasebarth.

A note in the margin of the marriage record shows that Paul Anders and Louise Anders were divorced on the 25th of November in 1920.

Marriage of Franz Paul Julius Sternitzke 1890 Rawitsch

In 1890, Sergeant Franz Paul Julius Sternitzke was serving in the Prussian Army, 7th Compagnie, Infantry Regiment Number 50. He married Marie Kleiber on the 6th of October in 1890 at the Protestant regimental church in Rawitsch.

The groom was 23 years and 9 months old, so he was born around January in 1867. His father was listed as the deceased Brauer (brewer) Carl Sternitzke. Marie was 22 years old, so she was born around 1868. She was the daughter of the Müllermeister (master miller) Rudolf Kleiber.

Death of Marie née Kleiber) Sternitzke, 1911 Cosel

Marie (née Kleiber) Sternitzke died at home in Cosel (in Cosel County) on the 18th of March in 1911 at the age of 42 years old. She was born around 1869 at Rawitsch, the daughter of the Müllermeister (master miller) Rudolf Kleiber and his wife Juliane (née Handke) Kleiber. Her parents were still living at Rawitsch when Marie died.

Marie's death was reported by her husband the Zollaufseher (customs inspector) Paul Sternitzke who lived at Cosel.

City of Bojanowo in Rawitsch County

The population of Bojanowo was 2106 in 1905 (1610 Protestants, 429 Catholics and 66 Jews). The population in 2,290 in 1910. A Protestant church was at Bojanowo. The closest Catholic church was at Bärsdorf. Bojanowo was renamed as Schmückert from 1939 to 1945. It is now again named Bojanowo. See the 1883 and 1895 maps above.

Christian Sterniske 1856 Bojanowo

 Married Elisabeth Bartsch (1778-after 1799).

Gen.IX-232. Christian Gottlieb Sterniske, Sternitzke (c.1800-after 1856) Polnisch Hammer, Bojanowo (Posen). Married Helene Grzmehle.

Gen.X-272. Heinrich Sterniske (1836-before 1901) Polnisch Hammer, Bojanowo (Posen), Polnisch Hammer.

Wilhelm Starnitzki found Christian Sterniske had sold his Freigärtnerstelle and wooded property at Gross Hammer (also known as Polnisch Hammer in Trebnitz County) and moved to Bojanowo in 1856 to be an innkeeper. Christian was born about 1800. He married Helene Grzmehle in 1825 and was the father of eight children. Wilhelm only identified Heinrich Sterniske as one of their children. Heinrich later returned to Polnisch Hammer and lived there for some time. See Book I, Chapter 13, Groß Hammer (Polnisch Hammer).

It is an interesting coincidence that Christian Sterniske (from Gross Hammer) and Christian Sternitzke (from Nadstawen) were both born around 1800. Bojanowo was only 19 miles to the west of Jutroschin, and 20 miles from Nadstawen. They were not the same person. Christian Sternitzke from Nadstawen was the son of Christian Sternitzke and Anna Rosina (née Weiss) Sternitzke who were married around the time Christian Sterniske from Gross Hammer was born.

Villages of Jutroschin and Nadstawen in Rawitsch County

Nadstawen (now named Nad Stawem) was a small village about one mile away from Jutrosin (the modern name of Jutroschin). They are near the border between the modern Polish provinces Wielkopolskie (Greater Poland) and Dolnosl skie (Lower Silesia).

Because the villages were only one mile apart, the Sternitzke family members in each village were closely related. The Sternitzke family at Jutroschin and Nadstawen were probably also closely related to the family members living in Militsch County. Jutroschin (in the Posen Province) was about 8 miles NNW of Militsch (in the Silesian Province). Jutroschin was only about two miles from the border with Militsch County, and Nadstawen was only about one mile from the border.

The population of Jutroschin in 1905 was 1896 (682 Protestants, 1135 Catholics and 79 Jews). A Catholic and a Protestant church were at Jutroschin. Jutroschin was known as Orlah h from 1939 to 1943 and as Horlen from 1943 to 1945. It is now named Jutrosin.

Birth, Marriage and Family of Christian Sternitzke 1774 to 1800 Nadstawen

The generation numbers (shown as roman numerals in the below tree) were based on the known chronology shown in a table in Book I, Chapter 6: The Ancestors and Descendants of Wilhelm Sternitzki.

- Circa Gen.VIII. Christian Sternitzke (1774-after 1800) Nadstawen. Married Anna Rosina Weiss around 1799.
- Circa Gen.IXa. Christian Sternitzke (1800-after 1827) Nadstawen. The name of his first wife is unknown. Probably married Rosina Moh in 1861 at Jutroschin.
- Circa Gen.Xa. Carl Sternitzke (1827-after 1867, before 1874) Nadstawen. Married Johanna Dickert in 1857 at Jutroschin. Johanna (née Dickert) Sternitzke married Johann Carl Zirke in 1874 at Zduny.
- Circa Gen.XIa. Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke (1859-1903) Baschkow, Zduny. Married Marie Scholz (c.1858-1897). Second marriage to Emilie Christiane Breithor on the 21st of May in 1898.
- Circa Gen.XIIa. Ida Sophie Sternitzke (1885-?) Zduny.
- Circa Gen.XIIb. Paul Wilhelm Sternitzke (1887-?) Zduny.
- Circa Gen.XIIc. Marie Emma Anna Sternitzke (1890-?) Zduny.
- Circa Gen.XIIId. Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke (junior, 1894-1899) Zduny.
- Circa Gen.XIb. Ernestine Dorothea Sternitzke (1860-1942) Baschkow, Berlin. Married at Berlin in 1899 to Karl Ferdinand Gustav Langner.
- Circa Gen.XIIe. Johanne Else Gertrud Luise Sternitzke (1893-?) Berlin.
- Circa Gen.XIc. Ernst Julius Sternitzke (1867-c.1915) Baschkow, Breslau. M= Pauline Auguste Ziebe in 1893 at Zduny.
- Circa Gen.XIIIf. Pauline Auguste Gertrud Sternitzke (1894-?) Breslau.
- Circa Gen.XId. Anna Marie Zirke (1877-?) Zduny.
- Circa Gen.Xb. Ernst Gustav Sternitzki (1833-after 1860). Probable son of Christian Sternitzke (1800-after 1827). Married Anna Rosina Handtke in 1860 at Jutroschin.
- Circa Gen.IXb. Anna Rosina Sternitzke (1800-1864) Jutroschin. Married Carl Reim.

The earliest record (found so far) of a Sternitzke family member in Posen was the 1774 birth record of Christian Sternitzke at Nadstawen, a small village near Jutroschin in Rawitsch County. Nadstawen was one mile north of the border between Militsch County in Silesia and the Prussian province Posen.

Christian Sternitzke from Nadstawen married Anna Rosina Weiss about 1799. Christian Sternitzke and Anna Rosina (née Weiss) Sternitzke had two children (a son and a daughter) that were born in 1800. Since they were born at different locations, they were not twins

- Christian Sternitzke (junior) was born at Nadstawen in 1800. The name of his first wife is not known. They had one known child: Carl Sternitzki who was born at Nadstawen in 1827. See the Marriage and Family of son Carl Sternitzki, 1827 Nadstawen and 1857 Jutroschin. Christian Sternitzke may have been the Christian Sternitzki who married the widow Rosina Moh at Jutroschin in 1861. See the Marriage of Christian Sternitzki, 1861 Jutroschin.
- Anna Rosina Sternitzki was born in December of 1800 at Jutroschin. Anna (the daughter) married Carl Reim, and she died at Jutroschin on the 15th of June in 1864.

- Ernst Gustav Sternitzki married Anna Rosina Handtke in a Protestant ceremony at Jutroschin in 1860. Based on his age, the groom was born around 1833. The groom was the son of Christian Sternitzki. The groom's mother was not listed.

Marriage and Family of son Carl Sternitzki 1827 Nadstawen and 1857 Jutroschin

Carl Sternitzki married Johanna Dickert at Jutroschin on the 3rd of May in 1857. Carl was born in 1827 at Nadstawen. He was 30 years old at the time of his wedding. Carl was the son of Christian Sternitzki, Sternitzke (junior, who was born in 1800 at Nadstawen). See the Birth, Marriage and Family of Christian Sternitzke, 1774 to 1800 Nadstawen. Johanna was the 24 years old daughter of Christian Dickert.

Birth of son Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke (1859-1903)

Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke was born at Baschkow on the 29th of January in 1859. He was the son of Carl Sternitzke and his wife Johanne (née Dickert) Sternitzke.

The Schuhmachermeister (master shoemaker) Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke died in his home at Zduny on the 10th of February in 1903. He was a Protestant. He died at the age of 44 years old. His death record showed he was the son of the deceased Eigenthümer (property owner) Carl Sternitzke and his wife Johanna (née Dickert) Sternitzke who was living at Zduny at the time of her son's death. See the Marriages and Family of Carl Wilhelm Sternitzke, 1885 to 1903 Zduny.

Birth, Family, Marriage and Death of daughter Ernestine Dorothee Sternitzke, 1860 Baschkow, 1893 to 1942 Berlin

According to her 1899 marriage record, Ernestine Dorothee Sternitzke was born at Baschkow in Krotoschin, Posen, on the 25th of August in 1860. Her parents were the Hausbesitzer (house owner) Karl Sternitzke, who died before his daughter's 1899 marriage at Zdunÿ, and Johanna (née Dickert) Zirke. Johanna was the widow of the Zimmermann (carpenter) Zirke and was still living at Zdunÿ in 1899.

In 1893, the unmarried Wirthschafterin (housekeeper) Ernestine Dorothee Sternitzke lived at Kastanian Allee 84 in Berlin. She was a Protestant. Her daughter, Johanne Else Gertrud Luise Sternitzke was born at Berlin on the 12th of April in 1893.

In 1899, Ernestine Dorothea Sternitzke was unoccupied and a resident of Berlin at Kleine Hamburgerstraße Nr. 20. She was 38 years old. She married Karl Ferdinand Gustav Langner at Berlin on the 2nd of July in 1899. Ferdinand was occupied as a Geheimer Kanzlei Secretär (private chancellery secretary). He was a Protestant, and a resident of Berlin at Kastanian Allee 84. He was 74 years old. He was born on the 20th of December in 1824 at Zduny in Krotoschin County. He was the son of the Tuchscherer (cloth cutter) Karl Ephraim Langner and Johanna Christiane (née Riebeth) Langner, who had both died before their son's wedding.

A note was added to the 1899 marriage record by a registrar. Ernestine Dorothea (née Sternitzke) Langner died at Berlin on the 3rd of December in 1942. Her death was recorded at the Standesamt at Berlin Mitte, record number 385 dated the 17th of December in 1842 in the Sterbebuch (death record book) Nr. 5427 in 1942.

Birth and Marriage of son Ernst Julius Sternitzke, 1867

Ernst Julius Sternitzke was born in 1867. He was probably born at Baschkow. He was the son of Carl Sternitzke and Johanna (née Dickert) Sternitzke. Ernst Julius Sternitzke married Pauline Auguste Ziebe at Zduny in Posen in 1893. She was born in 1863, the daughter of Ferdinand Ziebe and Pauline (née Kunze) Ziebe.

See the Family of Julius Sternitzke and Auguste (née Ziebe) Sternitzke, 1894 to 1928 City of Breslau.

Second Marriage of Johanna (née Dickert) Sternitzke, 1874

She married the Zimmermann (carpenter) Johann Carl Zirke at Zduny in 1874, after the death of her first husband. The 1874 marriage record at Zduny listed her as Johanna (née Dickert) Sternicke, age 47, the widow of Carl Sternicke. That second marriage was also recorded at Ostrowo, where the bride's name was recorded as Johanna (née Dickert) Sternitzke, the widow of Carl Sternitzke. These two marriages show the equivalence of the Sternitzki and the Sternicke variations, and show that Carl Sternitzki died sometime before 1874. See the Second Marriage and Family of Johanna (née Dickert) Sternitzke, 1874 to 1877 Zduny.

In 1888, the Bahnmeister-Diätar (railway master Diätar) Bruno Paul Alvin Sterniske lived at Goethestraße Nr. 21 at Rummelsburg near Berlin. Rummelsburg is now a neighborhood in the Lichtenberg borough of Berlin. A Diätar was a contracted temporary employee.

Bruno Paul Alvin Sterniske married Anna Bertha Marie Wegener at Stralau on the 6th of April in 1888. Stralau is now a neighborhood in southeastern Berlin. The groom was 28 years old. The bride was 24 years old. The groom and the bride were both Protestant. Anna Bertha Marie Wegener lived at Prinz Albertstraße Nr. 1 in Rummelsburg. She was born on the 19th of July in 1863 in the Carthaus suburb of Liegnitz in Silesia. Carthaus is shown on a map of Liegnitz as Karthaus, to the east of Liegnitz. She was the daughter of the Locomotivheizer (locomotive boiler stoker) Johannes Ferdinand Adolf Wegener, who died at Liegnitz before his daughter's wedding, and Caroline Pauline Emilie (née Hanke) Wegener who was living at Rummelsburg.

One of the wedding witnesses was the 21 years old Brauer (brewer) Franz Sterniske who lived with the groom at Goethestraße Nr. 21 in Rummelsburg. He was certainly the groom's brother Franz Otto Sterniske who was born at Powidz on the 16th of April in 1867.

Birth and Death of son Hugo Albert Sterniske (1861-1870)

Hugo Albert Sterniske (1861-1870) was born at Witkowo on the 8th of September in 1861. He was the son of Wilhelm Sterniske and Emilie (née Klawitter) Sterniske. Hugo Albert Sterniske died at Witkowo on the 29th of November of 1870.

The original records for Hugo Albert Sterniske were not available online for review. He probably died at Powidz (Witkowo County) in 1870. His younger brother Franz Otto Sterniske was born at Powidz in 1867.

Birth of son Franz Otto Sterniske, 1867

Franz Otto Sterniske was born at Powidz on the 16th of April in 1867. He was the son of Wilhelm Sterniske and Emilie (née Klawitter) Sterniske.

In 1888, the 21 years old Brauer (brewer) Franz Sterniske lived with his brother at Goethestraße Nr. 21 in Rummelsburg. Franz was a wedding witness for the marriage of Bruno Paul Alvin Sterniske and Anna Bertha Marie Wegener at Stralau on the 6th of April in 1888.

Standesamtbeamte Sterniske (Sternicki), 1874

Announcement from the Gnesen District in 1874: the Lehrer (teacher) Sternicki in Powidz and the Stellvertreter-Gutsbesitzer (deputy, property owner) Musolff in Charbin were appointed to the Standesamts-Bezirk Powidz Landbezirk (registry office for the Powidz rural district) for the communities: Polanawo, Studziniec, Rzymachowo and Rudonek, Clausthal, Sautersbrunn, Powidz Amtsgrund (suburb), Charbin, Przubrobrodzin, Wysatkowo with Sloszewo and Okrelica, Hutta-powidz, Hutta werder (island), Powidz werder, Ruschin, Bonikowo, Bonikowko, Konkolewo, Kurczewko, Anastazewo, Surolnik powidz, Szydłowiec and Lugl.

The death records recorded at the Powidz Standesamt (registry office) from October to November in 1874 were signed by the Standesbeamte (registrar) Sterniske.

Death of Wilhelm Sterniske, 1874

The Lehrer (teacher) Wilhelm Sterniske died on the 2nd of December in 1874. He was a Protestant and a resident of the Powidz Amtsgrund (suburb). He was preceded in death by his wife Emilie (née Klawitter) Sterniske who had died at the Powidz Amtsgrund. Wilhelm died at the age of 48 years old, so he was born around 1826. The death record shows he was born at Domnowitz in Trebnitz County of Silesia.

The death record for Wilhelm Sterniske was signed by the Wirtsin Karoline Teske and the Standesbeamte (registrar) Viktor Musolff at Charbin. A Wirtsin translates to a hostess (from the word for an innkeeper: Gastwirt), but many of the Posen records from around that time listed farmers as Wirts (from the word Landwirth). Viktor Musolff was mentioned in the September 1874 announcement discussed above.

The Prussian Province of Pomerania

The Prussian Province of Pomerania (German: Pommern) was part of the Kingdom of Prussia from 1815 until 1945. The history and political divisions of Pomerania are complex, but the map from 1913 (shown below) is a good reference point for the Sternitzke family history. In 1818 Pomerania was divided into three districts: Köslin, Stralsund and Stettin. The provincial capital was the city of Stettin. The Stralsund District and the western third of the Stettin District are now in the Mecklenburg-Vorpommern state of Germany. The remaining portion of Pomerania is now in Poland.

Retrieved from <http://hinterpommern.de/Karten/Pommern/kreise1913.html>.

The research of the Sternitzke family in Silesia included references to family members who lived in Pomerania. The Sternitzke family migrated north through Posen, either to find employment or because of military service in the Prussian Army. Some of the Sternitzke families in Pomerania may have settled there because of the persecutions of the Old Lutherans (Alt Lutheraner) in Prussia. Old Lutherans took refuge in three Pomeranian coastal counties in 1835: Cammin, Stolp, and Greifenberg. They planned to emigrate to the United States. Some of the Old Lutherans did emigrate in 1843, but some remained in Pomerania because of the reforms in the Prussian laws regarding religious freedom. In some cases, the family members returned to Silesia as shown in birth, marriage and death records at Breslau.

Variations of the Sternitzke family name were found in a database of Pomeranian address books as shown in the table below. The Starnitzke and Starnitzki variations were found in the coastal counties (including Stolp County) so they may have been Old Lutherans who initially planned to emigrate to the United States. The results of searching the Pomeranian database are detailed below the table, sorted by location and chronologically.

Family of Wilhelmine Henriette (née Starnitzki) Schulz 1834 to 1836 Bernsdorff

The history of Wilhelmine Henriette (née Starnitzki) Schulz is only known from the baptism records of her two sons. Her name was listed as Starnitzka on the baptism record of her first son, possibly to indicate the unmarried status of the child's mother when the child was born.

Birth of son Franz Carl Eduard Starnitzka-Schulz, 1834

Franz Carl Eduard Starnitzka-Schulz was born at Bernsdorff on the 7th of September in 1834. He was baptized at the Protestant church in Bütow on the 16th of September in 1834. The church record shows he was the son of the unmarried Wilhelmine Henriette Starnitzka. The father's name Jacob Schulz and many notes were later added. The child's parents may have been married at Lauenburg on the 15th of September in 1834.

The baptism sponsors were: Franz Grunow, Carl Schulz and Euphrosina (née Jahrent) Kuhnhoff. All three sponsors were residents of Bernsdorff.

Birth of son August Friedrich Wilhelm Schulz, 1836

August Friedrich Wilhelm Schulz was born on the 3rd of August in 1836. He was baptized at the Protestant church in Bütow on the 7th of August in 1836. The church record book listed his parents as Jacob Schulz and Wilhelmine Henriette (née Starnitzki) Schulz, who were residents of Bernsdorff.

The baptism sponsors were: the Einwohner (resident) Adam Kühnhof, the Einwohner Martin Schulz, and Charlotte (née Schulz) Pommeranz the wife of the Zimmergeselle (journeyman carpenter) Pommeranz. All three sponsors were residents of Bernsdorff.

Birth, Emigration and Family of Theodor Sternitzke 1850 City of Lauenburg, 1874 to 1940 Chicago

Theodor Sternitzke (1850-1899) and Augusta Granzin emigrated from Germany to the United States before their marriage in 1874. Theodore Sternitzke was born in 1850 at Lauenburg. Augusta Granzin was born in June of 1852 at Wendorf, Germany and emigrated from Lauenburg in 1871 (according to the 1900 census). The research for their history is significant because they include examples of relatively recent spelling variations of the Sternitzke family name for a family group known to be related. It was also necessary for me to identify the members of this family group in order to separate their historical data from other known Sternitzke family groups in the Chicago area.

Auguste Granzin was 19 years old when she emigrated from Europe on the steamship named Westphalia. The ship left Hamburg, Germany on the 5th of April in 1871 and traveled to New York. The Hamburg passenger list shows Auguste Granzin had been a resident of Lauenburg, Pomerania.

Birth of son Louis Starnitzke, 1886

Louis Starnitzke was born at Chicago on the 17th of December in 1886. His birth record has some important details about his parents. His father, Theodor Starnitzke was 36 years old, so he was born around 1850. The birth record listed Lauenburg in Pomerania as the place of Theodor's birth. That is where Auguste Granzin was living prior to her emigration.

The mother of Louis Starnitzke, Auguste (née Granzin) Starnitzke was 34 years old, so she was born in 1852. The birth record listed her place of birth as Wendorf, Germany. That village was probably the Wendorf in Franzburg County of Mecklenburg-Vorpommern (known in English as Mecklenburg (Western Pomerania)).

Birth of son George Sternitzky, 1890

George Sternitzky was born at Chicago on the 19th of June in 1890. He was the son of T. Sternitzky and A. (née Granzin) Sternitzky.

Death of Theodor Sternitzke, 1899

The 48 years old shoemaker Theodor Sternitzke died on the 23rd of October in 1899. He died at Chicago, Illinois. He was buried at the Concordia Cemetery on the 25th of October in 1899. Based on his age, he was born around 1851. But his birthday was probably between the 23rd of October and the 17th of December, so he would have turned 49 years old in late 1899, making his calculated year of birth 1850. See the birth information for his son Louis Starnitzke in 1886.

The census record from 1900 listed Augusta Sternetzhe as a widow who had been married for 25 years. The estimated year of her marriage was listed as 1875. It also showed that she was the mother of 9 children, but only 7 were living in 1900 (see the table below). They were living in the 19th precinct, ward 16 of Chicago.

George Theodore Sternitzke (the son of Theodore and Augusta) registered for the First World War and the Second World War drafts. His date and place of birth was listed as the 19th of June in 1890 in Chicago. This corresponds with the data in the census in 1900. Albert Otto Sternitzke registered for the Second World War draft. His age was listed as 48, his birthdate as the 28th of October in 1893, and birthplace was Chicago. His employer was the Albert and George Sternitzke Confectionary Store at 4553 N. Western, Chicago.

The 19²⁰ U.S. census listed Augusta Sternitzke as a 57-years-old widow living in Chicago with three sons, a daughter-in-law and a granddaughter:

- William Sternitzke, age 42, born in Illinois,
- Albert Sternitzke, age 26, born in Illinois,
- George Sternitzke, age 24, born in Illinois (this must be a transcription error, George would have been 29 years old in 1920),
- Gertrude Sternitzke, age 23, born in Illinois,
- Mildred Sternitzke, age 1 year, 5 months, born in Illinois.

Gertrude and Mildred were not listed in the 1930 census, but George was still living with his mother and brothers.

The 1930 U.S. census listed Augusta Sternitzke as a 79-years-old widow, living in Chicago in the household of her son William Sternitzke (age 53). It listed her place of birth as Germany (around 1851) and her immigration in 1870 (as around age 19). Two brothers of William were also listed: George age 39 and Albert age 36.

Augusta Sternitzke died at the age of 89, on the 7th of September in 1940 at Chicago.

The civil records for Theodore and Augusta Sternitzke listed several variations of the Sternitzke name. Two variations are strange typographical errors without regard to the way it sounded: Slarnitzke and Sternetzhe. These variations may have been errors in transcribing the census records. The other variations are normal variations found elsewhere in the family history: Starnitzke, Stanitzky, Sternitzke, Sternitzki, Sternitzky and Sternitzski.

Family of the Schuhmacher Gustav Starnitzki c.1859 to 1914 City of Lauenburg

Birth and Death of son Reinhold Carl Friedrich Starnitzki c.1859 Lauenburg, 1889 Berlin

Based on his age (30 years old) listed on his 1889 death record Reinhold Carl Friedrich Starnitzki was born around 1859 at Lauenburg. His death was reported by the Königlichen Charité Hospital in Berlin. The Schuhmacher (shoemaker) Reinhold Carl Friedrich Starnitzki died at the hospital on the 23rd of January in 1889. He was a Protestant and he was not married. He had been living at Dragonerstraße 11. His parents were listed as the Schuhmacher Gustav Starnitzki and Therese (née Timzeck) Starnitzki from Lauenburg. The cause of his death was not listed. The spelling of his mother’s name is unreliable because it was written by hospital personnel.

Birth, Marriage and Family of daughter Bertha Emilie Starnitzki 1867 Lauenburg, 1890 to 1931 Berlin

The 1890 marriage record for Bertha Emilie Starnitzki shows she was born on the 18th of May in 1868 at Lauenburg in Lauenburg County. In 1890, she was unemployed and lived in Berlin at Köpenickerstraße 22. She married the Buchhalter (accountant) Carl August Franz Mietz on the 6th of December in 1890. The bride and the groom were Protestant. The bride’s parents were the Schuhmachermeister (master shoemaker) Gustav Starnitzki and Therese (née Timreck) Starnitzki from Lauenburg.

Carl August Franz Mietz was born on the 15th of March in 1864 at Greifenhagen in Greifenhagen County, Pommern. In 1890, the groom was a resident of Deutsch Wilmersdorf in Teltow County. His father, the Arbeiter (laborer) Carl Mietz died at Greifenhagen before the 1890 wedding. The groom's mother Wilhelmine (née Springborn) Mietz was still living at Greifenhagen in 1890.

Carl August Franz Mietz and Bertha Emilie (née Starnitzki) Mietz had four identified children.

- The bride Bertha Emilie (née Starnitzki) Mietz died at Berlin in 1931 (Standesamt Berlin VI, death record 564 in 1931).

Auguste Hermine Starnitzki

1869 Lauenburg, 1890 to 1941 Berlin

Auguste Hermine Starnitzki was born at Lauenburg on the 20th of June in 1869. She was the daughter of the Schuhmacher (shoemaker) Gustav Starnitzki and Therese (née Timreck) Starnitzki.

Emma Starnitzki was born at the Universitäts Frauenklinik (University Women's Clinic) in Berlin on the 30th of September in 1890. Her birth record, completed by a staff member of the clinic originally listed her mother as the unmarried Dienstmädchen (maid servant) Auguste Anna Starnitzki who was a Protestant. A note on the birth record dated the 24th of January in 1916, shows the true name of the mother was Auguste Hermine Starnitzki. Another note on the birth record shows Emma Starnitzki died at Berlin-Tempelhof in 1941 (death record 1065 in 1941).

In 1896, the Verkäuferin (sales clerk) Auguste Hermine Starnitzki lived at Genthinerstraße 27 in Berlin. She married the Bäckermeister (master baker) Karl Wilhelm Julius Grosskopf at Berlin on the 14th of November in 1896. The bride and the groom were both Protestant. The bride's father, the Schuhmacher (shoemaker) Gustav Starnitzki had previously died at Lauenburg. The bride's mother, Therese (née Timreck) Starnitzki was still living at Lauenburg.

Karl Wilhelm Julius Grosskopf was born on the 20th of October in 1845 at Zossen (south of Berlin). In 1896, Julius was living at Genthinerstraße 27 Berlin. He was the son of the Ackerbürger Carl August Grosskopf and Christiane Luise Amalie (née Königsmann) Grosskopf who had both previously died at Zossen. An Ackerbürger was a city resident who derived his income from agriculture (an urban farmer).

The 57 years old Bäckermeister (master baker) Karl Wilhelm Julius Grosskopf died at the Auguste Hospital in Berlin on the 2nd of April in 1903. His death was reported by his wife Auguste Hermine (née Starnitzki) Grosskopf who lived at Genthiner Straße 27.

The 45 years old Bäckermeister widow Auguste Hermine (née Starnitzki) Grosskopf died at the Universitäts Frauenklinik (University Womens' Clinic) in Berlin on the 15th of December in 1914. She had lived at Linienstraße 148. Her father, the Schuhmachermeister (master shoemaker) Gustav Starnitzki had previously died at Lauenburg. Her mother, Therese (née Timreck) Starnitzki was still living at Lauenburg in 1914.

Birth and Marriage of daughter Johanne Emilie Klopp
1872 Rosgars, 1891 Groß Jannewitz

The 1891 marriage record for Johanne Emilie Klopp shows she was born at Rosgars on the 3rd of May in 1872. She married the Arbeiter (laborer) Carl Martin Golchert at Groß

Jannewitz on the 6th of November in 1891. The bride and groom were both Protestant. The marriage record shows that her father, the Arbeiter (laborer) August Klopp had died before the 1891 marriage of his daughter. Her mother, Caroline (née Starnitzke) Klopp was still living at Rosgars in 1891.

Carl Martin Golchert was born on the 10th of December in 1866 at Rexin (now named Rzechcino, Poland) in Stolp County. Meyers Gazetteer shows Rexin northeast of the city of Stolp, but it listed Rexin in Köslin County. In 1891, Carl Martin Golchert was living at Rosgars. He was the son of the Arbeiter Carl Golchert and Caroline (née Borree) Golchert who were living at Klein Jannewitz. The wedding witnesses were: the 34 years old Deputant (deputy) Heinrich Albrecht from Klein Jannewitz, and the 28 years old Schäfer (shepherd) Hermann Kischmick for Rosgars.

Wedding Witness August Klopp, 1876

The 30 years old Pferdeknecht (horse groom) August Klopp from Rosgars was a witness at the wedding of Johanne Starnitzke and the Pferdeknecht (horse groom) Heinrich Albert Albrecht on the 20th of October in 1876. Based on his age in 1876, August Klopp was born around 1846. August Klopp was the husband of Karoline (née Starnitzke) Klopp.

Johanne Starnitzke was probably a younger sister of Karoline (née Starnitzke) Klopp. Johanne Starnitzke was born at Klein Jannewitz on the 19th of September in 1853 (from her marriage record). Her death record stated she was the daughter of the Arbeiter (laborer) Fritz Starnitzke and his wife Eva (née Schalk) Starnitzke. See the Birth, Marriage, Family and Death of Johanne (née Starnitzke) Albrecht, 1853 to 1897 Klein Jannewitz.

Birth and Death of twin son Heinrich Rudolph Klopp (1882-1882)

Heinrich Rudolph Klopp was born on the 3rd of May in 1882. He was baptized at Groß Jannewitz. He was 2 months old when he died at Rosgars on the 17th of July in 1882. His parents were identified on the death record as Arbeitsmann (laborer) August Klopp and Caroline (née Starnitzki) Klopp, who were residents of Rosgars.

Birth of twin son Carl Wilhelm Klopp, 1882

Carl Wilhelm Klopp was born on the 3rd of May in 1882. He was baptized at Groß Jannewitz. He was the son of August Klopp and Caroline (née Starnitzki) Klopp.

Death of Karoline (née Starnitzke) Klopp (1849-1933)

The Landarbeiter (farmhand) Karl Klopp reported the death of the Landarbeiterwitwe (farmhand's widow) Karoline (née Starnitzke) Klopp. Karl Klopp was probably Karoline's son Carl Wilhelm Klopp. Karl and Karoline both lived at the village Rosgars (now named Rozgorze, about ½ mile north of Groß Jannewitz). Karoline (née Starnitzke) Klopp died at her home on the 6th of December in 1933. Her death was recorded at Groß Jannewitz (now named Janowice, Poland).

Birth, Marriage, Family and Death of Johanne (née Starnitzke) Albrecht 1853 to 1896 Klein Jannowitz

Johanne Starnitzke was born at Klein Jannowitz on the 19th of September in 1853 (from her marriage record). Her death record stated she was the daughter of the Arbeiter (laborer) Fritz Starnitzke and his wife Eva (née Schalk) Starnitzke. Johanne's Neben (duplicate) marriage record listed her maiden name as Stannitzke, but the registrar copied her signature as Johanne Starnitzke. Her parents were listed on the 1876 marriage record as the deceased Tagelöhner (day laborer) Friedrich Stannitzke and Eva (née Schalk) Starnitzke from Klein Jannowitz.

Johanne Starnitzke married the Pferdeknecht (horse groom) Heinrich Albert Albrecht at Groß Jannowitz on the 20th of October in 1876. The bride and the groom were both Protestants.

Heinrich Albert Albrecht was born on the 2nd of January in 1857 at Neuendorf. In 1876 he was living at Klein Jannowitz. He was the son the unmarried Caroline Albrecht, who later married Mr. Kämpf and was living at Rettkewitz in 1876.

The wedding witnesses were Karl Schalk and August Klopp. The 43 years old Tagelöhner (day laborer) Karl Schalk lived at Rosgars. The 30 years old Pferdeknecht (horse groom) August Klopp also lived at Rosgars. See the Birth, Family and Death of Karoline (née Starnitzke) Klopp, 1849 Klein Jannowitz, 1933 Rosgars.

Birth of daughter Wilhelmine Albertine Caroline Stanitzke-Albrecht, 1876

A note (signed by the groom) on the first page of Johanne's 1876 marriage record stated he was the father of his bride's illegitimate daughter Wilhelmine Albertine Caroline Stanitzke. The child was born on the 20th of February and was not baptized. The birth was recorded in the birth register at Rettkewitz (about 2.5 miles south of Klein Jannowitz). Rettkewitz is now named Redkowice, Poland.

Birth and Marriage of daughter Martha Alwine Albrecht
1877 and 1897 Klein Jannowitz

Martha Alwine Albrecht was born at Klein Jannowitz on the 21st of August in 1877. She married the Arbeiter (laborer) Rudolf Karl Hermann Angel at Groß Jannowitz on the 12th of November in 1897. The bride and groom were both Protestant. Martha's father, the Deputant (deputy) Heinrich Albrecht was still living at Klein Jannowitz. Martha's mother, Johanne (née Starnitzke) Albrecht had previously died at Klein Jannowitz on the 4th of January in 1896.

Rudolf Karl Hermann Angel was born on the 1st of July in 1873 at Puggerschow in Lauenburg County. Puggerschow is a neighboring village, to the east of Klein Jannowitz. Puggerschow is now named Pogorszewo, Poland. Rudolf was the son of the Arbeiter Franz Angel who previously died at Puggerschow. Rudolf's mother Charlotte (née Horn) Angel was still living at Puggerschow in 1897.

The wedding witnesses were: the 47 years old Arbeiter (laborer) Albert Krest from Puggerschow, and the 30 years old Arbeiter Karl Golchert from Rosgars. (Carl Martin Golchert was the husband of Johanne Emilie (née Klopp) Golchert. See the Birth, Family and Death of Karoline (née Starnitzke) Klopp, 1849 Klein Jannowitz, 1933 Rosgars.)

Birth of daughter Auguste Johanne Emilie Albrecht
1881 Klein Jannowitz

Auguste Johanne Emilie Albrecht was born at Klein Jannowitz on the 28th of June in 1881. She was baptized at Groß Jannowitz.

Birth and Marriage of son Albert August Albrecht
1889 Klein Jannowitz, 1913 Berlin

According to his 1913 marriage record, Albert August Albrecht was born at Klein Jannowitz on the 2nd of May in 1889. He was the son of the Arbeiter (laborer) Heinrich Albrecht and Johanne (nee Starnitzke) Albrecht from Klein Jannowitz. In 1913, the Arbeiter Albert August Albrecht was living at Wilhelmstraße 156 in the city of Spandau. Spandau was a military garrison town and the 1913 marriage record referenced the military papers of the groom. Spandau became a borough of Berlin in 1920.

The Arbeiter (laborer) Albert August Albrecht married the Arbeiterin (laborer) Therese Wilhelmine Karoline Brüscke at Spandau on the 29th of November in 1913. The groom and the bride were both Protestant. The bride was born on the 1st of June in 1888 at Czarnowske in Lauenburg County, Pommern. She was the daughter of Friedrich Wilhelm Brüscke and Karoline Wilhelmine (née Gnadt) Brüscke, who had both previously died at Czarnowske.

The wedding witnesses were: the 32 years old Arbeiter Gustav Kuschel from Spandau, and the 30 years old Arbeiter Richard Albrecht from Metzterstraße 4 in Spandau.

There is a note on the second page of the marriage record. It shows that Albert August Albrecht and his wife had a son named Herbert Albrecht. Her was born in 1919 at Spandau and he was married there in 1940 (birth record number 9 in 1918, marriage record number 1046 in 1940).

Birth of daughter Bertha Marie Albrecht
1894 Klein Jannowitz

Bertha Marie Albrecht was born at Klein Jannowitz on the 7th of June in 1894. She was the daughter of the Deputant (deputy) Heinrich Albrecht and his wife Johanne (née Starnitzke) Albrecht. They were both Protestant and residents of Klein Jannowitz.

Death of Johanne (née Starnitzke) Albrecht (1853-1896)

The Deputant (deputy) Heinrich Albrecht reported the death of his wife Johanne (née Starnitzke) Albrecht. She was a Protestant and 43 years old when she died. They were residents of Klein Jannowitz. Johanne died at Klein Jannowitz on the 4th of January in 1896.

Family of Heinrich Starnitzkÿ 1885 Krahnshof to 1948 Berlin

Birth and Marriage of son Friedrich Albert Starnitzkÿ

Friedrich Albert Starnitzkÿ was born on the 26th of March in 1885 at Krahnshof. He was the son of the Arbeiter (laborer) Heinrich Starnitzkÿ and his wife Emilie (née Dambeck) Starnitzkÿ. The birth was recorded at the town of Küssow, in the Strellentin township of Lauenburg County. The father signed the birth record with three crosses. They were Protestants.

The Lagerist (warehouse worker) Friedrich Albert Starnitzkÿ was living at Ofenerstraße 14 in Berlin in 1920. He was a Protestant. His father the Arbeiter (laborer)

Heinrich Starnitzkÿ had died previously at Dagersdorf in Templin County, about 30 miles north of Berlin. Friedrich's mother, Emilie (née Dambeck) Starnitzkÿ was still living at Dagersdorf in 1920. The village written as Dagersdorf on Friedrich's 1920 marriage record was probably the village listed as Dargersdorf in Meyers Gazetteer.

A man named Friedrich Starnitzke (who was born at Kraushof in Lauenburg County of Pomerania) was listed in a military casualty report during the First World War. He served as a Wehrmann (reserve private) in the Reserve-Infanterie-Regiment Nr. 24, IInd Bataillon, 8th Kompagnie. He was severely wounded on the 13th of November in 1914.

Friedrich Albert Starnitzkÿ married Martha Maria Elisabeth Rosenow at Grünewald in Neustettin County (Pomerania) on the 2nd of July in 1920. Grünewald is now named Mieszaki, Poland. She was also a Protestant. Martha was born on the 24th of October in 1885 at Grünewald, the daughter of the Eigentümer (property owner) Albert Rosenow and his wife Mathilde (née Lawin) Rosenow. In 1920, Martha and her parents lived at Steinburg bei Gramenz (now Kamionka near Grzmiąca, Poland) in Neustettin County, Pomerania.

The wedding witnesses were: the 27 years old Hofbesitzer (farm owner) Karl Neitzke from Lanz (in Lauenburg County), and the 31 years old Kutscher (coachman) Willi Kramp from Grünewald.

The Rentenempfängerin (pensioner) Martha Maria Elisabeth (née Rosenow) Stanitzki died at home on the 14th of December in 1948. She had been living with her daughter, the Strickerin (knitter) Irmgard Stanitzki at Kaiserin-Augusta-Straße 70 in Berlin-Tempelhof. The cause of death was listed as dekompensierter Herzfehler, Stauungsleber, Pleuraerguß, Stauungsniere (decompensated heart defect, congested liver, pleural effusion, compressed kidney). Martha was listed as the widow of the Rentenempfänger (pensioner) Friedrich Albert Stanitzki. The birth and marriage information listed on Martha's death record matches the information listed on her marriage record.

Birth of daughter Martha Helene Starnitzki, 1896

Martha Helene Starnitzki was born in her parent's home at Jatzkow on the 30th of September in 1896. Her parents were listed as the Tagelöhner (day laborer) Heinrich Starnitzki and Emilie (née Dambeck) Starnitzki. They were listed as Protestants.

Village of Starnitz in Stolp County

The village Starnitz was 10 miles southeast of the city Stolp in Stolp County and 57 miles west of Danzig. The village Starnitz is now known as Starnice, Poland. Stolp is now named Słupsk. A modern map of Poland (see below) shows two interesting villages about 1 mile apart: Starnice and Starniczki! The village Starnitz may have been the origin of the Starnitzke and Starnitzki name variations in this part of Pomerania, or the village may have been named for the family who originally settled there.

A pre-1945 map of that area shows the village Starnitz. It shows the Starnitzer Muhle (mill) at the location now named Starniczki. The wooded area south of Starnitz was named the Starnitzer Wald (forest). A map of the region just northwest from Starnitz shows a wooded area named the Starnitzer Forst, and as the Starnitzer Wald on other maps.

Two miles west of the Starnitzer Muhle was a smaller village named the Starnitzer Siedlung (settlement or colony). Starnitzer Siedlung is now part of a town named Dębica Kaszubska, Poland).

The website for the village Starnice states the village was originally a Rittergut (knight's manor house). The known owners of the estate included: the Bandemer family, the Below family, the Hauptmann (captain) Otto Bogislaw von Schwerin and the Gottberg family. In 1784, the village had a smithy, a schoolmaster, a water mill and 22 households.

Starnitz was the location of the local Standesamt (civil registry office). The Protestant residents of Starnitz were members of the church at Groß Dübsow (now named Dębica Kaszubska in Polish). Dębica Kaszubska is known as Dòbieszewò in the Kashubian language (a Slavic minority group's language related to the Pomeranian language).

Marriage of the Unterofficier Friedrich Starnitzkÿ 1820 Stettin

Friedrich Starnitzkÿ (c.1786-after 1820) married Frau Charlotte (née Wagner) Schünemann on the 27th of June in 1820 at Prussian Army Protestant Church at Stettin. Friedrich was an Unterofficier (senior sergeant) in the Prussian Army. Charlotte was the daughter of the deceased Leinenweber (linen weaver) Wagner who died at Garz. The bride and the groom were 34 years old, so they were born around 1786. They were both Lutheran. Charlotte's divorce from her first husband (Mr. Schünemann) was recorded at the city court at Garz, in Cammin County, in the Stettin District of Pomerania.

There are two records of this marriage available at Ancestry.com. The summaries of both records list incorrect dates for the marriage. The first summary (Ancestry A) listed the marriage date as the 29th of June in 1820. The second summary (Ancestry B) listed the marriage date as the 27th of January in 1820. A review of both documents shows the marriage date as 27th of June in 1820. One summary (Ancestry A) shows the wedding was recorded at a military church in the city or district of Stettin in Pomerania. The second summary (Ancestry B) shows the wedding was recorded at a military church at the city or district of Pasewalk (in Ueckermünde County) in Pomerania. Pasewalk was in the Stettin District of Pomerania.

She was the daughter of the Arbeiter Christian Friedrich Stoehr and Maria (née Wollert) Stoehr who were residents of Strohsdorff. A note on the first page of the marriage record shows that the bride Wilhelmine (née Stoehr) Sternitzkÿ died at Stettin in 1942.

A 1909 address book for the city of Stettin listed an Arbeiter named Adolf Sternitzky who lived at Pommerensdorfenstraße 4. The 1911 address book for the city of Stettin listed an Arbeiter named Adolf Sternitzki who lived at Verbindungsstraße 13.

Birth and Death of son Willÿ August Fritz Sternitzkÿ (1875-1876)

Willy August Fritz Sternitzkÿ was born in the family home on the 17th of December 1875 at Stettin. His birth was reported by the midwife Frau Maria (née Kroll) Braatz. He was the son of the Arbeiter (laborer) August Sternitzkÿ and Louise (née König) Sternitzkÿ. They lived at Oberwiek 69a (now Kolumba Street) in Stettin.

Louise (née König) Sternitzkÿ the wife of the Arbeiter August Sternitzkÿ reported the death of her son Willÿ August Fritz Sternitzkÿ at the Stettin Standesamt on the 21st of Jun in 1876. She signed the record by writing XXX. Willÿ August Fritz Sternitzkÿ died at the age of 6 months old on the 19th of June in 1876. The family still lived at Oberwiek 69a in Stettin.

Birth and Marriage of son Otto Carl Wilhelm Sternitzkÿ, 1877 and 1902

Otto Carl Wilhelm Sternitzkÿ was born in the family home on the 8th of April in 1877. He was the son of the Arbeiter August Sternitzkÿ and Louise (née König) Sternitzkÿ. The family still lived at Oberwiek 61a in Stettin.

The Arbeiter (laborer) Otto Carl Wilhelm Sternitzkÿ was living at Hospitalstraße 2 in Stettin in 1902. He married Else Emma Meta Klünder at Stettin on the 27th of September in 1902. The marriage record shows the father of the groom, August Sternitzkÿ had died at Stettin before the 1902 marriage. The groom's mother Louise (née König) Sternitzkÿ was still living at Stettin at that time. The groom and the bride were both Protestant. The bride was born on the 10th of June in 1880 at Stettin. She was the daughter of the Arbeiter Gustav Johann Christian Klünder and Marie Elise Auguste (née Lawerenz) Klünder who both living at Stettin at that time. The wedding witnesses were: the 42 years old Oberfeuermann Hermann Wendtland who lived at Hospitalstraße 4 in Stettin, and the 42 years old Arbeiter Gustav Klünder who lived at Galgwiesen 16 in Stettin. A note in the margin of the first page of the marriage record shows they were divorced on the 29th of August in 1911.

Otto Sternitzki (born on the 8th of April in 1877 at Stettin) served in the German military in the First World War. He was certainly the Otto Carl Wilhelm Sternitzkÿ discussed above. A military casualty report listed Otto Sternitzki as lightly wounded on the 30th of December in 1916.

Death of Ernst Starnitzke (c.1804-1881) 1881 Stettin

Ernst Starnitzke died at Stettin on the 30th of September in 1881. His death record shows he was a former Schneidergeselle (journeyman tailor), he was not married, he was a Protestant, and he was a resident at Turnerstraße 13 in Stettin. That was the address for the Pommerschen Provinzial Blindenanstalt (Pomeranian Provincial Institute for the Blind). An employee at the institute reported the death.

Ernst died at the age of 77 years old, so he was born around 1804. The death record shows he was born at Breslau. He was the son of a Müller (miller) named Starnitzke and Therese (née Schmidt) Starnitzke, who preceded him in death. Baptism records from the St. Elisabeth Church in Breslau include the record of the 1804 birth and baptism of Johann Ernst Gottlieb Starnitzke, the son of Johann Starnitzke who worked at a Lohmühle (a mill used to grind roots, branches or bark to create a powder used in the leather tanning process). The name of the mother was not listed in the entry for this baptism in the register. See Book III, Chapter 1, the Death of Johann Gottlieb Sternitzky, 22 March 1836 City of Breslau.

He died at Stettin between the 18th of August in 1900 and the 27th of July in 1906.

Emil Paul Wilhelm Tendler-Sternitzkÿ was born on the 28th of January in 1871 at Berlin. The Arbeiter Emil Paul Wilhelm Sternitzkÿ married the Arbeiterin Johanne Ernestine

Bertha Steffen on the 26th of January in 1895 in Berlin. The groom was the son of the Arbeiter Emil Bruno Sternitzkÿ who was a resident at Frauenstraße Nr. 11 in Stettin. The 45 years old Emil Sternitzkÿ was one of the wedding witnesses.

Richard Sternitzkÿ was born at Berlin on the 7th of December in 1876. The Arbeiter (laborer) Richard Sternitzkÿ married Alwine Luise Wilhelmine Below on the 18th of August in 1900 at Stettin. The groom was living at Ulrichstraße No. 10 in the Bredow suburb of Stettin. His father was listed on the first page of the marriage record as the Schuhmacher Emil Bruno Sternitzkÿ who was living in Stettin, but he was listed as the 50 years old Rohrlager (pipe fitter, plumber) Emil Sternitzkÿ, a wedding witness who lived at Splittstrasse No. 8a in Stettin. A note on the first page of the marriage record shows that the couple divorced on the 3rd of August in 1919 at Stettin. The Bauarbeiter (construction laborer) Richard Sternitzkÿ then married the widowed Näherin (seamstress) Martha Pauline Auguste (née Böttcher) Sonntag at Berlin on the 14th of June in 1920. The bride and groom were Protestants and residents of Selchower Straße 27 the Neukölln suburb of Berlin. The marriage record shows that the groom's parents died before this wedding. The Schuhmacher Emil Bruno Sternitzkÿ had died at Stettin.

Wilhelm Sternitzkÿ was born on the 2nd of July in 1879 at Berlin. In 1879, the Maschinenheizer (boiler stoker) Wilhelm Sternitzkÿ was a resident at Friedrichstraße 8 in Weissensee (northeast from Berlin). He married the widow Auguste Wilhelmine (née Kretzschmar) Dreher at Berlin on the 27th of July in 1906. The marriage record shows that Wilhelm's parents died before that date: the Schuhmacher Emil Sternitzkÿ had died at Stettin, Emilie Sternitzkÿ had died at Berlin. A note on the first page of the marriage record states that Wilhelm Sternitzkÿ and Wilhelmine (née Kretzschmar) Sternitzkÿ were divorced at Stettin on the 14th of July in 1913. The Arbeiter Wilhelm Sternitzkÿ was living at Pelzerstraße 26 in Stettin in 1914. He married the widowed Arbeiterin Emma Luise Auguste (née Reinke) Feÿ at Stettin on the 25th of July in 1914. The 1914 marriage record listed his father as the Rohrlager (pipe fitter, plumber) Emil Bruno Sternitzkÿ who had died at Stettin. Wilhelm's second marriage also ended in a divorce on the 20th of October in 1940 at Stettin.

The Prussian Provinces of West and East Prussia

The long and complicated histories of West Prussia (Westpreußen) and East Prussia (Ostpreußen) are similar to the history of Silesia. It was first ruled by Slavic and Baltic tribes. A Pomeranian Polish duke built a Cistercian monastery near Danzig in 1186. German merchants and settlers were encouraged to develop the region. Teutonic knights colonized the area with more German settlers. The region was frequently fought over by the Prussians and Poles.

Members of the Sternitzke family migrated into the area around the time of the First Partition of Poland in 1772 by the Prussian King Frederick the Great. Their reason for migration was probably the availability of wilderness that could be turned into farmland.

In 1829, West Prussia and East Prussia were merged and named the Province of Prussia. In 1878, Prussia became part of the German Empire. After the First World War, Prussia was named the Free State of Prussia.

East Prussia (Ostpreußen) was a province of the Kingdom of Prussia from 1773 to 1829. Its capital city was Königsberg (now named Kaliningrad, Russia). In 1829, East Prussia and West Prussia were merged and named the Province of Prussia. In 1878, Prussia became part of the German Empire. After the First World War, Prussia was named the Free State of Prussia. In 1905, East Prussia was divided into three administrative districts: the Regierungsbezirk Königsberg, the Regierungsbezirk Gumbinnen and the Regierungsbezirk Allenstein.

After the Second World War, East Prussia was divided and became part of Poland, the USSR and Lithuania. Many Germans fled the region during the war, and the remaining Germans were expelled.

The history of the Sternitzke family in East Prussia is based on incomplete transcriptions of church records recorded at the FamilySearch website. The original records were not available for review on the Internet in April of 2023. I was not able to verify if the records were correctly transcribed. The transcriptions did not include occupations or exact locations of the family events. So, I have listed the events chronologically instead of by location.

Marriage and Family of Maria (née Sternisske) Krause 1743 to 1761 East Prussia

Maria Sternitke [Sternisske] married George Krause at East Prussia on the 13th of August in 1743. Maria was identified on the church marriage record as the daughter of Hans Sternitkes [Sternisske]. Other variations of Maria's maiden name were: Sternisske, Sternissken and Sternistke. The Sternisske and the Sternissken variations were the most common ones used related in church records. Sternissken was a female variation of the Sternisske name. They had five known children.

- Hans Krause married Susanna Sternisske in East Prussia on the 25th of January in 1761. Hans was the son of George Krause. If Hans was born in 1743, the year of the marriage of Maria Sternisske and George Krause, then Hans would have been 18 years old when he married Susanna Sternisske.
- David Krause was baptized in East Prussia on the 16th of July in 1752. He was the son of George Krause and Maria (née Sternisske) Krause.
- Maria Krause was baptized in East Prussia on the 13th of January in 1755. She was the daughter of George Krause and Maria Sternistke.
- Elisabeth Krause was baptized in East Prussia on the 15th of June in 1756. She was the daughter of George Krause and Maria (née Sternissken) Krause.
- Maria Krause was baptized in East Prussia on the 5th of February in 1760. She was the daughter of George Krause and Maria (née Sternissken) Krause.

Family of Johann Friedrich Sternitzke
c.1773 to 1790 East Prussia

- Carl Friedrich Sternitzke was born around 1773. That year of birth was based on his burial record. He died in 1790 at the age of 17 years old. He was buried in East Prussia on the 27th of September in 1790. His burial record listed his father as Johann Fried[rich] Sternitzke. The original record was not available for review. I suspect that the transcription is in error, and that this burial was really for Carl Friedrich Sternitzke listed next. The burial record may have recorded is age as 17 days instead of 17 years.

- Carl Fried[rich] Sternitzke was born on the 8th of September in 1790. He was baptized in East Prussia on the 10th of September in 1790. His baptism record listed his parents as Johann Fried[rich] Sternitzke and Anna Maria (née Dalla) Sternitzke.

Family of Daniel Sternitzke 1779 to 1787 East Prussia

Daniel Sternitzke and his wife Anna Rosina (née Ecken) Sternitzke had four known children who were baptized in East Prussia. Two of their children were buried in East Prussia. Daniel's first name was transcribed as David in one source. His wife's maiden name was transcribed as Eckin in two sources. The original records were not available for online review in April of 2023.

- Christian Gottlieb Sternitzke was baptized on the 19th of May in 1779. The transcribed baptism record listed his parents as David Sternitzke and Anna Rosina (née Ecken) Sternitzke. The two years old Christian Gottlieb Sternitzke was buried in East Prussia on the 31st of August in 1781. The burial record identified his father as Daniel Sternitzke.
- Johann Friedrich Sternitzke was baptized on the 9th of March in 1781. His baptism record listed his parents as Daniel Sternitzke and Anna Rosina (née Ecken) Sternitzke.
- Johann Carl Sternitzke was born on the 27th of January in 1783. He was baptized on the 30th of January in 1783. His baptism record listed his parents as Daniel Sternitzke and Anna Rosina (née Eckin) Sternitzke.
- Anna Rosina Sternitzke was born on the 4th of November in 1784. She was baptized on the 7th of November in 1784. Her baptism record shows she was the daughter of Daniel Sternitzke and Anna Rosina (née Eckin) Sternitzke. The two years old Anna Rosina Sternitzken was buried in East Prussia on the 18th of January in 1787. The baptism record listed her father as Daniel Sternitzke. Sternitzken was a female version of Sternitzke.

Birth of Christoph Stanitzke c.1790 Johannesberg near Königsberg, East Prussia

The Haushälter (janitor) Christoph Stanitzke married the Dienstmädchen (servant girl) Marie Elisabet Stulpe on the 11th of May in 1824 at the Elftausend Jungfrauen Protestant Church in Breslau. They were both residents of the city of Breslau. See Chapter 1, The City of Breslau: the Marriage of Christoph Stanitzke, 1824 City of Breslau.

Christoph Stanitzke was 34 years old at the time of the wedding, so he was born around 1790. He was the son of the late Oeconoms Johann Stanitzke from Johannesberg near Königsberg in East Prussia. Johannesberg was a Vorwerk (residence or farm) to the east of the state-owned estate named Kobbelbude. They were both southwest of Königsberg. Kobbelbude is now named Swetloje (Kaliningrad), Russia. Königsberg is now named Kaliningrad, Russia. The genealogical dictionary by Ernest Thode listed more than one translation of an Oekonom or Oeconom: small farm owner, farm manager, steward, innkeeper or economist. Given the rural location of Johannesberg, Johann Stanitzke was probably a small farm owner.

Family of Maria Elisabeth (née Sternitzke) Weissenberg 1823 City of Breslau, 1826 East Prussia

Johann Joseph Weissenberg and Maria Elisabeth (née Sternitzke) Weissenberg had two known daughters. The baptism record from Breslau for their first known daughter conflicts with a church record from East Prussia.

- A baptism record from the St. Maria Magdalena Protestant Church in Breslau shows that Johanna Maria Emilie Weissenberg was born on the 19th of December in 1823. She was baptized there on the 26th of December in 1823. Her parents were listed as the Schuhmacher (shoemaker) Johann Joseph Weissenberg and his Ehegattin (wife) Maria Elisabeth (née Sternitzke) Weissenberg. They lived at house number 864 in the Hummerey (Hummerei) District in Breslau. Hummerei Straße was 3 blocks south of the St. Maria Magdalena Protestant Church. That street is now part of Kazimierza Wielkiego Street. The baptism sponsors were: the Schneidermeister Johann Caspar Wendel, the Schuhmachermeister Johann Carl Gottlieb Suschke, and the Jungfrau Susanna Rungin the daughter of a Pächter (a tenant on rented property).

The FamilySearch database has a transcription of the baptism of Johanna Maria Emilie Sternitzke. According to that transcription she was baptized in East Prussia on the 19th of December of 1823 which was listed as her date of birth in the Breslau record. The FamilySearch transcription only recorded Maria Elisabeth Sternitzke as a parent. The child's surname and the mother's surname were listed as Sternitzke, which implies the mother was not married when the child was baptized. The source document for the FamilySearch transcription was not available for online review in April of 2023.

- Johanna Rosina Bertha Weissenberg was born on the 18th of December in 1826. She was baptized in East Prussia on the 25th of December in 1826. The baptism record listed her parents as Johann Joseph Weissenberg and Maria Elisabeth (née Sternitzke) Weissenberg.

Sternitzke Emigrations from Europe to America

The loss of many of the civil and church records related to the Sternitzke family in Silesia makes it difficult to identify family relationships between the emigrants and their ancestors in Silesia. The emigrants sometimes passed on their village of origin to their descendants (often with spelling variations as varied as the spelling of our family name. Emigration records and ship passenger lists are an important source of information (such as ages and relationships) for grouping individuals into family units and sometimes assist in identifying the village of origin. They are also a source for identifying the ethnicity and origin of the variations of the Sternitzke name, as is discussed in the following chapter.

The tables below include many identifiable and possible emigrations from Silesia. Some passenger list records for arrivals in the United States only identified the family's origin as Germany. The German departure records (from Bremen and Hamburg) typically were more detailed and reliable in identifying the village of birth and the correct spelling of the passengers' names. Unfortunately, many of the German emigration records were destroyed during the World Wars. The known emigrations of Sternitzke family groups from Silesia include:

- the Gottlieb Sternitzke and Helene (née Friedrich) Sternitzke family from Klein Ujeschütz (Trebnitz County) to Illinois around 1840,
- the Friedrich Karl Sternitzke and Helene (née Dietz) Sternitzke family from Klein Ujeschütz (Trebnitz County) to Wisconsin in 1840,
- the Friedrich Sternitzke and Marie (née Hübner) Sternitzke family from Gross Ujeschütz (Trebnitz County) in 1842,
- Wilhelm F. Sternitzky and Carl Robert Sternitzky from Klein Ujeschütz (Trebnitz County) to Illinois in 1862,
- Daniel Sternitzky and Helen (née Kitchke) Sternitzky family from Klein Ujeschütz (Trebnitz County) to Illinois in 1865,
- Gottlieb Sternitzke and Anna Rosine (née Becker) Sternitzke family from Klein Ujeschütz (Trebnitz County) to Iowa in 1870,
- Charles (Karl) Sternitzky from Kreuzburg (Kreuzburg County) to New York and California around 1854,
- Robert William Sternitzky and from Kreuzburg (Kreuzburg County) to New York in 1868,
- the Josef Sternitzke family from Breslau in 1880,
- Robert Sternitzki from Kreuzburg (Kreuzburg County) to California in 1884,
- the Reinhold D. Sternitzky family from Kreuzburg (Kreuzburg County) to California in 1886.
- the descendants of Friedrich Sternitzke from Pawellau (Trebnitz County) to Illinois and Indiana in 1889, 1907 and 1924,
- Karl Siegfried Sternitzke from Wohlau (Wohlau County) to New York in 1905, and

- the Wilhelm Paul Sternitzke family from Donkawe (Militsch County) to New York in 1929 and 1930.

Brief family histories of these known Sternitzke family members who emigrated from Silesia to the United States have been included in the chapters related to the cities and villages from which the families emigrated. A detailed study and documentation of the Sternitzke emigrants could take several more years and fill a separate book. The information provided in this family history is also purposely sketchy to protect the privacy of living family members.

Three additional Sternitzke family members were identified as emigrants to the United States. Two were from Pomerania and one was from an unidentified location in Germany. All three settled in Illinois.

Birth, Emigration and Marriage of Theodor Sternitzke 1850 City of Lauenburg, Pomerania, 1874 Chicago

Theodor Sternitzke (1850-1899) and Augusta Granzin emigrated from Germany to the United States before their marriage in 1874. Theodore Sternitzke was born in 1850 at Lauenburg in Pomerania. I have not found a record of Theodor's emigration. He may have emigrated around the same year (1871) as Augusta Granzin.

Augusta Granzin was born in June of 1852 at Wendorf, Germany and emigrated from Lauenburg in 1871 (according to the 1900 census). Auguste Granzin was 19 years old when she emigrated from Europe on the steamship named Westphalia. The ship left Hamburg, Germany on the 5th of April in 1871 and traveled to New York.

Theodor Starnitzky married Augusta Granzin at Chicago, Illinois on the 1st of November in 1874. See Chapter 18, The Prussian Province of Pomerania: the Birth, Emigration and Family of Theodor Sternitzke, 1850 City of Lauenburg, 1874 to 1940 Chicago.

Birth, Marriage and Emigration of Julius August Wilhelm Starnitzke 1867 Wobensin, Pomerania, 1892 Chicago

Julius August Wilhelm Starnitzke (1867-1949) was born on the 18th of October in 1867 at Wobensin, Lauenburg County in Pomerania. The Eigenthümersohn (son of a property owner) Julius August Wilhelm Starnitzke married Auguste Caroline Kubitz at Groß Jannowitz on the 10th of May in 1889. According to the 1900 U.S. Census, Julius Staniczke, his wife Augusta Staniczke, and their son Richard Staniczke emigrated to the United States in 1892.

See Chapter 18, The Prussian Province of Pomerania: the Birth, Marriage, Emigration, Family and Death of Julius August Wilhelm Starnitzke, 1867 and 1889 Wobensin.

Paul Sternitzke
Petition to Become a Citizen of the United States
15 October 1892, Madison County, Illinois

According to his petition to become a citizen of the United States, Paul Sternitzke was 21 years old on the 1st of December in 1891, so he was born in 1870. He was a native-born subject of the Empire of Germany and emigrated with his parents in 1875 when he was 5 years old. He entered the United States at New York City, and lived in Madison County (Illinois) for the two years prior to his petition on the 15th of October in 1892. His signature from the petition is copied here.

Castle Garden Passenger List Records 1820 to 1913

The Castle Garden online database for (New York) provides passenger list records of arrivals to New York City for the years 1820 to 1913. It includes many records of the Sternitzke family (and variations of the family name) as shown in the table below. Unfortunately, the origins of the immigrants are usually not detailed enough to point to a village of origin, or in almost all cases even to identify Silesia as the point of origin. But the data does show some interesting diversity in the family name, nationalities and places of birth.

The Castle Garden records show Sternitzky, Sternitzki, Sternitzke, Starnitzki, Starnitzke, Zarnitzki and Zernitzky family members emigrated from Germany, Bohemia and Austria. The records only indicate the Starnitzke family (who emigrated in 1880) definitely emigrated from Silesia, though the others that listed Prussia or Germany as their place of birth may have also been Silesians. One Sternitzky family member who emigrated was born in Hungary. See below: the Family of Michael Sternitzky, 1826 to 1833 Hungary. One Zernitzki family member who emigrated was born in Poland.

The Hamburg Passenger list database has a link to the passenger list. The Kepler left Hamburg on the 1 st of May in 1863. The 23 years old unmarried woman Elisabeth Sternitzky was from Ujeschütz in Prussia. She was traveling two other passengers from Ujeschütz: the unmarried Arbeiter Carl Kupke (age 27) and Frau Helene Kupke (age 32). The passenger list identified her as Elisabeth Sternitzke . Ellis Island Passenger List Records

The Ellis Island (New York) immigration center officially opened in 1892, though immigration was handled at a nearby barge in 1891. The data presented at the Ellis Island website is slightly different than the Castle Garden website. It included the marital status for each passenger (included in the table below) and the occupation is not always shown, but the occupations can sometimes be found on the linked passenger list. The data presented on their website is also misleading because the ethnicity is not always indicated for passengers returning home to an address in the United States. The database also lists the last place of residence for the immigrants, but that information was sometimes listed as the immigrant's place of birth on the passenger lists. I have clarified this information in the table below, and corrected transcription errors (such as the spelling of Pawellau and other locations) by reviewing each passenger list whenever that was possible.

The Ellis Island records also identified Sternitzky, Sternitzki, Starnitzky family members as ethnically German. Russian- Jewish emigrants with the Sternitzki, Zernitzky and (probably Saul) Zarnitzky variations of the name were listed. There were also two Russian emigrants of Polish ethnicity named Zernitzky, but they were not identified as being Jewish. The immigrants with the Czerniczky name variation were not listed as ethnically German. They were listed as Hungarians, Slovaks from Hungary and one was a Russian. See below: the Family of Michael Sternitzky, 1826 to 1840 Hungary and Slovakia. The analysis the Sternitzke family name variations found in these passenger list records are discussed further in the next chapter.

Family of Michael Sternitzky 1826 to 1840 Hungary and Slovakia

Baptism of daughter Maria Elisabeth Sternitzky, 1826

Maria Elisabeth Sternitzky was baptized a Catholic on the 2nd of February in 1826, at Szöny, Hungary. Her parents were listed as Michael Sternitzky and his wife Maria (née Freimüller) Sternitzky. Michael's occupation was listed as a Cerdo (Latin for a tanner). The family lived at Uj Szöny (see the map below).

Baptism of daughter Elisabeth Sternitzkÿ, 1828

Elisabeth Sternitzkÿ was baptized a Catholic on the 4th of March in 1828, at Szöny, Hungary. Her parents were listed as the Cerdo (Latin for a tanner) Michael Sternitzkÿ and his wife Maria (née Freimilner) Sternitzkÿ. The family lived at Uj Szöny.

Baptism of son Michael Sternitzky, 1830

Michael Sternitzky (junior) was baptized a Catholic on the 28th of June in 1830 at Tata, Hungary. His parents were listed as the Cerdo (Latin for a tanner) Michael Sternitzky and Maria (née Freimiller) Sternitzky. The family lived at Tata.

Baptism of son Josephus Paulus Sternitsky, 1833

Josephus Paulus (Josef Paul) Sternitsky was baptized a Catholic on the 19th of October in 1833, at Tata, Hungary. His parents were listed as the Alutarius (tanner) Michael Sternitsky and his wife Maria (née Freimüller) Sternitsky. The family lived at Tata.

Baptism of son Josef Sterniczky, 1840

Josef Sterniczky was baptized a Catholic on the 20th of January in 1840 at Komárno, Slovakia. His parents were listed as Mihály Sterniczky and Mária Freymüller. The family lived at Komárno, Slovakia. The document was written in Hungarian. The profession of the father was listed as a Timár mester (Hungarian for master tanner). The father was a Catholic. The mother was an Evangelical (Protestant).

The town Uj Szöny was on the south side of the Danube River. It was connected by a bridge to the town named Komárom on the north side of the Danube River. Komárom was known as Komorn in German. The two towns (Uj Szöny and Komárom) were united in 1896. In 1920, Komárom was split between Slovakia and Hungary. The southern part of the town (originally Uj Szöny) is now Komárom in Komárom-Esztergom County of northwestern Hungary. The northern part of the town (originally named Komárom) is now Komárno, in southwestern Slovakia.

Tata is a town in Komárom-Esztergom County of northwestern Hungary. It is about 12 miles southeast from Uj Szöny. Tata was known as Tota in German, and Dotis in Latin.

Chapter 21

Sternitzke Name Variations

There are many difficulties in tracing the origins of our Sternitzke family name. The original church and civil records were handwritten, so the spelling of the family name was influenced by the education, ethnicity and accuracy of the recorder. The recorders of the family name were not always the bearer of the name, so the written form was an interpretation of the sound of the name as heard by the recorder. Dr. Gustav Stein noted that Christian Sternitzke was one of the few villagers who could write his own name in the Schön-Ellguth Urbarium of 1785. In my review of the Breslau birth, marriage and death records I found many records (as late as 1908) where the person reporting the event could not write their own name. They reported the event to a civil recorder who completed the document. The reporter then signed the document by writing three crosses or three X's (by Catholics, Protestants and Jews), or three O's (by Jews and Dissidents).

The accuracy of later transcriptions of the handwritten documents to printed versions depended on the quality of the original document and on the education, ethnicity and effort made by the transcribers. The destruction of most of the original documents by wars, fires and floods now make it impossible to verify the accuracies of most of the transcriptions. Wilhelm Starnitzki made copies of many of the original documents, but some of those were also lost during World War II, and the locations of his copies are unknown. He was probably the most trustworthy of the transcribers of our records, because of his personal interest in his (and our) family history. He was certainly quite interested in recording the many variations in spelling of our name, and had access to church and civil records that proved family relationships in spite of the various spellings of the family name. His monograph is a fantastic study of how one family name could have so many variations in spelling, while living in a small region for about 400 years.

Some of the variations were probably just due to human error, but some of the variations were certainly due in part to the linguistic influences from the many political, ethnic and social changes Silesia was exposed to during those 400 years: Latin, Polish, Dutch, German, Czech, Bohemian, Hungarian, Austrian, Saxon and Prussian. The mixing of these cultures resulted in the Silesian German language in northwestern Lower Silesia and the Slavic Silesian language in southeastern Upper Silesia.

In addition to the political and social changes directly affecting the Silesians, the German language (written and spoken) was affected by events that exposed people to other dialects of German: the invention of the printing press, the Martin Luther Bible, the reformation and counter-reformation. The standardization of the German language (which was, and still is plagued with dialects) to create a uniform language within the empires (whether it was based in Vienna or Berlin) was a struggle that was repeated throughout the German history. The most recent effort to standardize the German language (through orthographic reform) was in 1998, which affected the official German language for Germany, Switzerland and Austria.

One of the issues I have often faced when transcribing old documents, is how to interpret the German Eszett “ß” letter: sometimes it is replaced by the “ss” letters, but in older references it was usually replaced with the “sz” letters. Wilhelm Starnitzki used the Eszett “ß” letter to replace the “sz” combination in writing the name of Lukas Poßnansky. The original source of his information (Dr. August Meitzen) wrote that name as Lucas Posnansken (on page 277, item XIII. 1575. 21. Februar), but also as Lucasz Posznanszki (on page 278, item XV. 1587. 9. Mai). Meitzen probably provided accurate transcriptions of the original documents. Another problem is the Eszett character (in its printed form) looks similar to the Tezett character that was used to replace “tz” as shown below. The Tezett character is rarely discussed in modern printed or online sources, but is frequently found in old German books. The handwritten forms of the Eszett and Tezett letters are different and easy to identify, but sometimes the quality of scanned images of old books makes it difficult to determine which printed letter combination was used.

The variations in the spelling of the Sternitzke name were not unique to the family in Silesia, but continued after members of the family emigrated to the United States of America. For example, Friedrich Sternitzke (my great-great-grandfather) emigrated from Klein Ujeschütz (Trebnitz County, Silesia) in 1840 with his wife and children. The variations found for Friedrich’s last name included:

- Sternitzke in Die Altlutherische Auswanderung um die Mitte des 19. Jahrhunderts, based on German emigration records,
- Sternisky on the 1840 passenger list of the ship bringing them to America,
- Starntzki (by a clerk) and Sternitzki (by Friedrich’s signature) on his 1844 intention to become a U.S. citizen form,
- Starnitzki (and Starntizke) on his 1847 naturalization record,
- Staneske in the 1848-9 Milwaukee City Directory,
- Steirnetz in the 1851-2 Milwaukee City Directory,
- Steinscksky on the 1850 census,
- Stemskie on the 1860 census and
- Sternitzky on the 1880 census, on his 1901 death record and on his tombstone.

Other variations in the spelling of the last name of Friedrich’s oldest son (Karl) included:

- Sterritsky in the Biographical History of Clark and Jackson Counties in 1891,
- Stuntzky in the History of Northern Wisconsin in 1881 and
- Sternitzky in the History of Clark County in 1918.

During my review of the Breslau birth, marriage and death records (1889 to 1911) I found many interesting cases where there were inconsistent spellings of many family names (not just the Sternitzke name). There were many cases where a civil registry official added notes in the margins with later corrections to family names. There were cases where children gave conflicting variations of their mothers' maiden names. Siblings sometimes spelled their last names differently on the same record. And sometimes it seems as if people were free to make changes to the spelling of their last name for personal reasons. The most interesting case I encountered was the well documented life of Eduard Robert Alwin Sternitzky. He was born on the 2nd of December in 1859 at Kreuzburg, in Kreuzburg County. His education, military and teaching records listed his last name as Sternitzky. He was a graduate from the University of Breslau, so a lack of education was not a factor, but for some reason he signed his name as Eduard Robert Alwin Sternitzki on his 21 June 1911 marriage record. That was just four days after he had signed it as Sternitzky as a witness of the wedding of Ernst Karl Otto Hoffichter and Pauline Ida Hahn.

Phonetic Substitutions

This is perhaps a good place to discuss the different ways certain sounds (important in our family name) are represented in German and the Slavic languages (such as Polish and Czech). Consider the word Czechoslovakia. In English we spell it with Cz, but pronounce it like

Ch as in the word checkers. That Ch sound in Slavic languages is represented (written) as Cz or Č. In German, that Ch sound is written as Tsch. Now consider the common phrase in English for a beer mug: beer stein, which are based on the German words Bier + Steingut (beer stoneware). In English, the st in stein is pronounced as in the word stone, but in German, the st is pronounced like the letters sht. The sht sound in Slavic languages is written as Sc. The process is continued for other letter combinations that appear in written forms of our family name to create the following chart of written equivalencies:

| SCH | SZ |
| ST | SC |
| TZ or TS | C |
| TSCH | CZ or Č |
| ITZ | EC |
| ITZE | ECl, ICA or IECA |
| ITZKY | ECKI, ICKI or IECKI |

These written representations of sound equivalencies can result in many possible German/Slavic sound equivalencies for Sternitzke name variations. Here are just a few examples:

| German | Slavic Equivalents |
| STERNITZKY, STERNITZKE, STIRNITSCHKE or TSCHERNITZKY | SCERNECKI, SCERNICKA, SZERNECKA SCIRNICZKA, SCERNICKE CZERNICKI or CZERNIECKI |

My crude summary of the rules of translating German to Polish are generalizations, but they show that there are many possible combinations of the German and Polish elements and explain the various spellings of the Sternitzke and other family names in Silesian documents. For example, the Opitz family name was also written in some documents as the Slavic variation: Opec. Another example is the well documented Sedlnitzky von Choltitz family (from Bohemia and Silesia), which was sometimes written as Sedlniczki von Choltitz, and Sedlnický von Choltic.

There was no formal system for the use of sound equivalencies in writing family names or locations (such as village names). Sometimes the first part of the word seems to have been in one language and the second half in another. This has resulted in hybrid name variations that seem half German and half Slavic. A good example of this is a church record from Dobberschütz, Posen in 1871:

Pauline Ernestine Sternitzki was born and baptized in the Evangelical parish at Dobberschütz in 1871. She died in 1874. Her parents were only listed by their last name: Sternicki.

In that example the family name was spelled two different ways: Sternitzki for the daughter and Sternicki for her parents. Pauline's last name seems to be a hybrid variation that was part Germanic and part Slavic. Her parents' name was written in a more Slavic form, but not a full Slavic form such as Czernicki. But it is especially odd that the parents' name was written as Sternicki, when four other members of that same Sternitzki family were listed in earlier church records at that village. The parents of Pauline Ernestine Sternitzki were Gustav Sternitzki and Johanna Beate (née Gruttke) Sternitzki who were married at Dobberschütz, in 1868.

Another interesting example is the Sternicke-Sternitzke family from the Hochkirch parish in Trebnitz County. Christoph Sternicke was an innkeeper and farmer at Machnitz, and later a farmer at Schön-Ellguth. Variations of Christoph's family name included:

- Christoph Sternicke on the 1739 baptism record for his son Johann,
- Christoph Sternicky on the 1741 birth record for his son Gottfried,
- Christoph Sternisky on the 1745 sales record of his inn and farm at Machnitz, and
- Christoph Sternitzky on the 1777 marriage record for his son Johann.

Christoph's son Christian was one the few villagers who could sign his own name in the Schön-Ellguth land record (Urbarium) in 1785. He signed his name as Christian Sternitzke. So, the Sternicke and Sternicky variations of the family name were Germanic/Polish hybrid variations of the Germanic Sternisky, Sternitzky and Sternitzke variations.

Another example of confusion between the Sternicke and Sterniske names was found in comparing the marriage records for Gottlieb Langner. He was born in Brietzen (in 1827) and married twice in Breslau. His 1887 marriage record listed his parents as Maria Sterniske and Johann Langner. His 1909 marriage record listed his parents as Maria Sternicke and Johann Langner.

Stanislaw Rospond's dictionary of Silesian names identified the Polish name Czernicki was equivalent to the name Tschernitzki, which seems again to have been incomplete transformation of the Polish name Czernicki to the fully Germanic name Tschernitzke. But his comparison was probably based on his source documents, which may have used the Tschernitzki variation for a specific person. See the discussion in a previous chapter regarding the Cape Tschernitzky, where German books used either the Tschernitzki variation (probably based on Russian maps of Novaya Zemlya Island), or the Tschernitzky variation (possibly due to a personal relationship with a General-Lieutenant Tschernitzky who was living at that time).

The variations found in the spellings for village names in this region are almost as numerous as the Sternitzke family name. Variations in village names and their relationship the Sternitzke family name are discussed below. The spelling variations of the family and village names were probably influenced on a local level primarily by the church leaders, who influenced by the ethnicity of their political leaders. For the region including Trebnitz County the political rulers can be grouped into five periods:

- the Polish Dukes of Silesia period (before 1340),
- the Bohemian period (1340 to 1526),
- the Austrian period (1526 to 1740),
- the Prussian and later German period (1740 to 1945) and
- the Polish period (after the expulsion of the Germans).

While the Early New High German language (1350-1650) was used extensively for official records in the first two phases, the Slavic languages (Polish and Czech) were used by the Slavic members of the nobility, clergy and villagers in the multi-cultural region. Many people were bilingual. This had some influence on the language used by the early German settlers in Bohemia, Moravia and Silesia. This integration of cultures resulted in a German Silesian dialect of the Early New High German language. These Slavic influences affected the spellings of the names of towns, villages and families in church and civil documents. The Bohemian nobles definitely held positions of influence in Trebnitz County, and would have had major effects on the lives of the Sternitzke family. See the discussion regarding the German Migrations Through Bohemia in Chapter 23. The invention of printing (around 1455) and the Martin Luther Bible (1522) led to more uniformity in the spelling of German words. One relevant feature of the Early New High German language was the use of the letter -y- in words that were later spelled with the letter -i-, such as: Kayser (Kaiser), Freyherren (Freiherren), Freygärtner (Freigärtner), Kreyse (Kreise), sye (sie), deyn (dein) and bey (bei). An example from the 1545 Martin Luther Bible is: „Im anfang war das Wort, vnd das wort war bey Gott, vnd Gott war das Wort“. The use of the letter -y at the end of a word in Early New High German was probably the basis for the variations of the Sternitzke name that ended with a -y.

An interesting book (written in German) provides examples of the name variations in effect at the end of the Bohemian phase. The Trebnitz Rechnungsbuch of 1523-1524 itemized the payments to the Trebnitz Stift for those years. Many communities and a few individuals were named, illustrating the German language used at that time and place, and the Slavic influences on the names of the villages and families. Cities, towns and villages listed in that record and related to the Sternitzke family history included:

- Breslau was written as Breßlaw, Bresslaw and Bressel.
- Trebnitz was written as Trebnicz.
- Brietzen was written as Britznaw and Bricznaw.
- Deutsch Hammer was written as Oberhammer.
- Dornowitz was written as Domanewitz.
- Görlitz was written as Gorlicz.
- Gross Ujeschütz was written as Ujast, Uyest and Vyast.
- Luzine was written as Lucina.
- Militsch was written as Milytsche.
- Öls was written as Olße and Olßen.
- Pawellau was written as Paulaw and Pawlaw.
- Prausnitz was written as Praussnicz and Praußnicz.
- Polnischdorf was written as Polnische dorff and Polnischen Dorffe.
- Polnisch Hammer was written as Niederhammer.
- Schawoine was written as Szawon.
- Schickwitz was written as Schitkowicz and Schitkowitz.
- Schlottau was written as Slottaw and Szlottaw.
- Skarzine was written as Skerßin and Skarßine.
- Wohrlau was written as Wolaw.
- Zantkau was written as Czantkaw.

There are a few interesting points to be made from the above list of villages:

1. It shows spelling inconsistencies for the names of people and communities in a short period of time, probably due to multiple recorders of the information.
2. It shows the interchangeable use of the ß and the ss letters, with the one exception of Skarßine for Skarzine.
3. The -itz suffix was almost always written as -icz. Domanewitz and Schitkowitz were two exceptions to that practice.

4. The -au suffix was written as -aw.
5. Ujeschütz was written as Ujast, Uyest and Vyast, which are very different from the current name Ujeździec. This is odd, considering that according to Dr. Sepp: the German suffix -schütz is represented in Slavic languages as -cic or -czyz.

One of the families frequently linked to the Sternitzke family was the Labitzke family. The Labitzke and the Labitzky variations are mentioned in both the Wilhelm Starnitzki and the Pastor Conrad books. The Labitzke family was also recorded in the Trebnitz Rechnungsbuch. Johann Labitzke from Gross Ujeschütz was written in a transcription of a 1523 document as: Jhan Labiczky from Vyast. Vyast was identified as Gross Ujeschütz in footnote #49 on page 36. Jan Labitzky from Gross Ujeschütz (spelled as Vyest) was listed on page 107. It is most likely that Jhan Labiczky and Jan Labitzky were spelling variations of the name for the same person, but were documented by separate recorders in the year 1523. This shows the -itz combination was also written as -icz, indicating Sterniczky could have been a variation of Sternitzke at that time. The family name Sterniczky is currently in use, and resulted in more than 62,000 results in a search at www.google.com.

The early recorders of our name were also influenced by the Latin language, which was used exclusively in Silesian church and civil documents during the early Middle Ages, but was slowly replaced by German as the official language. The use of Latin variations of names continued in Catholic Church records. The Latin documents add other variations to the spelling of the first and last names of our ancestors, and also modified the spelling of the cities, towns and villages they lived in. The first name Johann appears as Johannes in Latin. And an interesting example of the modification of last names was the case of Count Stephan von Zernitz whose name appeared in 13th century Latin documents as Stephani Ziernicze (see the discussion below regarding Deutsch Zernitz for details). Examples of Sternitzke family names modified in Catholic Church records were found in the baptism records for the Catholic Church at Powitzko. Katharine Sternitzke was written as Catarina Sczirnisen in 1613 and as Catarina Scziernisen in 1620. Jakob Sternitzke was written as Jacobus Scziernisko in 1617 and Jacobus Scziernisko in 1626. The -ko suffix was used to indicate males. The -ken was used to indicate females in church records. The church records for the Protestant Church at Massel in Trebnitz County included many examples of the -ken female modifier in records from the early 19th Century.

Dr. Gustav Stein documented his analysis of the Sternitzke family variations he encountered in his search for his Sternitzki ancestors from the Hochkirch parish in Trebnitz County. He noted that the names Sternicke (when spoken in Polish) and Sternizke (when spoken in German) were pronounced the same, but neither were Polish names. According to Dr. Stein, the Polish suffix -sky indicates a townsman or farmer. The Polish suffix -ski indicates noble parentage. He corresponded with the Breslau City Archives in 1934. Their theory was that the family name could have been that of a noble Polish family name based on Sterniz. But no similar family name could be found in a lexicon of Polish nobility, nor could any examples be found of Polish family names that satisfied their theory. Dr. Stein came to these conclusions:

1. Sternitzke with the -ke suffix was the original form of the family name,
2. the -ke suffix is a Low German diminutive suffix used in eastern German names,
3. variations of the family name with -ki and -ky came later, and were due to the Slavic linguistic influences in Silesia,
4. linguistic rules for the transformation of written forms representing sounds indicate the -ke would transfer to the -ki suffix rather than to a -ky suffix,
5. the root word of the family name was Sternitz (not Sterniz without the second t),
6. Sternicke, Sternisky, Sternische, Sternitzke, Sternitzki and Sternitzky are all variations of the same family name with origins in Trebnitz County.

I generally agree with Dr. Stein's conclusions but I think they would have been slightly different if he had been able to review Wilhelm Starnitzki's monograph. The earliest proven variations (identified so far) of the Sternitzke family name were Tschirnitzky and Tschirnitzke at Luzine and Zantkau in the early 16th century, followed by variations beginning with Cz-, Sc-, Z-, Sz- and St-. The root word of the family name may have been a village named Tschirnitz, and possibly associated with the location of the earlier von Zschirnitz family from the Margraviate of Meissen (from 1261 to 1350).

I am left to wonder if the Breslau City Archives and Dr. Stein considered and rejected a possible connection between the Sternicke family of Hochkirch in (Trebnitz County) and the 1549 Zerniczski family of Zernicki, Posen. The literary sources that identified Joannes Zerniczski von Zernicki (as a University of Leipzig graduate in 1549) would have been available at the time of Dr. Stein's research. Sternicki was a variation of the Sternitzki family name used in Posen in the 19th and 20th centuries. For example:

Pauline Ernestine Sternitzki was born and baptized in the Evangelical parish at Dobberschütz in 1871. She died in 1874. Her parents were only listed by their last name: Sternicki.

Andrzej Sternicki married Anna Solecką on the 27th of December in 1655.

Wilhelm Starnitzki identified a few records of our family members where the last name was spelled Sciernisko (such as the father of Blasius Sciernisko in 1574, and much later Christoph Sciernisko at Brietzen in 1709). Wilhelm also found other versions of the last name used by that same Blasius, including: Czirnisko, Czirniszko, ZierniBko, Szernischko and Szernitzke. These variations of the surname for Blasius and the earlier versions of the family name Tschirnitzky (at Luzine in 1541), CzerniBky (at Luzine in 1559) and Tschirnitzke (at Zantkau in 1554) indicate that the Polish word Sciernisko was not our family name, but it was a word that sounded close to the family name. That Polish word was probably used when the name was recorded by a Polish priest or official of the Trebnitz Stift. Examples supporting this theory were found in Karl Sille's source documents at the Herder Institute.

- The 1617 baptism record for Valten Mundrij at the Powitzko Catholic Church listed Jacobus Sciernisko as one of the witnesses. This was certainly a Latin-Polish variation of the name Jakob Szernitzke (Stammliste Nr. 262) who was born at Domnowitz in 1584.
- A variation of the name Kuba (the Polish version of Jakob) was listed in the 1618 baptism record for Susanna Mundrij, where Jakob Szernitzke was written as Cuba Scziernisko.

These later examples show that the Polish variations of the Sternitzke name existed at the same time as the German variations. The Polish ethnicity of the authors of the documents influenced how the name was written, resulting in Polish variations of the Sternitzke name.

Wilhelm Starnitzki identified the -ke and -ko name endings as Low-German (Saxon) name endings. But he also noted that the 1709 instance (Christoph Sciernisko) was probably a Slavic interpretation of the sound of our name. It may have been written as Sciernisko because that was a common word in farming communities that included Poles and Germans, and the word sounded similar to our family name. The Polish word Sciernisko means a portion of a forest that has been cleared of the trees for farming, or a field that has been harvested and reduced to stubble. The Polish word Sciernisko is probably related to the Polish word Ciernisko, which means a thornbush or bramble, which is related to the Old Wendish word Černsk. See the discussion below regarding Germanized-Slavic words.

Another source identified the -ke name suffix as originally a common Slavic naming practice in the eastern territories that were then settled by Germans as they migrated eastward into what is now Brandenburg, Pomerania, Poland and Russia. The Slavic -ke or -ka suffix was added to the father's occupation, distinguishing characteristic, or location (such as the village of origin) associated with the father, to create a family name. I believe the meaning of the Sternitzke name is related to a village of origin. Sternitzke literally means "from Sternitz".

Source:

German Surnames- Last Names. Retrieved from <http://german.about.com/library/weekly/aa050399.htm>.

A third source (Shea and Hoffmann) provided interesting explanations of the -ka, -ko and -ki suffixes in Polish names:

-ka was added to the family name to indicate an unmarried woman,

-ko was added to the family name to indicate "the child of", and

-ki was added to a village name to indicate the family's place of origin.

Based on their explanations, the Sciernisko, Czirnisko, Czirniszko, Scirnisko, ZierniŃko and Szernischko variations indicated the child of a person with the family name based on variations of the word Tschernitz. The surname of the father could have been written by a Polish writer as Scierniski, Czirniski, Czirniszki, Scirniski, ZierniŃki or Szernischki – but, some of those variations are unlikely (but possible) mixtures of German and Polish. The surname of the father could have also been written in more Germanic forms; such as Scierniske, Sciernisky, Czirniske, Czirnisky, Czirniszke, Czirniszky, Scirniske, Scirnisky, ZierniŃke, ZierniŃky, Szernischke or Szernischky. But, the -ke or -ky suffixes do not appear in Shea and Hoffmann's list of Polish name suffixes. According to the authors Shea and Hoffmann (on page 6 of their book listed below) the letters -e or -y cannot follow k in the Polish language, and indicate a name originating in a foreign language (such as German). This may indicate that the written variations that included the -ke or -ky suffixes were written by a German, or a Pole who was aware of the German language, and the names written with the -ko suffix were written by a person with a Slavic background.

Some interesting and odd examples of family names were included in the Trebnitzer Rechnungsbuch (record book) from 1523-1524. The following family names were recorded for the village Pawellau: Krzywowsky, Wengrzinawsky, Okerzelauffsky, PostrechamŃky, DrompkwnŃky and BelloŃowŃky. The records were for payments to the Trebnitz Stift. These records were written in German, and the names appear to have been Polish family names that were Germanized by the original 16th century writer (as shown by the -sky, -Ńky endings).

Richard Hoffmann provided the answer to this puzzle. He wrote that the Silesian-German and Silesian-Polish dialects were associated with the large number of settlers from Meissen and Lusatia, which were also bilingual regions in the 13th century. He provided examples of Silesian first names that had German root words with a Slavic diminutive suffix: Cunczco, Hanko and Friczko. Pastor C.B. Bronisch went into great detail regarding the Latin and Slavic influences on German first names in Lusatia, and the origin of German surnames (which he states began in the 14th century). He also gave examples of German first names with the -ko suffixes.

A man named Franz Teschnitzky (Teschinsky, Teschinssky) appeared in several books associated with the city of Görlitz in Lusatia. He lived in the early 16th century (1513-1519). The variation of his name ending in -nitzky links the Tschirnitzky variation (at Luzine in 1541) with Lusatia supporting a theory that they migrated more directly west to east, and not necessarily by one of the routes through Bohemia.

Wilhelm Starnitzki's list of variations (which showed only the male versions of the family name) indicates that even after the family name was adopted from their village of origin, the root word for that village name (the Tschernitz portion of the name) was modified in documents regarding known members of the Sternitzke family. His list also shows that the -ke suffix was also modified by chroniclers of records related to the same family.

These additional Sternitzke name variations for known male and female members of the family were found either in Wilhelm's manuscript or in other European sources (the variations after the emigrations to the United States are not included):

Chronology of the Sternitzke Name Variations (1500-1945)

Below is a table showing some of the Sternitzke family name variations (for family members connected in the Sternitzke family tree) organized chronologically (reversed, looking back in time) and somewhat by villages in Trebnitz County, Silesia. The earliest known family members were at the villages Luzine and Zantkau (bottom left corner of the table). A portion of the family then spread to Domnowitz where it was represented for almost 400 years (the central column of names). A few other variations and locations are represented on the table – most notably Pawellau (upper left corner) and the two Ujeschütz villages (Gross and Klein Ujeschütz in the right column of the table) where the Sternitzke name variation originated in the mid-16th century and survived until the end of the Second World War.

The chronology of the Sternitzke name variations is open to interpretation, but I believe there were several major influences directing trends in the variations. There seems to be an initial Germanic Tsch- spelling of the family name, followed by a Slavic-Germanic (Bohemian) mixture of spellings in the late 1500s to early 1600s, perhaps due to the influential von Stosch family members who were major landowners in the region and officials in the Trebnitz Abby and Stift. The temporary shift from the -ky to -ko during that time may also have been due to influence from that Bohemian family in the language used in official documents. A comparison of the Silesian variations of the Sternitzke name and the Bohemian variations of the Czernitzky name is discussed in the following chapter. It is significant that the Labitzke family name was listed as Labitzko (in 1655) in the parish of Alt-Hart (a village formerly in the southwestern corner of Moravia; now known as Staré Hobzí in the Czech Republic). It is also significant that Sternisko was a noble Moravian family name, and that there were three villages formerly known as Czernisko in Bohemia. This supports the theory that the Sternitzke name variations ending in -ko were Bohemian spellings. See the discussion regarding the Sternisko name below.

Chronology of the Sternitzke Name Variations (1530-1945)

Silesia and Bohemia came under the rule of the Habsburgs of Austria in 1526. During the period under the Habsburgs there was a mixture of the Tsch- and St- variations of the family name. The increasing availability of the Martin Luther Bible probably had a gradual effect on standardizing the German language. The St- name variations became the standard under the Prussians monarchy (after 1741), which brought education reforms and secularized schools. The spelling of the family name became more uniform under the Prussians, with Sternitzke becoming the dominant variation in Trebnitz County.

Female Name Variations

Catholic Church records at the village Powitzko included female variations of the Sternitzke name: Scziernisken (1613) and Scziernisken (1608-1620). These are similar to a female version of the Labitzke family name that also appeared in the Powitzko records (Susanna Labitzkin in 1724). The -kin suffix was sometimes also used in Bohemian female names. Female members of the Czernitzky family in the predominantly Catholic Bohemia were sometimes (but not always) identified with the -ka or -kin suffix, as in Černčická, Czerncitzkin and Czerniczkin.

The Catholic Church records at the village Powitzko also included Polish female name variations such as Jadwiga Scierniskowa (in 1639) and Elisabeth Scierniskowna (in 1655). The 2007 book by Shea & Hoffman explains that in some Polish records, a married woman was identified by modifying her husband's surname with the -owa suffix. An unmarried woman was indicated by modifying her father's surname with the -ówna or the -owna suffix.

The name of Julianna Sternicka in a record of her Catholic marriage at Posen in 1842 was a Polish variation of the Sternitzke name. The -ka suffix indicated an unmarried female member of the Sternicki family, which is the Polish spelling of Sternitzke. That suffix also occurred in the names of Johanna Pauline Sternitzka in 1856 and Eleonore Starnetzka in 1859 at two different Protestant churches in the City of Posen. This shows that the -ka suffix is a Slavic language (Polish and Czech) feature, rather than a Catholic/Latin language feature.

Emma (née Sternitzki) Fuhrmann signed her Catholic husband's 1899 Breslau death record using the Sternitzki version of her maiden name, but in 1900 Emma used the Sternitzka version when she signed her Protestant daughter's death record. Other examples of female Sternitzke name variations ending in the -ka suffix include Sterniska and Sternitzka. Ida Sterniska was a Schneidermeister (master tailor), who lived at Oderstrasse 40 III (inside the old city walls now Odrzańska Street near the St. Elizabeth Church) at Breslau in 1868. Augusta Karoline Wilhelmine Sternitzka was identified as a Jungfrau (unmarried woman) living at Webergasse 116 at Dresden (Saxony) in 1799. That house address in Dresden was associated with the Sternitzky family in a 1794 book that listed the schedules of freight handlers who would deliver goods by wagon to Dresden from neighboring villages. Silesian families may have brought the -ka suffix custom with them as they moved westward from Silesia to Saxony, but it may also have already been a common practice in Dresden. Richard Hoffmann wrote that Meissen and Lusatia were (like Silesia) bilingual regions where German names sometimes ended in Slavic suffixes.

Earlier Records and Possible Variations

At first, it was curious to me that Wilhelm Starnitzki's research was only able to trace the Sternitzke family history in Trebnitz County to just after Silesia passed from Bohemian control to the Austrians in 1526. Wilhelm mentioned the communities of Trebnitz and Öls Counties were severely affected by the Hussite Wars (1419-1434), including the burning of the City of Öls. Richard Hoffmann wrote that the Hussites burned churches, looted villages and were responsible for an extensive depopulation of rural Silesia. The destruction by the Hussite Wars would explain a lack of information before 1434, but that did not explain the lack of documents for the Sternitzke family for the century between the Hussite Wars and the time of the Sternitzke mayors of Zantkau and Luzine.

A book published in 1902, Die Kirchenbücher Schlesiens beider Confessionen provided part of the answer: in 1902 the church records for the villages our Sternitzke family lived in did not exist any older than the end of the 16th century. The oldest church records at Stroppen were dated 1582. The oldest church records for Öls began in 1594. The Catholic Diocesan Synod of Wrocław first ordered the churches to record baptism and marriage information in 1580. In 1592, the same synod ordered the churches to record death information. The Protestant churches in Silesia probably started keeping records at about the same time as the Catholic Churches. Wilhelm Starnitzki mentioned that the records for Paulskirch (Pawellau) began in the year 1687 and that wars had destroyed part of those records. Church records in Silesia are therefore not a likely source for researching our family history prior to the late 16th century.

But, what about the administrative records of the Principality of Öls and the Stift of Trebnitz? Perhaps they were also lost due to wars, fires or the periodic flooding of the Oder at Breslau. Another possibility is that the Sternitzke family did not live in Trebnitz County before 1526. If so, were there historic events that caused them to move to Trebnitz County around that year?

The Sternitzke family was already established in the Principality of Öls before the Thirty Years' War (1618–1648). But Bohemia was the center of religious strife during prior to the 16th century records of the Sternitzke family in Silesia. The Hussite Wars (1419-1434) occurred mainly in Bohemia, but spread to Silesia (including Trebnitz, Militsch and Öls counties, as was described in Pastor Conrad's book) and also devastated villages in Saxony, Lausitz and Brandenburg. The emigration of the Sternitzke family to Silesia may have been a result of the destruction of their home village during the Hussite battles in Saxony, Lausitz or Brandenburg.

It may be significant to the Sternitzke family history that the village Tzermenitz in Brandenburg (known at Zernischke in 1508, Tscherniske in 1730 and Tschernitz in 1929) was given to Hans von Sagan in 1429 by the Kaiser (the Holy Roman Emperor) for services rendered during the Hussite War, thereby associating the village with the Principality of Sagan in Silesia. The village name Zernischke (in 1508 Brandenburg) is similar to the name of Joannes Zerniczski, from Zernicki in Posen and a student at Leipzig in 1549. See the discussion regarding Tschernitz (Tscherniske) in Brandenburg (below).

The German Peasants' War (1524-1526) occurred in Germany and Austria just prior to the first Sternitzke family members recorded at Luzine and Zantkau. The area south and west of Leipzig (including Altenburg in Thuringia) was involved in the rebellion at this time. If the Sternitzke family did not migrate from the Altenburg area to Trebnitz County during the 13th century (as is described below) then the German Peasants' War may have been a reason for their migration from that region.

I do not think the Reformation was related to the presence of the Sternitzke family near Öls in the 16th Century. Martin Luther started organizing a new church in 1526, but the Protestant movement was already in effect at Breslau in 1524 according to Pastor Conrad's history of the Pawellau church. Pastor Conrad also stated the Dukes of the Principality of Öls provided early support for the Protestant movement, as shown by their 1538 Protestant Church Order. The villages Zantkau and Luzine were at the southeastern border of the land owned by the Trebnitz Stift, close to what was to become Öls County. The early Sternitzke family members were still associated with the Catholic Church at Trebnitz after 1538. Thomas Tschirnitzky was confirmed by the Abbess Barbara as the Scholz of Luzine in 1541. George Tschirnitzke held the hereditary office of village leader for a feudal lord (erbliche Lehnscholtisei) at the village Zantkau in 1554. In that case the feudal lord was the Trebnitzer Stift. His son, Blasius was appointed as the Gerichtsscholz or Setzscholz (court appointed mayor or appointed mayor) at Domnowitz in 1584. Blasius was probably appointed by the Abbess at Trebnitz, because after his death in 1611 (or 1613) the Abbess Elisabeth Pietrowskin of Trebnitz appointed Jacob Ritter as the replacement for Blasius. Some members of the Sternitzke family continued to be associated with the Trebnitzer Stift long after the Reformation, such as Mauritius Sternitzky who died in 1866 and was the last forest master of the Trebnitzer Stift.

Early possible variations of the Sternitzke family name have been found by literature searches. Their relationship to the Sternitzke family from Trebnitz County (as documented by Wilhelm Starnitzki) cannot be established and may seem unlikely. But these variations are worth considering because they may indicate when the Sternitzke family settled in Silesia during the 1200 to 1500 timeframe. The sources regarding these individuals are identified in the next chapter. It should be mentioned that the German writers of some sources translated the names from their original form to a more standard German form, but in some cases the original spelling of the name was identified along with any spelling variations found. For example, the name Stephanie Ziernicze was recorded in a 1286 Latin document and transcribed in 1859 by the German author Wattenbach. He provided the original transcription of the name (Stephanie Ziernicze) from a 1286 document, and he also provided the name in the German form (Stephan von Zernitz). Although not identified by Wattenbach, Stephanie Ziernicze could also have been written as Stephan Zernitzke, by substituting the von in front of the name of a village with the -ke suffix. Applying that example to other family names written with von in front of a village name yields a number of individuals who could have been early ancestors in the Sternitzke family. Some early possible (but perhaps unlikely) ancestors of the Sternitzke family are listed below. These individuals are discussed under the nearest cities, towns or villages associated with these individuals:

- Ritter (knight) Merbod von Zcerniz and Herrmann von Zcerniz at Altenburg (Thuringia) in 1221,
- Ulrich von Schirnitz in 1261 (Ulricus de Cherniz in 1263, Ulricus de Szirnitz in 1284, von Zschirnitz) at Zschernitz (Saxony), and his son Bertholdus de Sczirnitz (von Zschirnitz) at Vrmarisdorf in the Margraviate of Meissen in 1284,
- Stephanie Ziernicze (Stephan von Zernitz) at Deutsch Zernitz (Silesia) from 1274 to 1286,
- Alexander von Zernitz (Cernitz, Czernitz, Tzernitz) in Brandenburg in 1311,
- Thomeslaus von Czernitz in Rybnik County (Silesia) in 1317,
- Ulricus de Schirncz at Zschernitz (Saxony) in 1349/1350 (possibly a son of Betholdus de Sczirnitz),
- Dietrich Zernitz (Cernitz, Czernitz, Tzernitz) in Brandenburg in 1364,
- Jaszek Szirniczski at Peisern (Posen) in 1390,
- Johann Czyrniński from Czyrnina (Silesia) in 1395,
- Johannes Czirniski at Dampcze (Posen) in 1395-1398,
- Jaszek Szirniczsky (Siernicki) and Syman Szirniczsky in Posen in 1396,
- Nicolaus and Bartholomeus Szirniczski at Gnesen (Posen) in 1398 & 1399,
- Benigna von Czirnitz (von Zschirnitz) in the Margraviate of Meissen in 1399,
- Giese Zernitz (Cernitz, Czernitz, Tzernitz) at Werben (Brandenburg) in 1405 and 1433,
- Claus Zernitz (Cernitz, Czernitz, Tzernitz) at Werben (Brandenburg) in 1432 and 1433,
- Claus Zernitz (Cernitz, Czernitz, Tzernitz) at Königsberg (Brandenburg) in 1468,
- Claus and Lenz Zernitz (Cernitz, Czernitz, Tzernitz) at the village of Tangermünde (Brandenburg) in 1476,

- Benedict Zernitz (Cernitz, Czernitz, Tzernitz) at Beezendorf (Brandenburg) in 1499,
- Hans von Tschernitz (Tschirnitz, Czschnitz) at Bobersberg (Brandenburg) in 1502 and 1503, and 1505,
- Nickel Zirnitz at the village of Mertensdorf (Brandenburg) in 1505,
- Apollonia Czerniczky at Peruc, Bohemia in 1508,
- Heinrich Zernitz (Cernitz, Czernitz, Tzernitz) at Salzwedel (Brandenburg) in 1529-1531,
- Bartholomeum Stanitzky (1534) and Matthias Stanitzky (1561) possibly associated with the Starnitzky family of Leobschütz County,
- Joannes Zerniczki from Zernicki (Znin County, Posen) and student at Leipzig in 1549 and
- George Czerniczky (Georg Czernicki) at Guorki (Ratibor County, Silesia) in 1554.

The alternate spellings listed above (Cernitz, Czernitz, Czschnitz, Tzernitz, Tschirnitz and Tschernitz) were written by the authors of my sources, and probably indicate the variations they found in original documents. City, town and village names in Silesia (and other border regions where the Germans migrated eastward into previously Slavic lands, such as Brandenburg, Saxony and Bohemia) often had several concurrent variations in use, due to the mixed culture of the region (Germans, Czechs and Poles). The practice of having concurrent names for a location in several languages is not unique to Silesia, nor is it archaic. Wrocław is still identified as Breslau at German airports, just as English speakers will probably always refer to Deutschland as Germany, or to Napoli as Naples, Italy.

It is unlikely that these earlier family names are related to the Sternitzke family because they are still in use as separate family names, but it is possible the existing variations had common roots among the early individuals listed above. Here are a few examples of name variations still in use:

- members of the Tschernitz family emigrated from Austria to the United States (for example Frank Tschernitz (1896-1976), and members of that family still live in Austria. Approximately 16 people with the Tschernitz name still live in Germany (with 6 telephone numbers listed),
- 780 members of the Czernicki family are still living in Poland, and about 50 people with that name are living in Germany with 19 telephones,
- approximately 45 members of the Stanitzky family are still living in Germany with 17 telephones, and
- approximately 112 members of the Zernitz family are still living (with 42 telephones) in Germany.

Modern Geographical Distribution of Sternitzke Variations

To determine whether some variations were possibly due to typographical errors, transcriptional errors, or misspellings due to the original writer having a non-German ethnicity, I compared the complete list of known Sternitzke family name variations to Internet telephone directories for Germany, Austria, Switzerland and Poland. These names are still in use, and would be the dominant variations that survived standardization. The results show the modern geographic distribution of the family names that are potentially related to the Sternitzke family from Trebnitz County.

All other variations of the Sternitzke name were not found in the current telephone directories for these four countries. There are several possible reasons for this:

- the variations may have existed in branches of the family tree that ended with no descendants,
- the variations found in printed documents may have been the result of transcription errors from handwritten records,
- the family name variations were the result of the multi-cultural variations in the spelling of locations associated with the family,
- the variations may have been erroneous spellings due to the ethnicity or education of the recorders of the family name in church and civil records, or
- the most common variations became the standard forms, replacing the minor deviations as the family name appeared in printed form.

Analysis of Telephone Directories

There are several interesting results from the telephone directories that lead to possible conclusions regarding those variations. An online searching and mapping tool for the 1942 Reichstelefonbuch (1942 telephone book of the German Reich at <http://www.gen-evolu.de/>) provides some inputs to these conclusions.

The Czernecki, Sciernicki, Stanecki and Ziernicki variations currently exist, but exist either only in Poland, or are much more common in Poland. These four variations did not appear in the 1942 German Reich telephone book. The small number of occurrences of the Czernecki, Stanecki and Ziernicki variations currently in the German speaking countries may be due to recent emigration of Poles (probably for economic or political reasons). These family names may have been created by the same process as the Sternitzke family (village name + suffix), but by Czech or Polish citizens of the villages. The results of the Castle Garden and Ellis Island search do not conflict with this conclusion.

Regarding Czernitzke Variations

Wilhelm Starnitzki did not identify the names Czarnetzky, Czernetzke, Czernetzky, Czerniczky, Czernitzki or Czernitzky as variations of the Sternitzke name. But, the similarities between these variations and the Silesian name variations associated with known Sternitzke family members named CzerniBky (Thomas at Luzine in 1559), Czierniske (Paul at Zantkau in 1583) and Czirniszko (Blasius at Domnowitz in 1594) made it worth investigating these names.

The Czerniczky name variation was found in the Ellis Island records was associated with Hungarians, Slovaks from Hungary and one Russian. That variation was not found in the current Internet telephone directories for Germany or Poland. It was also not listed in the 1942 German Reich telephone book. This variation appears to be related to the Czernetzky or Czernitzky variations that appear in literature as a Bohemian/Moravian spelling of Sternitzky. This is supported by the name Stephani Czernitzky appearing in a Hungarian document from 1625.

A historical example of a Hungarian with a Czernetzky name variation was found. The 1857 edition of the Almanach de Gotha (written in French) listed genealogical, diplomatic and statistical information for the major countries of the world. Under the topic of Autriche (Austria) it listed the presidents and vice presidents of countries and city states in the Austrian Empire, including the city Grossvardein in Hungary. The President of Grossvardein was listed as Valenind'Uray. The Vice President was listed as Joseph de Czernetzky. Grossvardein (the French version of the district named in German as Großwardein, in Hungarian as Nagyvárad, and in Romanian as Oradea) was the district capital of the Military District of Großwardein, which was an administrative unit of the Habsburg Kingdom of Hungary from 1850 to 1860. The seat of the district was Großwardein (Nagyvárad, now Oradea). It included parts of present-day Romania, Hungary, and Ukraine.

The Czarnetzky name variation was used in old German books regarding the Polish General and nobleman Stefan Czarniecki (1599-16 February 1665). The Czarniecki family name has been associated with the Polish village named Czarncza (about 130 miles east of Breslau) since the 14th century. The Czarniecki family name was spelled Czarnecki in a book published in 1865.

A search of the marriage records from Posen yielded many 19th century marriage records with the Czernecki and Czerniecki surnames. The female version (Czerniecka) of the Czerniecki surname were also found. The results of that search were not included in this book because those families appear to be ethnically Polish. They were all Catholics and the names in those records (other surnames and first names of the brides and grooms) do not appear to be Germanic.

The four versions Czernetzke, Czernetzky, Czernitzke and Czernitzky were not listed in the 1942 German Reich telephone book. The Czernetzke and Czernitzke versions were also not found in the modern telephone books. But the modern telephone books listed a small number of people with the names Czernetzky or Czernitzky in Germany (with none listed in Austria, Switzerland or Poland).

Variations of the Czernitzke name were found in historical address books and civil records. Mr. Czarnitzky was a Tagearbeiter (day laborer) who lived at Fischergasse 11 in Breslau in 1852. Otto Czernitzky was a RbhnSchr (Reichsbahn Sekretär, imperial railroad secretary) who lived at Georg-Schumann-Straße 167 in Leipzig in 1949. Minna Erna Czarnitzki was born on the 14th of January in 1876 at Danzig in West Prussia. She was the daughter of the Danzig Goldarbeiter (goldsmith) Rudolf Czarnitzki and his wife Marie (née Butschkuhn) Czarnitzki. She married the Hotelbesitzer (hotel owner) Wilhelm Hermann Gustav Sperling at Breslau on the 28th of February in 1905.

The small numbers of individuals with these names makes any analysis questionable. But, the absence of the use of these names in modern Austria is interesting. I expected the distribution for both of these names to be similar to Sterniczky (shown below) because of the villages formerly named Czernitzky and Czernitz in Bohemia. But, the Czernitzky distribution (shown below) resembles the Starnitzki distribution (shown farther below). The distribution maps for both family names show an east to west movement from the former Prussian provinces now part of modern Poland.

A reference to members of the Czernitzky family in East Prussia was found supporting this theory. In 1629, Jacob Czernitzky requested the right for his son to brew beer at Lyck (in Lyck County of East Prussia). This was during the Thirty Years' War (1618–1648), which may have been the reason for Czernitzky family living in East Prussia – many Protestants fled north to escape the violence of the Counter-Reformation. The village Lyck was burned in an attack by Poles and Tartars in 1656. In 1659, the Great Elector granted the right to brew beer to Jacob Czernitzki (probably Jacob Czernitzky's son) under the condition that one-twelfth be paid as a "corkage tax". Lyck was granted city rights by the Great Elector in 1669. The Great Elector was Frederick William (born 1620, died 1688), the Elector of Brandenburg and Duke of Prussia. Lyck is now called Elk, Poland.

Two villages on the west-to-east German migrations routes may have been the source of the Czernitzky/Czernitzki family names in East Prussia (as well as the Sternitzke name in Silesia). Tschernitz (near Wolfshain and Muskau in southeastern Brandenburg) and Tschernske (near Krebe and Reichwalde in eastern Saxony) had similar name variations before the 17th century: Czirnitz, Cerniske, Czirniski and Czerniessky. These villages are discussed in detail below.

Another historical reference identified two possible descendants of Jakob Czernitzki who served in the German Army during the Second World War. Paul Czernietzki was born on the 2nd of March in 1911 at Waldwerder in Lyck County. Waldwerder is now known as Wierzbowo, Poland. Paul Czernietzki served as an Obergefreiter (corporal) in the German Army during the Second World War. He was killed on the 7th of December in 1944 at Palotás. He was buried at Budaörs, Hungary. Friedrich Czernitzki was born at Berlin on the 14th of September of 1899. He served as a Gefreiter (lance corporal) in the German Army during the Second World War and was killed in action on the 8th of January of 1943 at Zemena (Russia). He was buried at the Korpowo (Russia) Cemetery in Block 27, Row 19, Grave number 1964.

Examples of the Czernitzky family members living at Brünn in Moravia include: Antonia and Anna Czernitzky in 1837, and Eduard and Johann Czernitzky in 1862. See Chapter 23: Ostsiedlung Group 5, Regensburg to Deutschbrod to Neisse for details regarding these individuals.

The distribution for the Czernetzky family in Southern Germany is similar to the Sterniczky distribution in Southern Germany, so Upper Silesia or Bohemia was probably the source the holders of that name now living in Germany. A historical example of a Czernetzky family member from Austrian Silesia is Frau Majorin von Czernetzky from Bielitz, Austrian Silesia in 1899. See the discussion regarding Czernitz in Rybnik County in Chapter 23: Ostsiedlung Group 1, Magdeburg to Gleiwitz.

The Waldmeister (forest master) Ferdinand Czernetzky lived at the village Hoch Chlumetz in 1856 and 1863. Hoch Chlumetz was about 30 miles south of Prague, and it was also only about 25 miles north of a village known as Czernitzky! See Chapter 23, under the discussion regarding Czernitz (Czernitzky) bei Bechin, Bohemia.

Members of the Czernetzky family served in the Imperial and Royal Austrian Army in the 19th century: Cadet Johann Czernetzky (1854-1867) and Lieutenant Franz Czernetzky (1870-1876). See Chapter 15 for discussions regarding military men of the Sternitzke Family.

A thorough search of an online database of German casualties during the First World War resulted in many records of the Sternitzke and Czernitzke name variations. The table below summarizes the locations associated with these name variations (as shown in the WWI casualty records). I believe these records show the Slavic influences (Czech and Polish) in the spelling of the names in Upper Silesia, Posen, West Prussia and East Prussia.

The locations of concentrated name versions during the First World War indicate the eastern starting points of the westward migrations caused by the post-WWII expulsions of Germans from Eastern Europe. The Czarnecki variation appears to have an origin in Posen with a growth of that family into West Prussia. The Czarnetzki variation appears to have originated in West and East Prussia, and then spread to Posen and Upper Silesia. But it is more likely that both the Czarnecki and the Czarnetzki variations were local versions of Bohemian family names that were carried north as Protestants fled from the religious wars in Bohemia. See the 1798 record of Count von Starnitzki (Czarnecki, Tscharnetzki) in Breslau.

The first World War casualty reports show that the highest concentration of the Sternitzke name in Lower Silesia, confirming that region as the place of origin for that variation. It also shows the Sternitzky variation was more common in Saxony at that time than it was in Silesia, probably due to one or more family groups who moved from Silesia to Saxony.

Regarding Sternisko Variations

The Sternisko name variation currently exists in Germany and Poland, with a majority of them in Germany. It is the only known Sternitzke name variation with the -ko suffix to have survived to the present day. Note that the Stirnisko family name from Ratibor County is still in use in Poland and Germany, but no connection has been established between the Stirnisko and the Sternitzke family. The locations of the bearers of the Sternisko name are dispersed (not centralized) in Germany, but the name holders in modern Poland are centralized in Upper Silesia (see the maps below), especially in the cities now known as Raciborz (German: Ratibor) and Świętochłowice (which was known in German before 1941 as Schwientochlowitz, and then as Schwingen from 1941 to 1945). Anton Stirnisko lived at Lipine (one mile north of Schwientochlowitz in 1885. See the Birth and Marriage of Anton Stirnisko, 1861 and 1885 Strandorf, 1885 Beuthen.

The highest concentration of members of the Sternisko family is in the area of the city of Krzanowice (which used to be named Kranowitz in Ratibor County, Poland). Kranowitz was also the location of a large number of members of the Stirnisko family in the 18th and 19th centuries. But, the modern map of the distribution of members of the Stirnisko family in Poland shows that that family is now concentrated further west near the Polish city Jelenia Góra (previously known in German as Hirschberg im Riesengebirge).

The distribution of the Sternisko name in modern Germany forms an east to west band starting at Dresden and spreading across central Germany – supporting the theory this distribution was the result of the expulsion of Germans from Silesia and Czechoslovakia after World War II. A small number of bilingual ethnic Germans were allowed to remain in Upper Silesia (in Poland) after 1945. Most of their descendants are living in the area associated with the Sternisko family on the map shown above. They continue the German traditions of their forefathers.

A 1942 telephone book of the German Reich identified one instance of the Sternisko name variation, located at Morgenroth in the Oppeln District of Silesia. No instances of that name were listed for areas outside Upper Silesia. The village Morgenroth (near Beuthen) in what was Schwientochlowitz County, is now known as Chebzie. No instances of the name Stirnisko were found in the 1942 telephone book.

The family name Sternisko from the village Moravičan was listed in Siebmacher's index of the nobility of Moravia. Their coat of arms is shown below. Moravičan is now named Moravičany, and it is about half way between Brünn (in Bohemia) and Neisse in Silesia. Johannes Sternisko from Moravičan, the Domherr (cathedral official) at Olmütz, died in 1616. Gregor Wolny's books identified Johannes Sternisko as Johann Strnisko von Moravičan, a member of the Rittergeschlecht (knight's family) Strnisko, a Pfarrer (priest) at St. Blasius in Olmütz on 27 July 1586, the Domherr (cathedral official) at Olmütz and the Kapiteldechant (chapter dean) at Brünn in 1602. He also identified a Johann Strnisko von Prestawelk in a 1418 property transfer document. The Sternisko family at Olmütz may have been related to Zikmund Sternitzcky, who was listed in the Lahnenregister of Moravia 1657-1679. He was associated with the location Olomouc královské město (Olmütz royal city).

The Czech spelling of the family name Sternisko was listed as Strnisko is very interesting. Thomas Burian's book translated the Bohemian words strnisko and strniště into German as Stoppelfeld! This relationship to the word Stoppelfeld supports Wilhelm Starnitzki's theory that the Sternitzke family name may have been related to the word Stoppelfeld. The known history of the Sternitzke family began at about the same time Silesia transferred from the Kingdom of Bohemia to the Habsburgs of Austria. Bohemian words probably had a lingering influence on the spelling of family names by the village priests.

Olmütz is now Olomouc in the Czech Republic (about 40 miles northeast of the city Brünn-Brno). The Sternisko name may be related to three villages formerly named Czernisko in Bohemia. The Sternisko variation may have spread northward (with the migrating Germans) from Bohemia to Upper Silesia, and also to Moravia and Hungary. Or, it may have spread much earlier by the Saxons who migrated southeast through Bohemia to northern Slovakia.

About 150 miles southeast of Morgenroth (now Chebzie) was Rotenberg – the home village of Paul Sternisko around 1891. A directory of graduates from the University of Frankfurt an der Oder in 1891 listed Paul as from Rotenberg in the Kingdom of Hungary (Königreich Ungarn). Rotenberg is now a town named Poráč in Slovakia. This connection to Hungary is interesting. The Castle Garden passenger list records included a J. Sternitzky as a 25 years-old farmer and immigrant from Hungary who arrived in New York on the 31st of May in 1884. Later Ellis Island records included several Hungarian immigrants: Andras Czerniczky, Erzeb Czerniczky, Jakob Starnitzky, Josef Czerniczky, Lajos Sternitzky and Janos Sternitzky. They may have been ethnic Germans whose family had settled in Hungary much earlier.

Sternisko was a variation of Sternitzke identified by Wilhelm Starnitzki (though he did not provide an example). My search of Karl Sille's documents at the Herder Institute identified Hans Sternisko as the son of Geörge and Maria Sternisko (also known as Georg Sterniski, Sternißke and Sterniske) from Ujeschütz. Hans was baptized at Pawellau in 1691. Other variations of the Silesian Sternitzke family name ended with the -ko suffix, and all seem to be spelling variations of Sternisko:

- Czernissko (listed by Wilhelm Starnitzki without an example),
- Czirniszko (Blasien Czirniszko at Domnowitz in 1594),

- Scernisko (listed by Wilhelm Starnitzki without an example),
- Schiernisko (Adam Schiernisko at Briesche and Schawoine in 1704; Eva Schiernisko at Powitzko in 1724),
- Sciernisko (Blasius Sciernisko and his siblings at Zantkau in the late 16th century; Jacobus Sciernisko at Powitzko in 1617; Isop Sciernisko at Biadauschke and Domnowitz in 1622; Gregory Sciernisko at Schawoine in 1690 1695 and 1696; Susanna Sciernisko at Schawoine/Biadauschke in 1691; Adam, Johann and Jakob Sciernisko at Ujeschütz in 1703; Adam Sciernisko at Briesche in 1704; Christoph Sciernisko at Brietzen and Pawellau in 1709),
- Scziernisko (Cuba at Powitzko in 1618, Jacobus at Powitzko in 1626),
- Sernisko (listed by Wilhelm Starnitzki without an example),
- Siernisko (listed by Wilhelm Starnitzki without an example),
- Stiernischko (listed by Wilhelm Starnitzki without an example),
- Szernischko (Christine Szernischko at Domnowitz in 1593 and 1610; Blasius Szernischko in 1610),
- Tschiernisko (Gregor Tschiernisko at Domnowitz in 1639),
- Zierniŕko (Blasius Zierniŕko at Domnowitz in 1584, Paul Zierniŕko at Deutkowe in 1611),
- Zirnisko (listed by Wilhelm Starnitzki without an example) and
- Zirnisko (Paul Zirnisko at Zantkau in 1594).

It makes we wonder if the Sternitzke family originated in Bohemia and spread north to Silesia and east to Hungary, or if these individuals were related to family members who moved south and east from Trebnitz County in Silesia. A third possibility is that the Sternitzke family name developed at different locations for more than one family, using common rules for creating a Germanic surname: the naming of villages by the Germanization of Slavic place names, and the adoption of surnames based on village names. This third theory is probably the correct one.

Strnisko Family in Modern Telephone Directories

A 1998 telephone book available on the Internet shows there were four telephone listings for members of the Strnisko family at the following locations in Germany:

- the town of Steinach in the Sonneberg district of Thuringia,
- the municipality of Neuhaus-Schierschnitz in the Sonneberg district of Thuringia,
- the town of Ebersbach an der Fils in the Göppingen district of Baden-Württemberg, and
- the town of Neuhaus am Rennweg in the Sonneberg district of Thuringia.

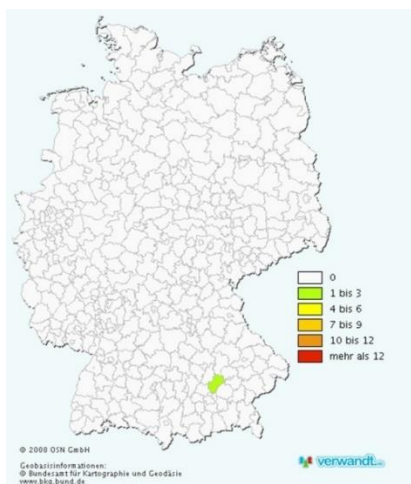

A search of the Internet in 2014 for more recent members of the Strnisko family identified one entry for the town of Roth in the Mittelfranken district of Bavaria

Regarding Sterniczky

The Sterniczky version is now represented by a small number in Austria (and an even smaller number in Germany), but not in Poland. The distribution of the Sterniczky name in Austria may have been due to the post-1945 expulsion of Germans from Czechoslovakia or Upper Silesia. The small number of bearers of that name in Bavaria may be the result of normal emigration from Austria or the post-war expulsions.

There were no instances of the Sterniczky name in the 1942 telephone book of the German Reich. This family name may be a Germanized variation of the Bohemian family name Czerniczky.

Regarding Starnitzke, Starnitzki, Starnitzky, Sterniske, Sternitzke, Sternitzki and Sternitzky

The Starnitzke, Starnitzki, Starnitzky, Sterniske, Sternitzke, Sternitzki and Sternitzky versions currently exist in the three German speaking countries; mostly in Germany. Wilhelm Starnitzki noted that before World War II, members of the Sternitzke family had migrated westward from Silesia to Berlin, Kiel and Alsace.

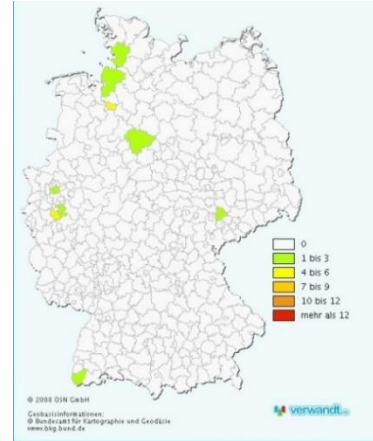

The absence of these seven variations in modern Poland confirms these variations were German in ethnicity and the holders of these names were expelled from Silesia after the Second World War. The current distribution maps (shown below) for the current Sternitzke family name variations do indeed show them present throughout Germany, and that the Sternitzke spelling is the most common version.

The 1942 German Reich telephone book (Reichstelefonbuch 1942) shows some interesting data regarding these seven variations. No instances of the Starnitzke or Sterniske variations were listed in the 1942 telephone book. This indicates the telephone directory data is not 100% reliable for identifying all of the locations of the Sternitzke family in 1942. Members of the Starnitzke family served in the Germany Army during both World Wars. A Sterniske family member from Schleswig-Holstein was included in the First World War casualty reports. The Sterniski family distribution map shows family members still live in that area.

Two entries were found for Starnitzki (at Stuttgart and Berlin) in the 1942 telephone directory. Two entries were also found for Starnitzky (at Freiburg in Lower Silesia and at Bremen). Nine entries were found for Sternitzke (one at Berlin, one at Fredersdorf near Berlin, four in Lower Silesia in the Breslau/Trebnitz area, and two near Königshütte in Upper Silesia). Three telephone entries were found at Berlin for the Sternitzki variation. Two entries were listed for Sternitzky (at Berlin and Bad Elster in Saxony).

The total number of telephone entries for these seven family name variations in 1942 was only eighteen! For comparison, the total number of telephone listings in 1942 for other families were: Hübner 900, Kühne 713, Bartsch 474, Scheibe 252, Nitschke 214, Kugler 144, and Kügler 65 times. Perhaps the telephone service to rural areas of 1942 Germany was uncommon. Sternitzke family members in Silesia typically lived in small farming communities.

Analysis of the Castle Garden and Ellis Island Data

The passenger list records from Castle Garden and Ellis Island showed Sternitzke family members as emigrants from Pawellau (in Trebnitz County). Members of the Sternitzke, Sternitzky, Sternitzki and Starnitzky families were found to have emigrated from Germany and Austria. Members of the Starnitzky, Sternitzke, Sternitzki and Sternitzky families were listed as ethnically German in the Ellis Island records.

Several anomalies exist in the data from the Ellis Island Records. In 1902, Jakob Starnitzky was listed as a Hungarian, from the village named Maldur (now in Slovakia, near the Polish border). He may have been related to the Starnitzky family from Leobschütz County in Upper Silesia.

Six immigrants from Russia were listed as Hebrews (or have Jewish first names) with the family name variations: Sternitzki, and Zernitzky. But, four individuals of Russian or Polish ethnicity (who all emigrated from Russia) had the Zarnitzky and Zernitzky name and were not identified as Hebrews. It is unlikely that these individuals were related to the Sternitzke family from Trebnitz County.

The Castle Garden passenger list records and German birth records identified members of the Sternitzki/Sternitzky family from Stettin in Pommern (Pomerania). Those records were from the 1866 to 1888 period. A brief search of the Internet for Sternitzky family members who lived in Pommern and nearby Meklenburg-Vorpommern (Western Pomerania) resulted in some interesting and possibly related results:

- Dr. Adolf Hofmeister's 1904 book listed Ioannes Georgius Sternitzky from Dömitzia-Megap as a student who enrolled at the University of Rostock on the 20th of July in 1747. Megap is short for Megalopolis, the Latin name for Mecklenburg. The website for the University of Rostock confirmed Ioannes Georgius Sternitzky as a 1747 student and translated his name and birthplace as: Johannes Georg Sternitzky from Dömitz, in Mecklenburg. Dömitz is about 130 miles west of Stettin (now named Szczecin, Poland).
- Ludwig Basedow's 2012 book regarding the history of the city Krakow am See (in Meklenburg-Vorpommern) included a map of Krakow am See drawn by J.G. Sternitzky in January of 1760. Krakow am See is about half-way between Dömitz and Stettin.

Regarding the Zernitzky, Zernitzke and Zarnitzky Variations

Wilhelm Starnitzki mentioned the “Zernitzky” [his quotes] family name in his chapter regarding Zantkau, but he did not actually list a family member who exactly used the Zernitzky spelling. The closest variations were from the village Zantkau were: Paul Zirnisso (1594), Paul Zirniszky (1605) and Paul Zernizky (1608). Fabian Zernitschky lived at the nearby village Luzine in 1608. Wilhelm Starnitzki may have been aware of German families using the Zernitzky name variation during his lifetime, which would explain why he included that variation in his list of known variations of the Sternitzke name.

It is possible that a member of the Sternitzke family from Trebnitz County used (or their descendants are still using) the Zernitzky or the less common Zernitzke and Zarnitzky spelling variations, so I have included information regarding the Zernitzky, Zernitzke and Zarnitzky families below, and in the chapters regarding the city of Breslau, Military Men and the Sternitzke family origin.

The 1852 Breslau address book listed a Sackträger Zernitzky, who lived at Nikolaistraße 64. Nikolaistraße is now św. Mikotaja Street, inside the old city, about four blocks west of St. Elisabeth Church. A Sackträger was a manual laborer involved in loading and unloading ships.

This may have been the Breslau Tagearbeiter (day laborer) listed as Johann Zarnitzke in 1855 and as Johann Zernitzke in 1857. His wife Anna Susanna (née Hoffmann) Zarnitzke (Zernitzke) was a baptismal sponsor at the St. Salvator Protestant Church in 1855 and 1857. See Book III, Chapter 1, City of Breslau: Tagearbeiter Johann Zarnitzke/Zernitzke, 1855 to 1857 City of Breslau.

The First World War casualty records included Adolf Zernitzki from Mylussen, Lyck County, in East Prussia. His record is noteworthy because there may have been a relationship between him and the Czernitzky/Czernitzki family members who lived in Lyck County as early as 1629 and Paul Czernietzki who was born in Lyck County in 1911 (see the discussion above regarding Czernitzke variations).

The family origin chapter includes Instances of a number of members of the Zernitz, Zirnitz and von Zernitz families from the Margraviate of Brandenburg as early as the 14th century. The Zernitzky family members may have descended from the Zernitz family of Brandenburg. Listed below are Zernitzky family members living in Brandenburg in the 19th century and early 20th century.

The 1942 telephone directory of the German Reich did not include instances of the Zernitzky name (nor the other variations included in the above paragraph), but a distribution of the Zernitzky name does exist in modern Germany as shown by the distribution map below.

Zernitzky Family Distribution in Germany, May 2011.

The current distribution of the Zernitzky name in Germany does not show any bearers of that name at the two villages currently named Zernitz; one in the Ostprignitz-Ruppin District of Brandenburg (fifty miles northeast of Berlin) and the other in Anhalt-Bitterfeld County in Sachsen-Anhalt. This suggests the bearers of that name may have been displaced from Posen, Pomeranian or the northeastern parts of Prussia after World War II.

My research the passenger lists of ships arriving in New York showed members of the Zernitzky family from Russia with Hebrew listed as their ethnicity. A book regarding the meaning of Jewish family names identified the Zernitski, Zernitsky and Zernitzky family names as meaning: the descendant of Zernik. That book also listed another variation similar to the Sternitzke name, Sternicki, as a Jewish family name related to the Polish word for the pilot or helmsman of a ship: Sternik.

Second Lieutenant von Zernitzky (who was granted personal nobility through military honors, as discussed in the chapter titled Military Men of the Sternitzke Family may have been Jewish and converted to Christianity. His status in the Prussian army does not rule out that possibility of him having been Jewish. According to Koch, one general in the Prussian army of Frederick the Great was Jewish. And, Major Meno Burg (1789-1853) was a Prussian field officer. Major Burg was rejected from the Guard Infantry Battalion in Breslau (for being Jewish), but he was allowed to serve in the Prussian artillery. But it is more likely that Second Lieutenant von Zernitzky was a German Christian, based on the first names of Zernitzky and Zarnitzky family members in Mecklenburg and Brandenburg, the documented christening of Dorothea Wilhelmine Zernitzky, and the word Evangelische (Protestant) having been listed for the religion for these Zernitzky family members:

- On the 17th of January in 1822, Heinrich Zernitzky married Johanne Charlotte Krueger according to the military records at the city Frankfurt an der Oder in Brandenburg, Prussia. The marriage took place at the 3rd Military Regiment at Beeskow, Brandenburg. This may have been Second Lieutenant von Zernitzky. Their daughter Dorothea Wilhelmine Zernitzky was baptized on the 3rd of February in 1822, at the 3rd Military Regiment and Leibhusaren, Furstenwalde West, Brandenburg.
- Karl Heinrich Julius Zernitzky married Anna Sophie Grundemann on the 2nd of June in 1853 at Friedland, Brandenburg, Prussia. Karl was born in 1826, the son of Heinrich Zernitzky. Anna was born in 1829, the daughter of Martin Grundemann. Their religion was listed as Evangelische (Protestant) in 1866 and 1868 (below).
- Minna Alwine Emilie Zernitzky was born at Wilhelmsaue (Letschin, Lebus), Brandenburg, on the 10th of November in 1866. Her religion was listed as Evangelische (Protestant) and her parents were Julius Zernitzky and Sophie (née Grundemann) Zernitzky.
- Ernst August Gustav Zernitzky was born on the 10th of November in 1858, at Wilhelmsaue (Letschin, Lebus), Brandenburg. His religion was listed as Evangelische (Protestant) and his parents were Julius Zernitzky and Sophie (née Grundemann) Zernitzky.
- Martha Alwine Louise Zernitzky was born on the 2nd of May in 1871, at Wilhelmsaue (Letschin, Lebus), Brandenburg. Her religion was listed as Evangelische (Protestant) and her parents were Julius Zernitzky and Sophie née Grundemann) Zernitzky.
- Karl Friedrich Wilhelm Zernitzky was born on the 29th of November in 1900, at Küstrin, Königsberg Neumark County, Brandenburg. His religion was listed as Evangelische (Protestant) and his father was Wilhelm Zernitzky. Karl attended school at Küstrin and became a teacher. Küstrin was a town on the Oder River, about 50 miles east of Berlin. Küstrin was also written as Cüstrin, and is now known in Polish as Kostrzyn nad Odrą.

Regarding the Tschernitzky Variations

Few examples of the Tschernitzky and Tschernitzki variations were found in available literature. The Tschernitzky family was recorded by Franz Queitzer as being associated with the village Altkalken between 1745 and 1771. Altkaken (now known as Skalka u Doks) was located about one mile west of Hirschberg in northern Bohemia.

Stanislaw Rospond's dictionary of Silesian names identified the Polish name Czernicki was equivalent to the name Tschernitzki, which seems again to have been incomplete transformation of the Polish name Czernicki to the fully Germanic name Tschernitzke. But his comparison was probably based on his source documents, which may have used the Tschernitzki variation. See the discussion in a previous chapter regarding the Cape Tschernitzky, where German books used either the Tschernitzki variation (probably based on Russian maps of Novaya Zemlya Island), or the Tschernitzky variation (possibly based on the name of General-Lieutenant Tschernitzky who was living at that time).

Stephan Tschernitzky was born on the 1st of January in 1921 at Uretschko (a location I have not yet found in other references). He served in the Germany Army and was killed in action on the 23rd of February of 1945. The only place name close to Uretschko found so far is the mountain Uretsch by the village Steinbüchel, which was near Laibach. Uretschko may have been a village near that mountain. Laibach was in the Austro-Hungarian Empire and is now in Slovenia. The city Vrhnika in Slovenia was formerly known as Oberlaibach, and is located at the location of Laibach as shown on the 1898 map below of army garrisons of the Austro-Hungarian Empire.

Regarding the Czernicki Variations

The Czernicki variation often appeared in documents as a Slavic (Polish or Czech) equivalent to other variations:

- George Czerniczky at Guorki (in Ratibor County Silesia) in 1554 was also written as Georg Czernicki.
- Stanislaw Rospond's dictionary of Silesian names identified the Polish name Czernicki was equivalent to the name Tschernitzki.
- Johanne Sinapio's 1720 book listed the Czernezki family name as Czernicki. Other sources listed that Bohemian family as Czernczitzky, Černčický, Czernczizki and Czernitzky (see the discussion below regarding variation of the Czernitzky name in Bohemia and Moravia).

The Czernicki version of these names are similar (but do not imply) a relationship to the noble family name Zernicki, which Hefner wrote as being a Polish family name found in West Prussia and Posen.

Chapter 22

Origin and Meaning of the Sternitzke Name

Germanized Slavic Words: Tschirn, Tschirnitz, Tschern and Tschernitz

As I reviewed a large number of old books (now available via the Internet) I made note of the names and histories of individuals with names similar to variations of Sternitzke. It seemed to me that the names could be divided into two groups of village and associated family names:

- Group A: the one or two syllable names similar to the village named Tschirn and the family name Tschirnsky from Tschirn, and
- Group B: the two or three syllable names similar to the village named Tschirnitz and the family name Tschirnitzky from Tschirnitz.

These general observations had exceptions which had to be investigated, such as the case of Melchior Tschirszke (who was also listed as Melchior Schiriske). Melchior was identified in two documents (dated 1471 and 1476) transcribed by Otto Meinardus in 1906. In cases such as this I decided the names were not variations of Sternitzke because they were related to a different family name still in use in Germany (in Melchior's case, the modern family name Tschierske), and because it was found to be related to a different family of name variations. Variations of the Tschierske family name were listed in the Breslau address book of 1832: Tschiersche, Tschierschke, Tschierschky, Tschierse, Tschierske, Tschiersky, Tschieschek, Tschirch and Tschirschky.

The documented cases of individuals in Silesia with the family name related to the place name Tschirne (and its variations Tschirn, Cirna, Cyrna, Czirn, Czyrner, Stern, Zcirn, Zeirn, etc.) are more common than the cases related to the village Tschirnitz. But, instances of variations of both the Tschirn and Tschirnitz village names (and instances of their associated family names) existed at the same time in Silesia (and elsewhere, as discussed below) as distinctly separate villages and families. The village names and the associated family names (for both groups) have a common methodology in how they were created:

- some of the Slavic village names were based on natural features of the land,
- the village names were modified as the Germans migrated to the east, and
- the German family names were based on the names of their village.

Note that though the two groups of village names share the same root word Tschirn, this does not mean the families from those villages had common ancestors.

A simple (generalized) explanation of the origin of the Sternitzke name is that it was based on the Slavic word for black. According to Ivo Vukcevic: many of the names for villages and bodies of water in eastern Germany were based on the Slavic word for black (crn), including: Schirnewitz, Schirnwicz, Schyrne, Scurnice, Tschernitz, Tschernsdorf, Tschirne, Tschirtenbach, Tschornau, Tzschernitz, Tschernowitz, Tschirna, Zerna, Zernikal, Zscharnitz, Zscherben, Zscherne, Zscherneddel, Zschernitz, Zschernitzsch, Zschernitzschen, Zscherntnitz, Zschirnitz, Zschorgula, Zschorn, Zschorna, Zschornau, Zschorne, Zschorneck, Zschornegosda and Zschornewitz. The Germanic root words for these villages were Schirn, Tschern and Zschern.

The well-known Silesian researcher Dr. Hans Bahlow (1900–1982) wrote several books regarding German names, including a 1953 book regarding the family names he found in address books of Silesia. He did not include variations of the Sternitzke family name, but he did identify two groups of related family names with root word variations of Tschern and Tschirn:

- Group 1: Tschirner, Tscherner, Tschörner, Tschyrner, Tschirne and Czirne;
- Group 2: Tscharn(t)ke, Scharn(t)ke, Tschern(t)ke, Tschernig, Tscherning, Schernick, Scherni(n)g, Schörnig, Schörnich, Tschernack, Czernik, Schornak, Tschorn, Czerny and Schernecke.

Both groups 1 & 2 in Dr. Bahlow's analysis correspond with the Group A names I described at the beginning of this chapter (the one or two syllable names that are independent of the Sternitzke name variations). According to Dr. Bahlow, the family names with the root words Tschern and Tschirn were based on locations where the families lived: the villages Tschirne, Tschirnau and Tscherna for the first group of family names; and the villages Tscharnikau and Tscharncke for the second group. The names of the villages were based on Slavic words meaning black (Czech cerny; Upper Sorbian corny; Polish czarny). But he also gave an example: Schwarzhaarige (the black-haired), which could indicate the location was a settlement of people with black hair.

In 1856, Alexander Buttmann explained in detail how the Slavic people (Sorbs, Wends, Poles and Bohemians) named their villages based on physical characteristics of the physical features of the land near their settlements (distinguishing features of the rivers, fields, mountains and forests). In many cases, the later German settlers adapted the spellings of the original names of the settlements (but did not translate the names into German). The word Wend does not actually identify an organized group or tribe. During the Middle Ages, the Germanic people called any of the Western Slavic people the Wends. It included tribes such as the Sorbs living in Lusatia.

The colors of natural features are often a part of the names of settlements. The color red was often associated with the names of settlements near iron deposits that caused a red colored soil or water. The color black was associated with black or dark colored characteristics of the area (black soil, black river or black forest). There are many instances of White Mountain in Europe. The following Slavic words are associated with colors:

- White – Wendish bély – Polish biały,
- Black – Wendish zarny – Polish czarny – Bohemian černý,
- Green – Wendish selény – Polish zielony – Bohemian zelený, and
- Red – Wendish zerwény – Polish czerwony – Bohemian červený.

It sometimes becomes difficult to identify the original Slavic color in the Germanized village name for those words based on red or black, because the words are similar. Alexander Buttmann developed rules in 1856 for identifying whether red or black was the original color used in Germanized versions of Slavic place names; rules that involve vowel substitutions and depend on whether the original name was Wendish, Polish or Bohemian. The complexity of the rules is beyond my translation skills and curiosity. But the examples given by Buttmann are worth reporting. The names of villages (rivers, lakes or mountains) in the former Bohemian lands that started with Czern- or Tschir- (such as Tschernitz) were based on the Slavic words for black. The villages that started with Zern (such as Zernitz) were based on the Slavic words for red. It was a common practice to name a settlement based on the color of a prominent physical feature, resulting in many similarly spelled village names from Pomerania to the Crimea Peninsula.

The 1728 book of Silesian noble families (by Johanne Sinapio) provided an interesting origin of the name for the Graf (Count) von Tschirnhauß family. The family name (with versions Tschirn-Häuser, Zärn-Häuser and Czern-Häuser) was dated back to 1458, and was related to the Bohemian word for the color black: Czerny. The Czern-Häuser name literally means “black houses”, but could have meant “the family who lived in a black house”.

Heinrich Adamy’s 1888 book shows that the names of the Silesian villages Tschirna, Tschirnau, Tschirne and Tschirnitz were all Germanized versions of older Slavic village names: Cziriniza, Zirnin, Cynicz and Cynicz. He stated that all of these Slavic names meant Rotwasser (English: red water). He also wrote that the Silesian village named Zernitz was a Germanization of the village named Czernigk, which in German meant Schwarzwasser (English: black water).

Dr. Gustav Hey’s 1895 book regarding old Slavic placenames in the Kingdom of Saxony identified the 1575 name-origin for the village Zschernitz as Černici or Černovici, meaning the villa of the family Čern. The family named Čern (with logical spelling variations: Czern, Stern, Zschern or Tschern) already existed before the naming of the village Zschernitz. He translated Zschernitz to German as Schwarzenheim: black home. Zschirnitz was a Wüstung (desolated, or former village) near Frohburg and Altenburg. It was probably one name variation for the village Zschernitzsch, which was absorbed by the city of Altenburg. Dr. Hey’s book supports the following relationships:

- family name evolution: Čern→Zschern→Tschern→Stern, and
- village name evolution: Černici→Zschernitz→Zschernitzsch.

This supports my original observations: any resident from the village Zschernitz (Zschernitzch) could have later relocated to another village and had taken the family name Zschernitzke with the meaning “from the village Zschernitz”. Over time, the family name could have changed to Tschernitzke and then to Sternitzke. Unfortunately, the same process could occur with people moving from many villages with names similar to Zschernitz, and some of those villages had names even more similar to the family name Sternitzke (as discussed below).

Schmaler's 1867 book stated that the origin of the name of the village Zschernske (in Oberlausitz) was also based on the Wendish word Čern (which he translated as Schwarze: black). Dr. Herman Knothe identified the village Zschernske as also having been known as Czerniessky. The village name evolved from Czerniessky to Zschernske.

Konstantin Damroth's 1896 book regarding names of places in Silesia had an interesting comparison of the Wendish, Polish and German names of the village Tschernske (in Rotenburg County in the Liegnitz District of Silesia from 1825 to 1925, but was inside the border of Bautzener County of Saxony in 1777). Damroth's theory supports Schmaler's theory regarding the evolution of the name for the village Zschernske:

- Černsk (the original Wendish word),
- Ciernisko (a variation of the Polish word ciernie, meaning a thornbush, or bramble), and
- Zschernske (the Germanic variation, which means the same as the modern German phrase Dorn-Gestrüpp: thorn-scrub).

Ciernisko versus Sciernisko

The Polish word Ciernisko (and its meaning) is very similar to the Polish word Sciernisko, which was used as a variation of the Sternitzke name in 1574 and 1709. Both Polish words have agricultural significance (Ciernisko meaning thornbushes or brambles; Sciernisko meaning a cleared forest or a harvested stubble field), but I do not suggest those words are the origin of the Sternitzke name. Sciernisko was probably used as a similar-sounding substitution for the family name, as were the other variations recorded for the last name of Blasius: Czirnisko, Czirniszko, ZierniŹko, Szernischko and Szernitzke.

The 1423 Czirniski version of the name of the village Tschernske (discussed below) is a more logical source of the Sternitzke name variations listed above for Blasius. The 1745 Tzschernitzke and the 1833 Tschernitzke versions of the name for that same village indicate the village name and the Sternitzke family name both evolved in a similar fashion during the same period of time. The evolution of the names could have occurred due to common social and ethnic influences on the local language. Another possibility is both the Slavic and the Germanic versions of the names existed at the same time in the multicultural Silesia in the Middle Ages, and that the versions of the name that was recorded depended on the ethnicity of the recorder and the language used in the record (Latin versus German).

I still believe the families with names related to the words Tschirn/Tschern were separate families from those with names related to Tschirnitz/Tschernitz; just as distinct as the Sedlnitzky family is a separate family from the Sternitzky family. While the histories of the Tschirn, Stern and Sedlnitzky families are very interesting, and their histories crossed paths with ours (such as the audience with the King of Bohemia in 1620), I have not found any evidence of intermarriage between the families, or common ancestors. Members of the families with names based on the root words Tschirn, Tschern, and Stirn lived at the same time and had independent histories from the members of the Sternitzke family.

The family names associated with villages such as Tschirn were two syllable names: such as Georgius Stiernski (1537) and Johannes Stiernski (in 1533; also written as von Stiern) which means “from Stiern”. Authors of heraldry books (Siebmacher and Blažek) identified the Stirnski von Stirn family as an Upper Silesian family with a family member of the Freihaus at Ratibor in 1520, Johann Stirnski von Stirn. Other variations of the Stirnski family name were Stiernsky and Styrnsky von Styrn. Later members of that family were identified by Blažek as having lived in Bohemia in 1628 and 1633. Zedlitz-Neukirch listed the family names Stiernsky, Schtiernsky, Stirnsky as associated with a noble Silesian family (possibly the same family Siebmacher and Blažek identified as Stirnski).

The names of two noblemen: George von Tschirsky (1804) and Heinrich von Tschirschky (1858-1916) are interesting examples of two syllable family names that are similar to but are unrelated to the Tschirnitzke variations of the Sternitzke family name. That family name was also based on the name of a village. Professor Kneschke wrote that the family Tschirschky (Tschiersky, Tschirsky) originated in Poland, but they moved to Bohemia where they took their name from their estate named Czirsyt, and then they migrated to Bögendorff near Schweidnitz (Silesia) in the 13th century. Professor Kneschke provided examples of bearers of that family name who were living in the mid-19th century, with no connection to the Sternitzke family.

Those family names associated with villages with names similar to Tschirnitz are three syllable names, or are written in a format where the name of the village is obvious, such as in the cases of Nickel von Zirnitz (1505) and Hans von Tschernitz (1503), which could also have been written as Nickel Zirnitzke and Hans Tschernitzke.

The words Tschirnitz and Tschernitz had different Wendish word origins. Tschirne and Tschirnitz may have been Germanized versions of the Old Wendish (Sorbian) word čorny for black items (such as blackberries or black soil). The modern Czech word for the color black is černý (which corresponds with the translation by Dr. Gustav Hey for Černici or Černovici as “black home”). Tschernitz may have been a Germanization of the Old Wendish word cermnica for red items (such as red soil). The website for the modern town Tschernitz states the name means “a settlement on red soil”. Either version of the name, Tschirnitz or Tschernitz, and either meaning would have been appropriate for the names of farming communities and farming families.

This discussion regarding name origins is admittedly confusing and contradictory in the details. But four villages were identified in this discussion which may be related to the origin of the Sternitzke family name, and are therefore possible early settlements of the Sternitzke family prior to their homes at Luzine and Zantkau. Those four villages were:

- Zschernitz in the Kingdom of Saxony,
- Zschernske in Oberlausitz,
- Tschernske in Rotenburg County of Silesia (but later in Bautzener County of Saxony), and
- Tschernitz (near Sohrau) in Rybnik County of Silesia.

These are just five of the many locations in Central and Eastern Europe with names similar to the Sternitzke name variations discussed in the previous chapter. Dr. Johann Sepp listed many villages in the former German and Austro-Hungarian Empires with names similar to Czernitz. The five villages listed above, and several more of the most likely villages associated with Sternitzke family (based on German migration routes into Silesia) are discussed below.

As I searched for villages with names similar to the Sternitzke name, I also found kernels of biographical information regarding people with names related to those villages. These biographical kernels were worth including with the village information in this family history for two reasons: they illustrate family names originating from village names, and future research may reveal their connections to the Sternitzke family of Trebnitz County. In some cases, the names are known variations in the spelling of the Sternitzke family name. In other cases, the family names identified below are not variations used by known members of the Sternitzke family from Silesia, but fall within the logical naming system described in the previous chapter. It is likely that some of these names were only created under the same system used to create the Sternitzke family name: adding a -ke (or a similar suffix) to a village name similar to Tschernitz. But even the Slavic family names found and documented cannot be automatically rejected as being related to the Sternitzke family – because the events related to the German families who migrated into Silesia were not always recorded by Germans. The interpretation, spelling and record of the family name depended on the ethnicity of the recorder.

The Sternitzke Name Origin

The practice of taking surnames (in German speaking regions) began during the late Middle Ages (after 1300) according to one source (Wikipedia). But, a review of 13th century documents related to the settling of Silesia (documented by Josef Menzel) identified many surnames in use from 1251 to 1300. For example: Janussius Menczic and Johannes Osina were listed in a document from Öls dated the 25th of January in 1251. Two brothers (Walloons who lived at Breslau) Eberhard and Simon Gallico (Gallici or Gallicus) were frequently mentioned in documents from 1251 to 1292 and may have been associated with importing the wine de vino Gallico sive Rivali in 1266. The practice of using surnames was not uniform during that time – many people were still identified by title, occupation and location. Examples include:

- Schulz (village mayor) Heinrich (1250),
- Ritter (knight) Godislaus (1251),
- Herr Leonard und Magister (Latin: teacher) Nikolaus (1251),
- Vögte (city administrators) Thomas und Wilhelm (1254),
- Bürger (citizen) Sypota (1257),
- Cunczo, Vogt von (administrator of) Lissa (1261),
- Breslauer Bürger (citizen of Breslau) Helwig von Bunzlau (1264),
- Berthold, Richter (judge) in Staritz (1269),
- Schulzen (village mayors) Herden und Hermann (1274),
- Günter der Kleine (the small), Breslauer Bürger (1291) and
- Breslauer Bürger und Fleischer (Breslau citizen and butcher) Ulrich (1293).

Many people were only listed by first name and location before 1300. A review of Wilhelm Haeusler's book regarding old documents related to the history of the Öls Principality identified only two early examples of the use of surnames: Johanne Pacozlai (1297) and Heinrico Sdessicz (1300). A review of a Silesian history book by Grünhagen identified the following early examples of surnames: Heinrich Schenk, Radslaus Dremlie and Thammo Pruss (1283), Herr Wetzell (1288), George Friebel (1291) and Heinrich Custos (1299).

The earliest known Sternitzke ancestor identified by Wilhelm Starnitzki was Thomas Czerniβky (which can be written as Czerniszky). Thomas was the Erbscholz (hereditary mayor) of Luzine in 1559. That written version of his family name appears to be a mixture of the Slavic Bohemian Cz-, and the Germanic -βky, and very close to the Bohemian family name Czerniczky. Three other references provided some details regarding Thomas, and also provide earlier Germanic spellings of his last name (the differences in spelling are probably due to separate transcriptions of the original handwritten records). Thomas Tschicnintzky (as spelled in Goldman's book, though I think it may have been a transcription error) was the Scholtz and a hereditary member of the local village court in 1541 for the community of Łuczina (Luzine in Trebnitz County). Another source, the Luziner Dorfchronik von Lehrer Ratsch wrote that on the 6th of April in 1541, Abbess Barbara of Trebnitz confirmed Thomas Tschirminsky (probably another transcription error) as the Erbscholz (hereditary mayor) of Luzine, and granted him two mills and an inn for which he was obliged to pay interest to the Trebnitz monastery. He held the office until 1568. The modern review of Trebnitz monastery documents by the Polish historian Professor Doctor Kazimierz Bobowski identified Thomas Tschirnitzky as the mayor of Luzine who was confirmed by the Abbess Barbara in 1541. Professor Bobowski's transcription is probably the correct one, because it is closest to the Thomas Czerniβky variation identified by Wilhelm Starnitzki.

The variations of the last name of Thomas (Czerniβky, Tschirnitzky, Tschicnintzky and Tschirminsky) occurred shortly after the 1526 transition from Bohemian to Austrian rule over Silesia. The versions of his name beginning with Cz- could be a Bohemian (Czech) spelling, while the Tsch- versions could indicate an Austrian or Saxon Germanic spelling for the same person's name. The transition from Bohemia to Austria would have been an influence in spelling variations in the recording of names in Silesia. The recording of names varied with the education and ethnicity of the recorders, not necessarily based on the ethnicity of the subject of the record.

The relationship of Thomas Czerniŝky to Blasius Szernitzke (the Erbscholz of Zantkau from 1574 to 1583) was not identified in Karl Sille's manuscript, which was based on the research by Wilhelm Starnitzki. But, Sille and Starnitzki recorded that Thomas was born around 1500, making Thomas the earliest known member of our family (as identified by Wilhelm). It is possible that Thomas was an uncle to Blasius (the brother of Blasius' father), or the grandfather of Blasius. Their villages (Luzine and Zantkau) are only about a mile apart. It is very unlikely that Thomas and the father of Blasius were not related, and that their family names were coincidentally similar.

I believe George Tschirnitzke was the name of the father of Blasius Szernitzke (the same Blasius whose last name was also recorded in various documents as Sciernisko, Czirnisko, Czirnizsko, Zierniŝko and Szernischko). George Tschirnitzke held the hereditary office of rent collector (erbliche Lehnscholtisei) for the village of Zantkaw (Zantkau) in 1554, when Blasius was 10 years old. Collecting taxes was a typical duty for the village Scholz. Wilhelm Starnitzki recorded that the office of Scholz was an inherited office at Zantkau, and had passed from father to son in 1574 as was documented in the transfer of the office and its associated property to Blasius. That alone confirms that George was the father of Blasius.

Blasius held the hereditary office of Erbscholz at Zantkau until 1583, when he passed the office to his brother Paul Zernizky (Zirnizky, Zirnissko), and Blasius then became the court appointed Gerichtsscholz at Domnowitz. Many of the family name variations in the descendants of Blasius (identified as Blasius the Elder to distinguish him from his son, Blasius the Younger and his grandson Blasius the Younger in Domnowitz), were similar to the name variation of George Tschirnitzke of Zantkau. Here are a few examples:

- Hans Tschierniŝky, son of Blasius the Elder,
- Blasius Tscherniŝky, grandson of Blasius the Elder,
- Gregor Tschernisky, grandson of Blasius the Elder,
- Johann Tscherniszke, great-grandson of Blasius the Elder, and
- Adam Tscherniŝke, great-great-grandson of Blasius the Elder.

These name variations support the theory that George Tschirnitzke was the father of Blasius the Elder from Zantkau.

In Silesia and other places in Europe, when family names were being established, one common practice was to take the name of the village of origin as part of the last name. Richard Hoffmann noted (and it was illustrated in the documents presented by Joseph Menzel) that the use of de, von, or -ski in surnames derived from place names and did not denote nobility until later. Surnames using those elements typically meant “from the location of”. For example, several family names that are still in use were formed in this manner – from the names of the city and county of Militsch in Silesia: Militschke, Militschky, Militschkÿ, Militzke, Militski, etc.

Two examples involving famous people from the region whose surnames were based on locations are: Nicolas Copernicus and Count Radetzky of Radetz.

The famous Silesian scientist Nicholas Copernicus (1473-1543) is a good example of the many name variations that can be associated with one family and their village of name origin. Nicholas Copernicus was the Latinized form of his name. Today, he is known as Nicolaus Kopernikus in German, and Mikołaj Kopernik in Polish. His father’s name was recorded around 1480 as Niclas Koppernigk. The family name originated from the Silesian village that is today named Koperniki, but was earlier known as the German village Kopernik (with other spellings such as Köppernig and Köppernick). It is near Nysa (formerly known as Neisse or Neissa in German), southeast of Wrocław (Breslau). It is interesting to note that a man named Henrico de Copernik was recorded in a Latin document from Neisse dated the 8th of June in 1291. It illustrates how difficult it can be to identify family relationships when everyone from one village could be identified in documents by first name and from that village.

The Radetzky March by Johann Strauss Sr. honored the famous Austrian Field Marshal Johann Josef Wenzel Graf Radetzky von Radetz (1766-1858). The field marshal is known in English as John Joseph Wenceslaus Count Radetzky of Radetz. In Czech, his name is written as Jan Josef Václav hrabě Radecký z Radče. He was born at Schloss Trebnitz in northwest Bohemia, near the border with Saxony. Today, the village Trebnitz is named Třebenice in the Czech Republic. This was not the same city known as Trebnitz that was so important in the Sternitzke family history. The Radetzky family name was based on the Radetz estate in Bidschow County, in the Kingdom of Bohemia. The estate named Radetz may have become the same Bohemian village with the German names Raditz and Radjitz, and known in Czech as Radice.

The spellings of the last names of Thomas Tschirnitzky/Czerniŝky (in 1541/1559) and George Tschirnitzke (in 1554) indicate that the family name was taken by an ancestor from a village that was named with variations of Czernitz, Tschirnitz, or Tschernitz (but village name variations such as Cernitz, Tzernitz and Zernitz cannot be ruled out). The names of villages were subject to the same spelling variation factors that affected family names in records. The eastern German -ke suffix of Tschirnitzke denotes the person originated from the location Tschirnitz. The -itz suffix in the word Tschirnitz is a very common word ending for locations in eastern Germany, where it indicates a Slavic settlement that originally had a suffix spelled -ica, and was renamed in a German form as Germanic settlers migrated eastward into the Slavic territories. It is also possible that the Sternitzke family name was based completely from the village name that already had -ke suffix.

Unfortunately, there have many villages in what is now Germany, Poland and the Czech Republic with names similar to the root word of the Sternitzke family name (Sternitz). There have also been historic versions of the names for several of those villages that were very similar (or identical) to known variations of the Sternitzke family name. Village names have been identified with the Czernitz, Tschirnitz, or Tschernitz root words and also included the -ke, -ko and -ky suffixes. But these village typically had both types of variations, for example a village named Tschernitz also was identified as Tscherniske. A hypothetical example would be: a person from a village named Berlin, taking the family name Berliner (meaning from Berlin), and then calling the village Berliner, for a while and then later changing it back to Berlin. I have not found a reference that describes this situation, probably because there are so many exceptions to any general rule that could be made. The only applicable general observation (not a rule) that I have found in books regarding German surnames is that German villages and farms sometimes took on the name of their owner. The name of the family farm was named after the original owner. The reverse is also true – sometimes when the farm changed owners, the new owner took on the name of their farm. Over time the farmstead grew into a collection of farms and then a village with the name of the original owners of the farmstead. Since the Sternitzke family was traditionally a farming family, it is possible they kept the name of an earlier owner of their farm, who may have also been the original settler.

The two most notable villages identified, in my research of the possible origin of the Sternitzke family, are located only 15 miles apart: Tschernitz (also known as Tscherniske) now in Spree-Neiße County of Brandenburg, and Tschernske (also known as Tschernitzke) now in Görlitz County of Sachsen (Saxony). Both villages were located in Lausitz (Lusatia in English) during the time when the Sternitzke family migrated to Silesia. It is interesting that these two villages had historical names that were apparently based on family names – Tscherniske and Tschernitzke. Perhaps residents of these two small villages belonged to a single family.

Of these two villages, Tschernske (also known as Tschernitzke, now in Görlitz County of Saxony) is the most likely source of the family name, because it was named Czerniessky (in 1527). I don't think it was a coincidence that Thomas Tschirnitzky was also known as Thomas CzerniBky (in 1559 at Luzine). There are other similarities between the historic names of the village Tschernske and family name Sternitzke, as is discussed below. The village Tschernske is also closest to the primary trade and migration route eastward to Breslau, which was documented as the route taken by the settlers of Trebnitz County. But, to be as thorough as possible, I studied many villages in the region and have included that research below. My goal was to not only identify the origin of the family name, but also to search for Sternitzke ancestors who lived before Thomas and George. There are always questions that need to be answered; such as whether the all the name variations similar to Sternitzke had a common ancestor, or developed separately under common cultural events and linguistic rules.

The custom of taking a family name from the location of origin creates a difficulty for tracing ancestors earlier than a certain point. There may have been several families who took the same last name, because they originated from the same village. I suppose that in small villages it didn't really matter, since villagers did not move very often and there were quite a lot of intermarriages between families – so eventually everyone in the village was related in some way to everyone else. Without the church records or property transfer records to identify family relationships, it becomes impossible to prove how the people with the same last name are related, or even if they are in the same family or just took the same last names based on their place of birth. Adding to the problem are the inconsistencies in recording family names and errors in transcriptions. In short, I have not yet found earlier ancestors that can be proven, but I have theories which I will save for next chapter (because I have not given up hope that more information will be found, and because it is easier to revise theories if they are all in one place).

Sternitzke Family Origin and the Colonization of Silesia

German Migration Paths to Silesia

The Sternitzke family was (and still is) ethnically German, and therefore not native to Silesia. From which German region, kingdom or other political unit could they have originated? The Sternitzke family was one of thousands of families who “settled to the east” (known in German as the Ostsiedlung) during the Middle Ages. Germans from all occupations (but mostly farmers) were encouraged to create German settlements in Silesia starting in the 12th century. Many of those settlers came from what is now called Brandenburg, Saxony, Thuringia and Franconia. There were also a large number of settlers from the Netherlands and Lower Saxony. Silesia became a melting pot of German dialects (affecting how the family name was recorded). The German settlement of Silesia was only one part of the Ostsiedlung. The eastward migration of German settlers started much earlier – to areas now within the eastern border of Germany (including Saxony). As the Germans moved into lands held by the Slavic peoples (including the Poles and the Sorbs), they Germanized the Slavic names of the villages. Many of the towns and cities in eastern Germany were named—in this way. The practice of taking family names began after the settling of eastern Germany, so many of the German family names were based on Germanized-Slavic place names. I believe this was the case regarding the Sternitzke family.

According to statistics presented by Richard Hoffman, the migration of German settlers into Silesia started at the end of the 12th century. The establishment of villages under German Law began around the year 1220, peaked around 1350 and then slowly continued until around 1530. He also wrote that based on a study of the Silesian dialects (both German and Polish), the German immigrants were mostly from Meissen and Lusatia. Farmers from the Niederländerlern Land (Dutch country) were recruited to settle east of Meissen in Lusatia in the early 12th century. These early settlers of Meissen and Lusatia were probably the source of the Silesian dialects. The 1350 to 1530 timeframe would explain how the Sternitzke family was living at Luzine and Zantkau in the early 16th century with a surname based on a village outside Trebnitz County. This information would support a theory that the Sternitzke family originated from the village Zschernitz now in Saxony, or Tschernitz (Tscherniske) now in Brandenburg as discussed below under Ostsiedlung Group 2: Erfurt to Glogau. It also supports the theory that the village of origin for the Sternitzke family was Zschernitzsch bei Schmölln or Zschernitzsch bei Altenburg, then settled for a period of time at Tschernske (Tschernitzke) now in Görlitz County of Saxony where they took the family name, as discussed below under Ostsiedlung Group 3: Bamberg to Trebnitz.

According to Tomasz Kamusella, the colonization of Silesia began in 1163 when Cistercian monks from Thuringia founded the monastery at Leubus (near Liegnitz in Silesia). German knights, courtiers, settlers and more clergy followed the original monks. The colonization of the Breslau area was encouraged by Duke Henry I the Bearded and his Bavarian wife Saint Hedwig of Trebnitz. That area was settled by colonists from the March Meissen, Franconia, Hesse and the Low German regions. Most of this colonization occurred from 1200 to 1350.

Another source (Czopek-Kopciuch) stated the German migration to the Polish territory (including Silesia) occurred in two waves. The first wave began in the 10th to 11th centuries, beginning with subjects associated with the German princesses who married Polish rulers. Those people were knights, clergy and merchants. The first mass colonization of German farmers to Silesia began in the 12th century and followed two major routes:

- Erfurt (Thuringia) to Dresden (Saxony) to Breslau (Silesia) and
- Bamberg (Franconia) to Eger (Bohemia; now named Cheb in the western part of the Czech Republic) to Silesia.

A second wave of German colonization occurred in the 16th to the 18th centuries due to religious and economic persecutions in Brandenburg and Prussia.

Settlement of Trebnitz County by Germans

Wilhelm Haeusler spent twenty years researching and writing about the history of Trebnitz County (where he died in 1879). His history of the Principality of Öls included the region that later became the Lower Silesian counties including Öls, Trebnitz, Wohlau and Militsch. Haeusler wrote that the earliest Lokator with five to seven settlers at the Principality of Öls were from Flanders. The bulk of the later settlers were Franks and Saxons. A few Germans accompanied the nuns from Bamberg when the monastery at Trebnitz was founded in 1203. About fifty years later, with help from officials of the Leubus monastery, Saxon settlers were recruited by the Schulpforte monastery at Naumburg on the Salle River to settle in Silesia.

Schulpforte refers to the Cistercian cloister monastery that was founded by the Bishop of Naumburg at the village Pforte (now part of the city Naumburg) in 1137; secularized in 1540 and became the location of a Landeschule (state operated school) founded by Moritz Duke of Saxony in 1543. The 1138 papal document confirming the foundation of the monastery is interesting, because it mentions the monks were moved to Pforte from the monastery established in 1132 at Schmölln, because of difficulty in converting the inhabitants at Schmölln.

Settlers from the northwestern German low-lands were brought to this region to support the Cistercian monasteries at Schmölln and Pforte. Documents listed these settlers as: Sachsen, Franken, Fläminger, Niederländer, Flamens und Holländer. Some of those terms referred to the German tribes (Saxons and Franks), while some terms referred to the people from the region (Netherlands and Holland) where those tribes had withdrawn to, because of the Hunnic Empire's invasion of Europe. Brandenburg, Lusatia, Saxon-Anhalt and Saxony were areas held by Slavic people and later settled by these settlers from the German northwestern low-lands. It should also be noted that Thuringia was named for the Thuringii tribe who came under the domination of the Franks in 6th century, and also that Hesse was part of Thuringia until 1264. This information confirms the statement by Wilhelm Haeusler regarding the bulk of Silesian settlers as having been Franks and Saxons.

Naumburg (on the Salle River) is a city within the modern border of southern Sachsen-Anhalt, about 35 miles northeast of Erfurt. A village named Trebnitz is located 12 miles east-southeast of Naumburg. Schmölln is a town in Thuringia, located about 30 miles southeast of Naumburg. The city Altenburg is also located in Thuringia, located about 30 miles east-southeast of Naumburg, and about 8 miles northeast of Schmölln. These locations (Altenburg and Schmölln) are significant in our family history because of their proximity to two villages (Zschernitzsch bei Altenburg, and Zschernitzsch bei Schmölln) discussed below. Altenburg and Schmölln are now in the state Thuringia, but they were previously in the Saxe-Altenburg Duchy of the Kingdom of Saxony. Altenburg passed to the Saxon Margraves of Meissen (of the Saxon House of Wettin) in 1243 and was the capital of the Duchy of Saxe-Altenburg (founded in 1603). The Free State of Saxe-Altenburg was incorporated into the new state of Thuringia in 1920.

In the early 13th century, the Margrave of Meissen, the Dukes of Silesia (including Henry the Bearded) and the Cistercian abbots at the Pforte Cloister in Thuringia worked together to establish religious institutions throughout the region. The daughter monasteries at Leubus and Trebnitz in Silesia were founded as part of that cooperation. An abbot named Winemar (Winemarus) at Pforte assisted in recruiting Thuringian-Saxon settlers (farmers and their families) for establishing villages to support the new institutions. The Polish dukes guaranteed the settlers regardless of their ethnicity a total exemption of taxes and services. This apparently meant no taxes or services in addition to those demanded by the church, which the farmers at Zschernitzsch bei Schmölln and Zschernitzsch bei Altenburg (recorded as Schirniz and Zirniz in 1199) were already paying to the church, and would continue to pay once they reached Silesia.

There were two groups of settlers organized by the Abbot of Pforte (sometimes written Pforta). The first group was organized in 1215, followed by a second group in 1231. The settlers were provided with wagons, and freedom from taxes and tolls through the territories of Meissen and Lusatia. The distance from Naumburg to Trebnitz (Silesia) is about 330 miles along a middle section of the ancient trade route named in Latin as the Via Regia (German: königliche Straße, Royal Highway) that ran from France to Russia. The settlers probably crossed the Elbe River at Torgau, Meissen or Dresden, crossed the Spree River at Bautzen, crossed the Neisse River at Görlitz, crossed the Katzbach River at Liegnitz and then crossed the Oder River at Leubus (or more likely at Breslau). The bridges across the Elbe were built in 1070 at Torgau and Dresden, and in 1160 at Meissen. Hermann Knothe listed the towns along the ancient road, the Via Regia Lusatiae Superioris (the section of the Via Regia through Upper Lusatia from Meissen to Silesia) as: Königsbrück, Kamenz, Bautzen, Löbau, Weißenberg, Reichenbach, Görlitz and Lauban (now Luban, Poland).

There is an interesting link between Altenburg (in Thüringia) and the settlement of the Principality of Öls. The family named von Marshall und Berbissdorff migrated from what is now the Netherlands to Thüringia in the 12th century and became an important noble family. The Marshall und Berbisdorff family was a branch of the Marschall von Bieberstein family from the village Frohburg and the Castle Gnadstein northeast of Altenburg (as shown on the map above). That family was the owner of the village Schmölln (by Altenburg) in the early 17th century. Johannes Sinapius listed Hans Christoph von Marshall und Berbißdorf as an official (Rath und Land Hoft-Richter) in the Principality of Öls in 1611 and 1616. It probably is not a coincidence that this family was associated with the area near Schmölln (shown as Schmoln on the map above from 1650) in Thuringia, and then there was also the village named Schmollen near the cities Trebnitz and Öls in Silesia (see the map below). Schmollen in Silesia is now known as Smolna, Oleśnica County, Poland. It is also interesting that Dr. Gustav Hey identified a former village named Zschirnitz near Frohburg. He listed the earlier name for Zschirnitz as Sczhirniczh in 1233, and its origin was the Slavic word Černici (meaning black). Dr. Hey may have been referring to the village Zschernitzsch that was absorbed by Altenburg. Frohburg is about six miles northeast of Altenburg. These types of connections between Altenburg and Öls suggest the Altenburg area was one of the early locations of the Sternitzke family.

The settlers of Trebnitz County (descendants of the original Saxon, Frankish and Niederländer tribes from the northern German lowlands who had settled in Thuringia, Meissen and Lausitz) brought their German dialects to Silesia. This explains why the dialect group of Silesian German for the region north of Breslau became known as Neiderländisch (Dutch Silesian). This region north of Breslau corresponds with the former Principality of Öls.

In their book detailing the history of Breslau, Norman Davies and Roger Moorhouse included a map that identified migration routes of German settlers into Silesia in the 13th and 14th centuries. The migrations identified by Davies and Moorhouse were the basic sources of the settlers and the destinations of their migrations to certain parts of Silesia – not the actual routes those settlers took. My map shows rivers and cities as points of reference rather than political boundaries which have changed many times since the 13th century. It also shows the mountain ranges that shaped the emigration routes. The actual routes taken by the settlers probably followed the ancient trade routes that crossed central Europe.

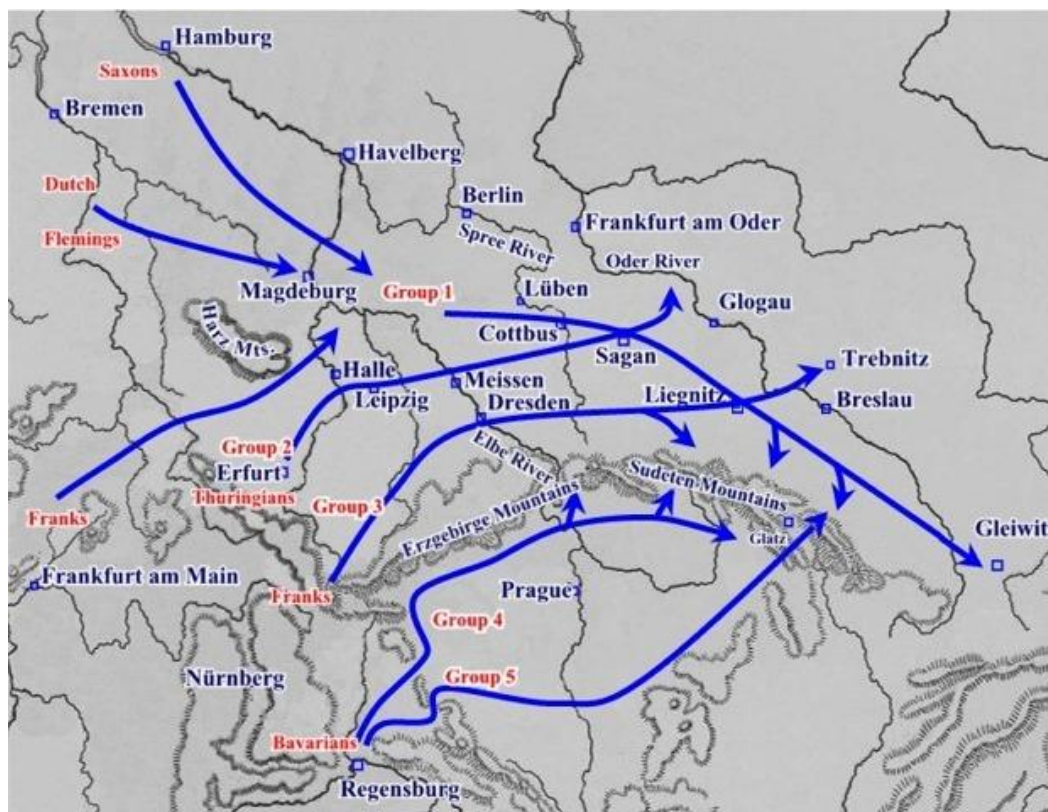

The five major sources and destinations of the 13th and 14th century German migrations to Silesia were:

1. Saxons, Franks, Dutch and Flemings from the northwestern lowlands began migrating east of Magdeburg, to the Lusatian Mark (southern Brandenburg and Lower Lusatia) before the year 1000 AD. After two centuries of conflict with the Slavic tribes they were recruited to settle in the Breslau and Oppeln districts in Silesia. The major Silesian cities settled by these Germans included Neisse, Leobschütz, Ratibor and Gleiwitz.
2. Thuringians traveled eastward along the Via Regia from Erfurt migrated into the northern Liegnitz District near Grünberg and Glogau. This route includes part of the first wave of settlers described by Tomasz Kamusella and Barbara Czopek-Kopciuch.
3. Franconians migrated eastward along the northern side of the Erzgebirge mountain range that separated Pleissnerland and Meissen from Bohemia. They crossed Upper Lusatia which was part of Bohemia at that time, crossing rivers at Bautzen and Görlitz. They settled in the Hirschberg area south of Liegnitz, and also settled in the Wohlau, Trebnitz and Öls areas north of Breslau. This route includes the settlers identified by Tomasz Kamusella and Wilhelm Haeusler.
4. Bavarians from the Regensburg area migrated through western Bohemia and then continued along the southern side of the Erzgebirge and Sudeten mountains of northern Bohemia to Hirschberg in southern Silesia, and to Neustadt an der Mettau River (west of Glatz, Silesia).
5. Bavarians from the Regensburg area also migrated across southern Bohemia to the silver mines at Deutschbrod (also known as Smilův Brod, and now named Havlíčkův Brod), and then to Neisse in the Oppeln region of Silesia.

The major trade routes that were probably traveled by the German settlers in their migration to Silesia included:

- the Amber Road from Hamburg to Berlin, Cottbus and Dresden,
- the Amber Road from Bremen to Magdeburg, Halle, Leipzig and Dresden,
- the west-east road Via Regia connecting Frankfurt am Main to Erfurt, Leipzig, Görlitz and Breslau,
- the section of the Via Regia called the Via Regia Lusatiae Superioris connecting Halle, Leipzig, Grimma, Oschatz Großenhain, Königsbrück, Kamenz, Bautzen, Löbau, Görlitz or Zittau, Lauban, Naumburg, Bunzlau, Haynau, Liegnitz, Neumarkt to Breslau
- the north-south road Via Imperii connecting Nuremberg to Bayreuth, Hof, Zwickau, Altenburg, Leipzig, Wittenberg, and Berlin, and
- the Salt Road from Leipzig to Sorau and Breslau.

The city of Leipzig was a center point for trade and travelers from all directions.

According to the map above, the third Ostsiedlung group (originating from Franconia) would most likely have been the group that included the Sternitzke family, because that group settled in the area north of Breslau that became Trebnitz County. The Sternitzke family may have settled in Silesia between 1200 and 1350, long before the mid-1500s when Thomas CzerniBky (Tschirnitzky) was Erbscholz of Luzine, and George Tschirnitzke was erbliche Lehnscholtisei for the village of Zantkau. Some sources state the practice of taking last names did not begin until after the 12th century, which means the Sternitzke family could have taken the family name prior to the 13th century (1215 or 1231) migrations to Silesia organized by Duke Henry the Bearded and the Abbot of Pforte.

Members of the Sternitzke family may have been among the many unnamed farmers and Scholzen identified in Silesian documents between the 13th and 16th centuries. But, because the known members of the Sternitzke family were documented no earlier than the 16th century, I researched the many possible sources of the family name in the region shown in the map above. It is possible that the family originated in Ostsiedlung groups 1 through 5, but settled first at one of the villages along the trade routes leading to Silesia prior to continuing on to Luzine and Zantkau. This two-step migration corresponds to the second wave of colonization identified by Barbara Czopek-Kopciuch (as discussed above).

Origins of the Sternitzke Name Variations

The migration route from Bamberg in Franconia (Ostsiedlung Group 3 in the above discussion) to Trebnitz County was the most likely route taken by the Sternitzke ancestors, but there are many locations in the former Holy Roman Empire with historical spelling variations similar to the words Sternitz and Tschernitz. Based on the migration routes of German settlers into Silesia there are a small number of locations that are likely sources of the many variations of the Sternitzke, Tschernitzke, Zernitzky or Czernitzke family names. Some of those locations are in modern Germany and the Czech Republic, while others are in that part of Silesia now in Poland (see the maps below).

Research for this chapter was originally performed to find conclusive evidence of the origin of the Sternitzke family based on the conventional history of the settlement of Trebnitz County presented by Wilhelm Haeusler. That conclusive evidence was not found, causing me to consider other possible sources of the Sternitzke family. I expanded the search to the other four groups of German settlers who migrated to Silesia. The record still remains blank regarding the Sternitzke family history prior to their documented lives at Luzine and Zantkau. But enough information has been found to propose some theories that explain the possible origins of the Sternitzke family name and the origins of similar family names. This research is included in this book in case additional family history is found in the future that supports my theories or suggests new theories. A second reason for including this research history is that it explains the probable origins of family names that are similar to (or identical to) the known versions of Sternitzke, but probably represent unrelated families. This is important because it explains how similar family names developed in the Bohemian Crown Lands (including Silesia), the Austrian-Hungarian Empire (including Silesia) and the Prussian Empire (which later also included Silesia). These family names (variations of Sternitzke) all developed from the Germanization of Slavic settlement names based on the Slavic words for black or red.

My discussions for these locations are organized by the five Ostsiedlung groups of German settlers identified by Davies and Moorhouse (starting with the most northern group) and then by the locations each group may have settled on known trade routes from west to east, corresponding with the eastern migration of German settlers. My presumption is that the settlers reused the names of their previous settlements when they founded new settlements, or renamed existing Slavic settlements based on the names of their home villages. The reuse of the names of their German settlements would create a trail of similar names that should be positioned geographically and chronologically from west to east.

I researched the histories of the areas around each of the villages, looking for family names similar to Sternitzke. I concentrated on the three northern Ostsiedlung groups of German settlers, based on the conventional theories of the settlement of Silesia and on my observations that the German families tended to migrate and settle in groups of families with a common dialect, religion and traditions. That clan-like behavior was demonstrated even as late as the 19th century by the migrations of Germans to the United States. But I also researched the possibility that the Sternitzke family originated from the two southern groups of German settlers who settled in Bohemia (now the Czech Republic). The Hussite Wars (1419 to 1434) and other conflicts that originated in Bohemia and spread northward caused many Germans to flee to Silesia and farther north.

Consider the two following maps. The first map shows southern Brandenburg, Saxony, Lusatia and Silesia in 1801, with major cities, trade routes, and villages with historical names similar to the Sternitzke family name. This map includes the destinations of the first three Ostsiedlung groups that settled Silesia. The second map shows the general routes of German settlers (Ostsiedlung groups 4 and 5) through Bohemia, and again shows the villages with historical names similar to the family name Sternitzke.

Please note that when I discuss the Ostsiedlung Groups 1 through 5, I am not referring to migrations that occurred in chronological order. The groups are numbered by their north to south orientation, with Group 1 being the most northern group of German settlers. The earliest settlers to migrate to Trebnitz County would have been included in Group 3. The order of my presentation of villages (based the migration routes on the map of Ostsiedlung groups) is not precise. First, my presentation neglects the migration of Bohemian Germans northward into Silesia, though those migrations have always been a consideration. The migrations of Germans during and after the Hussite War were significant, but difficult to identify and document due to the massive destruction of church and civil records during that century. Also, a review of the initial (and later versions) of the Deutsche Stadtrechts (German City Rights) adopted by major Silesian cities yielded the conflicting probable origins of their early German settlers (Magdeburg versus Franconia, Thuringia or Saxony), the major sources of subsequent migrations, and most importantly, the earliest dates when those German settlers were significant portions of the population at those cities:

- Route of Ostsiedlung Group 1: Leobschütz in 1187 (Magdeburger Stadtrechts), Reichenbach in 1230, Ohlau in 1234, Neumarkt in 1235 (Magdeburger-Hallesche Stadtrechts), Neisse in 1245 (Flämisches Stadtrechts), Gleiwitz (Magdeburger Stadtrechts) in 1246, Liegnitz in 1252 (Magdeburger Stadtrechts), Schweidnitz in 1260 (Fränkisches Stadtrechts followed by Neumarkter Stadtrechts, and then Sächsische Stadtrechts in 1363), Strehlen in 1292 (Magdeburger Stadtrechts) and Ratibor in 1296 (Magdeburger Stadtrechts, settled by Franken, Thüringen and Niederlanden in 1217).

- Route of Ostsiedlung Group 2: Glogau in 1253 (Magdeburger Stadtrechts), Sagan in 1285 and Guhrau in 1300 (Magdeburger Stadtrechts).
- Route of Ostsiedlung Group 3: Löwenberg in 1209 (Fränkisches Stadtrechts and later Magdeburger Stadtrechts), Goldberg in 1211 (Magdeburger Stadtrechts), Öls in 1253 (Neumarkter Stadtrechts) and Hirschburg in 1299 (Löwenberger Stadtrechts).

1801 map of Saxony and Silesia with major roads (in red) and villages with names similar to Sternitzke.

Zernitz in Brandenburg,
Zernitz (Czernitz) bei Zerbst in Sachsen-Anhalt,

Zschernitz (Tzschernitz) bei Delitzsch, in Sachsen (Saxony),
 Tschernitz (Tscherniske) bei Muskau, in Brandenburg,
 Tschernske (Tschernitzke) bei Crebe, in Sachsen (Saxony),
 Zschernitzsch (Czernicz) bei Altenburg (Thüringen), Zschernitzsch (Czernicz) bei Schmölln (Thüringen) and Zschertnitz (Zschernitz) bei Dresden (Saxony).

The map (above) also shows the locations of these additional villages that were in Silesia, and are now in Poland:

Tschirnitz (Czirnitsch), in Glogau County, Silesia
 Tschirnitz (Zirnitz), in Jauer County, Silesia
 Tschirnau in Guhrau County, Silesia
 Tschertwitz (Tschernitz), in Öls County, Silesia
 Czernitz, in Rybnik County, Silesia,
 Stanitz, in Rybnik County, Silesia and Deutsch Zernitz (Zernitz), in Tost-Gleiwitz County, Silesia.

The village named Zernitz (northwest of Berlin) does not lie near a known migration route, but its proximity to the village named Zernitz (near Zerbst) suggests a connection between the two villages named Zernitz, and the first and most northern Ostsiedlung group from Magdeburg to Gleiwitz, Silesia. The Zernitz village near Magdeburg lies at the center of the earlier migration routes from Lower Saxony, the low countries and Hesse. From Magdeburg, German settlers continued to Cottbus, Sagan and Liegnitz, and then to the Silesian villages southeast of Breslau including Czernitz and Stanitz in Rybnik County and Zernitz (also known as Deutsch Zernitz) in Tost-Gleiwitz County.

The second Ostsiedlung group (Thuringians near Erfurt) migrated through the village Zschernitz near Delitzsch in Saxony, and the village Tschernitz near Muskau (in Lusatia, but now in southeastern Brandenburg), near the Silesian village Tschernske (now in eastern Saxony), and then on to the Silesian villages Tschirnitz in Glogau County and Tschirnau in Guhrau County. Germans then migrated north from Tschirnau into Posen.

The third Ostsiedlung group were Franconians who migrated from Zschernitzsch bei Altenburg, and Zschernitzsch bei Schmölln through Zschertnitz bei Dresden in southern Saxony, then like the second group, they migrated eastward towards Tschernske in Lusatia (now in eastern Saxony), to Görlitz in Lusatia (now on the Saxon border with Poland). From Görlitz, one branch of the route went south to settle at Tschirnitz in Jauer County, and another branch continued east through Liegnitz and on to Trebnitz and Tschertwitz in Trebnitz County.

German migration routes through Bohemia and villages of similar to the Sternitzke family name.

The fourth and fifth German Ostsiedlung groups to Silesia passed through the Kingdom of Bohemia, with origins shown as Regensburg (in modern Bavaria), but Germans from other regions (including Franconia) are known to have migrated to Bohemia. The map (above) shows the current borders of the Czech Republic (which approximates the area marked as the Kingdom of Bohemia and the Margravate of Moravia). The fourth and fifth migration routes are indicated and the locations of villages with name variations similar to known Sternitzke family name variations are marked on the map. The villages are listed with their nearest city (identified by their German names). The current Czech names for these locations are included in the discussions below.

Ostsiedlung Group 4: Regensburg to Neustadt an der Mettau

1. Tschernitz (Tschirnitz) bei Kaaden, Bohemia
2. Tschernitz (Tschirnitz) bei Saaz, Bohemia
3. Klein Tschernitz bei Flöhau, Bohemia
4. Gross Tschernitz bei Flöhau, Bohemia
5. Tschernitz bei Brüx, Bohemia
6. Tschernitschitz (Zirnitz) bei Laun, Bohemia
7. Tschernschitz (Zirnitz) bei Neustadt an der Mettau, Bohemia

Ostsiedlung Group 5: Regensburg to Deutschbrod to Neisse

8. Tschernitz (Czernisko, Zernitz) bei Pilsen, Bohemia
9. Tschernetz (Czernitz) bei Kwaschniowitz, Bohemia
10. Tschernisko (Czernisko) bei Dobschitz, Bohemia
11. Czernitz (Czernitzky) bei Bechin, Bohemia
12. Czernitz (Czirnitz) bei Krumau, Bohemia
13. Czernitz (Czernitzky) bei Czechtitz, Bohemia

14. Czernitz bei Brünn, Moravia

Each of these five Ostsiedlung groups and associated locations of interest are discussed below (in order by their north to south orientations). In each case, I have included for comparison known variations of the locations' names and documented variations of the Sternitzke family name as identified by Wilhelm Starnitzki. I have also included documented cases of individuals (with names similar to the known variations of the Sternitzke name) who were associated with these locations. The relationships of these individuals to the Sternitzke family of Trebnitz County are unknown.

Ostsiedlung Group 1: Magdeburg to Gleiwitz

Germans from the Brandenburg and Sachsen-Anhalt regions migrated into the southern Breslau District and the Oppeln District of Silesia. This group included settlers originally from Hesse and the Low German regions, as identified by Tomasz Kamusella. There are two villages of particular interest near Magdeburg: Zernitz (now in Brandenburg) and Zernitz (now in Sachsen-Anhalt). Their migration route ended in the Oppeln District of eastern Silesia, the location of the villages Czernitz, Stanitz and Deutsch Zernitz.

Zernitz-Lohm in Brandenburg, Germany

The Zernitz-Lohm municipality in the Ostprignitz-Ruppin district of Brandenburg includes the villages Zernitz and Lohm, and the trainstation named Bahnhof Zernitz. The municipality is located about fifty miles northwest of Berlin, between the cities Havelberg and Musterhausen. Zernitz-Lohm is located sixty miles north of another village also named Zernitz, in Sachsen-Anhalt (which is discussed below).

Source: <http://maps.google.com/>.

Either one (or both) of the villages named Zernitz (in Brandenburg and Sachsen-Anhalt) were probably associated with the Zernitz and von Zernitz families, and possibly associated with the Zernitzky family. The map shown below shows the locations of both Zernitz villages and the villages associated with the Zernitz and von Zernitz families as they were recorded in Adolph Riedel's Codex diplomaticus Brandenburgensis. Although these families were associated with locations closer to Zernitz-Lohm, their histories are discussed below – under Zernitz in Sachsen-Anhalt because the early history of that village has been found.

Modern map of Sachsen-Anhalt showing the locations of two villages named Zernitz (Zernitz in Sachsen-Anhalt and Zernitz-Lohm in Brandenburg), and showing the villages associated with the Zernitz family.

Both villages were in areas inhabited by Slavic tribes prior to the Ostsiedlung (eastern migration) of the Saxons. Both villages were in the Sächsische Ostmark (Saxon East March, also known as Osterland) in the 10th century. The Saxon East March was later separated into five smaller marches (Marken). The Northern March (Nordmark) became the March of Brandenburg (which included Zernitz-Lohm). The March of Lusatia (Mark Lausitz) included the Zernitz village near Zerbst (discussed below).

Zernitz in Sachsen-Anhalt, Germany

Zernitz is the name of a village four miles north of the city Zerbst/Anhalt (southwest of Berlin and 20 miles east of Magdeburg). Zernitz was listed in documents for the first time in 1108, as Zerneci. The village had a Slavic origin as do many villages in that area.

Historical variations of the village named Zernitz in Sachsen-Anhalt include: Zerneci (1108), Zernekuze, Zernecuse (1170), Cirnizce, Cirnice (1178), Cziernnece (1206), Scherniz (1210), Schernitz (1228), Cernitz (1249) and Czernitz (1868). Other historical spellings of the village in documents from 1311, 1324, 1385, 1368, 1405, 1432, 1433, 1476, 1499, 1529, and 1531 include Zirneci, Tzernquytz, Cernquiz, Cerniz, Cerntz, Zernitzer Mühle, Zernitz, Cernitz and Tzernitz.

Similar Sternitzke family name variations include: Czierniske (in 1583 at Zantkau), Ziernitschke (in 1601 at Domnowitz), Zirnizky (in 1605 at Zantkau), Zernizky (in 1608 at Zantkau) and Zernitschky (in 1608 at Luzine).

Members of the Zernitz and von Zernitz families were recorded in Adolph Riedel's Codex diplomaticus Brandenburgensis, and are discussed further below: Alexander (1311), Dietrich (1364), Giese (1405 and 1433), Claus (1432, 1433, 1468 and 1476), Benedict (1499), Nickel (1505) and Heinrich (1529-1531). These families (Zernitz and von Zernitz) were probably the ancestors of the later Zernitzky family of Prussia.

Nickel Zirnitz (from Mertenstorff; now Mertensdorf) and Hanns Tschirnitz (from Bobersberg; now Bobersberg) were identified in the same document from 1505, that listed the holders of fiefs near Frankfurt an der Oder (Codex diplomaticus Brandenburgensis Teil 3 Band 2), showing Zernitz and Tschirnitz as separate family names. This may indicate that the Zernitzky and Tschirnitzke (Sternitzke) families were also separate families.

The villages associated with the Zernitz and von Zernitz family members listed above include Rathenow, Werben, Königsberg, Tangermünde, Beezendorf, Mertensdorf and Salzwedel. These villages were in a region previously known as the Markgrafschaft Brandenburg, and are now in the German state Sachsen-Anhalt. See the maps above and below.

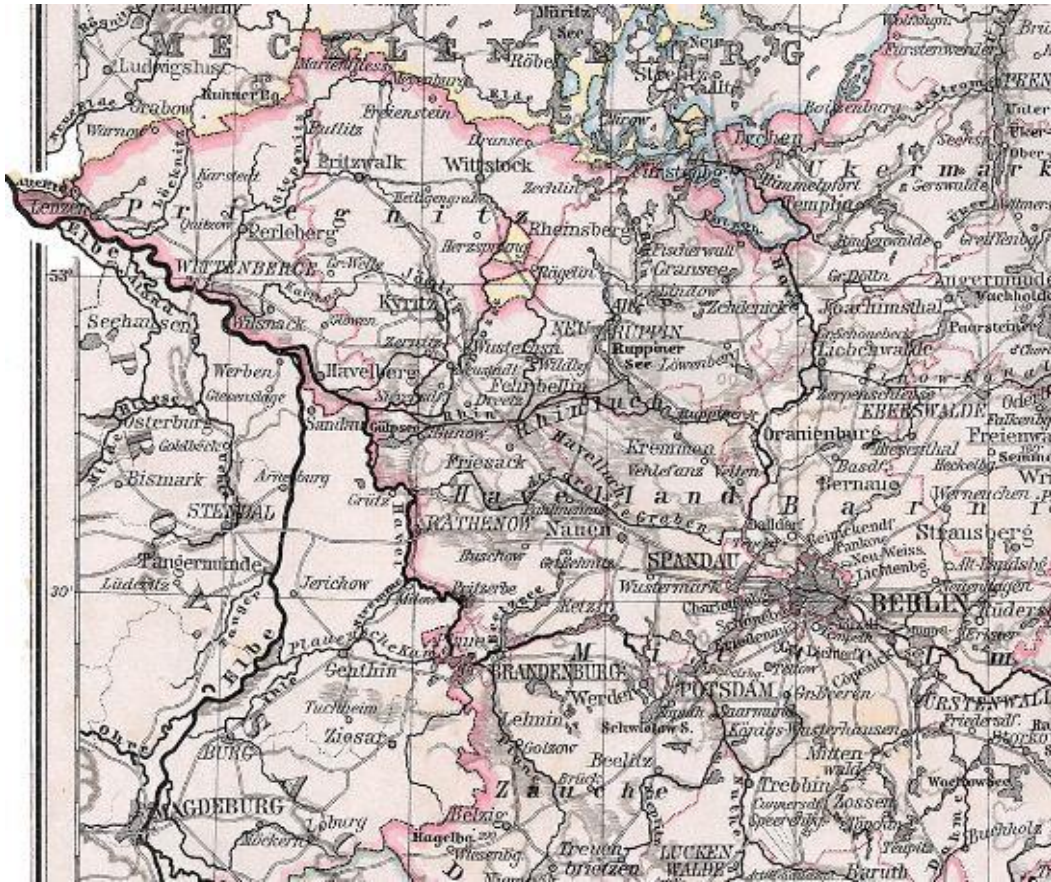

The similarities between the variations of the Zernitz villages' names and the Sternitzke family name do not inspire confidence that this village was the source of the family. But there are two other interesting connections between the Zernitz villages and Silesia. There is a village named Trebnitz less than three miles southwest of Zernitz in Sachsen-Anhalt! Note that this Trebnitz (near Zernitz) is not the same village named the Trebnitz located about 4 miles northeast of Müncheberg (in Brandenburg), which was also owned by the Trebnitz Stift in Silesia, as mentioned in Heinrich Grüger's book. The Trebnitz near Müncheberg was written as Trebnicchino in a 1267 document granting lands by Pope Clement IV to the Trebnitz Convent (in Silesia). The naming of Trebnitz near Zernitz may have occurred later than the village of the same name as the one in Silesia, and it may have been after and due to the canonization of St. Hedwig of Silesia. The 1237 document (discussed above) mentioned the Cistercian Order, which proves another early connection to the cloister at Trebnitz in Silesia.

Another interesting connection (and probably not a coincidence) is the village named Zernitz in Sachsen-Anhalt, and the eastern Silesian villages named Czernitz (in Rybnik County) and Deutsch Zernitz (in Tost-Gleiwitz County). The map showing migrations of Germans into Silesia show a direct path from Sachsen-Anhalt to Rybnik and Tost-Gleiwitz counties in southeastern Silesia. A comparison of historical names for the similarly named villages shows Zernitz (in Sachsen-Anhalt) was named Cziernnece in 1206 and Cernitz in 1249. Czernitz (in Rybnik County) bore that name as early as 1317. Early names for Deutsch-Zernitz indicate it bore early Slavic names (such as Sirdnicha, Sirdnize and Ziernicze) that became Germanized under Prussian rule.

Zernitz Family of Brandenburg

Alexander von Zernitz (Cernitz, Czernitz, Tzernitz), Brandenburg (1311)

Riedel's Codex diplomaticus Brandenburgensis listed a transcription document (number 386) dated the 28th of January in 1311, that identified Alexander von Zernitz as “Alexander von Cerniz". Riedel's index separated the von Zernitz (a noble family) from the non-noble Zernitz family. Alexander was from the noble von Zernitz family.

Dietrich Zernitz (Cernitz, Czernitz, Tzernitz), Rathenow, Brandenburg (1364)

Riedel listed Dietrich Zernitz (not von Zernitz) in his index volume, with references to two legal documents of the Rathenow Town Council:

- document number 77, dated the 27th of December 1364, and
- document number 78, dated the, 27th of December 1364.

Both documents were written in Latin and are quite long. The name of one of the Rathenow town councilmen, Dietrich Zernitz, was written as “thiderico cernytz” in the first document, and as “thiderico de Cernitz” in the second document. The legal disputes had nothing to do with the Zernitz (Cernitz) family; Dietrich was apparently involved as a town official in the settlement of issues presented by a priest, Father Heinrich Bukow of Milow.

Rathenow is a town about 35 miles west of Berlin. Milow is about 80 miles northwest of Berlin. See modern map of Sachsen-Anhalt in the discussion of Zernitz in the previous chapter.

Giese Zernitz (Cernitz, Czernitz, Tzernitz), Werben, Brandenburg (1405 and 1433)

Riedel's index (on page 502) listed a man named Giese Zernitz. The document Riedel referred to (number LXVI dated the 28th of June in 1405) identified Giese Zernitz as “ghyso cernitze”. The document was written in old German, and very few words look familiar (see the example below from 1432). It appears to be an agreement or complaint between Han Holländer and the parish church at Werden. Giese (or in this case Ghyso) was listed towards the end of the document, among a group of other names, so he may have been a member of the city council witnessing the event.

The 1433 document referenced by Riedel (number LXIV) identified Claus Zernitz as “Clawes cernitze” and Giese Zernitz as “Ghiso cernitze”. It appears to be a list of donations to the parish church of Werben.

See below for the discussion regarding Claus Zernitz and the town named Werben.

Claus Zernitz – Czernitze (Cernitze, Czernittze, Tzernitz), Werben, Brandenburg (1432 and 1433)

A document (shown below) dated the 29th of September 1432, deserves careful examination because it mentioned the Markgraf Johann of Brandenburg and Claus Zernitz (written in the document as “claws Czernitze van werben” and as “Clawesen czernittze”).

A 1433 document referenced by Riedel (number LXIV) identified Claus Zernitz as “Clawes cernitze” and Giese Zernitz as “Ghiso cernitze”. The document appears to be a list of donations to the parish church of Werben.

There are four towns in Germany named Werben: two near Leipzig, one in Spree-Neiße (southeast Brandenburg) and one in Saxony-Anhalt (west of Berlin) and one just south of Berlin. One of the villages named Werben is located in Spree-Neiße, close to Tschernitz in southeast Brandenburg (and would be convenient linking to Sternitzke family history), but the Werben most likely to be the location of these records is the one on the Elbe River near other villages associated with these Zernitz family records. See the 1905 map of the western Brandenburg Province, and the modern map of Sachsen-Anhalt.

Claus Zernitz (Cernitz, Czernitz, Tzernitz), Königsberg, Brandenburg (1468)

Claus Zernitz was identified as Claus Tzernitz in the index volume of the Codex diplomaticus Brandenburgensis and he was mentioned in a document from 1468 (shown below). Königsberg (identified as Koenigspergk in the document) was not the Prussian city now known as Kaliningrad. The Königsberg referred to (in this case) was the forest-village near Zernitz in Sachsen-Anhalt, about 17 miles southeast of Magdeburg.

The document refers to the tax payments made by Claus Tzernitz in 1468.

Oppeln District in Eastern Silesia

It may seem unlikely that the Sternitzke family of Trebnitz County, in the central district of Silesia may have descended from roots in eastern Silesia, because the German migrations were generally west to east. But nothing is known of the Sternitzke family prior to the middle of 16th century. It is possible that later Sternitzke family members continued eastward from the group that settled in Trebnitz County. The most likely theory regarding the origin of the families in the Oppeln District is that they were descendants of settlers from the Brandenburg area, and that their family names developed from the process of basing the family name on the village of origin. The individuals discussed below (and their associated locations) are significant because they illustrate the connections between village names and family names.

The granting of German City Rights at Leobschütz in 1187, Flämisches Stadtrechts at Neisse in 1245 and Magdeburger Stadtrechts at Ratibor in 1296 link the villages and families below to the villages named Zernitz near Magdeburg and the Ostsiedlung Group 1. Ratibor was settled by Franken, Thüringen and Niederlanden in 1217.

A later connection between the Oppeln District and the Sternitzke family existed. Moritz Sternitzky was born in 1809 at Ratiborhammer (a village now named Kuźnia Raciborska). He studied at the University of Breslau in 1832 and 1833. Moritz was the son of Mauritius Sternitzky, the last forest master for the Trebnitz Stift. Moritz is the German form of the Latin name Mauritius. Moritz Sternitzky was probably named for St. Moritz (St. Mauritius who died in 287 AD).

There are four villages near the city of Rybnik (shown as #5 on the map below) are worth considering. The map below is from the year 1943. It therefore shows the villages with names during the Third Reich. The earlier and current names for the villages are provided below. All villages are within ten miles of #5 Rybnik.

1. Haselgrund (1939-1945), previously Zernitz and Deutsch Zernitz, and now Żernica.
2. Standorf (1936-1945), previously Stanitz, now Stanice.
3. Waldeck (1936-1945), previously Gurek and Guorki, and now Górkki Śląskie.
4. Czernitz (1943) now Czernica.

Czernitz in Rybnik County, Silesia

The town Czernitz (now named the city Czernica) was in Rybnik County. The town was seven miles west of Rybnik and 47 miles southwest of Katowice. The population of Czernica was approximately 2100 in 2011. Konstanin Domroth wrote of a village named Ciernice (in Polish), Czernitz and Tschernitz (in German) near Sohrau. From the way Domroth wrote the names of the locations in his book, it appears both the Polish and the German forms of the name were in use at the same time depending on which language was being used.

Historical variations of the village named Czernitz include: Czernitz (1317, 1895 and 1896), Ciernice and Tschernitz (1896). Similar Sternitzke family name variations include: CzerniŃky (in 1559 at Lutzine), Czierniske (in 1583 at Zantkau), Czirnisko (in 1584 at Domnowitz) and Czirniszko (in 1594 at Domnowitz).

The similarity between the village name Czernitz (in 1317) and the four variations of the Sternitzke family name make it a possible source of the Sternitzke family name. The village of Czernitz was probably settled by German settlers from Sachsen-Anhalt, probably from the village Zernitz (known as known as Cziernnece in 1206, and Cernitz in 1249). The map showing migrations of Germans into Silesia show a direct path from the Zernitz in Sachsen-Anhalt to Rybnik County.

Thomeslai de Chyrniche lived at Czernitz, in Rybnik County in 1317. The village Czernitz (now Czernica) is midpoint between Ratibor and Rybnik. The original 1317 document was written in Latin. The author, Dr. Wattenbach identified the German equivalent of Thomeslai de Chyrniche as Thomeslaus von Czernitz. Another method of writing that name would be Thomeslaus Czernitzky.

It is interesting that in 1554, George Czerniczky (also written as Czernicki) was a property owner in the village Guorki (later known as the village Gurek) near Rybnik and four miles north of Czernitz. The German equivalent spelling of Czerniczky would be Tschernitschky (very close to the known Sternitzke variation of Johann Tscherniszke at Ujeschütz in 1610). The last name of George Czerniczky indicates his family (see the earlier discussion regarding Ratibor County) came from the village Czernicz. Silesia was under the control of Bohemia from 1340 until 1526, which may be the major influence on the spelling of the last name of George Czerniczky.

Frau Majorin von Czernetzky Bielitz, Austrian Silesia (1899)

The municipal council of the town Bielitz met on the 1st of November in 1899. The topics discussed at that meeting were printed in the Evangelische Kirchen-Zeitung für Oesterreich (Protestant Church Newspaper for Austria). The municipal council agreed to pay Frau Majorin von Czernetzky 20,000 florins for her house and its associated garden adjacent to the church square. From the 20,000 florins, 3000 florins would be donated to the Protestant community's Traugott Weich Foundation in the name of her father.

Majorin is a German title (equal to baroness) as in the title of Ernst Wiechert's 1934 work: Die Majorin (The Baroness).

Bielitz was the name of a town in Austrian Silesia (Upper Silesia). It was also known as BÍlsko in Czech. Bielitz is thirty miles southeast of the city of Rybnik. In 1951, Bielitz was combined with the town Biała Krakowska to form the new town of Bielsko-Biała, Poland. Bielitz is the portion of the town on the western side of the Biała River.

Bielitz was originally within the Duchy of Opole ruled by Piast dukes. In the second half of the 13th century, German colonists were invited to settle both sides of the river at Bielitz, and also at Nickelsdorf, Kamitz, Batzdorf, Kurzwald, Kunzendorf, Wilmesau, Lobnitz and Bistai. The Duchy of Oppeln was divided in 1281, and Bielitz passed to the Dukes of Teschen. The Dukes of Teschen became subjects of the King of Bohemia in 1327. Bielitz was the frontier town at the edge of the Bohemian Kingdom. The settlement on the eastern side of the Biała River became part of Galicia and the Kingdom of Poland. As part of the territory controlled by Bohemia, the town Bielitz was inherited by the Austrian House of Habsburg in 1526, and became part of the Austrian Duchy of Bielsko in 1754. The 1742 Treaty of Breslau allowed Bielitz to remain part of Austrian Silesia after the Silesian Wars. See the 1890 map of Austrian Silesia below.

Stanitz in Rybnik County, Silesia

Stanitz was a village in Rybnik County. It was known as Standorf from 1936 to 1945, and is now known as Stanice. The population of Stanitz in 1939 was 1,132. Its population is now 1,307. August Potthast identified old variations of the name for the village Stanitz: Stanicia, Staynicia and Stoniz.

Stanitz is located about midpoint between Ratibor (now Raciborz) and Gleiwitz (now Gleiwice), and about 25 miles east of the city Leobschütz (now known as Głubczyce). Stanitz is about six miles northeast of two other villages discussed in this book: Guorki (now Górki Śląskie) in Ratibor County and six miles southwest of Deutsch Zernitz (now Żernica) in Tost-Gleiwitz County. See the 1895 Czernitz map above

Stanitz was one of the villages settled by Germans to support the Cistercian Abbey at Rauden in 1252. This village name was probably the source of the Stanitzke name (and similar variations) including:

- Bartholomeum Stanitzky (1534),
- Matthias Stanitzky (1561),
- Andreas Starnitzky from Wanowitz in Leobschütz County (1695),
- The Cistercian Abbot at Trebnitz Cloister Eugen Stanitzka (Staniczka) who was born on 14 August 1743 at Gross Strehlitz in the Oppeln District (now Strzelce Opolskie, Poland), he died on the 23rd of September in 1821,
- the Josef Starnitzky family living at Leobschütz (1890 to 1945),
- the Stanitzky family at Dyhernfurth in Wohlau County (1866), who owned the Gelber Löwe (Yellow Lion inn),
- Samuel Hermann Richard Stanitzke the Restaurateur (restaurant owner) who lived in Breslau (1905),
- Richard Stanitzke the Bahnarbeiter (railroad laborer) who lived in Breslau (1915), and
- Erich Stanitzke the Sattlergeselle (journeyman saddler) and Selma Stanitzke the Arbeiterin (female laborer) who lived at Marienstrasse 12 in the City of Öls (1921).

See the discussion of the Starnitzky family in Leobschütz County, in Chapter 14: The Oppeln District.

Deutsch Zernitz in Tost-Gleiwitz County, Silesia

In 1246, Herzog Wladyslaw von Oppeln granted two portions of Sirdnicha (Zernitz) to the brothers, Grafen (Counts) Sbrozlavus and Matthias for the colonization of Zernitz. The Herzog (Duke) also granted the colonists 30 years of freedom from rents. Herzog Wladyslaw founded many monasteries in his duchy and also instituted German Law (Magdeburger Stadtrechts) at the major cities including Gleiwitz.

Graf Stephan von Zernitz was named in Latin as Stephani Ziernicze in documents written in 1274, 1279, 1283 and 1286. The German version of his name was Graf Stephan von Zernitz; in English: Count Stephan of Zernitz. Felix Triest identified Stephan as Graf Stephan Zbronowitz. In 1279, Count Stephan of Zernitz granted German Law to the settlers of Zernitz and granted the local mill to the Schulzen (mayors) of the village. Two of the earliest settlers were Heinrich Angrimann and his son Heinrich Angrimann.

On page 260 of his book, Dr. Wattenbach, identified the village owned by Count Stephan as Deutsch Zernitz in Tost-Gleiwitz County, and variations of the village's name in those documents included: Sirdnicha, Sirdnize, Schirdnicza, Ziernicze, Zernik, Zernitz (1818), Ziernik and Zirnicia. On a 1943 map, Deutsch-Zernitz was named Haselgrund. Its population in the year 1929 was 2264. After 1945, it was named Żernica, Poland.

Similar Sternitzke family name variations include: Ziernitschke (in 1601 at Domnowitz), Zirniczky (in 1605 at Zantkau), Zernizky (in 1608 at Zantkau) and Zernitschky (in 1608 at Luzine).

The early names for this village were predominantly Slavic, and became more Germanic over time. The nearby city Gleiwitz was granted German city rights in 1246, but Graf Stephan von Zernitz was probably a Polish nobleman. This village is an unlikely candidate for the source of the Sternitzke family but the map showing German migrations to Silesia shows this village may have been settled by Germans from the villages named Zernitz in Sachsen-Anhalt or Brandenburg.

Ostsiedlung Group 2: Erfurt to Glogau

Erfurt is the capital city of Thuringia, Germany. It was the starting location for migrations to the Silesian villages in Glogau County. Two interesting villages lie directly on the route from Erfurt to Glogau: Zschernitz (in Saxony) and Tschernitz (in Brandenburg). Tschernitz is only about 15 miles north of a village named Tschernske (in Saxony). Tschernske is closer to the route taken by the third Ostsiedlung group to Trebnitz County, so it is discussed under that group. The origins of Tschernitz and Tschernske may be related and either village could have been the source of the Sternitzke family name. Two Silesian villages are of interest at the end of this route: Tschirnitz in Glogau County and Tschirnau in Guhrau County.

Zschernitz (Tzschernitz) in Saxony, Germany

Zschernitz is a village in Nordsachsen County, about ten miles east of Halle, and about 20 miles northwest of Leipzig in Saxony (near the border with Saxon-Anhalt). It was in Delitzsch County, but is now in Nordsachsen County. Zschernitz merged with the town named Neukyhna in 1994. Neukyhna is one mile southeast of Zschernitz.

Dr. Gustav Hey's 1895 book regarding old Slavic placenames in the Kingdom of Saxony identified the origin of the name for the village Zschernitz as Černici or Černovici, meaning the villa of the family Čern. Dr. Hey translated Černovici literally as Schwarzenheim: black home.

Germans colonized the Zschernitz area in the beginning of the 10th Century. The village Zschernitz was first mentioned in a document from 1263 as a Herrensitz (property of a feudal lord). In later documents (1393, 1445/47, 1580, 1747, 1816 and 1880) Zschernitz was listed as a Rittergut or Rittersitz (knight's property). Gustav Neumann's 1883 geographical lexicon of Germany described Zschernitz as a village with a knight's estate (Rittergut) in Delitzsch County of the Prussian Province of Sachsen.

A noble knight associated with Zschernitz in 1263 was identified by Susanne Baudisch as Ulricus de Cherniz. Ernst Eichler listed (probably) the same knight as Ulricus de Szirnz as living at Zschernitz in 1284. Other variations of the name for that knight and his family included: Ulrich von Schirnitz, Ulricus de Szirnitz, von Zschirnitz, de Cernitz, de Sczirnitz and von Czirnitz. Almost ninety years later, the 1349/1350 Lehnbuch (record of fiefs) for the Margrave of Meissen identified a man named Ulricus de Schirncz from the districus Deltsch (district of Delitzsch). This may have been a son (or grandson) of the man named Ulricus in 1263. A woman named Benigna von Czirnitz (von Zschirnitz) was identified in a document for the Margraviate of Meissen in 1399. See below for details regarding this family.

August Schumann wrote that the name of this village in the 13th century was Szirncz (from the word meaning black: czorny). It was also identified as Sornitzk in a document from 1333. Heinrich Beottger found it identified as Sernitzk in a document dated the 12th of April in 1446. Many lives were lost in the Zschernitz/Neukyhna area due to the plague in the 14th and 15th centuries. Crop failures and high feudal taxes forced many of the residents to migrate. The population of Zschernitz was only eleven in 1519. It is possible that some of the Germans from Zschernitz left that impoverished village and settled for some time at Tschernitz in Spree-Neiße County (identified as Czirnitz in 1348/49 and Zernischke in 1508). The nearby village Neukyhn was resettled around 1620 by Protestants from Lissa in Bohemia, who fled from the Counter-Reformation.

Zschernitz was named Sernitzk in the following quote from 1750, which identified the name in 1237 as Serncik:

Translation: A church and hospital are in Sernitzk, a settlement near Bitterfeld. This settlement can be found in a transfer deed from the 24th of March in 1237, granting patronage rights over the parish church in Sernitzk (Serncik) and the hospital there, to the Cistercian monastery for the nuns at Marienberg chamber.

Historical variations of the village named Zschernitz include: Szirncz (12th century), Serncik (1237), Schirnicz (1261), Cherniz (1263), Schirnz and Cernizt (1269), Szirnz and Szirnitz (1284), Cernizt (1285), Zerniz (1302), Cernz (1332), Černici, Černovici, Sornitzk (1333), Czschernicz, Schirncz and Scherncz (1349/1350), Zcerntz (1358), Zcirncz (1363), Zcernicz (1378), Czirnitz (1399), Czernitz, Czerntcz and Cschernitz (1442), Czernicz (1445), Sernitzk (1446 and 1750), Zcerntz (1501) Zschernitz (1547, 1560, 1747, 2001 and currently) and Tzschernitz (1570). The village was identified as a Herrensitz (property of a lord) in 1263, when it was associated with Ulricus de Cherniz. The village was identified as a Rittersitz (property of a knight) from 1293 to 1880 (<http://hov.isgv.de/Zschernitz>).

Similar Sternitzke family name variations include Zernizky (in 1608 at Zantkau) and Zernitschky (in 1608 at Luzine). The name variations associated with Blasius Sciernisko at Zantkau and Domnowitz (Czirnisko, Czirniszko, Zierniŕko, Szernischko and Szernitzke) all seem related to variations of the village names for Zschernitz, and therefore related to the variations of the family from that village: the von Zschernitz family in the late 13th and 14th centuries. Records related to the von Zschernitz family and the non-noble Zschernitz family are detailed below. The non-noble Zschernitz family name (which is still in use) may have been taken by a family who lived at the village named Zschernitz.

It was probably an incredible coincidence that a member of the Sternitzke family was born at Delitzsch in the late 19th century. Paul Sternitzke was born at Delitzsch. He was a Musketier (Infantryman) in the 5th Company, of the Reserve-Infanterie-Regiment Number 234. Paul was wounded in the First World War on the 11th of December in 1914.

Ulricus de Cherniz (de Szirnitz, von Zschirnitz) Bertholdus de Sczirnitz (von Zschirnitz) Zschernitz and Vrimarisdorf, Saxony (1263 and 1284)

Susanne Baudisch identified Ulricus de Cherniz as the nobleman associated with the village Zschernitz in 1263. That nobleman's name was identified as Ulricus de Szirnitz by Freiherr (Baron) von Hausen, who wrote in 1892 of the von Zschirnitz family (with variations of their family name: de Szirnitz, de Sczirnitz and von Czirnitz). Members of that family were vassals (holders of a fief) and subjects of the Markgrafen zu Meißen (Margraviate of Meissen).

Friedrich II (der Ernsthafte) was born in 1310. He was the Markgraf (Margrave) of Meissen and Landgraf of Thuringia from 1323 until his death in 1349. Friedrich III (der Strenge) was born in 1332. He was the Markgraf (Margrave) of Meissen and Landgraf of Thuringia from 1349 until his death in 1381.

Ulricus de Szirnitz and his son Bertholdus de Sczirnitz were identified in a document dated the 5th of July in 1284. Bertholdus owned an estate at Vrimarisdorf (which has not been located, but may be related to Vrimar – one variation of the name of the town Friemar near Gotha in Thuringia). The note “fehlt bei Kn.” Below the paragraph for the von Zschirnitz family indicated this family was not listed by Hermann Knothe in his 1892 history of noble families of Oberlausitz, but the de Szirnitz family was listed (without details) in Johann Wilke’s 1754 book of noble and famous families.

The village named Spörn (also known as Sporne, is now known as Spören) is one mile south of Zörbig (in the Anhalt-Bitterfeld district of Saxony-Anhalt). Spören is six miles northwest of Zschernitz in Saxony. Zschernitz is one mile from the border between the states Saxony and Saxony-Anhalt.

Benigna von Czirnitz (a woman's name) was identified by Freiherr (Baron) von Hausen, as a member of the von Zschirnitz family in 1399. The reference listed by Freiherr von Hausen (Kop. 30 fol. 127) matches the reference listed in the Codex diplomaticus Saxoniae Regiae, which listed her as Benigna von Czschernitz at Delitzsch on the 2nd of August in 1399.

Elisabeth Zschernitz Schladitz, 1686

Elisabeth Zschernitz was born at Schladitz around 1666. She was the daughter of Martin Zschernitz, who was an Einwohner (resident) of Schladitz. Elisabeth Zschernitz married Johannes Schmid on the 26th of October in 1686. Their daughter, Marie Schmid was born at Schladitz in 1716.

The village Schladitz is now a Wüstung (abandoned village) and the properties were incorporated with the nearby town Rackwitz. Rackwitz is located about eight miles south of Delitzsch, and eight miles north of Leipzig.

Tschernitz (Tscherniske) in Brandenburg, Germany

Tschernitz is located in Spree-Neiße County, in the southeast corner of the German State of Brandenburg. Tschernitz was first mentioned in a letter to the Margrave of Meissen, Heinrich der Erlauchte, dated the 20th of October in 1283, with the spelling Tzermenitz. The original name of the village was Cermnica, an old Sorbian (Wendish) word for “a settlement on red ground”. Konstantine Damroth wrote that the Slavic name for this village was Ciernice, and it was based on the word ciernie. A document dated 1253 identified the villa Tzermenitz as supplying support to the Cistercian Cloister at Neuselle (north of Meißen in Nieder Lausitz).

The Neuselle Cloister was sacked by the Hussites in 1429, and in that year the village was given as a Lehngut (a fief with a Lehnschutz) to Hans von Sagan by the Kaiser (the Holy Roman Emperor) for services rendered during the Hussite war, thereafter associating the village with the Principality of Sagan in Silesia. The Saxon Duke Albert III the Bold purchased the Duchy of Sagan (including the village of Tschernitz) in 1472, but he was still subservient to the King of Bohemia. The Principality of Sagan became Protestant in 1539 under Henry IV, the son of Albert III the Bold. The village Tschernitz remained a part of Silesia (within the Saxon Niederlausitz region) until 1815.

Friedrich Zimmermann's 1787 book listed Tschernitz as being located in Sagan County of Silesia. According to Zimmermann, Tschernitz at that time had 118 inhabitants, and they attended church at Dubrauke in Bautzen County of Saxony.

Historical variations of the village named Tschernitz include: Ciernice, Cermnica, Tzermenitz (1253, 1283), Zernischke (1508), Zernitz (1527), Zernitschke (1540), Zernitz (1543), Tscherniske (1730 and 1745 map), Tschernitz (1787, 1929 map and later), and Tzschernitz (1801 map). Other historical spellings of the village, found in old documents include: Zernischla, Cerniske, Tzernitza, Tschirnik, Tzschemnitz, Tzschernitz and Tscherwitz. These historical versions of the name were listed on the website for the community now named Tschernitz.

The name variations for this village (Tschernitz bei Muska) suggest a strong relationship between this village and the village 17 miles to the south named Tschernske bei Crebe in Görlitz County of Saxony. This relationship may mean the two villages shared common families, including the ancestors of the Sternitzke family. The table below shows the similar name variations for these two villages, arranged alphabetically instead of chronologically.

| Tschernitz (Tscherniske) Village in Brandenburg | Tschernske (Tschernitzke) Village in Görlitz County in Saxony |
|---|---|
| Cerniske | Ciernisko, Czerniessky, Czerniske, Czirniski |
| Tscherniske, Tscherwitz | Tschernitzke, Tschernsko |
| Tzernitza, Tzschernitz | Tzschernitzke, Tzschernizke, Tzschernsko |
| Zernischke, Zernitschke | Zschernicke, Zschernske |

The Tschernitz and Tscherwitz versions of the village in Brandenburg are intriguing because they are identical to historical versions of the village near the 16th century locations of the Sternitzke family (Luzine and Zantkau in Trebnitz County, Silesia). But, as is discussed in the section for that village, it appears the village identified as Tschertwitz near the city Öls in 1828 was an estate of the family named Czartowicz, whose name was Germanized to Tschertwitz when Bohemian crown lands (including Silesia) came under the Hapsburgs of Austria in 1520.

(in 1615 at Domnowitz), Tzernisky (in 1616 at Domnowitz), Ziernitschke (in 1601 at Domnowitz), Tschernißky (in 1650 at Domnowitz), Tschernisky (in 1655 at Domnowitz), Tschiernißke (in 1664 at Domnowitz) and Tschernißke (in 1704 at Briesche). The Tschirnitzke version of the Sternitzke name could have resulted from a member of the Tschirnitz family moving from Tschirnitz to Trebnitz County around 1500 and assuming the names Tschirnitzky and Tschirnitzke, meaning “from Tschirnitz”. These similarities in names make this village a possible village of origin for the Sternitzke family (in Trebnitz County), but the table above shows a stronger relationship between the Sternitzke name variations and the variations of the name for the village Tschernske in Görlitz County, Saxony.

Hans Tschirnitz (with various spellings) from Bobersberg in Brandenburg was identified in documents from 1502, 1503 and 1505 in Adolf Riedel's Codex diplomaticus Brandenburgensis (as discussed below). Bobersberg is now named Bobrowice (in Poland) and is located about 32 miles northeast of Tschernitz. Variations of his name in the documents included: Hans Czschernicz, Hansz Czchernitz, Hanns Tschirnitz, Hans Tschirnitz, and Hannsen Tschirnicz. It is interesting that his family name (from 1502 to 1505) was the same as the village name, instead of the form of Tschirnitzke which would mean “from the village Tschirnitz”. It is also interesting that the Czschernicz and Czchernitz variations of his family name are similar to the Czschernicz and Cschernitz variations of the village Zschernitz in Saxony (discussed earlier), suggesting a possible link between the Tschirnitz family and the von Zschirnitz family or their property.

Tschirnitz Family of Brandenburg

Hans Tschirnitz (Cschernicz, Czschernicz, Tschirnicz), Bobersberg, Brandenburg (1502, 1503 and 1505)

Hans Tschirnitz from Bobersberg was identified in legal documents transcribed and included in the Codex diplomaticus Brandenburgensis. Other variations of his name in the documents include: Hans Czchernicz, Hansz Czchernicz, Hanns Tschirnitz, Hans Tschirnitz, and Hannsen Tschirnicz.

The first document (on pages 182 and 183) is very long and difficult to translate, but the title was:

Document number 2383: The accrued-obligation due from the fief of Hans Tschirnitz to the electoral secretary Hans Schragen, on the 2nd of February in 1502.

Hans Tschirnitz was also listed as Hanns Tschirnitz and Hannsen Tschirnicz in the document number 2383. The amount of 500 rinisch gulden is mentioned four times in the document.

2389. Kurfürst Joachim und Marggraf Albrecht befehlen Thomas Zweck mit Besitzungen zu Kunow und Bobersberg, am 28. August 1503.

Document 2389: Elector Joachim and Margrave Albrecht enfeoff (gave as a fief to) Thomas Zweck properties at Kunow and Bobersberg on the 28th of August 1503.

Joachim I. Nestor was the Kurfürst (elector) of Brandenburg from 1499 to 1535. His younger brother Albrecht von Hohenzollern (Cardinal Albert of Mainz in 1514) was co-Margrave from 1499 to 1513. In this document, the properties at Kunow and Bobersberg, that had been granted as a fief to the “dear loyal” Hansz Cschernicz (Czschernicz), were transferred to his heir (possibly a son-in-law) Thomas Zwegk. The property was granted in exchange for pledged services. This variation in the spelling of Tschirnitz is significant because it matches the Czschernicz spelling variation used in (1349/1350) for the Rittersitz Zschernitz near Delitzsch and Neukyhna. Bobersberg (now Bobrowice, Poland) is 125 miles east of Zschernitz in Saxony. This suggests a link between the Tschirnitz family and the property of the von Schirnitz/Sczirnitz family from Zschernitz.

Part 3 of Volume 2 of Riedel's work included a document from 1505 (shown below), identifying the holders of fiefs. Hanns Tschirnitz from Bobersberg, and Nickell Zirnitz from Mertenstorff were listed as Crosnische Mann, zu Franckfurt ir lehn entpfangen (men from the Duchy of Crossen who had fiefs of Frankfurt). Bobersberg was in the Silesian Duchy of Crossen, ruled by the Silesian Dukes of Glogau starting with Duke Konrad II in 1251. Crossen became part of Brandenburg in 1482, but was still politically linked to Silesia. Crossen became part of Prussia after the First Silesian War in 1742. The location of the Tschirnitz family in Bobersberg (which was under the rule of the Dukes of Glogau) suggests a possible link to the village Tschirnitz in Glogau County (see below).

Bobersberg and Kunow were villages in Brandenburg, Prussia. They are now known as Bobrowice and Chojnowo, Poland. They are located east of Gubin and north of Zagan, approximately 32 miles northeast of Tschernitz, Germany.

Tschirnitz (Czirnitsch) in Glogau County, Silesia

Tschirnitz in Glogau County in the Liegnitz District (northwestern Silesia) was listed by Zimmermann as two villages: Ober Tschirnitz and Nieder Tschirnitz. The two villages apparently joined (as shown on the 1809 map below) to form Tschirnitz. It was renamed as Ehrenfeld (in Niederschlesien) in 1936, and it had 417 inhabitants in 1939. It is now named Czerńczyce, in Poland. Note that there is another village named Czerńczyce, in southern Breslau County near the Zobten Mountain. Konstantine Damroth wrote that the old Slavic name for this village was Cyrnicz, which meant “red water”.

Glogau County and Öls County have a direct connection in their histories during the early 14th century. Heinrich I von Glogau was the Duke of Glogau. His son was Konrad I, the Duke of Öls.

Historical variations of the village named Tschirnitz include: Cyruczicze, Cyrncziese, Cirencici (1245), Tschirniz (1442), Tschirnitz (1443, 1510, 1809 and 1896), Czirnitsch (1449), Ciernice (1896), Ehrenfeld (1936) and Czerńczyce (after 1945). Knie did not record an earlier name for this village.

The Tschirniz (1442) and Tschirnitz (1443 and 1510) variations of the village name suggest a possible link to the Tschirnitz family that was lived at Bobersberg from 1502 to 1505 (see above discussion regarding Tschernitz in Brandenburg).

Similar Sternitzke family name variations include: Tschirnitzky (in 1541 at Luzine), Tschirnitzke (in 1554 at Zantkau), Czernißky (in 1559 at Luzine), Czierniske (in 1583 at Zantkau), Czirniszko (in 1594 at Domnowitz), Zernitschky (in 1608 at Luzine), Tscherniszke (in 1610 at Ujeschütz), Tschiernisko (in 1639 at Domnowitz), Tschernißky (in 1650 at Domnowitz), Tschernisky (in 1655 at Domnowitz), Tschiernißke (in 1664 at Domnowitz) and Tschernißke (in 1704 at Briesche).

This village appears to be a good (but not the best) candidate for the origin of the Sternitzke family name for the following reasons:

1. The name variations for this village are the same as the root words for known Sternitzke family name variations, and the village name variations were recorded before the known Sternitzke family name variations.
2. The village is located near the end of a known route for Germans migrating to Silesia.
3. Germans migrating before 1300 may not have had surnames and would have taken surnames at a later time. These surnames may have been based on the names they settled in Silesia, rather than the earlier villages of origin in Saxony or Thuringia.
4. The village named Tschirnitz was located less than fifty miles from Zantkau and Luzine.

The lack of known members of the Sternitzke family in early records related to Glogau County, and the strong similarities between variations of the name of the village Tschernske in Görlitz County (Saxony), make Tschernske a more likely candidate.

Czyrmina was a village in Guhrau County, in northern Silesia. It was also identified as Czyrna and Scyrna (in a 1310 document). Other early variations of the name for this village include: Czirmin (1284), Czirmina (1305), Schyrnino (1308), Czyrna (1321, Czernina (1335) and Chirna (1370). It was shown as Gros Tschirna on a map created by Jonas Schulteus (1603-1664) and published in 1700.

In 1736, Groß Tschirnau and Nieder Tschirnau were mentioned in the history of the von Stosch family written by Melchior von Stosch. This is significant because the von Stosch family was associated with the Bohemian Czernitzky family, and also associated with many locations where the Sternitzke family lived (Breslau, Trebnitz, Militsch and Öls).

Later, Groß Tschirnau and Nieder Tschirnau were known in German as three connected villages: Nieder Tschirnau, Tschirnau and Ober Tschirnau. These three connected villages in Silesia were less than 10 miles from Reisen and Bojanowo in Posen (mentioned in discussions below). The inhabitants of the Tschirnau villages fled north to Posen (which was part of Greater Poland) during the Thirty Years War (1618-1648) and the Seven Years War (1756-1763). The Russians lost a battle (with Prussia) at Tschirnau on the 18th of June in 1759. The location and history of the Tschirnau villages are important because they provide reasons for the 17th and 18th century movements of Silesians to nearby villages in Posen. This migration path was documented as early as the 14th century, as discussed below for members of the Czirniski family, many early variations of that family name (as discussed below). The migration from Silesia to Posen also occurred in the 18th and 19th centuries by members of the Sternitzke family from Trebnitz County (as discussed in Chapter 17: The Prussian Province of Posen).

On the 29th of January in 1937 the three villages were renamed as Nieder Lesten, Lesten and Ober Lesten (see the map below). They are now known as Czernina Dolna, Czernina and Czernina Górna.

Similar Sternitzke family name variations include: Tschirnitzky (1541 at Luzine), Tschirnitzke (in 1554 at Zantkau), Tzerniske (in 1580 at Domnowitz) and Czierniske (in 1583 at Zantkau). These similarities are not as strong as between the Sternitzke family name and the names of other villages, and do not inspire confidence that the Sternitzke family originated at Tschirnau. There are some strong commonalities between variations of the Sternitzke name and the Czyrniński/Czirniski family (and other variations as discussed below), but no direct evidence the two families were related.

Czyrniński (Czirniski) Family of Silesia and Posen

The history of the town Reisen (now named Rdyzna) north of Tschirnau includes some interesting facts:

- Rdyzna was founded by Jan from Czernina (see below) who was a descendant of the Wierzbno clan, and a knight of the Polish King Władysław Jagiełło.
- Rdyzna was the seat of the Polish King Stanisław Leszczyński (whose daughter was born at the Sternitzke manor at Polnischdorf by Trebnitz in 1703). The Leszczyński family name was based on the town Leszczyna, now a suburb of Leszno (the Polish version of the town known in German as Lissa, or Polnisch Lissa from 1800 to 1918).

The Wierzbno (Wierzbn) clan was established at Wierzbn, a village called Würben in German. It is located about 29 miles southwest of Breslau. The Counts of Würben (Johann and Nikolaus) were involved in the 13th century colonization of Silesia and the founding of the city Schweidnitz. The Polish King Władysław Jagiello (who was born in Lithuania) was at times allied with and at other times opposed to the Teutonic Knights. I have not been able to establish the ethnicity of Jan from Czernina (who died in 1423 or 1425). His gravestone (shown below) was described by Katharina Chrubasik as associated with southern German gravestones.

There were two names identified that were probably variations of the name for the man known as the Jan from Czernina:

- Jana Czyrniński from Czyrnina, Silesia, in 1395 and
- Johannes Czirniski from Dampcze in 1396.

Dampcze (discussed in detail below) is a small village about a mile north of Reisen and less than 10 miles from Tschirnau. These individuals (and others who were possible related) are discussed in more detail below. It is significant to mention here the relationship between the village name variation and variations of the Czirniski name.

- The Czyrniński family was from the village Czyrnina in 1395.
- The Czirniski family name may have been a 1396 variation of the Czyrniński family name.
- Later name variations of the village Czyrnina were Tschirnau and now Czernina.

Jaszek Szirniczski
Peisern, Posen (1390)

A Gundbuch (or Grodbuch) was the registry for land titles. The following item was recorded in the Grundbuch for the village of Peisern in 1390:

“Jaszek Szirniczski cum Vincencio Strzalkowski terminum peremptorium habent ad dual septimanas”.

Note: Jaszek is a form of the personal name Jacek. St. Jacek was a 13th century missionary at Kraków. Catholic children were typically given the name related to the saint-day close to the date of their baptism.

Peisern was about 37 miles southeast of the City of Posen, about 75 miles northeast of the City of Trebnitz. It was located in Greater Poland, one mile east of the border with what would become in 1815 Wreschen County of Posen (Kingdom of Prussia). Peisern is now named Pysdry, in Września County.

Johann Czyrniński
Czyrznina, Guhrau County, Silesia
Dambycze (Dambitsch), Posen (1395)

A Polish history and geography website (Geschichte von Dambitsch) for the city now known as Dąbcze provides transcriptions of documents related to that city. The following is from

“pełnomocnicy Jana Czyrnińskiego [z Czerniny zw. Pierwotnie Czyrnina, na Śląsku, dz. W Rydzynie I D.] oraz Tworzyjańskich [z Tworzyjanic, obecnie Tworzanice] domagają się w sądzie zburzenia starych kopców gran. Między D. I Tworzyjanicami I [usypania] nowych (Lek. 2 nr 1790)”.

Partial translation: Agents of Jana Czyrniński [from Czerniny, originally known as Czyrnina, in Silesia, as recorded in the court journals in Rydzyna and Dambycze] and Tworzyjańsk [of Tworzyjan, now Tworzanice] are demanding in court the destruction of the old mounds between Dambycze and Tworzyjanicam.

The above translation has several significant points:

- It provides the relationship between the family name Czyrniński to the Silesian village Czryniny (now known as Czernina). The importance of this fact becomes apparent in the discussion regarding Johann Czirniski below.
- It also relates the family name Tworzyjański to the town that was named Tworzyjan, and is now named Tworzanice (located 2 miles northeast of Rydzna, and 7 miles east of Leszno). Note that an unrelated town currently named Tworzyjan is located a couple miles southwest of Breslau (Wrocław).

Johannes Czirninski (Czirniski)
Dampcze, Posen (1395 to 1398)

A Gundbuch was the German name for the registry book for documenting land titles and resolutions of property disputes. The Grundbuch for the village Dampcze listed several entries for presumably the same person: Johannis Czirninski (1395), Johannem Czirninsky (1396), Johannes Czirninski (1396), Johannes Czirniski (1396), Johannes Czirzninsky (1397), Johannes Czirnysky (1397) and Johannes Czirsninsky (in 1398).

The following item was recorded (in Latin) in the Grundbuch for the village of Dampcze in 1396:

Translation:

Johann Czirniski has made a sworn statement, for himself and in behalf of one individual named Grumpkonis (Johann Grimkoni), regarding his inheritance, his legal ownership and settlement of debts at Dampcze as settled through these lord judges. This testimony was been being processed and transmitted by this knightly servant’s report in the presence of the witnesses: the honorable lords and judges: Lesser Cupbearer Mroczoque, Laurencius Lodky, Potrazius Nagrodov(szki), Sandziwogius Wzaszkay and Sandziwogius Pszarky. Dated 3 days following the feast of St. John (the 27th of June).

If Johann Czirniski was the same man as Johann Czyrniński (from Czyrnina in 1395), and he probably was, it establishes that the family name Czirniski was based on the village named Czyrnina in 1395, or that the village name was based on the estate of a noble family named Czirninski. It may not be a coincidence that the village Tschernske (located now in Görlitz County of Saxony) was also known as Czirniski in 1423, Czerniessky in 1527 and Tzschernitzke in 1745. This raises the possibility that the Czirniski family and the Sternitzke family were related, or shared a common origin for their names.

The village Dambycze was located in Greater Poland, which in 1815 became Posen in the Kingdom of Prussia. Dambycze was a village located (in Lissa County) about 6 miles from Lissa and 9 miles northwest of Bojanowo in Posen. Wilhelm Starnitzki recorded that Christian Sterniske moved from Polnisch Hammer to Bojanowo in 1856. See his history in Book 1: Chapter 13, Groß Hammer – Polnisch Hammer. Pastor Conrad’s book regarding the history of the Protestant Church at Pawellau mentioned (in Book II: Chapter 5) that the church events for Dambitsch (Dambycze) were recorded at Stroppen (Trebmitz County, Silesia) during the Counter-Reformation.

Historical names for the village include: Damecz (1391), Dampcze (1395), Damesz (1407), Damiec (1420), Dambecz (1446), Damecz (1479), Daniecz (1530), Dawniecz (1564) and Dambitsch (1793-1945). Germans were invited to settle into the land around Posen during the 13th century, the same period as when Germans settled in Silesia. The first church records for Dambycze were made in 1615. It is now known as Dąbcze, and located 3 km north of the town Rydzyny (formerly known as Reisen).

Szirniczszky (Siernicki) Family of Posen

Jaszek Szirniczszky (Siernicki) and Syman Szirniczszky Posen (1396)

The following paragraph is from the Die Ältesten Grosspolnischen Grodbucher (Volume 1) for the year 1396:

2195. Item idem ducit testes contra Paluszewa : Jakusz Witakofszky, Jan Bodzoporofszky, Jaszek Szirniczszky, Syman Szirniczszky, Jan Lukofszky, Boguslaf Lukofszky :

Jako to swaczimi jako ne wiyano sz Yanuszewowa domu y ne pobrano Paluszowe ymene ani tego wszitka ma.

Jaszek and Syman Szirniczszky were witnesses in a court case involving a house, against a person named Paluszewa. The text appears to be a mixture of Latin and Polish and beyond my translation skills. It is significant that the author of the book listed the name Szirniczszky as related to the modern Polish family name Siernicki. If that means this family was ethnically Polish, then it is unlikely that this family was related to the Sternitzke family of Silesia. But it is also possible the modern Polish family name Siernicki had a Silesian origin. The discussion below relates the similarly named Nicolaus Szirniczski (from Szirnicky, Żerniki) as possibly being of German ethnicity.

Nicolaus Szirniczski and Bartholomeus Szirniczski Gnesen, Posen (1398 & 1399)

1142. Testes Stanislai de Lancowo erga Szantkam de Giwno : primus Nicolaus Szirniczski, secundus Bartholomeus de ibidem, tercius Swanthoslaus de Dzegczino, quartus Potrek Domaslawski, quintus Vitus frater eius, sextus Philippus Domaslawski. Sequitur rotha : Tako gim + jaco to swaczimi, jaco Vbislaw zaplaczil Zandczine maczerzi possak jaco sprawem mal ¹⁾.

Nicolaus Szirniczski and Bartholomeus Szirniczski were the first and second witnesses at a proceeding in 1398 at Gnesen. Gnesen is a city now named Gniezno; located about 30 miles northeast of Poznan (the city known in German as Posen).

A second record of Nicolaus Szirniczski was printed in that book (paragraph 1369, for the year 1399, also at Gnesien). I'm afraid I am not able to make much sense of it.

1369. Testes Nicolai de Golampki erga Szechnam : primus Grivacz de Popowo, secundus Potrek ibidem, tercius . . . iel Miwski (!), quartus Nicolaus Szirniczski, quintus [Vin]cencius de Szakgrzewo, sextus Bodzanthagowsky. Tako gim etc. + iaco to swaczim, iaco Micolay neszabil Jadama swimi pomoczniky ¹⁾.

Another record in that book (in paragraph number 1349 on page 188) for the year 1399 at Gnesen listed a Nicolaus de Szirniky (Nicolaus from Szirniky). The index (at the end of the book) associated the Szirniczski name with the Siernicki name; while the Szirniki and Szirniki names were associated the village named Żerniki. It also listed a man named Gamno de Żerniki, as the scultetus (Latin for mayor, Scholz in German, Schultheiß). The original transcribed text for the document dated the 24th of April in 1394 (document number 1677, page 224) was shown as:

Amici noblis dilecti, veluti noblis scripsistis, ut vos informaremus de kmethonibus de Zirniki cum Gamnis, patre et filiis, scultetis in Sroczko, quare vobis presentibus informacionen destinamus sic, quot dicti Gamni et sculteti solver debent dictis qmetonibus vobis valio sev scladem 40 marcas grossorum et vos eosdem premittatis scultetos, ut solvent predictis qmethonibus. Si ex inde non solverint dicti schulteti nominates qmetonibus, extunc eosdem inpingnorare faciatis et eisdem qmetonibus intromissionem dicte scultecie detis. Datum Poznanie sexta feria proxima post Resurrexi etc. (24. April). Et dominus simpliciter ipsis nocere non debet.

Perlbach's book identified the village Sroczko as Schirotzken, a village near the city Polnisch Krone (also known as Koronowo, north of Bromberg). Polnisch Krone was a village of German farmers and laborers near an abbey of the German Cistercians (established in 1288). The German settlers were originally from Westphalia and other locations in Lower Germany. Polnisch Krone was the site of a battle on 10 October of 1410, between Poland and the Teutonic Knights. Silesian mercenaries were in the employ of the Teutonic Knights in this battle which was won by the Poles.

Another 1399 reference to Nicolaus Szirniczski was found (in Volume 1 of Józef von Lekszycki's book), with a slightly different variation in the spelling of that family name – Sirzniczski:

Nota magnos terminos in Poznania celebratos in crastino purificationis beate virginis Marie (3. Febr.) sub anno domini 1399.

The index of Lekszycki's book listed Nicolaus Siernicki as the subject of this paragraph, indicating Mikolay was equivalent to Nicolaus, and Sirzniczski was equivalent to the family name Siernicki.

Zernicki in Znin County, Bromberg District of Posen

Zerniczski Family of Posen

Joannes Zerniczski Zernicki and Leipzig (1549)

Joannes Zerniczski from Zernicki was identified in two sources as a graduate of the University of Leipzig, in the Winter Semester of 1549. Warschauer (in 1903) listed the village Zernicki as being known as Herrenkirch in Posen.

The name Zerniczski is a curiosity. The -ski would indicate a Polish noble family, but a well-known author of books regarding Polish noble families (Emilian von Żernicki-Szeliga) did not include this variation in his book. Nor did he identify the village of Zernicki as a location or source of the Żernicki name. This indicates the Zerniczski family name means “from Zernicki”.

The oldest record of the Żernicki name, as recorded by Emilian von Żernicki-Szeliga, was in 1436 at Drya (in Greater Poland). His branch of the family was a member of the noble Polish clan Śreniawa (Szreniawa). The Żernicki family members identified by Emilian von Żernicki-Szeliga were located east and north of the borders of Silesia.

The discussions of Nicolaus Szirniczski and Bartholomeus Szirniczski (at Gnesen in 1398 to 1399), and the 1394 scultetus (Latin for mayor, Scholz in German) of Sroczko near the German Cistercian Abby at Polnisch Krone suggest a possible connection between the Szirniczski family and Johanes Zerniczski. See the discussion regarding Tschirnau in Guhrau County, Silesia.

Regarding the Early Families in Posen

By themselves, the name variations found in this section do not prove a connection between these individuals, or families to the Sternitzke family. Church or property transfer records are needed to determine relationships. But, the existence of German settlements founded by the Cistercians (just like the situation at Trebnitz), the presence of Silesian mercenaries in Posen in 1410, and the church connection between Dambitsch and Stroppen during the Counter-Reformation, together suggest a link between the two families. The two families may have been related, with the 14th century Posen family being the ancestors of the 16th century Trebnitz

Sternitzke family. Or, and more likely, both families may have had a common ancestor at the village Zschernitz (near Halle and Delitzsch), where an early version of the village name was Szirncz in the 12th century.

Ostsiedlung Group 3: Bamberg to Trebnitz

Bamberg is located in Upper Franconia (now part of Bavaria). Bamberg was an important German city and diocese in the Holy Roman Empire. It was also the beginning of the migration route that went directly through Görlitz and Liegnitz to Trebnitz County in Silesia. Three significant villages lie on (or near) this route: Zschernitzsch bei Schmölln, Zschernitzsch bei Altenburg and Tschernske (in Saxony). Four significant Silesian villages lie at endpoints of this route: Tschirnitz in Jauer County, Tschertwitz in Öls County and the earliest known locations of the Sternitzke family – Luzine and Zantkau in Trebnitz County. The names of the four endpoint villages may have been based on the villages of origin. This is the most likely route that our Sternitzke family traveled in their migration to Trebnitz County.

Zschernitzsch bei Altenburg und Zschernitzsch bei Schmölln in Thuringia, Germany

There were two villages named Zschernitzsch in Thuringia (recorded as Schirniz and Zirniz in 1199). They were only six miles apart, so they were identified in literature by their nearest cities (Altenburg and Schmölln, see the map above). Hubert Ermisch listed these villages as Gross und Klein Zschernitzsch in 1908, and identified a source that referred to Zschernitzsch bei Altenburg as Zschirnitz in 1518. The populations of the two villages in 1838, according to the Staats- und Adress-Handbuch des Herzogthums Sachsen-Altenburg, were 148 for Zschernitzsch bei Altenburg, and 286 for Zschernitzsch bei Schmölln.

Johannes Töpfer wrote that the word Zschernitzsch was based on the word for black (czerni) and could be translated into German as Schwarzdorf (black village) or Finsterheim (dark home). Dr. Gustav Hey identified a Wüstung (desolated village) named Zschirnitz near Frohburg, which is six miles northeast of Altenburg. Dr. Hey wrote that Zschirnitz was known as Sczhirniczh in 1233, and its origin in the Slavic word Černici meaning black.

Historical names for Zschernitzsch bei Altenburg included: Zirniz (1199), Szirns (1208), Schirnitz (1212), Scirniz (1216 & 1222), Zcerniz (1221), Scernes (1227), Czernicz (1355 & 1358), Schernicz (1358), Schirncz (1378), Czerniczsch (1445), Zschirnitz (1518), Zschernitzsch bei Altenburg (1522, 1821 and 1822), Zschernitzsch bei Altenburg (1653, 1838 & 1854), Tschernitzsch bei Altenburg (1881) and Zschernitz (1895). It currently exists as a northwestern part of the city Altenburg, identifiable by the streets named for it: Zschernitzscher Straße and Zschernitzscher Weg.

Historical names for Zschernitzsch bei Schmölln include: Schirniz (1199), Schernicz bei Schmollen (1307), Czernicz (1358), Zchyrncz (1365), Schirncz (1378), Zcernitz (1413), Tzschirnitzsch (1544), Schirniz (1700 map), Zschernitz bei Schmölln (1822) and Zschernitzsch bei Schmölla (1826).

These villages are significant in the search for the source of the Sternitzke family because the village name variations are similar to the Sternitzke family name variations, and because they are only 30 miles east of Naumburg. German farmers in the area around Naumburg were recruited for settlement of Silesia in 1215 and 1231 (as discussed above in the section regarding the colonization of Silesia). The Schirniz (1199) version for Zschernitzsch bei Schmölln is most interesting in relation to the Sternitzke family history. Ludwig Schultes provided an alternate spelling for Schirniz as Zschirnitz, and clarified that the village was also known as Zschernitzsch, though he did not specify which documents included those versions. The Czernicz spelling variation for both villages provide a basis for the early Sternitzke family name variations. These early spelling versions support the theory that the Sternitzke family had a similar family name (based on the village later known as Zschernitzsch bei Schmölln) prior to their migration to Silesia in 1215 or 1231.

Similar Sternitzke family name variations include: Tschirnitzky (in 1541 at Luzine), Tschirnitzke (in 1554 at Zantkau), Czernißky (in 1559 at Lutzine), Sciernisko (in 1574 at Zantkau), Tzerniske (in 1580 at Domnowitz), Czierniske (in 1583 at Zantkau), Czirnisko and Ziernißko (in 1584 at Domnowitz), Czirnisko (in 1594 at Domnowitz), Zernizky (in 1608 at Zantkau), Zernitschky (in 1608 at Luzine), Szernischko (in 1610 at Domnowitz), Tschernißke (in 1610 at Ujeschütz), Tzernitzke (in 1615 at Domnowitz), Tzernisky (in 1616 at Domnowitz), Tschiernisko (in 1639 at Domnowitz) and Tschernisky (in 1655 at Domnowitz).

Three other villages near Altenburg (Thuringia) are worth noting because of their possible connections to the settlers who moved to Silesia: Trebnitz (about 16 miles northwest of Altenburg), Zedlitz (about 22 miles southwest of Altenburg) and Nitzschka near Zschernitzsch bei Schmölln. There were seven villages named Zedlitz in Silesia, including one Zedlitz in Trebnitz County. Zedlitz and Sednitzky were also family names in found in Trebnitz County records. The village named Nitzschka is interesting because of its similarity to the Nitschke family name. There were ties between the Nitschke family and the Sternitzke family through marriages in Silesia.

Von Zcerniz Family at Altenburg

Ritter Merbod von Zcerniz and Herrmann von Zcerniz Altenburg (1221)

The Ritter (knight) Merbod von Zcerniz and Herrmann von Zcerniz (possibly his son) were listed as witnesses to a document dated the 5th of August in 1221. The document (shown below) involves the Bishop Bruno II at Meissen and the Abbot Bruning at Buch. The city Altenburg was written as Aldenburk in this document. The location mentioned as Zcolin (Skölen) is now a town named Schkölen in Thuringia.

Den 5. Aug. 1221.

Zschertnitz bei Dresden in Saxony, Germany

Zschertnitz was a small village less than two miles south of the old city walls of Dresden. It has been a suburb of Dresden since 1902.

Historical names for Zschertnitz include: Scherschicz (1308), Schyrschytz (1309), Scherschicz (1350), Czerticz (1408), Scherticz (1447), Zscherticz (1469), Zcertitzsch (1507), Zschernitz (1565), Schertnicz (1618), Zschertniz (1701), Zscherniz (1813 map), and Zschertnitz and Zschärtnitz (1875), Zschertnitz (1910 map).

The names of this village appear to be related to the names of the villages at the western beginning of this migration route (Zschernitzsch bei Schmölln and Zschernitzsch bei Altenburg), but the books by Johannes Töpfer and Dr. Gustav Hey show that the word origins are different. The villages near Schmölln and Altenburg were based on the old Slavic word for black (Czerni). Zschertnitz was based on the old Slavic word for devil (Czart), sharing its word origin with the village Tschertwitz (near the city Öls) at the eastern end of this migration route. Other than a common word origin, no connection has been found between Zschertnitz and Tschertwitz. The Zschernitz variation of the name for this village in 1565 appears to be an anomaly, and does not support a connection to the Sternitzke family name.

Tschernske (Tschernitzke) in Görlitz County in Saxony, Germany.

Tschernske is a village now located in Görlitz County of Sachsen (Saxony), about twenty miles northeast of the city Bautzen and about twenty miles northwest of the city Görlitz. It is located very close to the route probably taken by the German settlers from Naumburg to Trebnitz County in 1215 and 1231. The Hussites invaded the area and laid siege to the city of Bautzen from 1429 to 1431, which may have been the motive for the Sternitzke family migration from Tschernske to Trebnitz County. Tschernske is also only about 15 miles south of the village Tschernitz (in Brandenburg) which was discussed above – see the second Ostsiedlung group (Erfurt to Glogau) discussion. See the table of similar name variations for these two villages in the discussion regarding Tschernitz. The origins and histories of Tschernske and Tschernitz may be related, and either village could be a source of the Sternitzke family name.

In 1777, the village was located in Bautzen County of Saxony, but that area has gone through several administrative reorganizations:

- Bautzener County, Saxony (1777),
- Rothenburg County, Liegnitz District, Silesia (1825-1925),
- Landkreis Niesky, Saxony (1948-1952),
- Landkreis Niederschlesischer Oberlausitzkreis, Saxony (1994) and
- it has been in Görlitz County of Saxony since 2008.

Konstantin Damroth's 1896 book regarding names of places in Silesia has an interesting comparison of the Wendish, Polish and German names of the village Zschernske:

- Černsk (the Wendish form),
- Ciernisko (the Polish form of the Polish word ciernie thornbush, or bramble), and
- Zschernske (the German variation, meaning the same as the modern German phrase Dorn-Gestrüpp: thorn-scrub).

The Polish word Ciernisko (and its meaning) is very similar to the Polish word Sciernisko, which was used as a variation of the Sternitzke name in 1574 and 1709. Both Polish words have agricultural significance (thornbushes or brambles; cleared forest or harvested stubble field). The Wendish word (and the related Polish word) were the basis for the name of the village. The German form of the village name could have become the source of the Sternitzke name. Polish recorders of the family name could have used variations of similar sounding Polish words, or the Polish version of the name of the village when recording the Sternitzke family records in 1574 and 1709.

Two books (Schumann in 1826; Schumann and Schiffner in 1833) provided a concrete connection between this village and the Sternitzke family name. In his 1826 book, Schumann listed the following names for this village: Zschernicke, Czerniske, Tzschernizke and the Wendish name Zernsk. He noted the village belonged to the lord of a Rittergute (knight's estate) at Creba (shown as Crebe on the 1745 map below). The Zschernicke villagers attended church and school at nearby Creba. Creba is now known as Kreba (Wendish: Kriebja) in the Landkreis Görlitz. The 1833 book by Schumann and Schiffner included the below description of the village Zschernicke (which they also identified as Zschernske and related to the name Tschernitzke) on page 1064.

Zschernicke (S. 730) nun im rothenbgr. Kr., 4½ St. westl. v. der Kreisstadt, nicht völlig am Schöps, fast dicht an der Heide, h. officiell Zschernske, auf Ch. Tschernitzke, u. hatte 1818 in 24 H. 192 Seelen.

Translation: Zschernicke (see page 730) now in Rothenburg County, 4½ St. (Stücken, units of distance) west from the county seat, not totally on the Schwarzer Schöps River, almost on the heath, officially named as Zschernske from Ch. (Czech?) Tschernitzke, and having 24 houses and 192 inhabitants in 1818.

Schmalzer's 1867 book stated that the origin of the name of the village Zschernske (in Oberlausitz) was based on the Wendish word Čern (which he translated as Schwarze: black). Dr. Herman Knothe identified the village Zschernske as also having been known as Czerniessky. This suggests the following relationships and transformations of the names for this village, from the original Wendish, to Polish, then Bohemian and then to German:

Čern→ Černsk→ Zernsk→ Ciernisko→ Tczschernicko→ Tschernsko→
Czirniski→ Czerniske→ Czerniessky→ Zschernicke→ Tzschernizke→ Tzschernitzke→
Tschernitzke.

There were many other variations in the name for this village, reflecting the mixed ethnicities of the inhabitants and changes in the associated languages over five hundred years.

In 1833, Rothenburg was the county seat of Rothenburg County (see above). Tzschernitzke is shown west of Rothenburg on the 1745 map below, and near the Nieder Heyde (lower heath, part of the currently named Oberlausitzer Heide). The website for Tschernske shows that village had the following population numbers: 181 in the year 1825 and 229 in 1871. The population listed in the 1833 book by Schumann and Schiffner (192 in the year 1818) is consistent with the population listed in 1825. So Domroth, Schumann and Schiffner were all writing descriptions of the same village.

The 2001 book by Eichler and Walther include most of the village name variations listed below. They wrote that the name of the village Tschernske was based on the Wendish word for black – Čirn. Adding the -ske suffix gave it a meaning of “a settlement on heavy (black) soil” or “a settlement in a dark forest”.

Historical variations of the village named Tschernske include: Černsk, Ciernisko, Czirniski (1423), Tschyrnosc (1490), Zschernske (1527), Czerniessky (1527), Stzirnosch (1542), Tczschernicko (1607), Tschernsko (1632), Tzschernitzke (1745 map), Tzschernizke (1753 map), Tzschernsko (1759), Zschernicke (1767), Zernßke (1791), Zschernicke (1791, 1833), Zernsk (1800), Zscherniki (1803), Zschernicke, Czerniske and Tzschernizke (1826), Czernsk (1831), Zschernske (1833), Tschernitzke (1833), Zschernske (1850 map, 1856, 1867 map), Černsk (1843), Zschernske (in German, Černsk in Wendish, and Ciernisko in Polish, 1896), Zschernske (1900, 1929 map), Hirschwalde (1936 until 1947) and Tschernske (after 1947).

Similar Sternitzke family name variations include: Tschirnitzky (in 1541 at Luzine), Tschirnitzke (in 1554 at Zantkau), CzerniBky (in 1559 at Lutzine), Sciernisko (in 1574 at Zantkau), Tzerniske (in 1580 at Domnowitz), Czierniske (in 1583 at Zantkau), Czirnisko and ZierniBko (in 1584 at Domnowitz), Czirniszko (in 1594 at Domnowitz), Zernizky (in 1608 at Zantkau), Zernitschky (in 1608 at Luzine), Szernischko (in 1610 at Domnowitz), TscherniBke (in 1610 at Ujeschütz), Tzernitzke (in 1615 at Domnowitz), Tzernisky (in 1616 at Domnowitz), Tschiernisko (in 1639 at Domnowitz), TscherniBky (in 1650 at Domnowitz), Tschernisky (in 1655 at Domnowitz), Sternisko (in 1691 at Pawellau) and TscherniBke (in 1704 at Briesche).

I feel this village is the best candidate for being the origin of the Sternitzke family name, for the following reasons:

1. The documented version of the village name version Czerniessky (in 1527) was nearly identical and in the correct timeframe as the Sternitzke family name version CzerniBky (in 1559).
2. The Tsch- letter combination was used in a variation of the village name as early as 1490, signifying possible Tschirniski or Tscherniessky village name variations could have existed, providing a plausible link to the Sternitzke name variations Tschirnitzky (in 1541), Tschirnitzke (in 1554) and TscherniBke (in 1610).
3. Schumann and Schiffner established a link between this village and the name Tschernitzke which is almost identical to the Sternitzke name variations Tschirnitzke (in 1554) and TscherniBke (in 1610).
4. The documented Zschernitz and Zschernitsch versions of the village named Zschernitzsch bei Schmölln suggest it may have been the “parent” village of the village Tschernske (also known as Zschernske and Tzschernitzke).
5. Wilhelm Haeusler wrote that Trebnitz County in Silesia was mostly settled by Franconians and Saxons. This village lies near the migration path of Germans from Franconia through southern Saxony to Trebnitz County during the 13th and 14th centuries, suggesting the Sternitzke family ancestors migrated from Franconia or Saxony through this village to Trebnitz County in Silesia.
6. The Hussites invaded the area and laid siege to the city of Bautzen from 1429 to 1431, which may have been the motive for the Sternitzke family migration to Trebnitz County.
7. Richard Hoffmann wrote that a study of the Silesian dialects (both German and Polish) indicates the German immigrants were mostly from Meissen and Lusatia.

Unfortunately, the earliest surviving church records for Kreba (in the church district of Weißwasser) start with the year 1662, which was more than one hundred years after the Sternitzke families were living at Luzine and Zantkau. Those records are not viewable online, but the microfilmed copies are viewable (at Görlitz) only by appointment and with the approval of the research topic. Genealogical research is a valid research topic. See the website of Das Archive des Evangelischen Kirchenkreisverbandes Schlesische Oberlausitz.

Tschirnitz in Jauer County, Silesia

Tschirnitz in Jauer County was renamed as Dornberg in 1937. It had 553 inhabitants in 1939. It is now named Czernica, Poland. Konstantine Damroth wrote that the old Slavic name for this village was Cynricz, which meant redwater. Erich Graber's book of transcribed documents listed early names (Czernicza & Czirnicza probably from the 13th century) for this village that were very similar to Cynricz. A document (written in Latin) dated the 20th of January in 1582 listed the villam Zirnitz [a town named Zirnitz] which August Kastner identified in a footnote as probably the village Tschirnitz in Jauer County.

Historical variations of the village named Tschirnitz include: Cynricz, Czernicza & Czirnicza (1203), Czyrnen (1354), Tschirnicz (1369, 1407, 1413, 1419, 1420, 1437, 1440), Tschirnitz (1426, 1429, 1434, 1437, 1523), Tschirnitcz (1439), Zirnitz (1582 & 1749), Tschirnitz (1809 map), Tschirnitz and Tschiernitz (1845), Ciernice (1896), Tschirnitz (1896), Dornberg (1937) and Czernica (after 1945).

Similar Sternitzke family name variations include: Tschirnitzky (in 1541 at Luzine), Tschirnitzke (in 1554 at Zantkau), Ziernitschke (in 1601 at Domnowitz), Zernizky (in 1608 at Zantkau), Zernitschky (in 1608 at Luzine), Tscherniszke (in 1610 at Ujeschütz), Tschiernisko (in 1639 at Domnowitz), Tschernißky (in 1650 at Domnowitz), Tschernisky (in 1655 at Domnowitz), Tschiernißke (in 1664 at Domnowitz) and Tschernißke (in 1704 at Briesche).

The 1369 Tschirnicz variation (and the 15th century Tschirnitz and Tschernitcz variations) of the village name suggest this village could have been a source of the Sternitzke family name in the 16th century. The German Silesian migration map showed the Franconian and Saxon Germans passed through Görlitz (near Tschernske) and separated into two groups: one group settling at Tschirnitz, in Jauer County, and the other group continuing eastward to Trebnitz County. If the Sternitzke family migrated on this route and went directly to Trebnitz, they could have shared common Franconian or Saxon ancestors with the settlers at Tschirnitz (in Jauer County). It is also possible that the Sternitzke family settled at Tschirnitz in Jauer County and then later moved to Zantkau and Luzine in Trebnitz County. This village could then be the basis for the Sternitzke name, but early records of the Sternitzke family in Jauer County will probably not be found.

The book by Erich Graber identified the earliest Schöffenbüchern for Jauer as from the years 1679 to 1784; long after the Sternitzke family was living at Zantkau and Luzine. The book by Knie shows the Protestants and Catholics from Tschirnitz attended church at the city Jauer. The earliest known church records for the city of Jauer are the 1652 to 1900 Protestant records (as documented in Die Kirchenbücher Schlesiens beider Confessionen). The earliest known Catholic Church records for that city were from 1791 to 1900. If variations of the Sternitzke name were found in the Jauer church records, it would still be difficult to link those family members to the families who lived earlier at Zantkau and Luzine.

The fact that the Tschirnicz version of the village name existed in 1369 is significant because if the Germans who settled at Tschirnicz came from Zschernitzsch bei Schmölln (known as Schirniz and Zschirnitz in 1199), or Zschernitzsch bei Altenburg (known as Zirnit in 1199), then the Tsch- name versions of the Sternitzke family name would also logical versions as early as 1369.

Tschertwitz in Öls County, Silesia

In 1828, Leopold Zedlitz-Neukirch wrote of a hospital located at a village named Tschernitz near the city Öls. The location of that village (very close to Luzine and Zantkau) would certainly indicate a relationship with the Tschernitzke / Sternitzke family name. Unfortunately, I think Zedlitz-Neukirch made an error. The 1845 Silesian geography book by Knie provided the link connecting the village named Tschernitz (by Zedlitz-Neukirch) to the village near Öls listed by Knie as Tschertwitz. According to Knie, the village named Tschertwitz had an important feature at that time:

“Kranken-Anstalt unter Leitung des Doktor Stachelroth zu Mankerwitz. Sie ist durch den vor einigen Jahren verstorbenen Medico-Chirurg Schiffer begründet, bereits äußerst segensreich für die Umgegend gewesen und genießt 120 Rtl. Jährlich Unterstützung der königl. Regierung auf Arzeneien.“

Translation: “A health institution under the leadership of Dr. Stachelroth from Mankerwitz. It was founded a few years ago by the late surgeon Schiffer, and has been extremely beneficial for the neighborhood. It is supported with 120 Reichthalers each year from the government’s Royal Society of Medicine.”

Dr. Stachelroth had an estate at nearby Lucine [Luzine] bei Trebnitz according to Adolph Callisen’s 1834 book. Another book (by Adolph Callisen in 1883) listed a biography of the medical doctor Friedrich Gottlieb Schiffer, who was born at the village Tschertwitz bei Oels in 1806. Schiffer attended the gymnasium in Breslau and then studied medicine at the University of Breslau.

That same village was shown as Tschertwitz on an 1899 map (see below), about two miles south of Luzine and just west of Schickerwitz. A windmill symbol is next to it. That location was identified as Tschertwitz on maps from 1897, 1903 and 1952. The population of Tschertwitz (Tschertwitz) was 75 in 1867.

Johann Hellbach wrote in 1825: Czartewicz (and its German form Tschertwitz) was a Silesian family name that was the possible origin of the name of the village Tschertwitz in the Öls region. He referenced as his source: Sinap, I. S. 322 (Volume 1, page 322 of the history of Silesian noble families by Johann Sinapius, also known as Johanne Sinapio). Heinrich Adamy wrote that the older Slavic name for the village Tschertwitz was Czartowicz (meaning Teufelsdorf – devil’s village). Adamy’s analysis was consistent with the earlier analysis written by Dr. Gustav Hey regarding the origin of the village near Dresden named Zschertnitz. Dr. Hey wrote that earlier versions of that village name were Čertici, Czerticz (1408) and Zschärtnitz; and were based on the family named Čert (translated as Teufels –devils). He gave examples of other villages with similar names: Schartowitz, Czartowice, Schortewitz, Schartau (which was earlier named Ciertovi) and Czartowo.

Several literary sources were found yielding the following chronology of the variations of the village name and noble landowners associated with the village Tschertwitz by Öls:

Tschertwitz in the 14th century was probably more like an estate than a village. That would explain how the name of the location became associated with the family name of the owner, rather than the custom of a family name becoming based on their location. The name of the estate followed minor variations of the Czartewitz family name over time. The major switch to variations of Tschertwitz appeared after the Bohemian crown lands (including Silesia) fell under Austrian rule in 1526.

The Tscherwitz variation in spelling for this village in 1720 and 1825 was the same as the Tscherwitz variation identified in historical documents associated with the current community of Tschernitz (in Spree-Neiße County, Brandenburg Germany). This may have been the source of the single instance of the Tschernitz variation for the village (estate) near Öls, by Leopold Zedlitz-Neukirch in 1828.

Another possible explanation for the Tschertwitz/Tschernitz variations for this village (near Öls) would exist if a connection was found linking this village with Zschertnitz (also known as Zschernitz) near Dresden. Such a link would support a relationship between the Sternitzke family and these villages. Unfortunately, the only identified link found (so far) was a linguistic connection identified by Dr. Gustav Hey. Both villages (and others) share a relationship with the Slavic word Czart and its variations Čort, Czort and Čert (meaning devil). Dr. Hey linked the Polish family names Czartowiec, Czartowice (and the Germanic variation Czartowitz) and the village named Zschertnitz by Dresden with the Slavic word for devil.

Similar Sternitzke family name variations include: Tschirnitzky (in 1541 at Luzine), Tschirnitzke (in 1554 at Zantkau), Tscherniszke (in 1610 at Ujeschütz), Tschiernisko (in 1639 at Domnowitz), Tscherniŕky (in 1650 at Domnowitz), Tschernisky (in 1655 at Domnowitz), Tschierniŕke (in 1664 at Domnowitz) and Tscherniŕke (in 1704 at Briesche).

It must have been a coincidence that the similarly named families of Thomas Tschirnitzky and George Tschirnitzke were living near Tschertwitz, at Luzine and Zantkau in the 16th century. Based on the early names of this village, and its relation to the noble Polish Czartowicz (Tschertwitz) family, it is unlikely that this village was the source of the Sternitzke family name.

German Migrations Through Bohemia

The Kingdom of Bohemia

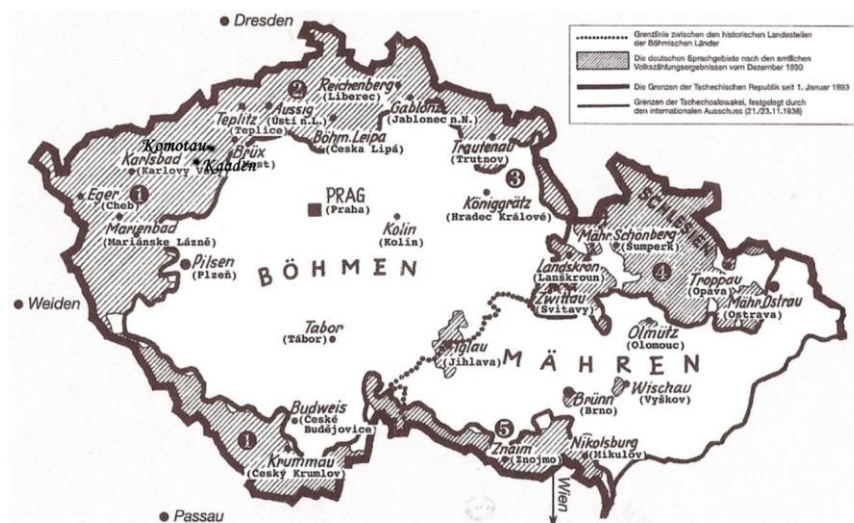

There were several reasons why the history of the Bohemian Kingdom (which included the Margravate of Moravia) needed to be considered as a source of Sternitzke family history:

- Nothing is known about the Sternitzke family history prior to the early 16th century, when the family had two known branches: Thomas Tschirnitzky (Czerniŕky) at Luzine and George Tschirnitzke at Zantkau. They were ethnically German, but it is not known from which German area they originated, or which route they used when they migrated to Trebnitz County, or when their migration to Trebnitz County took place.
- German settlers migrated to Silesia by several routes, including by two routes through Bohemia. The area of northern Bohemia settled by the German settlers was called the Sudetenland. See the Sudetendeutschen map below. The shaded areas on the map show where the Germans mainly settled in Bohemia and Moravia.
- Silesia was vassal state of the Bohemian Crown from 1335 (even when that crown was worn by the Hapsburgs of Austria) until most of it passed to the King of Prussia in 1742. See the 1557 map (below) of territories of the Bohemian Crown.
- A small part of Silesia (formerly Austrian Silesia) is now known as Czech Silesia.
- There were Bohemian villages with names spelled similarly to known variations of the Sternitzke family name in Trebnitz County: Czerniczky, Czernisko, Czernitz, Czernitz, Czernitzky, Tschernitz, Tschirnitz and Zirnitz.
- Family names in Bohemia (as in Silesia) were often based from the village of origin, by adding a -ky or -sky suffix. Source: Czech Surnames. Retrieved from <http://zlimpkk.tripod.com/Genealogy/czechsurnames.html>.
- There were individuals in the Margravate of Moravia with names spelled the same as known variations of the Sternitzke family name in Trebnitz County: Sternisko and Sternitzky.
- The histories of these Bohemian and Moravian families and villages preceded the known Sternitzke family history in Trebnitz County. The similarities of the Bohemian family names to the early Sternitzke name variations in southern Silesia suggest a possible migration of the Sternitzke family from Bohemia to Silesia.
- Wilhelm Starnitzki identified Czech spelling variations of the Sternitzke family name in records for the Sternitzke family in Trebnitz County: Czerniske, Czerniske, Czernisko and Czirnisko.

- The Hussite Wars (1419-1434) ravaged Bohemia economically and socially, with negative effects on the villages that lasted for generations. These conditions provide a logical reason why the Sternitzke family would have moved from Bohemia to Trebnitz County, if they had not moved there earlier directly from the eastern German territories.
- There were documented connections between the Bohemian Czernitzky family and the von Stosch family of Bohemia and Silesia. There were also documented connections between the von Stosch family from Bohemia and the Silesian cities significant in the Sternitzke family history: Breslau, Trebnitz, Militsch, and Öls.
- Duke Konrad VIII (der Junge – the Younger) of Öls became the provincial administrator of the Order of Teutonic Knights for Bohemia and Moravia in 1443. It seems reasonable to assume that land owners in the war-ravaged southern areas within the sphere of influence of the dukes of Öls could easily migrate to positions of authority at villages near Öls. This would explain how the Sternitzke ancestors came to be Scholzen at Luzine and Zantkau in the 16th century. The later migration of a Bohemian land-owning family to Trebnitz County was documented in the history of the Puscheck family. Their land in Bohemia was confiscated because they were Lutherans, during the Thirty Years War (1618-1648). A similar situation involving the Sternitzke family could have occurred during, or shortly after the Hussite Wars (1419-1434).

Variations of the Czernitzky name in Bohemia and Moravia

To simplify my discussions, I use the Czernitzky name to represent the variations of the family names found for Bohemia and Moravia, just as Wilhelm Starnitzki used the Sternitzke name to represent the group of related family names in Silesia. The following variations of the Czernitzky name were found in literature: Černčický, Czernczitzky, Czernczizki, Czerncznitzky, Czernetzky, Czernezki, Czernicki, Czernicky, Czernicziczky, Czernietzki, Czernitzki, Czernitzky, Tschernitzky, Sternisko and Sternitzky! The review of the Ellis Island records and modern telephone directories identified two other similar variations: Czerniczky and Sterniczky. Female members of the family were sometimes (but not always) identified with the -a or -in suffix; as in Černčická, Czernczitzkin and Czerniczkin.

Comparison of the Czernitzky Variations to the Silesian Sternitzke Variations

The two most obvious variations that are common between the Bohemian and Silesian families are Sternisko and Sternitzky. Examples of the names were found in Bohemian literature for each name: Johannes Sternisko who died at Olmütz in 1616, and Herrn Sternitzky who attended a meeting between landowners and King Friedrich V of the Palatinate in 1620 at Brünn. Olmütz is only forty miles northeast of Brünn, so Johannes Sternisko and Herrn Sternitzky may have been related. The Czech names for these cities are Olomouc and Brno. The use of the Sternisko and Sternitzky names in Bohemia in the early 17th century is very interesting. It suggests a connection between the Bohemian and Silesian families, and a possible relationship to the village named Czernisko (Černisko) in Bohemia (which is discussed further below). Czernisko is about 120 miles west of Brünn.

Sternisko was also a variation of Sternitzke identified by Wilhelm Starnitzki (though he did not provide an example). My search of Karl Sille's documents at the Herder Institute identified Hans Sternisko as the son of Geörge and Maria Sternisko (also known as Georg Sterniski, Sternißeke and Sterniske) from Ujeschütz. Hans was baptized at Pawellau in 1691. Thirteen other variations of the Silesian Sternitzke family name ended with the -ko suffix, and all seem to be spelling variations of Sternisko:

- Czernisko (listed by Wilhelm Starnitzki without an example),
- Czirnizsko (Blasien Czirnizsko at Domnowitz in 1594),
- Scernisko (listed by Wilhelm Starnitzki without an example),
- Schiernisko (Adam Schiernisko at Briesche and Schawoine in 1704; Eva Schiernisko at Powitzko in 1724),
- Sciernisko (Blasius Sciernisko and his siblings at Zantkau in the late 16th century; Jacobus Sciernisko at Powitzko in 1617; Isop Sciernisko at Biadauschke and Domnowitz in 1622; Gregory Sciernisko at Schawoine in 1690 1695 and 1696; Susanna Sciernisko at Schawoine/Biadauschke in 1691; Adam, Johann and Jakob Sciernisko at Ujeschütz in 1703; Adam Sciernisko at Briesche in 1704; Christoph Sciernisko at Brietzen and Pawellau in 1709),
- Sziernisko (Cuba at Powitzko in 1618, Jacobus at Powitzko in 1626),
- Sernisko (listed by Wilhelm Starnitzki without an example),
- Siernisko (listed by Wilhelm Starnitzki without an example),
- Stiernischko (listed by Wilhelm Starnitzki without an example),
- Szernischko (Christine Szernischko at Domnowitz in 1593 and 1610; Blasius Szernischko in 1610),
- Tschiernisko (Gregor Tschiernisko at Domnowitz in 1639),
- Ziernißeke (Blasius Ziernißeke at Domnowitz in 1584, Paul Ziernißeke at Deutkowe in 1611),

- Zirnisko (listed by Wilhelm Starnitzki without an example) and
- Zirnisso (Paul Zirnisso at Zantkau in 1594).

The female variations of the Bohemian Czernitzky family name with the -in suffix (Czerniczkin and Czernczitzkin) are similar to the female Silesian Sternitzke names with the -en suffix, as listed in the Powitzko Catholic Church records: Sczirnischen (1613) and Szciernischen (1620). A female version of the Labitzke family name also appeared in the Powitzko records, but with the -in suffix like the Bohemian names: Susanna Labitzkin in 1724.

Herrn Sternitzky who attended a meeting between landowners and King Friedrich V of the Palatinate in 1620 at Brünn predates the known use of that variation in Silesia. A few examples of the use of the Sternitzky variation in Silesia include: Andreas Sternitzky at Breslau in 1701, Johann Sternitzky at Domnowitz in 1743, Moritz Sternitzky at Ratiborhammer in 1809, Joseph Sternitzky at Pristelwitz in 1817, Forstmeister Sternitzky at Trebnitz in 1821, Robert William Sternitzky at Kreuzburg in 1840, Herrn Forstmeister Sternitzky at Chrzelitz in 1842, Johanna Emilie Sternitzky at Domnowitz in 1851, Ernst Gottlieb Sternitzky at Gross Ujeschütz in 1897 and Adolf Bruno Sternitzky at Domnowitz in 1912.

Franz Queitzer identified the Tschernitzky family as associated with the Bohemian village Altkalken (now known as Skalka u Doks) near the city Hirschberg (now known as Doksy in the Czech Republic). Note that this city named Hirschberg was located in the Buntzlau County of northern Bohemia, and was not the city also named Hirschberg (now named Jelenia Góra) located in southern Silesia. The Tschernitzky family was recorded in Hirschberg records during the 1745 to 1771 timeframe. This was shortly after the Tschernißeke variation was in use in Silesia (at Briesche and Ujeschütz in the early 1700s). Several Sternitzke name variations in Silesia began with Tsch- before Silesia and Bohemia came under the rule of the Austrians in 1536.

Other than the Sternisko, Sternitzky and Tschernitzky instances mentioned above, the other Bohemian variations of the family name all began with Cz (written as Č in the Czech alphabet). Wilhelm Starnitzki identified the following variations for the Silesian Sternitzke family name that began with Cz:

- Czerniske (listed by Wilhelm Starnitzki without an example),
- Czernisske (listed by Wilhelm Starnitzki without an example),
- Czernißeky (Thomas Czernissky or Czerniszky at Luzine in 1559; possibly born around 1500),
- Czernisso (listed by Wilhelm Starnitzki without an example),
- Czierniske (Paul Czierniske at Zantkau in 1583) and

- Czirniszko (Blasien Czirniszko at Domnowitz in 1594).

Branches of the Bohemian Czernitzky Family

There appears to have been more than one branch in the Czernitzky family in Bohemia:

- z Černčic (Czech form); also written as von Černčic, von Černčice and von Czernczicz (German forms); and de Czernczicz (Latin form); and
- Czernczitzky von Kaczowa; also written as Czernicki von Kacowa, Černčický z Kácova, Czernczitzky von Katzova, Czernczizki von Kaczora, Czernitzky von Kaczow, and Černčický von Katzow.

The female members of the later branch were written as Czernicziczky, Czernczitzkin von Kacsowa, Czerniczkin von Kaczowa and Černčická z Kácova.

The earliest known ancestor of both branches was Ješek z Černčic pán na Kácově (Ješek of Černčic, Lord of Katzow) who lived in 1354. He may have been the founder of the Černčický von Katzow branch, which was a Bohemian baronial (Freiherren) family according to Professor Ernst Kneschke.

The baronial branch (Černčický von Katzow) of the family became extinct in the 17th century (as is discussed below). A branch of the family survived at a lower class: Ritter (knight). There was also a non-noble branch of the family in 1354 that survived the extinction of the noble branches. Or, it is possible the surviving noble branches lost their noble privileges and property. The Holy Roman Emperor punished the Protestant nobles who opposed him during the Thirty Years' War (1618-1648), and rewarded the Catholic nobles who supported the empire. Carl Redel's book (from 1710) listed the Czernitzky family as one of the Ritter-Standes Familien (Knight Class Families).

Černčický von Katzow Family of Bohemia and Moravia (1354 to the early 17th century)

The Černčický von Katzow family was a minor Bohemian noble family. Because the village Katzow was known in Czech as Kácov, the family name was identified in Czech sources as Černčický z Kácova. This branch of the Černčický family ended in the early 17th century, as is discussed below.

The Černčický family may have taken its name from the village Černčice which is now in the northern part of the Czech Republic. Or, perhaps the village was named after its founder. Černčice was in a part of Bohemia that was settled by Germans as part of the Ostsiedlung in the early 13th century. The fortress at Černčice dates to 1312. Prior to 1526, Černčic was in the Kingdom of Bohemia. After 1526, the region was part of Austria. Johann Sommer identified other names for the village Černčice as Černčitz and Tscherntschitz; while J.A. Michel identified this village as Czernczicz, also known as Tscherntschitz. Friedrich von Watterischburg identified this village as Czernschitz, Tscherntschitz, and Černčice – the noble estate of the Černčitz family. Other references written in German only identified this village as Tscherntschitz.

Johan Sommer wrote (in 1836) that the church at Tscherntschitz became a parish church in 1384. It was rebuilt in the years 1580, 1600 and 1725. The church bells were cast in the years 1577, 1516 and 1620. Behind the church were the old foundation walls, fountains and the moat of the former castle of the lords of Kacow from Černčitz. The castle was apparently last inhabited in 1656.

The earliest known noble member of the Černčický family was Ješek z Černčic pán na Kácově (Ješek from Černčic, Lord of Katzow). He was identified in a document dated the 18th of August 1365, as a patron of the church at the village Býšte. Býšte is five miles southeast of Königgrätz in Königgratz County (now the city Hradec Králové in the Czech Republic).

Three other individuals were probably also members of the Černčický family: the brothers Jesko and Wilhelmus de Czernczicz and Arnetus de Czernczicz. According to church documents transcribed by Johann Rohn, Jesko and Wilhelmus made donations to the church at the village Opoczna (now Opočno) in 1361. Opočno is only 4 miles south of Černčitz. Jesko and Arnestus made donations to the church in 1367. This makes sense because Johann Sommer wrote the church at Černčitz was built in 1385. The transcriptions regarding these events were written in Latin. Jesko and Wilhelmus translate to the German first names Jesko and Wilhelm. Jesko de Czernczicz (in German) and Ješek z Černčic (in Czech) were probably the same man.

The website for the Kácov Township (Městys Kácov) identified Vitek Černčický as the first known owner of the estate at Kácov in 1377. This must be an error, considering the 1365 document that included Ješek of Černčic, Lord of Katzow (discussed above). Kácov (or Katzow, in German) is located about 40 miles southeast of Prague. By possession of Katzow (by unknown means) this branch of the Černčický family became known as Černčický von Katzow.

The website for the village Černčice showed (in February of 2012) it had 147 numbered houses and 450 inhabitants. It is one of the oldest settlements in the area and was important in its time because of the Černčická fortress. The oldest known written reference to the village was dated 1312. The most important owner of the fortress was in 1483, Johann Černčický von Katzow (in Czech: Jan Černčický z Kácova), who in 1501 founded the nearby village Neustadt an der Mettau [River] now named (Nové Město nad Metují). The village Neustadt an der Mettau consisted of a rectangular market square, a castle and the Holy Trinity Church. After a major fire, the village came under the control of the Pernstein (Pernštejna) family in 1527.

Other documented members of the Černčický family included:

- Veit von Černčic (in Czech: Vít z Černčice) was the lord of Wyschehrad (now the city named Vyšehrad) in the late 14th century. His brother, Heinrich Černčický died in 1392 as the lord of Katzow.
- Heinrich and Benesch Černčický were the sons of Heinrich Černčický. They shared the lordship of Katzow until their deaths, and then the ownership of the village and fortress passed to the royal crown. On the 10th of April in 1454, the village was granted to Alesch von Stemberg.
- Ulrich von Katzow (a cousin of Guy von Černčice) owned the castle at Rýzmburk from 1405 to 1426. Ulrich had two sons: Ernst (Czech: Arnošt) and Burkhart (Czech: Purkart).
- Burkhart Černčický von Katzow died after 1444.
- Ernst Černčický von Katzow fought against the Hussites in 1423 and 1424. He was at Königgrätz in 1442.
- Johann, the son of Ernst Černčický von Katzow married Magdalena Žehušická von Nestajova. Johann died in 1529, after many honors and property purchases in Bohemia and Moravia.
- Ernst, son of Johann Černčický von Katzow married Elizabeth von Pacov and through that marriage obtained the lands of Borotin. Ernst died in 1545. Only one of his sons, Johann der Ältere (the Elder) lived to adulthood to inherit the properties.
- Johann der Ältere Černčický von Katzow was born before 1545. He married Katharina von Kraselova, and gained the village Sřely through the marriage. He purchased additional villages near Prague. Johann der Ältere died in 1558 or 1574, leaving a daughter Elizabeth and four sons: Diwisch (owner of the village Lysice), Wenzel, Johann Burkhart and Bernhard (Czech: Bernart).
- Johann Burkhart der Jüngere (the Younger) Černčický von Katzow died in 1585.

The noble family name Černčický von Katzow ended with the death of Bernhard Černčický von Katzow in the early 17th century. That would have been during the time of the Thirty Years' War (1618-1648).

The von Stosch and the Czernczitzky von Kaczowa Families

The genealogy of the von Stosch family was documented by Melchior von Stosch in 1736. The von Stosch family was a noble Bohemian family that came from Croatia to Bohemia in 664 AD. Their home in Bohemia was the village Kaunitz (Czech: Kounice) near the city Prague and also near the Černčický family's former property at Katzow (Czech: Kácov). Both villages are now near the center of the Czech Republic. Gregor Wolny wrote (in his 1827 History of Moravia and Silesia) of the Stosch and Černčický families as Stoß von Kaunitz and Czernicki von Kacowa.

The von Stosch family owned many properties and played important leadership roles in Silesia as early as the 13th century. Nicolaus the chancellor to Duke Henry the Bearded was a member of the Stosch family. The von Stosch family-owned properties in the Principalities of Brieg and Öls, in what later became the Silesian counties: Brieg, Wohlau, Militsch, Öls and Trebnitz. The Stosch family owned the village Mondschtz (now named Mojecice) in Wohlau County as early as 1317, and Peter Stosch of Mondschtz founded the village Peterwitz three miles southeast of Trebnitz in that year. Peter was a Cavalier (knight) of Duke Konrad I of Öls. Three members of the Stosch family (Heinze, Hans and Georg von Stosch) were Silesian members of the Teutonic Order and fought at the Battle of Tannenberg in 1410. The Stosch family continued to be involved in the church and government at Breslau after that. In the 15th century the family spread to the Principalities of Troppau, Schweidnitz and Jauer. In 1500, Friedrich Stosch was involved in properties at Neisse. In 1530, George von Stosch was the Landes-Hauptmann (Governor) for the Principality of Ratibor. Members of the von Stosch family also owned properties in the villages Gross Tschirna and Klein Tschirna (Tschirnau in Guhrau County) in the 16th and 17th centuries.

The von Stosch family held positions of importance at Trebnitz, which may explain the changes in the spelling of the Sternitzke family name in the mid-16th century from the Saxon Tsch- to the Bohemian Cz, and the shift from -ky to -ko. Catharina von Stosch held the positions of Prioress and then Abbess at the Trebnitz Convent from 1530 until her death on the 17th of January in 1560. George Friedrich von Stosch was a land owner at Polnischdorf in 1605 and held the position of Hauptmann of the Trebnitz Stift (church foundation) in 1617. The Sternitzke house at Polnischdorf, where Queen Maria Leszcynska was born in 1703 was a manor previously owned by the von Stosch family!

The von Stosch family was associated with the Czerncitzky von Kaczowa family in Bohemia (discussed above as the Černčický von Katzow family). Johann Sinapio wrote (in 1707) that the following families had a common ancestor: Martinitz, Kaunitz, Stosch, Richnow, Talemberg, Augeczdeczki and Czerneski. Sinapio's 1720 book listed the same families but spelled Czerneski family name as Czernicki. Johannes Buddeus (in 1722) and Christian von Meding (1791) wrote that the Stosch family was related to the following families through a common ancestor: the counts von Mantinitz, the prince von Kaunitz, the barons von Augezd and Kaunitz, the barons Silemniczky von Augezd and Kaunitz, the barons Richnowsker von Richnow, the barons Talemberg von Militschin, the barons Czernicki von Kacowa.

Several of the individuals of the Černčický von Katzow family were also mentioned in the Stosch family history book written by Melchior von Stosch, confirming that Czerncitzky was one spelling variation of the Černčický name. This variation is related to the spelling variation of the village named Czernczicz (Černčitz).

- Herr Johann Czerncitzky von Kaczowa lived during the reign of King Ferdinand I (1526-1564).
- Around 1556, when King Ferdinand became the Holy Roman Emperor, the following names appeared in a Bohemian book: Herr Ernst Czerncitzky von Kaczowa, and Herr Johann der Jüngere Czerncitzky von Kaczowa.
- Herr Ernst Czerncitzky von Kaczowa and Herr Wilhelm Czerncitzky von Kaczowa lived during the reign of the Emperor Maximilian II (1527-1576).

In his series of books about the noble German families, Professor Ernst Kneschke included an interesting paragraph about this family. In that paragraph there were two spellings for the village Kaczowa (Kaczora and Katzova) and two spellings of the family name (Czernczizki and Czerncitzky). Below is a translation from page 386:

Czernczizki von Kaczora, Freiherren (Baron). A Bohemian baronial family that became extinct at the beginning of the 17 century. According to Paprocus, this family had the same coat of arms as the barons of Talmberg, resulting in shields which matched the lords of Kaunitz (two white leaves of water lilies on long curved stems with roots overlapped on a red field). At the time of King Ferdinand I (1558-1564) there lived two gentlemen of this family: Johann Ernst and Johann the Younger, gentlemen of the family Czernczitzky von Katzova.

Melchior von Stosch identified other interesting facts about the connections between the Bohemian noble families that are significant in the discussion below regarding the audience with King Friedrich V of the Palatinate on the 7th of February 1620.

- Herr Schambach von Pottenstein married Frau Magdalena Czernczitzkin von Kaczowa. Note the –in suffix denoting a female member of the family.
- Herr Heinrich von Slawata married Frau Cunigunda Czernczitzkin von Kacsowa.
- Herr Carl von Zerotin married Frau Johanna Czernczitzkin von Kaczowa.
- Other noble families related to the von Stosch family were the Sedlnitzky von Choltitz, Seidlitz, Waldstein, Wrbna and Zerotin families.

Several of these names were associated with property transfers for an estate at Boschdalitz, as described by Gregor Wolny in 1836. Bochdalitz (now named Bohdalice-Pavlovice) was 20 miles northeast of Brünn, near Wischau, east from Austerlitz. The following people were associated with properties at Bochdalitz:

- Johann Sedlnitzky von Choltitz in 1554,
- Johann der Ältere Czernitzky von Kaczow in 1574,
- Johanna von Kaczow and her husband Karl der Ältere von Zierotin and
- Kunigunde von Kaczowe in 1591.

Bohemian Villages Related to the Czernitzky Family Name

There were many villages throughout Bohemia and Moravia that began with the Czern- or Czirn- syllables (written as Čern- or Čirn- in Czech, and also written in German as Tschern- and Tschirn- variations). Franz Raffelsperger's book listed about 100 villages in Bohemia with those variations. The following discussion regarding the Ostsiedlung groups that migrated through Bohemia includes just a few of the villages with names that were similar to the known Sternitzke family name variations. Rather than list the villages according to their counties (which went through several confusing changes over the centuries) I have listed the villages in their order along the routes of the 4th and 5th Ostsiedlung groups (from west to east) along with their nearest (indicated with the German word bei) major community that can be found on modern maps. The historical names and modern names are identified for the villages and major communities.

Discussions of families and individuals with names similar to the Czernitzky name are also included under the discussions of the nearest village with a similar name. The similarities to the Sternitzke family name (from Trebnitz County in Silesia) are pretty obvious for the Bohemian villages that are included in this chapter. For example, the Bohemian villages named Czernitzky and Czernisko are phonetically the same as the Saxon family names Tschernitzky and Tschernisko.

Ostsiedlung Group 4: Regensburg to Neustadt an der Mettau

In the middle of the 13th century, German settlers were encouraged to migrate to Bohemia and spread throughout Bohemia and Moravia. The northwest corner of Bohemia was known as Egerland (named for the city named Eger in German, and known in Czech as Cheb). The northern region (corresponding to the route taken by the Ostsiedlung group from Regensburg to Neustadt an der Mettau River) later became known as the Sudetenland, the home of ethnic Germans who fought for independence from Czechoslovakia between the First and Second World Wars. One section of this migration route across northern Bohemia ended near Tschirnitz in Jauer County of Silesia (which was also the end point of one section of the migration route from Brandenburg).

Tschernitz (Tschirnitz) bei Kaaden, Bohemia

An Internet website devoted to Kaaden-Duppau identifies the original German settlers in the area (700 years ago) as from Franconia. The website identifies the major industries currently as agriculture, mining, porcelain manufacturing in the area; and the manufacturing of technical equipment at Tschirnitz. Kaaden was also listed as Kadaun (in Saatz County) in Rainold's 1835 geography book for Bohemia. Kaaden (also shown as Caaden on a map from 1720) is now known as Kadaň in northwestern Czechoslovakia, near the German border.

Tschernitz (shown on the 1720 map below) was identified as Tschirnitz and Czernitz in Rainold's geography book. It is now known as Černýš. Tschernitz was six miles to the west of Caaden on the Eger River (now known as the Ohře River). The nearby town of Clösterle (from German: little cloister) is now known as Klášterec nad Ohří. It was the site of a 12th century Benedictine monastery.

Tschernitz (Tschirnitz) bei Saaz, Bohemia

The village named Tschernitz bei Saaz was about fifteen miles southeast of Tschernitz bei Kaaden. Saaz (or Saatz) is now known as Žatec and is two miles northeast of Tschernitz (now known as Čeradice). Saaz was the site of a battle during the Hussite Wars (1420-1422).

Historical names for Tschernitz (bei Saaz) include: Czernitz, Czernicz, Tschirnitz, Tscheraditz and Tscheraitz. Tschernitz is now known as Čeradice. It is located fifteen miles west of the city now named Louny (German: Laun).

Klein Tschernitz and Gross Tschernitz bei Flöhau, Bohemia

Klein Tschernitz and Gross Tschernitz were two villages to the east of the town named Flöhau (Czech: Blšany), which is three miles east of the city Podersam (Czech: Podbořany). These locations were in Saatz County.

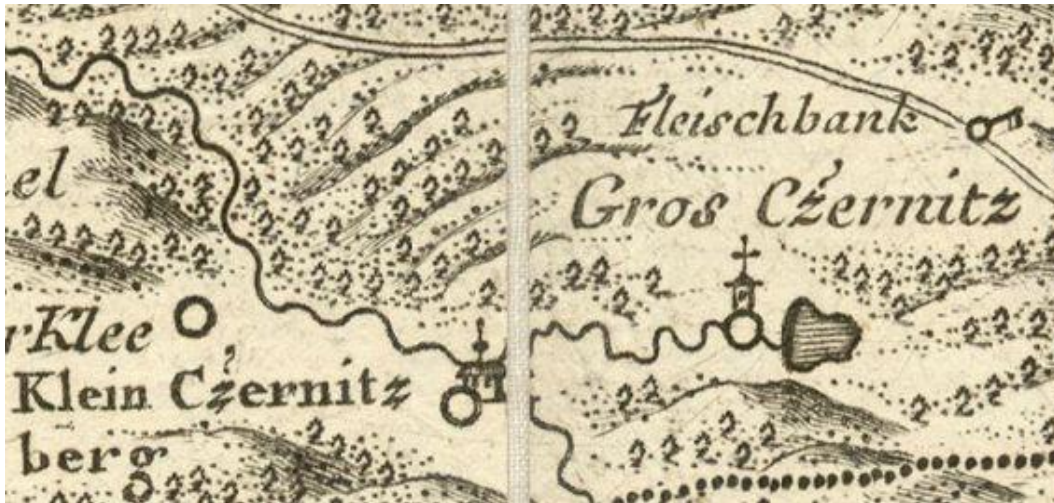

The village Klein Tschernitz was also known as Klein Czernitz, Klein Czernicz and Czernositz. Klein Tschernitz is currently named Malá Černoc, about three miles east of Blšany. The village Gross Tschernitz was also known as Gros Czernitz and Gross Czernicz. It is now known as Velká Černoc, about two miles east of Malá Černoc.

According to Jaroslav Schaller, Gross Czernicz and Klein Czernicz (Czernositz) were purchased on the 5th of July in 1629 by Graf Hermann Czernin von Chudenicz for 14000 Florins. This was after the Battle of White Mountain near Prague (in 1620) and after the victor (the Holy Roman Emperor Ferdinand II) confiscated the lands of the Protestants and ordered the conversion or exile of all Protestants in Bohemia (1621-22). Graf (Count) Hermann Czernin was a major land owner, associated with many villages and churches in Saatz County. Franz Joseph Johann Rudolf Reichsgraf Czernin von Chudenicz was also associated with property transfers in the 17th century in Saatz County.

The members of the Czernin family were probably the source of the many villages with the Czern- prefix in this part of Bohemia, but similar Sternitzke family name variations include: Tschirnitzky (in 1541 at Luzine), Tschirnitzke (in 1554 at Zantkau), Czerniſky (in 1559 at Lutzine), Czierniske (in 1583 at Zantkau), Tscherniſky (in 1650 at Domnowitz) and Tscherniſke (in 1704 at Briesche).

Tschernitz bei Brüx, Bohemia

The village Tschernitz was seven miles northwest of the city Brüx (also written as Brix on a 1720 map) in Saatz County. Tschernitz was also written as Czernicz, Czernitz and Černitz. The village is now known as Černice. The city Brüx is now known as Most.

Nicolaus von Czernczicz,
Aussig, Bohemia (1509, 1510 and 1512)

Aussig was a city in northern Bohemia. It is now known as Ústí nad Labem in the Czech Republic. It is located about twenty miles northeast of Brüx (now named Most) on the Elbe River, between Dresden and Prag. In 1509 and 1510, Nicolaus von Czernczicz was an imperial Hofrichter at Aussig, a judge appointed by the emperor to preside over the Hofgericht, the highest civil court for cities in the Middle Ages. A Czech version of his name Mykulasse z Czerneczicz was recorded at Aussig in 1512.

Tschernitzky Family at Altkalken, 1745 to 1771

Forty-five miles east of Tschernitz bei Brüx were the villages Altkalken and Neukalken (shown on the 1923 map below as Alt-Kalken and Neu-Kalken). Altkalken and Neukalken were villages about one mile from Hirschberg in Buntzlau County, Bohemia. Buntzlau County was directly along the route take by the Ostsiedlung Group 4 from Regensburg to Neustadt an der Mettau.

Altkalken (sometimes written as Alt-Kalken) was the estate of Herrn Damian von Peizelsdorf in 1596. Early names of the village included Kalek and Skalko. In 1834, Johann Sommer wrote that there were 51 houses and 311 inhabitants in Altkalken. The modern names for these locations are:

- Altkalken = Skalka u Doks,
- Neukalken = Nova Skalka, and
- Hirschberg = Doksy.

Johann Sommer also wrote that the village Neu-Kalken was uninhabited for fifty years due to the Thirty Years' War (1618-1648). Count Franz Joseph von Waldstein and his wife Margarette were important benefactors who rebuilt the villages and churches of the area in the early 18th century. It was shortly after this reconstruction that the Tschernitzky family was known to be living at the village Altkalken (from 1745 to 1771, as identified by Franz Queitzer from Hirschberg records.

Apollonia Czernicziczky
Perutz, Bohemia (1508-1562)

Apollonia née Czernicziczky was the wife of Wilhelm von Waldstein (Wilhelm was born 5 January 1475; died 1557). The Waldstein family was an old and noble Czech family living in Bohemia. Apollonia gave birth to their son, Freiherr Johann von Waldstein, about 1508 at Perutz bei Laun (Czech: Peruc). Perutz was five miles east of Tschernschatz. Johann von Waldstein died on the 15th of June in 1576 at Chocerady, Brod Český (east of Prague, half-way to Kolin).

Apollonia Czernicziczky was the daughter of Johann Czernicziczky and Magdalena née Sehuschiczky von Nestagow. Apollonia died in 1562.

The Czech version of the catalog for the Wallenstein Portrait Gallery includes the Czech spellings for Wilhelm (William) von Waldstein and Apollonia Czernicziczky as Vilém and Apolonie Černčická z Kácova. According to the Wallenstein catalog, there still are living descendants of Wilhelm and Apollonia von Waldstein. The web page regarding Albrecht von Wallenstein provides the Czech version of the von Waldstein family name: z Valdštejna. The Wallenstein version of the Waldstein family name began with the great-great-nephew of Wilhelm von Waldstein – Albrecht Wallenstein (1583-1634), the Duke of Friedland in northern Bohemia.

Ostsiedlung Group 5: Regensburg to Deutschbrod to Neisse

Regensburg is a city in Bavaria, Germany. Historical names for the city include Ratisbona (Celtic), Castra Regina (Latin), Rengschburg (Austro-Bavarian) and Řezno (Czech). A bridge was built across the Danube River at Regensburg around 1140 AD, increasing trade and migration through the city to Prague in Bohemia.

German miners were invited to settle at Deutschbrod (also known as Teutschbrod, translated as German-ford) to work the silver mines in central Bohemia. The mines were successful in the 13th and 14th centuries. The area was devastated and the town was sacked during the Hussite Wars (1419-1434). During those wars the Germans supported King Sigismund of Bohemia and Germany (who was born in Nuremberg). Deutschbrod was known in Czech as Německý Brod until 1945. It is now known as Havlíčkův Brod in the Vysočina Region of the Czech Republic.

Czernitzky (Czerniczky) bei Bechin, Bohemia

The village Czernitzky was four miles east of Bechin in Tabor County. Johann Summer recorded the site (in 1842) as “Jagdschloss Černitz (Černicky) und einem Forsthause” (a hunting lodge and forest house).

The village Czernitzky has also been recorded as Czernicz, Czerniczky, Czirnicz, Černice, Czernitz and Černičky. It was shown as “Czernitzky pagus olim” on a 1720 map (shown below). Pagus olim is Latin for “village once”, indicating this was the site of the former village named Czernitzky. The German phrase that is used for pagus olim is wüstes Dorf (abandoned village).

Sudomirzitz was three miles east of Bechin. Sudomirzitz (also written as Sudoměřitz) is now known as Sudoměřice u Bechyně. Bechin is now known as Bechyně in the Tábor District of the South Bohemian region.

The location of the village Černice, the Černický rybník (pond), and the hunting lodge named zámek Černice (Černický palace) are located one mile east of Sudoměřice u Bechyně. Internet web pages for Černice and zámek Černice show a modern resort and golf course. The Černice website provides a history (in Czech) of this village. Here is my translation:

The Černicka Preserve was first mentioned in 1585, as one of the places near Sudomirzitz where pheasants were raised. Three nearby villages were called Černice, Benesov and Obrovka. The land was bought by Peter Wok in 1588 and the villagers were moved to newly founded settlement called Ves. Černice became the Černický game preserve and it then was used for breeding wild boar, fallow deer and red deer. The hunting lodge was rebuilt in the Baroque style, as a mansion for Count Vaclav Paar around 1765. It is now the lodge for a golf course. There are six large ponds. Černický was established as a natural park in 1933, and is considered one of the oldest nature reserves in the Czech Republic. Approximately one kilometer east of the lodge is an ancient tower called the Černicka Stronghold. According to oral tradition, the tower is all that remains of the original fortress of the lords of Černice. The fortress was destroyed in the 16th century.

Forest Master Ferdinand Czernetzky 1856 and 1863 Hoch Chlumetz

The official report of September 1856 meeting of agriculture and forest keepers (at Prague) listed the Waldmeister (master forester) Ferdinand Czernetzky. The report listed his residence as the village Hoch Chlumetz in Bohemia. That village is now named Vysoký Chlumec in the Czech Republic. It is located about 25 miles north of Sudoměřice u Bechyně and Černický Rybník.

The Forstmeister Ferdinand Czernetzky was listed as attending the August 1863 meeting of dem Vereine böhmischer Forstwirthe (the Bohemian Forest-Keepers Association). His residence was listed as Chlumetz.

Ferdinand Czernetzky may have been a descendant of the residents who lived at the village Czernitzky bei Bechin (see above) which was about 25 miles away from Hoch Chlumetz.

Czernitz (Czirnitz) bei Krumau, Bohemia

The village Czernitz near Krumau was also written as Czernitz, Černitz, Černice, Czerntze, Czrncze, Czernicze, Zchirnitz, Cirnics, Schernicz, Czrncz, Czerneckz and Czirnitz.

Similar Sternitzke family name variations include: Czerniřky (in 1559 at Lutzine), Czierniske (in 1583 at Zantkau).

Krumau was also recorded as Krummau an der Moldau (River), Böhmisches Krummau or (as shown on the 1720 map) Böhmisches Krumlow. Czernitz is now written as Černice. It is located about three miles northeast from the 13th century castle at Český Krumlov, and about nine miles southwest of the city Budweis in Budweiser County.

The village Czernitz was owned by the Goldenkron Stift (the foundation associated with the Cistercian Golden Crown Cloister in southern Budweiser County). This Cistercian monastery was founded in 1263. The village Czernitz is mentioned in document number LXXIX from the year 1375 (Pangerl, page 145). The villages near Krumau were associated with the Herren (Barons) von Rosenberg who were influential leaders of Bohemia from the 13th to the 17th centuries, and builders of the castle at Krumau in 1253. This region of Bohemia was settled by Bavarians who followed the 120-mile ancient salt trading route from Passau to Prague, called the Zlatá Stezka (Golden Path).

Czernitz (Czernitzky) bei Czechtitz, Bohemia

The village Czernitz (also known as Czernitzky, Czernitzky and Czerniczky) was one mile east of Czechtitz, and southwest of Krziwsaudow in Czaslau County. Czernitz is now known as Černíčí, and Czechtitz is now known as Čechtice. Krziwsaudow is now known as Křivsoudov. They are located 40 miles southeast of Prague.

Similar Sternitzke family name variations include: Czerniſky (in 1559 at Lutzine), Czierniske (in 1583 at Zantkau).

Czernitz bei Brünn, Moravia

The village Czernitz near Brünn in Moravia has also been recorded as Cernowitz, Czernowitz, Czernowice and Tschernowitz. It was located outside the southern wall of the old city, about one mile southeast of the Spielberg (Špilberk) Castle built in the 13th century.

Similar Sternitzke family name variations include: Tschirnitzky (in 1541 at Luzine), Tschirnitzke (in 1554 at Zantkau), CzerniBky (in 1559 at Lutzine), Czierniske (in 1583 at Zantkau), TscherniBky (in 1650 at Domnowitz), Tschernisky (in 1655 at Domnowitz) and TscherniBke (in 1704 at Briesche).

Czernitz is now known as Černovice, in the Brno city district named Brno-Černovice. A website for the Brno-Černovice district states the following early history (translated) for Czernowitz:

- In 1325, King John of Luxemburg allowed the brothers Bernard and Mathias (townsmen of Brno) to purchase a farm at Czernowitz.
- From 1375 to 1782, the village was under the administration of the Králově Pole Carthusian monastery.

According to Gregor Wolny (page 21), Mathias from Brünn inherited the Freihof with land from his father-in-law Bernhard in 1325. A Freihof may have been a farm property that was free from paying taxes. The property was owned by the widow of Albert von Czernow in 1350, before it passed to the Königsfeld Charterhouse in 1375. The village name was certainly based on the Czernow family name.

The Králově Pole Carthusian monastery at Brünn was also known as the Brno Charterhouse, Královo Pole Charterhouse or Königsfeld Charterhouse (Holy Trinity). It was founded in 1370 and closed in 1782. The Roman Catholic Carthusian Order is also called the Order of St. Bruno, as it was founded by Saint Bruno of Cologne in 1084. The name of the city Brünn (Czech: Brno) may be a coincidence, because brno in the Old Czech language meant a swampy area. According to the Wikipedia article for the Brno-Černovice district, the area where the district is located was once a marshy area. The name of the village, Černovice, could mean black ground, or the air made black by swarms of mosquitoes. Černovice was established as a village more than 700 years ago and it was extensively damaged by Swedish troop during the 1645 siege of Brünn.

Brünn (Brno) was besieged in 1428 and 1430 by the Hussites during the Hussite Wars.

Herrn Sternitzky (or Czernetzky) 1620 Brünn, Moravia

Two references (D'Elvert and Vehse) included an entry from Prince Christian von Anhalt's diary dated the 7th of February in 1620. That entry identified a group of Moravian landowners who met with the King of Bohemia Friedrich V of the Palatinate. King Friedrich was seeking money, horses and soldiers from the landowners of Bohemia, Moravia and Silesia for his war against the Emperor Ferdinand. The meeting took place at about 125 miles south of Breslau at Brünn, Moravia (now Brno in the Czech Republic). Brünn was settled by Germans from 1230 to 1278.

Some of the people can be identified and are definitely associated with Moravia, others are Bohemian or Silesian:

- The Provincial Governor of Moravia, Freiherr (Baron) Ladislaw Welen Zierotin,
- the Bohemian Erbmarschalle (hereditary marshal) Lippa,
- the elder Bohemian Baron Ruppa,
- the Baron Heinrich von Wrbna (note: the Wrbna family can be traced to 1241:
- Stephan Wrbna from Liegnitz, Silesia),
- the Baron Buchheim,
- the Baron Friedrich von Kaunitz,
- the Bohemian Baron Seidlitz,
- the young Moravian Baron Karl (Charles) von Zierotin,
- the young Baron Albrecht Sedlnitzky von Choltitz (also written as Cholticz) of Moravian Silesia,
- the gentleman Sternitzky (Dr. Vehse only listed the Sternitzky name; D'Elvert listed Sternitzky followed by an alternate spelling with a question mark (Czernetzky?),
- the Moravian, Mister Wenzel von Bitowsky, and
- the Count Latour (Thurn) the cousin of the Lieutenant General.

The Zierotin, Wrbna, Kaunitz, Sedlnitzky, Bitovsky and Thurn family names are listed in Siebmacher's index of Moravian nobility. The names most similar to Sternitzky or Czernetzky in that index are: Czernin von Chudenic, Stanovsky, Starzinski, Sternisko, and Stranecky von Stranek.

The Bohemian Baron Seidlitz mentioned in the 1620 audience was a member of an old Silesian noble family that was sometimes spelled Seydlitz. Heinrich Seidlitz from Luzien (Ober- and Nieder Luzine in Trebnitz County) was a noble knight of the Principality of Öls in 1567 and 1586. This suggests a possible connection between the Sternitzky family member at Brünn (in 1620) and the Sternitzke family from Trebnitz County.

Antonia and Anna Czernitzky 1837 Brünn, Moravia

A death notice was posted in a Brünn newspaper. On the 23rd of June of 1837, Anna Czernitzky, the 17-days old daughter of Antonia Czernitzky, died from Fraisen (convulsions). Their address was reported as Bäckergasse Number 41.

Eduard Czernitzky and Johann Czernitzky 1862 Brünn

In 1862, Eduard Czernitzky was a Webergeselle (journeyman weaver) who lived at Number 15 Oberzeil Street in the Viertes Quarter, Obrowitz District in Brünn. That address was also the location of a business, owned by the Victualienhändler (food grocer) Joseph Hradetzky.

Johann Czernitzky was a Schaber (scraper) who lived at Number 35 Obrowitz Street in the Viertes Quarter, Obrowitz District in Brünn. Buildings at numbers 35 and 36 at Obrowitz Street were also the location of the business Haupt Leopold (k. k. pr. Leinwandfabrikant, Imperial and Royal Prussian Linen Manufacturer).

It is interesting that there were also members of the Hübner family listed as living in Brünn at that time:

- Anton Hübner, Anstreicher (house painter), Oberzeil 59, Mähr. Ständ. Beamter (civil servant) at Schwabengasse 25.
- Barbara Hübner, Wäsherin (laundress), at Schwabengasse 13.
- Eleonora Hübner, Nachtwächterin (female night guard), at Grosse Neugasse 12.
- Franz Hübner, k. K. Rechn.-Assistent der Fin.-Land.-Direction, at Grosse Bäckergasse 116.
- Joh. Hübner, Lederergeselle (journeyman leather worker), at Neustift 90/a.
- Joseph Hübner, Maler (painter), at Klein Neugasse 23.
- Josephine Hübner, Beamtenwitwe (widow of a civil servant), at Obere Brünnergasse 335.
- Ther. Hübner, Stabsprofesenswitwe, (widow of a staff professor) at Grosse Neugasse 80.

Chapter 24

Major Sources Reviewed and Avenues for Future Research

This book is the result of around forty years of research. It is intended to be used as a tool for future research by other Sternitzke family members for tracing the history of their branches of family. It includes the data I collected so far regarding the known members of the Sternitzke family in Silesia, and data supporting many possible theories of the origin of the family. The organization of the family data by location (Silesia, Posen, Bohemia, county, city and village) provides a framework for identifying family relationships based on new data associated with those locations.

New data is found on the Internet almost every time I perform a search for information related to variations of the Sternitzke family name. Or, more accurately, old records are being scanned, transcribed and made available by archives and genealogical researchers. There are continuing international efforts to gain access to the millions of books and records removed and misplaced from the government buildings, libraries (public and private) and archives of Europe during and after the Second World War. Many universities and archives in Europe are digitizing books and historical records for access via the Internet. These cultural treasures are being studied, transcribed and published by volunteers and professional researchers.

Below are listed the major sources of information I used to write this book. I have listed the records I reviewed and the known records which I have not yet reviewed.

Ancestry.com

From 2016 to 2022, I reviewed the records of the Sternitzke name variations. My thorough review was for all records prior to the year 1900. By 1900, the family had already spread to other parts of Germany, other countries in Europe and to the United States. Records that linked the family members to Silesia were included in this book. The records that I could not link to Silesia were not included in this book.

Auslandsstandesamt (foreign registry office) Standesamt I in Berlin

The Auslandsstandesamt (foreign registry office) Standesamt I in Berlin holds the birth, marriage and death records from the former German territories such as Silesia. The record books for the village Pawellau (for the years 1874 to 1945) are known to be stored there. It is possible that the civil record books for other Silesian villages related to our family history are located there. Unfortunately, the records are available only to direct relatives and my branch of the Sternitzke family emigrated to the United States before 1874.

Archives of the Catholic Archdiocese in Breslau on Cathedral Island
(Archiwum Archidiecezjalne we Wrocławiu)

In 2009, I visited the Archives of the Catholic Archdiocese in Wrocław on Cathedral Island (Archiwum Archidiecezjalne we Wrocławiu). They were officially closed and an archivist was not available, but a helpful nun searched their catalogs and found church records for two villages in the former Trebnitz County that are near the birth place of my ancestor, Klein Ujeschütz: Kotzerke and Kainowe (now named Koczurki and Koniowo). These were two village churches my wife and I had visited in 2008. Unfortunately, the Archdiocese records are incomplete for those villages and only include the following:

- Birth records from 1732 to 1765,
- Marriage records from 1732 to 1786, and
- Death records from 1732 to 1765.

It wasn't clear to me if these records existed for both locations, or just for the Catholic Church at Kotzerke. The helpful nun only spoke Polish. My friend who visited the archive with me, Kazimierz Łamasz, who acted as an interpreter only spoke Polish and German. I suspect the records found by the nun are the same records for the village Kotzerke listed in the inventory for the FamilySearch Library in Salt Lake City (see Table 5 below).

A document retrieved from a genealogy website by Radosław Zan listed known church records at the Catholic Church Archive in Breslau. It is curious that he noted those church records exist at the Archives of the Catholic Archdiocese in Wrocław, but those records are not listed in the inventory of the archives. Table 1 shows which church records are known to exist at the Archives of the Catholic Archdiocese in Breslau. It includes the Trebnitz County records identified for me in 2009 and the Öls County records listed by Radosław Zan. The record listed in that table are not available online, so they have not been reviewed by me.

Polish State Archives at Breslau
(Archiwum Państwowe we Wrocławiu)

With the help of friends from the Trebnitz area, Mr. Marian Radzik and Kazimierz Łamasz, I was able to visit the Polish State Archives in Wrocław (Archiwum Państwowe we Wrocławiu) in 2009. The archivists searched their catalogs and were not able to locate any vital records for the small villages associated with my ancestor Friedrich Sternitzke, who emigrated from Klein Ujeschütz, Silesia in 1840. Kazimierz and I were told that the churches had maintained the vital records during the time my family lived in Silesia. Unfortunately, the timeframes for the records are small, due to the destruction of Silesia by the Soviets during and after the Second World War, and also by the flooding of the Oder River in 1997.

A search of the database (made through the Internet in 2012) for the Polish Archives showed there are very limited records at the State Archives in Wrocław for the villages Gross Ujeschütz (1831-1859) and Klein Ujeschütz (1880 only). I also found records existed for the Duchy of Oels, the city of Trebnitz and other villages in Trebnitz County. Curiously, I am unable to repeat those results in current searches. Perhaps the online inventory now only lists the records that were scanned and available for viewing online. Table 2 shows the results of an online search for records they hold associated with the Duchy of Oels, the City of Trebnitz and the villages of Trebnitz County.

The Polish State Archives at Breslau add newly scanned Breslau civil records (birth, marriages and deaths) to their website each year. Their additions are generally restricted by privacy laws. A new batch of records become legally available for publication at the end of each year. Table 3 lists the Breslau and Schmiegrode civil records available and reviewed as of December in 2021. Some of the record books were not available for review, as indicated in missing volumes numbers. Perhaps they were missing or damaged during the Second World War, or from the flooding of the Oder River.

The Polish State Archives at Breslau has quite a few record books for Protestant Churches at Breslau. A full list of the Breslau Protestant Churches with their known records is listed at the website published by Dr. Claus Christoph from Hanover. Many are not yet scanned and made available for online review. Table 4 shows the record books I have reviewed. The results of those reviews have been added to this book. The records from two more Breslau churches are now available for online review: the St. Salvator Church and the Erlöser Church.

Table 4 includes the baptism records for the St. Barbara Protestant Church in Breslau. Those records were not retrieved from, nor are they listed on the website for the Polish State Archives at Breslau. Those baptism records were actually retrieved from the FamilySearch.org website in 2020.

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (LDS)

Wilhelm Starnitzki wrote that he had not explored all of the Trebnitz County church records available to him prior to the Second World War (a terrible pity since many church records were destroyed in 1945). Fortunately for us, the LDS Church filmed many church records that survived the war. An ongoing LDS FamilySearch Indexing project is currently transcribing the billions of records stored near Salt Lake City. There are opportunities for amateur genealogists to assist in the transcription process, and online courses for learning the handwritten scripts used in the church records. That would be a worthwhile project for someone to do from their home. Table 5 lists the surviving church books from Militsch and Trebnitz Counties that are of importance for future research of our family history.

St. Barbara Protestant Church in Breslau

The baptism records for the St. Barbara Protestant Church in Breslau were downloaded from the LDS FamilySearch and reviewed in January of 2020. See Table 4: Reviewed Breslau Protestant Church Records. Those records were not available for online review in November of 2022. But, new records for that church are now available for online review:

- Birth records: 1908-1925, 1928-1936,
- Death records: 1904-1906, 1909-1912, 1914-1920, 1922-1925, 1927-1928, 1931, 1933, 1936 and 1937.

Protestant Church at Massel, Trebnitz County

The following records (1824 to 1890) for the Protestant Church at Massel in Trebnitz County, were found on the LDS FamilySearch website in 2017, where they were mis-identified as records for the St. Barbara Protestant Church in Breslau:

- Baptism records: 1824 to 1842, 1843 to 1862, and
- Confirmation records: 1825 to 1890.

Those records were reviewed and the information was added to this book. Those record books are still available and they are still mixed with the record books of the St. Barbara Protestant Church. A new record book associated with the 1670 to 1726 baptisms, marriages and deaths at Massel is now available on the FamilySearch website. Unfortunately, the book was severely damaged and almost unusable.
